

BACK BAY DRESSMAKERS HELD

TWO ARRESTED IN BOSTON FOR SMUGGLING HERE.

Misses Moore and Holland, who have been patrons there, are charged with depriving the Government for years—few others said to be implicated.

BOSTON, Nov. 27.—Miss Mary S. Moore and Miss Isabelle Holland, fashionable dressmakers of the Back Bay, were arrested to-day on charges of conspiracy and of smuggling through the port of New York. They were ordered to furnish $5,000 bail each for their appearance in the United States Circuit Court in New York on the first Monday in January.

The women comprise the dressmaking concern of the Misses Holland & Moore at 421 and 423 Boylston street, doing business with many of Boston's wealthy and aristocratic women. Both are residents of the Back Bay, Miss Moore residing at 119 Bay State road and Miss Holland at 137 Beacon street. Through an arrangement made with their counsel, Henry V. Cunningham, last night both women appeared at the Federal Building shortly before 11 o'clock this forenoon and were quickly and quietly ushered into the law library near the marshal's office.

On account of delay caused over the question of the fixing of bail, the formality of placing them under arrest dragged along until well on toward 1 o'clock P. M., the closing time of the Commissioner's office on Saturdays, when the Commissioner decided not to act on the case and informed the United States marshal's office he was ready to hear the case.

Both defendants were then formally placed under arrest by Chief Deputy Morse, and a few minutes later went under the escort of deputies to Commissioner Hayes's office. The arraignment was quickly proceeded with, Assistant United States District Attorney Garland appearing for the Government with Assistant District Attorney Demming of New York as present.

The complaint, which charged the defendants with being fugitives from justice, was based on an indictment returned against them by the United States grand jury in New York, which returned to the United States Circuit Court of that city. The indictment, in general terms, charged the women with conspiracy to smuggle into the country women's wearing apparel from abroad, in violation of the Federal laws.

The complaint alleged in one count that the defendants were Robert Schwartz, Thomas Murphy and Philip Phillips on March 6 last smuggled into the port of New York on the steamship Philadelphia two trunks containing women's wearing apparel from France. The count specified how the trunks in question had been consigned to "Saunders and Augustine," which is supposed to have been a fictitious address, and alleged that on the next day after the arrival of the steamship, on March 8, the trunks were landed by Schwartz on the pier whence they were taken to the city by local express were forwarded to Boston. The complaint did not specify the value of the goods in the trunks, but from the claims of several officials it is inferred they were of considerable value.

During the reading of the complaint both of the defendants maintained a nonchalant air and upon its completion they seemed to relax and their faces becoming wreathed in smiles. By advice of counsel Miss Holland and Miss Moore pleaded not guilty, whereupon the Commissioner signed their appearance in New York. Bail was furnished in each case by the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company of New York.

It is alleged by the detectives that in the last three or four years one or the other of the women or their agents have made frequent trips to the city, and that they brought back into the country many large consignments of the finest of women's wearing apparel, consisting of French goods, lace and jewelry.

That the charges against the women are most serious was implied in a brief statement by United States District Attorney French, made to reporters just previous to their arraignment. In that statement French said the alleged smuggling covered several years, and the amount involved, of which the Government claimed it had been defrauded, was in the neighborhood of $100,000. There were others implicated and liable he said he did not care to discuss the details of the matter.

WARRINER WITNESS MISSING.

Cincinnati Girl Couldn't Get Vacation, but She Went.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 27.—Miss Ida Brockway, stenographer and bookkeeper in the office of Frank Condon, cashier of the United States Surveyors' Department, is missing, according to her superior's statement to-day. "I believe that the Warriner case is the reason for her disappearance," said Condon this morning.

Ida Brockway was the companion for many months of Mrs. Jeannette Ford, the woman in the Warriner case indicted Friday.

Survivor Amor Smith, Jr., former Mayor of Cincinnati, received the leave of absence application of Brockway Wednesday and at once refused it because she got a vacation during the summer, which she spent in Chicago and during which she visited Edward Cook, often mentioned in the Warriner case, and his wife.

Miss Brockway's application for leave of absence was made by her moment she returned to the Government building for a conference with Prosecutor Hunt. She had been summoned to the Prosecutor's office by subpoena, but did not go before the grand jury.

Miss Brockway received a salary of $1,500 a year, but owned an automobile and dressed well. It is claimed that a woman was in the city yesterday who turned up a letter in her possession, which she was believed to be a copy of the letter which was being sent to Chicago and Mrs. Ford. The writing on them would seem to indicate that a cipher or code was used which Warriner understood.

The most sensational letter in the lot is said to have been sent by Mrs. Ford to Cook's son in Chicago, who bears a good reputation. It is believed that Mrs. Ford is said to have expressed herself with tigerish fury because Cook had deserted her and gone back to his wife. The correspondence is believed to see that his father return to Mrs. Ford.

LOSSES BY FOREST FIRES.

Only $23,101 This Year Against $644,000 in 1908.

ALBANY, Nov. 27.—State Forest, Fish and Game Commissioner James S. Whipple reports 11,967 acres of forest lands burned by fires this fall and the loss only $23,101, as against 177,000 acres burned last year and a loss of $644,000. There were 20 fires this year and 700 last year, and of the area burned this year only 196 acres were State lands and 11,769 acres were owned privately. The damage in the State was estimated at $10,251 and in the Catskills to $12,875.

Multiple good results Commissioner Whipple attributes to the increased efficiency of the State foresting force, which this year cost about $40,000.

NO QUARTER FOR BIG RASCALS.

President Taft Says He Will Go to the Bottom of the Sugar Scandal.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—President Taft determined that the big rascals in the sugar trust scandals should be punished as well as little ones. He had a talk to-day with Senator Lodge and Representative Weeks of Boston, in which he voiced his determination to go to the very bottom of the sugar trust scandals and to spare no man, no matter how prominent he may be. The President told his visitors that Attorney-General Wickham was very much in earnest in the matter, and while the Attorney-General had been going about his work quietly, he was entitled to much of the credit for the revelations that have already been made in the interest of justice.

Representative Weeks, who is a business man, former president of a bank and a member of the monetary commission, told the President that the business men of the country generally were insistent on the punishment of the big rascals in no degree for the sugar trust scandal.

"If any one had told me before these exposures that the men who are so prominent in the sugar trust scandals were guilty of the things which apparently they are guilty of, I would have considered it preposterous," said Mr. Weeks. "The exposure of one conspicuous offender of this kind is a disgrace to the country and accentuates popular distrust of business generally."

"It looks to me as if this sugar trust scandal was the dirtiest thing that has ever been unearthed in the way of Government scandal. Common petty thievery is respectable and common, and I told the President so, and I told him that I hoped that he would make an example of the big men who are found to be guilty of these things."

"I think there is a general demand among business men that the Government ought to put the machinery in motion that will push the investigation to the limit. I believe that Congress will order a special investigation of the whole matter. I don't see how any Senator or Representative can afford to vote against a resolution of inquiry."

SUGAR FRAUD CASES.

U. S. District Attorney Youngs Tells Why None of Them Was Tried in Brooklyn.

Col. William J. Youngs, United States District Attorney for the Eastern District, gave out a statement yesterday explaining why none of the sugar cases was tried in Brooklyn. The statement follows: "It has for some time been a matter of comment and criticism that the sugar fraud cases, which were instituted in Brooklyn in November, 1907, have not been tried in that district."

The trial of the case of Spitzer for an alleged attempt at bribery was held in March, 1908, when the jury rendered a verdict of not guilty, owing, as was stated by the jurors, to the failure of one of the Government witnesses to corroborate the testimony of Richard Parr. The Government officers were at that time engaged in making an exhaustive examination for the purpose of bringing civil actions, and the books, papers and other tangible evidence of the frauds were, by order of the court, taken to the city of New York, Brooklyn, used in the trial of civil cases, and are still in the clerk's office in the Southern District as exhibits in that trial.

The Custom House in the Southern District, and most of the offenses committed against the revenue laws have been consummated in that district; that is, the invoices, sales and other documents which liquidation was based and which complete the entry, were all in the Southern district, and the offenses committed in the Southern district were part of a wider system which was directed from Manhattan. The principal offices of the American Sugar Refining Company were in the Southern district, and it was in that jurisdiction that the civil actions were properly begun.

"It became obvious to both Mr. Stimson and me as the investigation proceeded that had been prosecuted in the Southern district under one general direction and not divided between the several districts, and in this the Department of Justice to their arrangement. In the Southern district, the term of office expired, and on account of his familiarity with all the phases of the investigation, both civil and criminal, and his long connection with the Southern district, I gave entire charge of the sugar fraud cases. The evidence adduced by him in the civil suits, which evidence substantiated and completed the evidence rendered in the Eastern District, renders it advisable that the prosecution be had in the Southern."

MORE REFINERY DISCHARGES.

An Assistant Manager and an Assistant Cashier Let Go.

The wedding of the American Sugar Refining Company in Williamsburg, which began after the exposure of the sugar weighing frauds, was continued yesterday. Albert Dawson, who was an assistant cashier to James F. Bendernagel, the general superintendent and cashier who resigned a few weeks ago and is now under indictment by the Federal Grand Jury, was dropped. So was William Gerbracht, the assistant manager of the refinery, who had been connected with the refinery for nearly thirty years, and of Gerbracht the wedding out is about completed.

Employees of the Brooklyn Transportation Company, which does all the hauling for the refinery, were indignant yesterday at the new management keeping back a day's pay from them. The transportation company is an annex to the American Sugar Refining Company and the drivers said last night that they would probably hold a meeting to-day to discuss the action of the company.

WELLESLEY SOCIETY DISBANDED.

If Other Societies Will Follow Action of the Agora.

WELLESLEY, Mass., Nov. 27.—The action of the Agora Society of Wellesley College in voting to disband it and the other fraternities will do likewise is the chief topic of conversation. The vote passed by the Agora members in the belief that the standing of the undergraduates in academic work will be bettered by abolition of secret societies was announced by Miss Mary Baxter, a senior, and became known to many of the returning students to-day. The five most prominent fraternities, which discussed the possibility of doing away with the societies a short time ago but reached no decision, stated that the presidents of the five fraternities were in favor of securing the project up at meetings of their societies for discussion. Many of the members of the other fraternities declare that the societies will not be abolished, but that certain membership restrictions may be done away with.

Work Suspended on the State Education Building Until Spring.

ALBANY, Nov. 27.—Palmer & Hornbostel, the architects in charge of the new State educational building, to-day notified the R. T. Ford Company, general contractors, to discontinue work for the winter. The job will be closed down until the next spring, when the contractors will take the suspension reluctantly. There will be about 300 men thrown out of work. The architects insist the present weather is not favorable enough to continue the work.

LIFEBOATS SINK AND 14 DROWN.

LOST WHEN OREGON COASTWISE STEAMER WENT AGROUND.

Passengers and Crew Left the Argo in Safety, but Rough Seas Battered the Life Savers and Caused Two Boats—Vessels' Captain Died in One.

TILLAMOOK, Ore., Nov. 27.—The coastwise steamer Argo went aground near the entrance to Tillamook Bay late yesterday and fourteen of her passengers and crew were drowned. This morning she was hidden from view by a heavy fog. The schooner Oahkosh, which put out from Astoria late last night to go to her assistance, is believed to be standing by the stranded vessel, which got off the beach last night and was thought to be at anchor.

The lifeboat from Garibaldi Beach could not take the passengers and crew off yesterday on account of rough seas. It was only by almost superhuman efforts that Capt. Farley of the life crew managed to take some of the women on board his boat. Owing to the danger of the heavy seas and battered condition of the boat he would not take off more than four persons.

After quitting the steamer Capt. Farley took his boat some distance up the beach in an effort to make a safe landing, but the lifeboat capsized, pinning beneath it the rescued passengers and several of the crew. Two women were rescued, but two others and a number of the life crew were drowned.

A lifeboat containing Capt. Snyder of the Argo and ten other persons also was lost. The known lost are:

Nellie Hunter, aged 6, passenger.

Mrs. L. A. Holdridge, Portland, Ore., passenger.

Henry Wickman, member of the life saving crew.

The rescued are: J. A. Johnson, L. C. Holdridge, Portland, Ore., passenger.

W. C. King, passenger; George Hunter, passenger; Howard Wolfe, A. E. Willard and E. Salmonson.

The schooner Oahkosh, containing Mate Johnson and nine others was saved by the schooner Oahkosh. The Argo showed signs of turning turtle last night and Capt. Farley ordered all on board to take to the boats. Mate Johnson commanded one boat and Capt. Snyder another. The two boats became separated in the mist and rough seas. Johnson's boat cruised around and made a pick-up by the Oahkosh, which had been beating up and down the coast in the vicinity of Tillamook Bay in an effort to locate the Argo.

It is believed Capt. Snyder tried to make the shore with his boat and that in the effort his boat was overturned, as no signs of it were seen to-day.

PINE TO SERVE THE COUNTY.

Sheriff-Elect Shea Didn't Know Parochial Patriotism Was So Common.

John S. Shea, Sheriff-elect, said yesterday that he never before knew what a lot of men are willing to give up good jobs to serve their county. That is, the applicants all say that they have good jobs, which a sense of duty impels them to relinquish in favor of the employment of the county. Shea has had applications backed by the committee of 100, the Citizens Union, the Civic Alliance, the Cleveland Democracy and every other organization that in any way supported his candidacy.

There are thirty-one candidates for sheriff's office who get $1,000 a year each, whom the new Sheriff will try to get on the exempt list. If he succeeds he will have a very easy job. Shea said yesterday that he had not as yet decided on his counsel, a job that carries $6,000 a year.

He was taken ill on Thursday and died due to heart disease. Mr. Lapsley was born in Philadelphia and his father, the late Joseph Lapsley, moved to this city with his family a few years later. Street in life Mr. Lapsley went into Wall Street and secured a seat on the New York Stock Exchange. The firm was formed at that time. His partners were David and Thomas F. Cahill, some years ago R. Livingston Lapsley and a younger brother, Arthur Brooks Lapsley, who has a farm near Popplet, Conn., where he lives with him.

Y., where he underwent a surgical operation. He was 82 years of age and for many years was a prominent manufacturer in Amsterdam. He was the first manufacturer of brooms in the State. WOULD DEPOSE CONNERS.

Patrick McCabe of Albany Says It Would Be a Good Thing for the Democracy.

ALBANY, Nov. 27.—The reorganizers in the Democratic party insist that William J. Conners is to be deposed within the next month or six weeks as chairman of the Democratic State Committee, and that an up-State man favored by the leaders of the Saratoga Democratic conference will be named to succeed him. While State Committee member P. E. McCabe, who represents Albany county in the Democratic State committee, would not discuss the plans of the Saratoga reorganizers, he did to-night emphatically declare that Chairman Conners should be deposed at an early date and the decks cleared for a Democratic victory in the State next fall.

"It would seem to me," said Mr. McCabe, "that it would prove a good thing for the Democratic party in the State were Mr. Murphy of Tammany Hall to assist the up-State Democrats in the suppression of the Conners as chairman of the State committee."

"Mr. Conners claims to control fifty-five counties north of The Bronx. He no doubt meets fifteen counties. He doesn't control Albany county, and it is not because he didn't try. He came to Albany in the spring of 1908 and allured a few unthinking men into opposing the Democratic organization by proposing to finance the opposition and seat them as delegates in the State convention, even if they got but ten votes in the county."

"No one in State politics but Mr. Conners would make such an agreement, and very few men in the county lent themselves to it. There is no doubt in my mind but that very many more counties up-State are against Conners than with him. I do not believe he can win one county—where he is known—if he has to fight for my best judgment, that county of Albany is anxiously waiting for an opportunity to register its disapproval of him."

"I think of it! One day Mr. Conners informs me who is to be the next Democratic candidate for Governor, and the following day in the most patronizing manner instructs the Brooklyn Democracy to elect Mr. McCooey as acceptable to him as its leader; usurps the powers of the State convention to-day, and offends the independence of the Brooklyn or Albany Democracy by making it all his own thing to do to stop? Who is to relieve the party of this objectionable meddling member from Buffalo? One man and that man is Mr. Conners. What is to be done? Tammany Hall—have it in their power to remove from the dignified position of chairman of the State committee this man who has been in the office of the party for the last three years. Albany county is opposed to Mr. Conners."

TRIPLE MURDER IN KANSAS.

Crime Follows Holdup on Lonely Road—Assault on Woman the Cause.

FRONTENAC, Kan., Nov. 27.—A lonely road a mile north of here was the scene of a triple murder and an assault on a woman some time last night. The dead are Mr. and Mrs. William Bork and their two-year-old son.

The attack on Mrs. Bork is the supposed motive of the crime. Bork presumably was killed while trying to defend his wife. Mr. and Mrs. Bork and their child were last seen alive late last night, when they started to drive home to Frontenac from the home of Mrs. Bork's mother, two miles in the country. This morning their horse and buggy were found standing in the roadway at a deserted spot by a group of miners on their way to a corralled a hundred feet further away. There they found the body of the child, with a bullet wound in the head.

Shortly pursuing their investigations, the miners came across the body of Bork lying in the middle of the road some distance away. Bork had been shot once in the head and twice in the body. A trail through the dust plainly led the miners to a corralled a hundred feet further away. There they found the body of the woman. She had been attacked and then shot through the heart. Mrs. Bork had fought hard for life. Along the trail to the corralled were found both the slippers she had worn, ribbons from her hair and her cloak. There had been a desperate struggle in the field.

It is supposed that Bork was the first to be killed. The indications were that he had been shot as he sat in the buggy and that he fell from his seat to the road. Coroner Dudley Sheriff Merriweather and County Attorney Wooley hurried here from Pittsburg as soon as they heard of the crime. The bodies were brought into town and an inquest was held this afternoon. Bloodhounds were sent to be used in an effort to trace the slayer, but there was no clue.
