

ALDERMAN PETERS ACQUITTED

HELD ON SECOND CHARGE—KUNZE CASE TO GRAND JURY.

Clifford, Who Pleaded Guilty to Bribery, Fined $1,000, Which His Brother Pays—Kunze Lays His Memory to Illness—Peters Explains Eminent Sentence.

Henry Clay Peters, who was the leader of the M. O. L. Aldermen in 1907, was acquitted yesterday of the charge that he committed perjury at the hearing before Magistrate Whitman of the bribery charge against William Clifford, another M. O. L. Alderman. The jury was out about forty-five minutes, although that does not represent the time it took to agree upon the verdict, as Clifford was being sentenced by Justice Goff at the time and the jury was not brought into court until that had been disposed of.

Then the wife and young son of Peters, who had been crying outside the court room, were told the news and the tears disappeared. A young man who sat in the back of the court room was pleased with the verdict that he let out a hoot and got a lecture for it from Justice Goff.

Clifford was sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 or serve a day for every dollar. His lawyer, Abe Levy, said that Clifford was not a man who had deliberately set out to commit a crime, but he was weak and had been tempted. Assistant District Attorney Smyth agreed with that, but he said that bribery was a serious crime, though there were extenuating circumstances in Clifford's case, as he had pleaded guilty without any promise of immunity and was a witness for the prosecution. Clifford took a bribe of $6,000 from Earl Harding, a reporter, on a promise to swing the M. O. L. votes for ex-Judge Rufus B. Cowine in the election to select a successor to Recorder Goff. Clifford's brother paid his fine and he went away.

As soon as he was out of the way Justice Goff had Charles Kunze, another of the M. O. L. Aldermen, arraigned before him. Kunze was called as a witness for the prosecution against Peters, but his memory was so bad that District Attorney Jerome requested Justice Goff to commit him for perjury. Justice Goff took no action during the trial, but it was evident that Justice Goff was not going to let him go. Kunze, who had been kept in court for two days, was the most scared man in town when Justice Goff called him yesterday.

Justice Goff said that he was not going to make any comment on the remarks of Mr. Jerome as to how Kunze had committed perjury, but that Kunze's behavior on the stand was a disgrace to any man and it would be a disgrace to the administration of justice if it were passed uncorrected. Then he held Kunze for the Grand Jury in $1,000 bail.

While waiting for bail Kunze wrote out this statement which he sent to Justice Goff: "From my family I have gathered the following facts regarding my falling memory: At the age of 10 I had scarlet fever; at the age of 10 I had brain fever caused by a fall; at the age of 19 I had a fractured skull brought about by a fall from a scaffold and was laid up for three weeks unconscious.

When Justice Goff heard that Kunze had a wife and children he paroled him in the custody of his counsel. Peters finished his examination yesterday morning. He said he had been in the Elmira Reformatory for 18 months and pleaded guilty to receiving stolen goods. He made this explanation: A man gave him some jewelry to pawn. He pawned it and he was arrested. He said he didn't know that the jewelry had been stolen when he pawned it.

"After I had been in the reformatory six months," Peters said, "I was in charge of the hardware department and doubled his business." He held a number of jobs, he said, and never had lost any of them for dishonesty. Referring to his refusal to answer a question before Magistrate Whitman on the ground that it would incriminate and degrade him, he said that he was guided by the Magistrate, Abe Levy, who was counsel for Clifford, and Mr. Smyth, and he didn't know that he was committing perjury.

"I jumped at me," he said, "and I couldn't think. I was hypnotized, psychologized and mesmerized. It was a disgraceful proceeding at Erasmus Hall. Several men, including the Rev. Madison C. Peters, testified that Peters's character for honesty and veracity was good. There is another indictment of perjury against Peters for swearing falsely before the Grand Jury about the M. O. L. vote for Cowine, and he was held in $1,000 bail on this. The facts are about the same. Peters gave bail and Mr. Smyth said he would try him again in the fall.

Told Her Parents She Was Graduated From Public School 146, Which She Wasn't, and Had Entered Erasmus Hall High School, Which Was Equally Untrue.

Abevie Estelle Edwards, the sixteen-year-old girl who disappeared Wednesday morning from her home at 24 1/2 Windsor place in South Brooklyn, was found by Detective John J. Fennell of the 144th precinct police station about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon sitting in the doorway of the house at 610 Sixth avenue. She told the detective that since her flight she had been living in a furnished room at 161 Fifteenth street, for which she had paid in advance a rent of $1.50 a week. The explanation she gave tallied exactly with the theory held by her mother.

Until last February, when she told her parents that she had been graduated, the girl was a pupil in Public School 146. Since then she has been setting forth every morning, provided with carfare and luncheon, ostensibly for the purpose of attending Erasmus Hall High School in Flatbush.

When she failed to return home Wednesday evening her mother became alarmed and searched the neighborhood, but did not obtain any news of her daughter. She went to the high school Thursday morning and learned that the name of Abevie Estelle Edwards did not appear on the rolls. Subsequently she discovered that Abevie was not among those who received diplomas at the commencement exercises of Public School 146, which were held Wednesday morning. She at once concluded that Abevie had gone away because she knew that the deception she had been practicing for nearly six months would inevitably be discovered and was afraid to face the reproaches of her parents. Mr. Edwards notified the police of the 144th precinct station yesterday morning that his daughter was lost.

The girl told Detective Fennell that she had been ashamed to let the family know that she had not been graduated with her class in February, and in order to avoid this she had been practicing for nearly six months would inevitably be discovered and was afraid to face the reproaches of her parents. Mr. Edwards notified the police of the 144th precinct station yesterday morning that his daughter was lost.

She was talking to two other girls when the detective saw her and recognized her from the description which had been given to him. She was wearing the same dress that she had worn when she left home Wednesday morning—a brown skirt, white shirtwaist, tan shoes and stockings and a brown straw hat trimmed with cherries. She was so absorbed in her conversation with her companions that she did not notice that any one was standing near her and when she heard a man's voice say, "Come here, Stella," she was so startled that she jumped up and ran toward him before she remembered that she was maintaining an income.

When asked why she had left home she burst into tears, but did not demure when told that she must go to the police station. Immediately upon arriving there the detective sent for Mrs. Edwards, who came and took her daughter home.

Abevie's mother said she knew all about what her daughter had been doing when she was supposed to be coming Latin to Erasmus Hall. She said she had been living in Fifteenth street, and that she had no fault to find with her except for deceiving her parents. She said she was glad to get the girl back, but she couldn't be angry with her. She added that she intended to send Stella back to school next autumn.

Miss Jennie Mackey, principal of Public School 146, refused to make any statement concerning either Stella's scholarship or her conduct.

MAN OF 67 LEAVES YOUNG WIFE

W. J. BREWER GONE WITH HIS SUPPOSED PATENTS.

President of Radial Bearing Company Says Brewer, Who Was Vice-President, Has Victimised Many Persons in Several Eastern Cities—Police Are After Him.

The disappearance of William J. Brewer, late vice-president of the Radial Bearing Company of Bayonne, N. J., whom the police of that city were asked on Thursday to find, was declared yesterday by John S. Hatfield, president of the Radial Bearing Company, to be a case of wife desertion. He said that Brewer dropped out of sight after he learned that his wife had obtained a warrant from Recorder Lazarus of Bayonne for abandonment.

Mr. Hatfield was the proprietor of the La Tourette House at Bayonne until he met Brewer about a year ago. Brewer told the hotel man that he had valuable patents for improving motorcycles which would make fortune for any one who pushed them. Mr. Hatfield became interested, he said, and a company was organized to provide the push. Brewer was made vice-president and the company bought his patents. A great quantity of stock in the company was sold to persons in Bayonne who had saved a little money. Mr. Hatfield said that the company did not like the way Brewer was running things and after some time ago dropped him as vice-president and made him consulting engineer.

About a month ago somebody got into the company's factory in Bayonne and made away with all the plans and supposed patents and at about the same time Brewer disappeared. Mr. Hatfield said that he learned later that Brewer had come to New York with his patents and had taken an office in the Liberty Building, where he was organizing the Ciron Bearing Company. He said that Brewer hasn't been around the Liberty Building for several days.

"I have looked Brewer's record up pretty carefully lately," said Mr. Hatfield, "and I have found that he has been working the patent game in different cities. He interested a rich expressman in Washington and was on his payroll for a year at $50 a week, making him a rich man. Brewer later went to Newark, Philadelphia and Trenton, and in each city he found gullible persons who put up money to push his inventions. In each case he did not get out when he thought he had all the available cash. He pretends to be a civil engineer of big reputation, declaring that he built the great Lohr railway in India. I don't know whether there is such a road but I know that Brewer is absolutely ignorant of civil engineering, and I doubt whether he was ever in India in his life."

Attorney J. W. Gavan of 90 Wall street, who has been retained by Brewer's wife to bring divorce proceedings against him for having abandoned her, as she alleges, eight times in the last seven years, told a pitiful story yesterday of the experiences of Mrs. Brewer.

"She was a girl only 17 years old, whose father had died many years before," said the lawyer. "Brewer met her on the street in Washington about eight years ago and followed her to her home. He told of being a retired British civil engineer who was enjoying a liberal pension. He was living at the Arlington Hotel in New York, but was eating at hash houses. The girl believed his story of valuable patents and one day when her mother was away she married Brewer."

"Since that day this girl has lived the life of a tramp," continued the lawyer. "Brewer lived at her home for several months after he married her, but then he took her to Trenton where he made her live in a ramshackle place. Her mother went to see her there where she heard of his flight and plight, and took cold and died of pneumonia."

"Since then this girl wife of a sixty-seven year old husband has been dragged about on one place to another, and has been forced to go hungry while he has had all the money he needed. Now she has three little children and is without friends or money. Persons in other cities who Brewer have been going to see her and abusing her as if she had profited from her husband's alleged patents."

Two of the concerns that Brewer organized to protect his patents were the American Gear and Vehicle Company and the Brewer Machine Company. Persons who made inquiry about the Patent Office in Washington could get no trace of any of his inventions.

WILL ENFORCE GAMBLING LAW

Gov. Hughes Will Consider the Question Even During His Vacation.

ALBANY, June 26.—Gov. Hughes is to give much attention to the cleaning up of the anti-gambling question during the remainder of his present term. While he is on his vacation at Saratoga Inn, beginning on Monday, he is to give this question of the enforcement of the law undivided attention. He will not leave a District Attorney or Sheriff or other officer in office who can prove is cognizant of the operation of a poolroom without taking action thereon.

Secretary of State Whalen said to-day that there was no provision in the anti-gambling law which would require a certificate of expenses to be filed. The statement was made with reference to the failure of the Jockey Club to file. If this statement is not forthcoming within two months after the final adjournment of the extraordinary session of the Legislature Gov. Hughes is going to make it his business to find out if the anti-gambling law is being enforced. He especially stated that he would insist that if his provisions are not lived up to by violators can be reached under its provisions.

SHERMAN GAINING RAPIDLY.

Tells Callers That He Is Feeling Fine—Plans Political Conference.

CLEVELAND, June 26.—Candidate James S. Sherman was assured to-day that he could leave Lakeside Hospital, where he has been since Tuesday suffering from gallstones, by next Wednesday.

Mr. Sherman to callers to-day said: "I am feeling fine." He began making preparations for a political conference in Utica next Friday, following the demonstration which is to be made by the citizens of Utica on his return to that city.

Dr. E. P. Carter, Mr. Sherman's physician, to-day reported that his patient got more than seven hours sleep last night and had made great gain through the day. Drs. Stone and Allen joined with Dr. Carter in saying that they felt great confidence in the ultimate recovery of Mr. Sherman and that the dangerous period of his attack had passed.

VOTE ON LOCAL OPTION.

Justice De Angelis Decides That It Became Effective on May 1 Last.

ALBANY, June 26.—Supreme Court Justice De Angelis of Utica has decided that the vote last November on the local option question under the liquor tax law became effective on May 1 last. The Legislature last winter changed the certificate year to begin thereafter on October 1 instead of May 1. Justice Clark of Wayland, in a case arising in Wayne county, construed this amendment to mean that the local option vote taken in November last did not take effect until October 1 next because of the change in the certificate year. The effect of this decision would be to allow traffic in towns from May 1 to October 1.

Gov. Hughes Appoints New Legal Adviser.

ALBANY, June 26.—Gov. Hughes has appointed Owen Lincoln Potter of Albany as his legal adviser to succeed Edward Sanford, who resigned to resume legal practice. The salary is $5,000. The former Justice Commissioner Maynard N. Clement, Justice Marcus of Buffalo has handed down two decisions involving the same question. The one in Cornell when the State Excise Commission was established in the early '90s and ever since has been the associate of the legal advisers of Messrs. Black, Roosevelt, Odell, Higgins and Hughes.

SWIMS DEVIL'S HOLE RAPIDS.

George Powell, a One Armed Man, Accomplishes the Dangerous Feat in 25 Minutes.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., June 26.—George Powell, a one armed man, swam the Devil's Hole Rapids of the lower Niagara this afternoon and landed safe at the bridge at Lewiston, making the trip of 2 1/2 miles in 25 minutes. Only two other men have lived through the maelstrom. One was Carwell Graham and the other was W. J. Glover of Baltimore, who went through in 1906.

Powell wore nothing save a life preserver to protect him. He entered the river just at the flat rock below the whirlpool and paddled himself to the middle of the river. When he struck the Devil's Hole Rapids he disappeared under the waves and once for a full minute he was submerged.

Trolley cars followed along the bank and hundreds saw the game man battle his way with the stormy rapids. Just before he struck the Pitz Rock at Lewiston he was caught in an offshore eddy and was whirled about like a cork for twenty minutes. The buffeting took most all his strength, but he landed ready to make the trip again and twice a week, he said, with the proper inducements.

Powell is an amateur swimmer who came to Niagara Falls about three weeks ago with the idea of going over the Horseshoe Fall in a barrel, but gave up the idea. What makes his feat especially startling is that he wore only a life preserver. Both Glover and Graham wore air bags at their throats as well.

Moving Picture Men Protest.

Appeal to Court to Keep Commissioner Butler in Check.

A move against the announced intention of Tenement House Commissioner Edmund Butler to exercise a more severe supervision over the manner of housing moving picture shows was made before Justice Blitchoff in the Supreme Court yesterday by attorneys for William Fox and Sol Brill, proprietors of a moving picture show at 1498 Third avenue.

They sought an injunction restraining Commissioner Butler from revoking his approval of an alteration made by them in the premises at that address and approval given of similar alterations at 928 Broadway, Brooklyn. The injunction sought was one to cover also any effort of the commissioner directing the plaintiff to vacate these premises.

It was alleged that the plans for converting the ground floors of both these premises into moving picture theatres had once been approved by Commissioner Butler and consent of the Tenement House Department and of the Fire and Gas, Electricity and Water departments. The plaintiffs further alleged that Butler was acting under a policy of severe regulation of such amusement places under a decision rendered by Justice Kelly of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn.

SHOT BY A WOMAN.

That's What the Woman, Emily Sheridan, Says, but James Travis Accuses a Man.

James Travis is a prisoner in St. Joseph's Hospital at Far Rockaway with a bullet in his left side, and the police last night notified Coroner Ambler to take the man's ante-mortem statement.

Travis is 48 years old and lives at 18 South Eldert avenue, Rockaway Beach. He is cousin John Sheridan, 29 years old, of 18 South Eldert avenue of doing the shooting. Sheridan was taken to the bedside of the injured man, and Travis identified him as the shooter. Sheridan is locked up at the Rockaway Beach police station.

The police also have in custody Emily Sheridan, 33 years old, who says it was she who fired the shot which hit Travis. She is the wife of a brother of the man accused by Travis. Mrs. Sheridan's statement is to the effect that Travis late yesterday afternoon attempted to assault her, that she resisted and fled and was followed by Travis and that she grabbed a revolver and fired at him as he again approached her. The bullet was fired at close range.

Travis's story is that he quarrelled with John Sheridan and was shot by him.

TENNESSEE WET OR DRY TO-DAY.

Great Series of Carmack-Patterson Debates Is Closed and Voters Will Now Speak.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 26.—The debates between ex-United States Senator Edward W. Carmack and Gov. M. B. Patterson, candidates for Governor, which have covered fifty appointments, closed to-night.

The fight for State wide prohibition, the hottest in the history of the State, will be settled to-morrow.

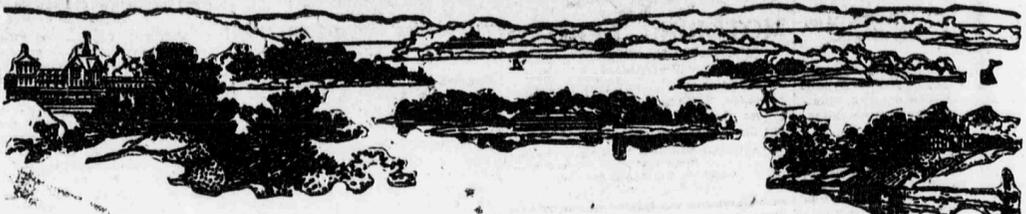

Ex-Senator Carmack is for State wide prohibition and Gov. Patterson has signified his willingness to sign such a measure if the next Legislature passes it.

Both candidates addressed large audiences to-night. The Woman's Christian Temperance Union has arranged for a parade of women and children to-morrow and women will be at the polls all day.

The campaign has been the warmest since 1887, when the proposed constitutional amendment to prohibit the manufacture and sale of liquor was defeated.

MRS. POLICEMAN GETS A THIEF

Collars Boy With Stolen Cloth and Marches Him to Her Household.

Mrs. Adelaide Cummings, wife of Patrolman Thomas Cummings, on her way to her home at 418 East Fifty-first street last night noticed three boys standing at First avenue and Fifty-second street arguing over the ownership of a large bundle. Mrs. Cummings asked them where they got the bundle and what it contained. The boys said they had found it and said that it contained a lot of cloth, then started to run. Mrs. Cummings grabbed one of the boys and marched him to the foot of East Fifty-second street, where her husband was on duty. The bundle contained 1 1/2 yards of lawn, and after the boy had been taken to the East Fifty-first street station Selig Seirstein came in and said that the three boys had stolen it from his store at 944 First avenue.

The boy who was caught said that he was John Boulanger, and lived at 432 East Forty-ninth street. He was sent to the children's society. Mrs. Cummings is a niece of Capt. John Langley, in whose precinct the theft was committed.

AUTO UPSETS, FAMILY THROWN.

The Boulangers Have a Mishap Near Union Hill, N. J.

Emil Boulanger, who gave his address as 404 Eighth avenue, New York, was riding north on Hudson Boulevard near Union Hill, N. J., in his automobile yesterday when the steering gear broke and his machine skidded and upset.

In the automobile with Mr. Boulanger were his wife and his two daughters, Emily, 15 years old, and Emily, 12. Mrs. Boulanger had her arm broken and her head cut and Emily was internally injured. Both were taken to the North Hudson Hospital at Union Hill.

Mr. Boulanger, although his face was badly cut, was able to go home with his other daughter, Emily. The machine was pretty badly damaged.
