

HAPPY TO MEET BANNARD

CARNEGIE HALL RISES UP AND SHOUTS FOR HIM.

He Tells of a Million Dollar Iron Pipe Job With an Asphalt Annex and Asks If It Isn't the Limit—Job Hedged Objects to Murphy in the Trinity.

Have Republicans and fusionists and Bannardites become more enthusiastic and demonstrative than Tammanites, Gwynnites, even than Hearstites? It looked so last evening in Carnegie Hall when Job Hedges made one of his best speeches...

Mr. Whitman went on with his address and the crowd listened to him with respectful attention. At that moment he ceased speaking and the whole hall burst forth in applause for Bannard.

Mr. Low, chairman of the meeting, gave a better than to attempt an introductory speech under these conditions of the public pulse, and he merely arose to remark that the people always welcomed such a candidate as Otto Bannard.

"I have visited Yellowstone Park, but I never acquired the habits of the geiser."

Having thus spouted and enabled the audience to work off some of its ebullience Mr. Bannard came down to his characteristic manner and his directness of purpose. He said:

"I am a business man and I venture to think that a business man is needed in the City Hall. For example, let me tell you a little tale of an iron pipe."

"Three years ago the cast iron pipe was at its highest price, $33 to $34 a ton. Business men held off and wouldn't buy it. Every one knew that that price could not hold. Tammany bought 19,700 tons at the top. A year later the price was $22, a difference on this purchase of just $227,000."

"Let me ask one question. Wouldn't it be better to put in the cast iron pipe before the river before he bought the pipe? Now what do you think of this?"

Robert C. Morris, president of the Republican Club, whose banner overhung the speaker's desk, interrupted former Mayor Low as presiding officer.

VERDICT FOR MRS. BATONYI

Frank Work's Daughter Now Likely to Get Her Divorce

A sealed verdict in favor of Frances Work Batonyi in her divorce suit against Aurel Batonyi was opened yesterday morning by Justice O'Gorman of the Supreme Court.

The jury answered "No" to the question whether Batonyi was guilty of the acts alleged on the supposed taxicab ride on March 4, 1908, between Broadway and Forty-seventh street and 195th street and St. Nicholas avenue, when his alleged companion was Beatrice Brevaine Dreyfus.

The findings of the jury on the two questions of fact will now be sent with the entire record in the case to a Justice sitting in the Special Term of the Supreme Court, who will hold a hearing on the questions of law involved and such questions of evidence as counsel for Batonyi may interpose.

Batonyi was unable to combat the charge of his misconduct with Margaret Allen except by a denial by himself and a deposition from the woman involved to the effect that she never saw Batonyi.

BANNARD GOES ALONGSHORE

HEARTILY RECEIVED AT THE NOONDAY REST HOUR.

"Charity" to His Nation Doesn't Mean Boies, but Effort to Improve Conditions and Give Men a Fair Chance—The Fat Wolves and the Furrier.

Fusion candidate Otto T. Bannard began yesterday a series of noonday meetings on the North River waterfront with a speech before a big crowd at Fifty-fifth street and Eleventh avenue.

"There are good labor unions and bad labor unions," he said, "and good leaders and bad leaders. A union should stand on its record, as each corporation should, and none should be condemned on account of the acts of some other organization."

Mr. Bannard said that a labor leader had criticized him recently because he had given money for charity, the critic adding that he himself was not in favor of charity but in favor of a man who will put forth his efforts to do away with the necessity for charity.

"I agree with this sentiment absolutely," said Mr. Bannard, "and I have fought for it for twenty-five years. I believe my efforts to persuade people not to give a quarter to every one on the street who asks for it, but to find places where the needy can work, to improve the tenements, to give light and air and clean streets, to give every school child a seat and full time, to stamp out disease, to have parks and playgrounds, to reduce pawnbrokers' rates, and to teach the young to give light and air."

"High taxes mean high rents," Mr. Bannard continued. "About a fifth of the rent you pay goes to the city for taxes, and in my opinion you should give the city a cent to distribute your own money twice a year for their picnics and balls, but those who will see that your own money is spent honestly for the health and happiness and education of yourselves and your children."

The candidate spoke of Tammany's "trying to put cinder concrete out of business" by the tax on six-year-old change which, he said, would have affected probably 15,000 men with families, and added the question, "Is Tammany really the poor man's candidate's reception in this new quarter was hearty."

At the meeting the Bannard Campaign Club distributed its third daily "bulletin" and the meeting was headed "On Fairness," and said:

What's it all about? While we've been asleep the wolves have got into the sheepfold. Look at them! They're fat. It's a comfortable thing to be fat. When Tammany wolves got in six years ago the taxes are high. High taxes means high rents. No wonder the rent bill is fat.

All wolves and up at the furrier's," says a proverb. "In friend New York City the wolves. They have been skinning you for six years. It's a bad thing for a wolf to be so fat he can't run."

WANT WEYLER TO END WAR.

Spanish Liberals Would Send Him to Morocco—Barcelona Arrests.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Oct. 21.—The Madrid correspondent of the Telegraph says that as the result of questions put to many Liberal leaders he learns that the whole party, from Señor Moret downward, think that Gen. Weyler ought to be sent to finish the Rif war.

MADRID, Oct. 20.—In the course of yesterday's debate in the Chamber the Minister of the Interior justified the Government's conduct during the disturbances in Barcelona when, he said, revolutionary outrages were responsible for the burning of sixty-eight buildings devoted to religion and the killing of 138 and wounding forty persons.

The growing intensity of political animosities led to a great row in the Chamber of Deputies later. Señor Moret, the Liberal leader, accused Señor de la Cueva, Minister of the Interior, of issuing misleading statements to the press, whereupon the Liberals cheered long and loud, while the Ministerialists bellowed against them.

Señor de la Cueva shouted that no threats or violence would succeed in driving him from office. The hostility to the Government, he declared, was not due to the dissatisfaction of the nation, but was organized by political opponents for their own ends.

At this the Conservatives burst into loud cheers, which were met with countercries by the Liberals. Pandemonium threatened to be interminable. The President having broken three or four bells in frantic attempts to restore order, he finally abandoned the effort and adjourned the session.

THE CZAR AND KING VICTOR.

Russian Visit to Italy to Be Just One of Friendship—Trouble Maker Caught.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. ROME, Oct. 20.—The Czar will arrive at Racconigi next Saturday afternoon. He will return to Russia by way of Germany, going through Modane on Monday. He is travelling incognito at present, but will appear as the Czar when he reaches Bordonecchia, the first Italian railway station after leaving France.

The railway from Bordonecchia to Racconigi, where he will meet King Victor Emmanuel, a distance of about fifty miles, will be guarded by 50,000 troops.

The Czar will not go to Messina, but he may visit the Spezia dockyard. Part of the time he is at Racconigi will be spent in shooting. Although his visit assumes the character of one of intimate friendship Prime Minister Giolitti and Foreign Minister Tittoni will be present at Racconigi.

It is reported that Carlo Modena, the young Spaniard who was arrested near Spezia on Sunday while on his way to Racconigi, has been recognized as an anarchist who arrived recently from the United States for the purpose of making an attempt on the life of either the Czar or the King. The man, who was well dressed and had plenty of money in his possession, had a revolver in his hand when arrested.

The Messagero prints a remarkable story to the effect that Modena is the natural son of a deceased European monarch. Up to a short time ago he was in receipt of an annual allowance of $6,000. Recently he asked to have the amount of this allowance increased, and when his request was refused he started for Racconigi, presumably for the purpose of creating a scandal or committing some act of folly.

BUCHANAN INQUEST FINDINGS.

Diplomat Who Died in London Had Heart Disease—Funeral Service.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. LONDON, Oct. 20.—A coroner's jury rendered a verdict to-day that the sudden death late last Saturday night of W. I. Buchanan, former American Minister to Panama, was due to natural causes. Mr. Buchanan was found unconscious in Park lane shortly before midnight and died before an ambulance in which he was removed reached St. George's Hospital.

The inquest was held in the Westminster Coroner's Court. The manager of Claridge's, where Mr. Buchanan stayed, testified that Mr. Buchanan had always been a very busy man and was constantly rushing about from one place to another. The last he had seen of Mr. Buchanan was on Saturday evening. He was smoking a cigar at the time and looked cheerful. He did not appear to be ill at the time and afterward went out to take dinner.

The physician who conducted the post-mortem examination testified that Mr. Buchanan had been suffering from fatty degeneration of the heart, gallstones and incipient Bright's disease. In his opinion death was due to heart failure superinduced by the fatty degeneration and the diseased condition of the blood vessels. There was no apoplexy.

A service in memory of Mr. Buchanan was held this morning at All Saints' Church in Norfolk Square. The American Embassy was represented by John R. Carter and Craig Wadsworth, two of the secretaries.

SENUSSI STRONGHOLD FALLS

FRENCH SENEGALESE FORCE CONQUERS WADAI.

Fanatical Mohammedans of the Sudan Beaten by Hundreds of Trained Troops—Abesher, the Capital, Taken—Slave Trade May Now Be Suppressed.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—News has been received of the conquest of Wadai, the last stronghold of the Mohammedan fanatics in the central Sudan, by a small French force. The information comes from Dr. Kumm, secretary of the Sudan United Mission, who left England in October, 1908, to visit the mission stations in northern Nigeria.

Mr. Kumm, writing under date of Fort Archambault, on the Upper Shari River, July 6, tells how the irreconcilable remnants of the various Moslem forces congregated in Wadai, which is of about the same area as Italy, under Senussi Shiek, who had imported great numbers of Winchester rifles and other modern firearms and some cannon. No white man except Dr. Nachtigal, a German, in 1872, ever crossed Wadai, other explorers having been killed or barely escaped the fanatical inhabitants.

The French led against the population of slave raiders that a French force, consisting of a handful of European officers and a few hundred audacious and dangerously well trained Senegalese troops, operated. A party of eighty with their officers beat 3,000 of the Wadai force at Dogotchi in April, 1908.

Three months later 500, with their officers, utterly routed the Wadaian army of 8,000 men, whose General, Agid Mamud, was killed, with two sons of the Sultan of Wadai and 1,300 men. The captured rifles made a pile twelve feet high. The French lost forty-nine killed. In December the French nearly met with disaster. They were badly beaten at Aingalagal and lost all their transport animals. If the Arabs had pursued them it is likely that none of the French would have escaped. Six months of peace followed, but as the Arabs continued strengthening their forces and fortifications it was decided to attempt to capture the capital of Wadai, Abesher.

Saks Dress Trunks

More often than not, purchase of a trunk is left to the helter-skelter getting-ready-to-go-away period. At such a time one's selection is apt to be made with more thought to present need than future usefulness. Under such conditions it is best to buy where every item that goes to make up the stock conforms with a high standard such as distinguishes our department of Travelers' Requisites.

CANNON ON THE WARPATH.

Ready to Fight the Insurgents—Not Republicans, if He is One.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Speaker Joseph G. Cannon is on the warpath. "Twenty members of the House and seven Senators voted against the Republican tariff bill," said Mr. Cannon to-day. "They are warring against the Republican majority in Congress and against the Republican President who signed the bill."

"If they are Republicans, I am not. If I am a Republican, they are not. That is my doctrine, and I am not afraid to preach it."

Explaining his Elgin speech, Mr. Cannon said he did not charge that Senator Cummins had entered into a political compact with W. J. Bryan and would openly support the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Bryan does not have any hope of obtaining a revision of the tariff in the next Congress. He wants to get Democratic House which will pass a bill which the Republican Senate will turn down, and thus furnish him with an issue for 1912.

Mr. Cannon gave hearty endorsement to President Taft's tour through the country. He learned the President's tour was successful. He announced himself in favor of a President getting around and seeing the people.

Julia Loewenstein fled notice yesterday of consent of the will of her husband, Israel Loewenstein, who died on September 5 last. Loewenstein left $5,000 to his wife and $10,000 to Lena Moritz, and divided his residuary estate between the two women. He also gave Alma Moritz a $10,000 trust fund and $10,000 to Mrs. Loewenstein, who alleges that the three other women used undue influence.
