

DIVER WHO FIGHTS SHARKS

INCIDENTS OF WORK AT PEARL HARBOR, HAWAII.

Lund, Who Lays the Blasts, Now Carries a Spear With Which to Keep Them Away. One Shark Trap Built on a Reef One Day Away With the Work.

Mr. Dillingham, who is in charge of the work of developing Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, which the Federal Government expects to make one of the finest naval stations in the world, arrived at the Hotel House yesterday from Honolulu on his way to Washington.

Mr. Dillingham is the manager of the Hawaiian Dredging Company, which is dredging and opening up the harbor, and the resident manager in Hawaii of the San Francisco Bridge Company, which is building the dry dock. He was born in Hawaii, but was educated at Harvard.

The contract for the harbor dredging was let in December, 1908, and calls for the removal of 1,000,000 cubic feet of sand and coral from the reefs which project into the harbor, making the channel as tortuous for any but small vessels as to get in, said Mr. Dillingham yesterday.

"The harbor basin now has an area and a depth of water sufficient to float all the navies of the world. Up to date no machinery has ever been designed for digging coral in a seaway, and there are about 1,000,000 cubic yards of it at Pearl Harbor that comes out in the reef station, where it is exposed to the surf.

"How is the work done? Well, principally by means of divers, high grade powder and blasting gelatine. We have experienced divers, one a native Hawaiian and the other an American. The latter has had a good deal of experience on the Pacific coast and also in Hawaii. And his work requires not only skill but bravery. His name is Martin Lund. He is a giant and in his diving suit must weigh close on to 600 pounds. Lund works eight hours a day and sets off about eighteen blasts in that time. Sometimes he carries on his work with sticks all about him. He often has to fight them.

"You see, the blasts kill large numbers of smaller fish in the waters and every day as soon as the blasting starts the sharks come around looking for food. Sometimes you will see as many as twenty of them at one time.

"The whole outer section of the harbor has been laid out like a checker board, and we shoot in squares. Lund or O'Brien, the Hawaiian, lays the powder or gelatine on a ledge and fixes the electric connections. No blasting is necessary when the pressure of thirty to thirty-five feet of water keeps the blasting material in position. When there are only ten or twelve feet of water above it is blown up from 400 to 500 feet in the air, but at thirty feet there is hardly a lift of the surface of the water.

"When Lund had his first battle with the sharks he was armed only with a knife. He had told some of the diving men that there were lots of sharks about, but they thought he was only trying to get attention. He had a particularly dangerous job. One day they felt a tap at the line and hauled quickly and there was Lund slaying away at something near his feet. When they had finished him in a dead shark came up to the surface. Then Lund had a spear made. I was rather afraid that he would die, but he didn't. When they had the job, but when I spoke to him he grinned and said that as soon as he had his spear he wouldn't care how many sharks there were about. All he wanted was something to keep them away from his feet. He has got so that he pays no attention to them unless they come right upon him.

"About three weeks ago Lund was laying a charge of powder and was wiring it up for a blast when something made a rump around above him and looking up he saw a white leghorn overhead. He looked up his spear and attacked it and arose to the surface. The crew in the boat were started to see the shark appear near them, but they threw a line over the tail and hauled it aboard dead. Lund had aimed at the right spot.

"Pearl Harbor in the old days was a great fishing ground, but the sharks were taken away to the edible fish, so the Hawaiians built on a reef at the entrance a shark pen. In the one entrance of this there was four feet of water at high tide, but at low tide it was impossible for a shark to get out or in. The natives would take goats and old horses, lead them into the pen from the shore side, kill them and anchor them. After a day or two the sharks would be attracted by the odor and they would follow the wall until they came to the opening. By the time they had had a good meal the shark would have fallen and the natives would then go in and kill them. The dredging project cuts off this pen at the back, thus removing what had become a famous landmark.

IN SOCIETY.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt gave one of the handsomest dinners of the week on Monday night at her home, 677 Fifth avenue, when Mrs. Waldorf Astor was the chief guest. It was followed by a theatre party, supper and a dance. Mrs. Vanderbilt accompanied her daughter, Countess Szechenyi, to the pier when she left for Europe on Wednesday, as did also Mr. and Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Vanderbilt and Mr. C. Vanderbilt, and Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt will soon go abroad, the latter couple making a stay of but a few weeks, when they will return to Newport.

Countess C. Hayos of London, who passed Easter with friends at Atlantic City, returned early in the week to town. Princess Ruspoli, who is in mourning, having been left a widow three months ago, has been in town during the week. She was Mrs. Jennie Berry Burton of Nashville, Tenn., and since her marriage eight years ago has lived in Rome. It is expected that she will make her home with her family in Oakhill, Ga.

Philip Van Rensselaer Schuyler will give his bachelor dinner at Delmonico's next Saturday night, April 9, when his guests will include Roger M. Minton, Noel L. Carpenter, Henry L. Carpenter, Telfair Minton, John R. Moore, Jr., Herbert L. Riker, William H. Emory, Jr., who will assist as best man and ushers at his wedding with Miss Jeannie Floyd-Jones Carpenter on Wednesday afternoon, April 20, in the Church of the Heavenly Rest. The Rev. Herbert Shipman, the rector, will perform the ceremony at 4 o'clock. The bride will be attended by James Speyer of London, brother of Sir Edgar Speyer of this city, who has been over here for several weeks, and Sir Michael Lakin left on Wednesday for England. Lord Morley gave a dinner on Thursday night. Lady Bache Cunard is expected here this month. The Right Hon. Baron H. M. de Ott and Baroness de Ott have been in town for a few days.

Among the numerous dances of the week was one given on Monday night by Mrs. Henry Siegel for Miss Elizabeth Stevens, the fiancée of John de Koven Bowen, at her home, 26 East Eighty-second street. Mrs. Joseph F. Stillman gave one of the Tuesday dances at her residence, 35 East Thirty-ninth street, for her debutante daughter, Miss Lisa Stillman. The Easter dance of the Friday Juniors, who give their last dance of the season, was given at the Metropolitan on Friday night at Sherry's. Miss Catherine Livingston Hamersley of 1070 Fifth avenue gave one of the dances of Friday, when Mrs. Hamilton Fish Kesin chaperoned the young people. The last of the Metropolitan dances was held last night at Sherry's.

Anthony J. Drexel, Jr., will give his bachelor dinner at Delmonico's on Saturday, April 16. He will entertain on that occasion besides other guests his brother Armstrong Drexel, who will assist him as best man at his wedding with Miss Marjorie Gould in St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal Church, Madison avenue and Forty-fourth street, on Tuesday, April 19. Among the guests will be Viscount Macartney, the fiancé of his sister, Miss Margaretta Drexel, and George H. N. Griffith, also of England; Kingston Gould and Jay Gould, brothers of the bride; William Rhineclout Stewart, of one of his cousins, Julius W. Noyes, and Craig Biddle and John Fell of Philadelphia, also cousins, who will be ushers. There will be several dinners given for the young couple during the next two weeks.

The third of the Washington Square dances will be given to-morrow night at the residence of John Claflin, 15 Washington Square North. Mrs. J. Stevens Uiman of 24 East Eighty-first street will give a dinner dance for her cousin, Miss Jeannie Brown, on Tuesday night. Miss Brown was one of the winter's debutantes, and a number of the other girls of this year will be included in the list of dinner guests. The final dance of the holiday series will be given on Wednesday night at Delmonico's, when the patronesses, Mrs. José R. Berrios, Mrs. Alfred G. Rowan, Mrs. Thomas F. Somers and Mrs. Edward P. Sterns, will receive.

The Duke of Vallambrosa, who has been over here for several months, went on to Washington for the Strumm-Hoyt wedding on Tuesday. Count du Parc de Lecturia has been in town since Thursday. Baron Demeter Hys gave a farewell dinner on Wednesday night before his departure for Europe. Count and Countess Lionel de Montfort will soon be here for a time on a visit to the latter's relatives, left on Thursday for France.

Mr. and Mrs. Cortland Field Bishop will leave for Europe on their annual trip on April 18. They will stay for a short time in Paris and will then make their customary automobile trip in France and Italy, returning to their Lenox cottage for the autumn.

Lieut. Henry Sheldon Green of the Marine Corps, whose wedding with Miss Elizabeth S. Rogers is to take place next Wednesday afternoon at St. James's Protestant Episcopal Church, Madison avenue and Seventy-first street, is now stationed at the New York marine barracks. Bishop Courneyer will perform the ceremony and the bride will be given away by her father, William A. Rogers. She will be attended by Miss Marguerite Stuart Knox of Old Point Comfort, a sister of the bridegroom, and Clara Swift of Washington will be bridesmaid. Lieut. Randolph Cole, U. S. M. C., will assist as best man, and Ensign Charles T. Blackburn and the Messrs. Andrew Smith, Kenneth McAlpin, Lieut. Victor Morrison, John Mott Enoch and Julian Wilcox will be ushers. Lieut. Green was of the class of Princeton, '04.

The marriage of Miss Christine F. McCreery and Ramsey Hoguet will take place in the Lady Chapel of St. Patrick's Cathedral on April 17. No invitations will be issued, because the family is in mourning. The bride is a daughter of the late John Alexander McCreery and Mr. Hoguet a son of the late Robert J. Hoguet.

Miss Madeline Borland and Clarence Pell have selected Tuesday, May 17, for their wedding. The bride is one of the three daughters of Nelson Borland. In the list of wedding attendants will be her sister, Miss Alice Borland, and M. Orme Wilson, Jr., the latter's fiancé. Mr. Wilson has made several European trips with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Orme Wilson, of late years. On the paternal side he is a grandson of R. T. Wilson and a nephew of R. E. Wilson, Jr., Lady Herbert, Mrs. Ogden Goelet, Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, and a cousin of the Duchess of Roxburghe. He is also a nephew of John Jacob Astor and Mrs. Ogilvy Haig of London.

The date of the marriage of Miss Elida B. Sanders and Benjamin F. Foster has been fixed for May 25. The bride-elect is a daughter of Samuel Sanders of 229 West Ninety-seventh street, who will give a breakfast after the ceremony. She is a niece of the late Justice Truax. The couple will go abroad and travel during the summer.

One of the bachelor dinners on for next Saturday night at Delmonico's will be that of William H. Fearing, whose marriage to Miss Margaret M. Iselin will take place on April 12 in Grace Church. Frederick Fearing, who will assist his brother as best man, and the Messrs. Lawrence I. Gillespie, Horton Perkins, George Milfin Wharton, Alfred Beatty, Beverly Robinson, Philip W. Livermore and Roland R. Smith, who will be the ushers, will be guests. The Rev. Mr. Norris will perform the wedding ceremony, and the bride will be attended by Miss Mary Fowler as maid of honor. There will be no bridesmaids. Afterward Mrs. Francis Le Roy Satterlee, the bride's mother, will give a reception at her home, 8 West Fifty-sixth street.

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Biddle and Walter Adams Johnson will take place on May 21 in Trinity Chapel in West Twenty-fifth street. The Rev. Dr. V. V. Herbert, the vicar of the chapel, will perform the ceremony at 10 o'clock, and the bride will be given in marriage by Robert E. Livingston. She will be attended by her sister, Miss Biddle, as maid of honor. There will be no bridesmaids or ushers. Immediately afterward the couple will leave for Italy. Mr. Johnson is building a cottage at Pisanaville, near White Plains. Neither of the parents of the bride is living.

Mrs. Mary Hutton Pell and Charles Noe Daly will be married next Tuesday afternoon at the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Fifth avenue and Tenth street. The Rev. Dr. Percy Sticker Grant, the rector, will perform the ceremony at 4 o'clock and the bride will be given in marriage by Mrs. Mary Hatch Willard, with whom she will enter. Frederick H. Hatch will assist his brother-in-law as best man. Only relatives and some intimate friends will be invited to the reception afterward. Mrs. Pell procured a divorce from Alexander Mercer Pell in 1907.

Miss Grace Tillinghast and Earle Phipps Hite are to be married in the Fourth Presbyterian Church, West End avenue and Ninety-first street, next Thursday. The Rev. George H. Hite, the bridegroom's father, who will perform the ceremony, will be assisted by the Rev. Dr. Work. Ray Clarke Tillinghast, the bride's father, who will escort her to the chancel, will give her in marriage. She will be attended by Miss Amy Conklin of White Plains as maid of honor and by the Messrs. Harriet G. Byrne and Lola Erbeck as bridesmaids. George H. Hite, Jr., will assist his brother-in-law as best man, and the Messrs. William E. Condit, Alfonso P. Adams, W. H. Lyon and Charles E. Munch will be ushers.

After a honeymoon jaunt of three months passed on the other side Mr. and Mrs. George H. Snowden, who was Miss Louise Taft, returned early in the week and have been the guests here of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Taft. They are soon going to their new home in Seattle.

On Wednesday evening, April 27, in All Angels Protestant Episcopal Church, West End avenue and Eighty-first street, the wedding of Miss Frances Cleveland Morrill and William Rogers Tyler will be performed by the Rev. Dr. DeLancy Townsend, the rector, at 8 o'clock. It is not yet decided as to the entire list of bridesmaids and ushers. After the church ceremony the bride's mother, Mrs. Charles Morrill of 204 West Fifty-seventh street, will give a reception and bridal supper.

Among the festive affairs scheduled for the Plaza this week is a concert and dance to-morrow evening by the Columbia University Glee and Mandolin Club at 8 o'clock for the benefit of the Free Industrial School for Crippled Children, Mrs. Arthur Elliott Pluh, Jr., of 213 West Ninety-eighth street, president. On Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the ballroom Miss Rita Sacchetto of the Metropolitan Opera House will give a series of dances, with A. Tridon of 301 West tenth street in charge. Miss Harriet Ware of 320 West End avenue will give a concert on Tuesday. A musical soiree will be given by "Dusoni" in the ballroom on Wednesday. Mrs. Ford of 321 West Seventy-first street will give a lecture on Wednesday at 3 o'clock in the white and gold room. In the ballroom on Thursday night a dramatic recital will be given by Henry G. Hava under the auspices of the Dixie Club and the Alabama Society. On Friday night the Virginians will give a reception and dance in the ballroom.

The sixth and last dance in the series of Saturday night dances took place in the large ballroom last night at Delmonico's. The cotillon was led by Francis Johnston Hopson and the favors were fancy gift baskets for the girls and pictures of hunting scenes for the men. Among the patronesses receiving were Mrs. Charles R. Huntington, Mrs. S. Lindley Tappin, Mrs. F. Tilden Brown, Mrs. Livingston Pell and Mrs. George E. W. Yeth.

The engagement is announced of Miss Mabel B. Hooley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley of Maybrook, North Plainfield, N. J., to Brown Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Robinson of 47 West Forty-eighth street, New York city.

The marriage of Dr. H. Edward Wells of Washington, Pa., and Miss Violet Harper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Harper of this city, took place at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Manor Church, West Twenty-sixth street. The Rev. Dr. Willard Alexander of Pittsburgh performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. James Palmer. The bride was attended by Mrs. Willard Alexander, Mrs. E. Russell Dibble, Mrs. Norma Clement and the Misses Clara Harvey, Beatrice Clark, Lois Homans, Gertrude Frow, Lucy Smith and Caroline Flako. Theodore P. Wells was the best man, and the ushers were Dr. George W. Sawyer, Theodore Haight, Reed Wendell, Charles C. Wells and George Vincent Wendell. The bridegroom is a professor of chemistry in the Washington and Jefferson College at Washington, Pa. A reception followed the ceremony at the residence of the bride's parents, 350 West Seventy-first street.
