

GIRL KILLED IN A CEMETERY

ATTACKED WHILE DECORATING GRAVES OF LOVED ONES.

Anna Schumacher of Rochester Murdered While on Errand of Devotion to the Dead Body Dragged to River Bank and Buried—Girl Fought for Life.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 9.—Buried in the shallow grave, covered with a few inches of earth, the body of Miss Anna Schumacher, a seventeen-year-old girl, was discovered this morning in a lonely spot on the river bank adjacent to the Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

A party went to the cemetery at midnight, found the flowers that had been placed on the graves, but could discover no trace of the girl. The cemetery is in the town of Greece, a short distance beyond the city line.

Looking near the father's grave the constables saw a few feet away the faint print of a woman's heel in the dirt. The trail led toward the river bank. As they followed it, they saw other signs, which looked as if a body had been dragged as the trail was followed, the marks of a struggle became plainer.

The body was in a frightful condition. It was literally covered with wounds. There were several jagged cuts in the head, evidently made with a stone in the hands of the assailant. The girl's clothing was almost torn to shreds, showing she had made a fight for her life and honor.

The indications were that she had been attacked from behind while kneeling at the graves of her father and sister and had been dragged down the lonely path to her death.

Coroner Kleindienst, Sheriff Gillette, District Attorney Widener and a score of city detectives were soon on the spot. There was a general roundup of all suspicious characters in the city, as it was believed that the murderer must bear some marks of his encounter with the girl. He could scarcely have escaped without scratches and cuts and without some blood on his clothing.

The shirtwaist of the girl had been torn open and finger marks and scratches were seen upon both breasts, indicating that the struggle had been violent. The old shovel in the cemetery outhouse was the only clue of any value that was discovered.

There were reports of several suspicious characters lurking in the neighborhood on Sunday, but nothing definite developed. There was some excitement late this afternoon when a man was reported near the grave acting in a suspicious manner.

No man was found in the woods. After the lines were drawn around the place it was evident that whatever his business might have been in the neighborhood he had got away safely before the searchers started to surround him.

The girl's home life was always exemplary and her failure to return home promptly at dark on Saturday caused some immediate alarm on the part of her family that there was no delay in making the search.

FOWLER WRITES TO CANNON

Hints as to the Contents of His Forthcoming Open Letter.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 9.—Representative Charles N. Fowler of the Fifth New Jersey district, formerly chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency, is preparing an open letter to Speaker Cannon which he is forwarding in a day or two.

Mr. Fowler refused to-day to make public any of the contents of his open letter. He said, however, that the anti-Cannon issue was one of national importance and that when the facts were disclosed they would go directly to the root of the problem which brought to an end last Thursday one of the stormiest sessions of Congress in many years.

"I am probably as good a revision as I could hope for," he asserted, "based upon trades and not upon facts. Nor need we expect a tariff revision based upon facts until we have a permanent tariff commission composed of men of the very highest character and recognized as a responsible body, precisely as we now regard the Supreme Court."

GIRL PICKPOCKET SUSPECT

17-Year-Old Jostling Persons at Brooklyn Bridge Was Fined $10.

A girl who said she was Rose Deen of 42½ Division street and who was dressed in a pale blue Empire gown, with a white hat and patent leather shoes, was a prisoner yesterday in the Tombs court before Magistrate Corrigan.

"What have you to say to this charge?" the court asked, calling the girl up to the Magistrate's rostrum. She said she had seen the young woman jostling about the entrance of the Brooklyn Bridge and that she was pushing and jostling persons after the manner of expert pickpockets.

The girl said she was 17 years old and had been here two months. She said she had never been convicted as a pickpocket. "You are in a bad business," said the court. "I'll fine you $10."

SHIP CAPTAIN GOES MAD

Members of Crew Lock Him in Hold and Sail to Port.

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 9.—The two-masted coasting schooner Nettie B. Dobbin, from Boston, bound to Millbridge, Me., arrived in port this morning to land the master and owner, Capt. Walter Small, who became violently insane Sunday.

The Dobbin left Boston early Sunday morning and was proceeding on the trip with a fair wind, when suddenly Capt. Small began chasing the mate and one sailor about the deck, flourishing an axe and shouting "They are stealing my vessel from me on the high seas!"

The mate followed the enraged man continued to chase the other about the deck, still holding the axe. In the meantime a man in the hold came up, and with the assistance of the cook the three finally overpowered the captain after a hard struggle.

MAN SHOT WIFE IN CHINATOWN

FRANK KAVANAGH WANTS WIFE AND SELF TO DIE.

Caulker Says Some One Went Down the Dumbwaiter Shaft at His Home—Met Wife in Pell Street Restaurant to End All—Nephew of John J. Kavanagh.

Frank Kavanagh, a nephew of John J. Kavanagh, the real estate dealer, shot his wife, Louise, twice in the head and then fired two shots through his right eye yesterday afternoon while they were sitting in a private dining room on the third floor of the Oriental restaurant at 3 Pell street.

From what Kavanagh and his wife said while a policeman was rendering first aid immediately after the shooting and from the contents of a letter written by Kavanagh to his wife, which she had with her at the time of the tragedy, it appears that quarrels between the two, which had resulted in a separation, were the underlying cause of the husband's deed.

"I'm tired of the whole damned thing," said Kavanagh as he lay on the floor of the Chinese restaurant after his attempt at murder and suicide. "We've been separated and we might as well end it all."

Kavanagh and his wife went to the restaurant near 1 o'clock and took a table that Gook Ham, the waiter, spread for them in one of the upstairs rooms. The man gave an order and later he called the waiter and gave a second order for food.

While the policeman was taking the stairs, three at a jump he heard another shot and then after a brief interval another. He ran to the room where the Chinese pointed and just as he opened the door he saw a man half leaning against a table raise a revolver to his head and fire again.

The policeman helped the woman to a chair and then bent over the man on the floor. He said he was Frank Kavanagh and that he lived with his brother Theodore at 98 East Eighty-first street.

"Dan Finn advised us to separate a year ago," he said. "How's the girl? Is she dead yet? She ought to be. If she don't die I'll be sorry for I made up my mind that we'd both go together."

"I understand the whole thing now. If you don't tell me the truth, Louise, you will never get another cent from me, because I have a beer driver, who told me who went down the dumbwaiter."

Kavanagh was employed last as a caulker at Newburgh. While at Newburgh he was attached to the telegram office but Gillilan denied last night that he had sent the telegram or that Kavanagh had had an accident. Kavanagh quit work here Saturday. His brother, Theodore A. Kavanagh, is one of the realty firm of John J. Kavanagh of Seventy-fifth street and Madison avenue.

TO CHANGE OUR PAPER MONEY

Secretary MacVeagh Contemplates Redesigning All of Our Currency.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh contemplates redesigning the paper currency of the country. His idea is to put the same portrait on all notes of the same denomination, and he also believes that the designs should be so distinctive that no confusion could occur.

These changes if carried into effect, Mr. MacVeagh thinks, would effect economies in administration and would result in a more uniform system of paper money. George B. Cortelyou when Secretary of the Treasury issued an order authorizing an issue of $10 notes with Grover Cleveland's portrait on them.

WONT WORK UNDER WOMAN

Insane Hospital Employees Strike Against a Female Supervisor.

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—Refusing to work under Miss Alice Breckenridge, a supervisor, thirty-one employees of the Elgin State Hospital for the Insane precipitated a strike here to-day. They offered their resignations. Nine were discharged at once, the remaining twenty-two being retained on ten days probation.

All the employees in the south ward of the hospital are virtually on strike. The officials do not know how the patients are to be cared for. Miss Breckenridge was appointed supervisor about a month ago and had much executive work to perform in the hospital. Disatisfaction on the part of the men is said to have followed her appointment.

Trouble started on Sunday when Miss Breckenridge ordered the men to complete some work, and they refused to carry out her orders. This was reported to the superintendent. Afterward the men offered their resignations.

The superintendent announces that Miss Breckenridge will retain her position. A man assistant will be given to her to enforce her rulings.

BELLEVUE SCANDAL INQUIRY

More Than a Dozen Male Nurses Now Dismissed.

Investigation of the charges recently preferred against Assistant Superintendent Richard D. Bellevue has been postponed because four members of the board of trustees are in Europe. As to other cases arising at Bellevue, recent inquiries made by the Commissioners of Accounts and the Finance Department indicate that certain sections of the Penal Code have been violated and action may be taken by the District Attorney's office.

TO SHARE IN CHINESE LOAN

CHINA YIELDS TO OUR DEMAND IN RAILWAY FINANCING.

Chinese Authorities Also Considering Our Demand That American Engineers Be Employed on Part of the Hankow Line—The Purchase of Supplies Involved.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—The State Department, according to advices which have practically won its fight for an American share of the new Chinese railway loan of $27,500,000, and it is expected that before long there will be a definite announcement from China that the bankers of America who have asked for part of the loan will have an equal share with the British, German and French bankers, who until the State Department made emphatic objection were to get the entire issue.

According to the understanding here the matter of the distribution of contracts for supplies and the employment of foreign engineers is occupying the attention of the Chinese Government. The State Department is as much interested in these matters as in the original proposition of securing part of the loan for American bankers.

Mr. Knox, Secretary of State, demanded that United States have a share of the loan as an underwriting right. Coupled with this he insisted that American engineers be employed in the construction of the proposed Hankow Railway. This was in line with the new policy of promotion of American trade in the Far East.

GAMBLER SEEKS PROTECTION

Which Gives Capt. Post the Tip to Get Busy in West Fifty-second Street.

An alleged gambling house that had opened up in West Fifty-second street, was raided last night by Capt. Post of the West Forty-seventh street station. Six men, including the alleged proprietor, were arrested.

The police knew nothing about the place until Saturday night when a man went to a policeman in the West Forty-seventh street precinct, told him that he wanted to open a gambling house and applied for police protection. The man was told that he couldn't have it and then he wanted to know why he was debarred from the privilege when it was granted to the man running the place in West Fifty-second street.

MAIL CANCELS CURE FRAUD

Post Office Stop Order Issued Against the Nye Sanitarium of Indianapolis.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Curing cancer through correspondence is not being encouraged by the Post Office Department. The "combination oil cure," with "treatment by soothing oils" on the side, was the specialty of the Dr. Benjamin F. Nye Sanitarium of Indianapolis, Ind., against which the Post Office Department has issued a fraud order. The use of the mails is denied to this sanitarium on the ground that Dr. Nye has no sanitarium, although he advertises to treat patients personally in his sanitarium, a boarding house having been used to accommodate the few patients who called.

The department further discovered that Dr. Nye advertised himself as a "fellow of the American Association of Physicians and Surgeons," as a "member of the Incorporated Society of Science, Letters and Art of London, England," and other associations not recognized by reputable physicians. According to the Department a chemical analysis of Dr. Nye's combination of vegetable oils that "cures cancers and tumors to stay cured" cost $25 cents, which actually costs 50 cents, shows that the combination consists of cottonseed oil and some ordinary tonics.

ZEPPELIN REPORTED DEAD

The Kaiser Hears News in Holland and is Greatly Afflicted.

LONDON, Aug. 10.—A despatch to the Telegraph from The Hague says the Kaiser, who is visiting Count Bentinck, a Dutch nobleman, was greatly affected by intelligence of the death of Count Zeppelin, the inventor of the dirigible balloon which bears his name.

No confirmation of the Count's death has been received from other sources. It was not known that he was ill beyond suffering from an abscess on the neck, upon which a trivial operation was performed a couple of days ago.

HIS LEGS HUNG WITH CORAL

12 Necklaces Besides Diamond Rings Taken From a Lapland Passenger.

Aaron Greenberg, a second cabin passenger by the Red Star liner Lapland, which arrived on Sunday, had a bulge in which Special Inspector Tim Donahue found a jewel case with a diamond ring. Greenberg was ordered back to his stateroom and searched. Around his legs Donahue found twelve coral necklaces dangling from garterlike strings. He had also eight pairs of kid gloves, five socks, books and five diamond rings. The total value of the find is about $1,000.

ROOSEVELT, JR. IN AERO CLUB

Name of the Ex-President's Son Put Up for Membership.

The name of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., was posted yesterday for membership in the Aero Club of America by A. Holland Forbes, the acting president. Mr. Roosevelt, who was at the New York Yacht Club yesterday, telephoned to Mr. Forbes requesting that he present his name. It is known that he has been interested in aeronautics for some time and has made two balloon ascensions with members of the Signal Corps. Mr. Forbes has invited Mr. Roosevelt to make a trip with him this fall in the balloon New York.

MOTOR BOAT IN WHIRLPOOL

Spun Like a Top in Hell Gate Until Revolver Cutter Got Her a Line.

Capt. Patterson, formerly chief life saver at Sandy Hook and now commander of the gaolens revenue cutter Guide, which assists the Manhattan in keeping vessels in proper anchorage ground, heard shouts for help in the biggest eddy of the swirling tide at Hell Gate at high water yesterday afternoon. He saw a motor boat spinning in the maelstrom so swiftly that he could not tell her how from her stern. There was one man in the boat and he looked pretty dizzy. The Guide raced around the edge of the swirl like a wild horse in a circus ring and finally got a line to the motor boat and dragged her out of danger.

NO DUTY TAKEN ON TRUNKS

Often They're Within the $100 Limit—American Trunk Makers Hear From.

The problem of levying duty on trunks bought in Europe has been put up to Harrison Osborne, solicitor to the Collector. A large part of the American visitors abroad, it is said, buy one or more new trunks on the other side to take the place of the old ones that have suffered by rough handling or to accommodate new stuff bought abroad. Trunks are dutiable, but nobody in the customs service has thought about demanding duty on them. A willingness to pay duty on the things in the trunks has been regarded as satisfactory. But the American trunk makers have been heard from. The price of the foreign trunk is often only a few dollars, and it can come in free if the passenger isn't over the $100 limit.

We will have a flight to-morrow."

MAURETANIA WINS A MINUTE

Fastest Voyage Yet Ended at Queenstown—Averaged 25.83 Knots.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—The Mauretania arrived at Queenstown to-day after a trip that averaged 25.83 knots an hour. She made a new record. It was not a very great gain, measured by the difference between this run and her best previous, but it was a record, nevertheless, her time being 4 days 17 hours 20 minutes, which is one minute faster than the Mauretania's former record on the east-bound voyage.

LENDER OF $50,000 TRACED

JOYCE'S $100,000 COLLATERAL WENT TO JOHN SHERWOOD.

Jacob Field & Co.'s Clerk—He is Invited to Explain How It Came to Be Sold—Curious Transaction Bringing in a Whole Group of Acquaintances.

John Sherwood, a young clerk in the employ of the Stock Exchange house of Jacob Field & Co., 74 Broadway, is the person to whom the Windsor Trust Company delivered the $100,000 worth of Heinze copper stocks that had been put up with the trust company by M. M. Joyce as collateral on a $50,000 loan. The prompt sale of this collateral is now the subject of an investigation by the District Attorney's office, and Mr. Jerome's detectives looked in vain yesterday for Sherwood.

Sherwood was introduced at the trust company as the agent of Charles Katz, president of the Eastern Brewing Company of Brooklyn, and the trust company according to statements made to the District Attorney's office supposed the $50,000 it was placing came from Katz. Katz was called to the District Attorney's office yesterday and denied that he knew anything about the loan or the selling of the collateral.

M. M. Joyce, who put up the 20,000 shares of Davis-Daly and Ohio Copper Company stocks, declared that he had known only the Windsor Trust Company in the transaction; that the trust company officials had not disclosed that they were acting as agents in placing the loan, but that he had, on the contrary, been assured that the stock certificates would be pinned to his note and kept intact in the company's vaults. He will try to hold the trust responsible civilly for the loss of the difference between the amount of the loan and the value of the collateral.

The trust company officials, on the other hand, contradict Joyce and say that he understood that the company was not asking the loan or charged with the responsibility for his securities. In the meantime somebody or other is enjoying a profit of about $60,000 on the transaction, and Acting District Attorney Nott is trying to find out who it is.

Here is Mr. Joyce's version of the transaction as given in a statement yesterday: "On July 30 of this year W. L. Clark, a loan broker, offered to procure a loan for me of $50,000, to be secured by 20,000 shares of stock of the Davis-Daly and Ohio Copper Company. The value of about $100,000. I refused to place my collaterals in the hands of any one unless insured of his integrity and financial responsibility. Mr. Clark then informed me that no such question could arise, as it was the Windsor Trust Company which was making the loan. In order that there might be no mistake about it I insisted on going to the Windsor Trust Company direct and making all my arrangements with them. Mr. Clark took me over to the Windsor Trust Company on July 31 and introduced me to Sterling Birmingham, head of the particular department that was handling the matter. I was there informed by Mr. Birmingham in response to my question that the trust company would make the loan, would pin my collateral to my note and keep the same intact in its safe until the maturity thereof.

"On that day the manager presented a note to me to sign, saying that he had been instructed by Mr. Young, the president, that the note must be signed in the form presented. At my request the manager submitted to Mr. Ford, the vice-president, my suggestion that the note should contain a clause giving me the right to pay off before maturity upon payment of full interest. In the absence of Mr. Young Mr. Ford assented to this. The manager insisted that the loan was conditional upon my opening an account with the Windsor Trust Company and agreeing to leave an average balance thereon to cover the loan and was taken to the vice-president's office, who opened the account for me and credited it with the proceeds of the note. I having previously turned over the securities to the trust company.

"About that time Mr. Clark came in and stated that the Windsor Trust Company was prepared to make another loan of $50,000 upon the same conditions. For the purpose of confirming my own conversations with the Windsor Trust Company officials I went over to the trust company with a reliable party who ostensibly was willing to duplicate my loan, and the party and myself were then positively advised that the loan of August 2 had been made to me by the Windsor Trust Company; that my securities were then held intact by the trust company, pinned to my note and that the new contemplated loan would be made on the same conditions, and that the money was ready to be handed over to my friend as soon as the securities were produced. This was on Friday, August 6.

"On the next day I went to the Windsor Trust Company with $1,500 in legal tender notes, which I tendered to the company and demanded the return of my securities as per the terms of the note. I was then informed that the trust company did not have the securities. I do not imagine that the statements attributed to Mr. Young, the president, to the effect that the trust company was acting as the agent of some third party are correct, as I made the loan entirely on the strength of the statements of the trust company officials that the company itself was making the loan.

"Mr. Joyce's statement is absolutely correct," said Clark at the District Attorney's office yesterday. The Windsor Trust people and their counsel, Rollins & Rollins, drew up this statement, as their version: "The facts concerning the connection
