

THREE MEN WHO SHOWED NO FEELING, WIN OR LOSE.

He got at Smith thoroughly, as nearly as he could. However, the most of those who want action, he got back again and followed the horses until he died. I guess he lost and won as heavily at times as any of them and he certainly took greater chances than anybody I know of. There were one particularly bold, the name of Saratoga, who went beyond his limit and walked in from the course with one of his horses in a grand way.
