

The Sun

TUESDAY, MAY 31, 1910.

Entered at the Post Office at New York as Second Class Mail Matter.

Subscriptions by Mail, Postpaid. DAILY, Per Month $1.00. DAILY, Per Year $10.00.

Published by the Sun Printing and Publishing Association at 129 Nassau street, in the Borough of Manhattan, New York.

London office, 11 Avenue Road, 1st Avenue Street, Strand. The daily and Sunday Sun are on sale in London at the Strand and Colonial Exchange.

On leaving the city for the summer you may have the Sun sent to you by mail at the regular subscription rates.

If our friends who favor us with manuscripts for publication wish to have their articles returned they must all cover send stamps for this purpose.

Some Trade Signs.

A review of the foreign commerce of the country for the last five years shows fluctuation in exports, with decline rather than advance, and marked increase in imports.

Table with 3 columns: Year, Exports (domestic), Exports (foreign). Rows for 1905, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909.

The only fair inference from this record of both imports and exports is increase in domestic demand and in domestic purchasing power.

Fifty-five per cent. of the imports of the current fiscal year represents materials contributing directly to our manufacturing interests.

Mr. LORIMER's case will be sifted by two competent tribunals, the courts of Illinois and the Senate of the United States.

To What Does the Conquering Hero Return? Rabbi STEPHEN SAMUEL WISE of the Free Synagogue is the author of an extraordinary article in the North American Review.

The Aeroplane Flight Down the Hudson. Mr. GLENN H. CURTISS's flight from Albany to New York in a biplane deserves a sentimental impressiveness from a comparison with FULTON's ascent of the Hudson in the Clermont.

centuries is to be overthrown, and a new government set up in the form of a constitutional monarchy, a protectorate or a life dictatorship, according as the savior of the country and supreme ruler of its destinies may prefer to regard the new establishment.

These rival flying men have proved what can be done with the aeroplane in the present stage of its development by men of skill and daring.

Secretary of War DICKINSON has joined the golf cabinet, and it is said of him that "he is a big man who can wield a golf club with lots of muscle and when he once acquires the skill he is likely to make the other members of the cabinet hustle."

ous, if the word may be used descriptively. PAULHAN flew about fifty miles further and 117 miles without a stop, but he was twelve hours in completing his distance.

These rival flying men have proved what can be done with the aeroplane in the present stage of its development by men of skill and daring.

Senator Lorimer's Defence.

The speech which Senator WILLIAM LORIMER of Illinois delivered on Saturday defending himself against the charge that his election to the Senate was the result of bribery contains an absolute and unqualified denial that corruption was resorted to in his campaign.

Francis Joseph's Visit to Bosnia.

The Emperor FRANCIS JOSEPH of Austria has set out on a journey to Bosnia, the former Turkish province that through the aggressive policy of Count ARRHENTHAL was two years ago annexed to the Dual Monarchy.

Revolutionary Battle Losses.

Statistics of a Congressional Examined and Questioned. TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN:—In your question headed "Revolutionary Losses" the Hon. Isaac H. Miller, and quote, stating in the House of Representatives that the total number of killed in battle during the Revolution numbered only 1,733.

The Ovarian of Portugal.

The fish are hauled up from the hold in baskets by a steam which and delivered on the quay where the baskets are emptied into large tanks belonging to the vessel and the fish thoroughly washed.

Private in the News.

To THE EDITOR OF THE SUN:—Sir: Since you in this age of the woman, from December 1st to date, I have purchased four gilded galleon parrots with covers.

A Question From Epitaphs.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN:—It may not be amiss to remind Governor Hughes of this present day Epitaph: "A little while ago, in the political power attempts to treat well those who are a good character, but does not will that they should be of a contrary character should be ruled at once."

Ministerialism in England.

In October, 1909, Mr. George Paish of the Statist read an address on "The British Budget and Social Reform" before the Academy of Political Science at Columbia University.

WARDS have been broken in. They now make a fair drive from the tee, and their approach game is especially good, but the Secretary of War need expect no sympathy from them.

General DICKINSON will receive plenty of advice as he addresses the ball after mounting it on a wedge of dirt for the drive, but it won't help him in getting the ball away.

MR. DEPEW'S ENEMY.

MR. DEPEW'S ENEMY. A Call Upon Him for His Intimate Friend Who Aspired Lord Salisbury.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN:—It would be deplorable if Senator DePew's statement in the Senate on May 20 gravely reflected upon the character and character of the late Lord Salisbury should pass unchallenged.

Francis Joseph's Visit to Bosnia. The Emperor FRANCIS JOSEPH of Austria has set out on a journey to Bosnia, the former Turkish province that through the aggressive policy of Count ARRHENTHAL was two years ago annexed to the Dual Monarchy.

Revolutionary Battle Losses.

Statistics of a Congressional Examined and Questioned. TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN:—In your question headed "Revolutionary Losses" the Hon. Isaac H. Miller, and quote, stating in the House of Representatives that the total number of killed in battle during the Revolution numbered only 1,733.

The Ovarian of Portugal.

The fish are hauled up from the hold in baskets by a steam which and delivered on the quay where the baskets are emptied into large tanks belonging to the vessel and the fish thoroughly washed.

Private in the News.

To THE EDITOR OF THE SUN:—Sir: Since you in this age of the woman, from December 1st to date, I have purchased four gilded galleon parrots with covers.

A Question From Epitaphs.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN:—It may not be amiss to remind Governor Hughes of this present day Epitaph: "A little while ago, in the political power attempts to treat well those who are a good character, but does not will that they should be of a contrary character should be ruled at once."

Ministerialism in England.

In October, 1909, Mr. George Paish of the Statist read an address on "The British Budget and Social Reform" before the Academy of Political Science at Columbia University.

lines a week a head for maintenance. Calculations have been made on behalf of the Government which show that in the course of time the saving in poor law expenditure will be nearly equal to the sum granted out of the imperial exchequer for old age pensions.

For the trades just mentioned a system of unemployment, invalidity and widowhood insurance is contemplated in the budget. The insurance benefits are on a somewhat lower scale and are given for shorter periods than those which the stronger trade unions pay.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN:—Many people, if not most people, will concur in the following opinion of Senator Root's Governor Hughes will make a splendid member of the highest court in the land.

If in the future United States Supreme Court Justice Hughes is outvoted by his associates will he call an extraordinary session of the court? He would have as much authority under the United States Constitution to convene an extraordinary session of the United States Supreme Court as he has under the Constitution of the State of New York to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature for the purpose of going over again the bills for direct nominations.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

The four direct nomination bills were exhaustively debated both in the Senate and in the Assembly at Albany and were beaten. The Hinman-Groen bill, the first Cobb-Hughes compromise bill, the second Cobb-Hughes compromise bill and the Grady-Frisbie direct nominations bill were all defeated by the Senate and the Assembly and eventually defeated.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

Article IV, section 4, of the State Constitution declares: "He [the Governor] shall have power to convene the Legislature or the Senate only on extraordinary occasions. At extraordinary sessions no subject shall be acted upon except such as the Governor may recommend for consideration."

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

I venture the opinion that the framers of the Constitution never intended that the power to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature should be used by a Governor except in the direct cases of emergency, and then only to consider legislation that had not been considered to a finish in open session.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

The Legislature has been in session five months. There is ample evidence to warrant the assertion that direct nominations have been discussed from every point of view by the Legislature just adjourned.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

Should Governor Hughes in the message which under the Constitution he must send to the Legislature on June 20 reintroduce the subject of direct nominations he will violate the spirit of the Constitution, the interpretation which has been put upon it by the best lawyers and the keenest Judges of the State, and his own oath of office as well, and furthermore he will be guilty of an attempt to override the wishes of the people as expressed by their chosen representatives.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

The framers of the Constitution never for a moment intended that a Governor should have power to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature for the purpose of attempting to coerce legislators into accepting his personal views of legislative measures; especially did these framers never intend giving power to a Governor to call the Legislature in extraordinary session for the purpose of giving a Governor an opportunity to coerce legislators into accepting measures which after free and full debate had been defeated by the representatives of the people.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

No Democratic Governor, no Republican Governor has ever dared to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature for the sole and simple purpose of attempting to coerce it and to fasten upon the people of the State legislation which their representatives had defeated.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

I cannot believe it possible that Governor Hughes, one of the foremost members of the bar of the State of New York and the lawyer of the entire Eastern bar recently chosen to sit on the bench of the highest court in the land, can so misinterpret the plain letter and spirit of the Constitution of his own State as to attempt to bring again before the Legislature of the State the direct nominations measure that has been so decisively defeated.

lines a week a head for maintenance. Calculations have been made on behalf of the Government which show that in the course of time the saving in poor law expenditure will be nearly equal to the sum granted out of the imperial exchequer for old age pensions.

For the trades just mentioned a system of unemployment, invalidity and widowhood insurance is contemplated in the budget. The insurance benefits are on a somewhat lower scale and are given for shorter periods than those which the stronger trade unions pay.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN:—Many people, if not most people, will concur in the following opinion of Senator Root's Governor Hughes will make a splendid member of the highest court in the land.

If in the future United States Supreme Court Justice Hughes is outvoted by his associates will he call an extraordinary session of the court? He would have as much authority under the United States Constitution to convene an extraordinary session of the United States Supreme Court as he has under the Constitution of the State of New York to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature for the purpose of going over again the bills for direct nominations.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

The four direct nomination bills were exhaustively debated both in the Senate and in the Assembly at Albany and were beaten. The Hinman-Groen bill, the first Cobb-Hughes compromise bill, the second Cobb-Hughes compromise bill and the Grady-Frisbie direct nominations bill were all defeated by the Senate and the Assembly and eventually defeated.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

Article IV, section 4, of the State Constitution declares: "He [the Governor] shall have power to convene the Legislature or the Senate only on extraordinary occasions. At extraordinary sessions no subject shall be acted upon except such as the Governor may recommend for consideration."

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

I venture the opinion that the framers of the Constitution never intended that the power to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature should be used by a Governor except in the direct cases of emergency, and then only to consider legislation that had not been considered to a finish in open session.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

The Legislature has been in session five months. There is ample evidence to warrant the assertion that direct nominations have been discussed from every point of view by the Legislature just adjourned.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

Should Governor Hughes in the message which under the Constitution he must send to the Legislature on June 20 reintroduce the subject of direct nominations he will violate the spirit of the Constitution, the interpretation which has been put upon it by the best lawyers and the keenest Judges of the State, and his own oath of office as well, and furthermore he will be guilty of an attempt to override the wishes of the people as expressed by their chosen representatives.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

The framers of the Constitution never for a moment intended that a Governor should have power to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature for the purpose of attempting to coerce legislators into accepting his personal views of legislative measures; especially did these framers never intend giving power to a Governor to call the Legislature in extraordinary session for the purpose of giving a Governor an opportunity to coerce legislators into accepting measures which after free and full debate had been defeated by the representatives of the people.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

No Democratic Governor, no Republican Governor has ever dared to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature for the sole and simple purpose of attempting to coerce it and to fasten upon the people of the State legislation which their representatives had defeated.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

I cannot believe it possible that Governor Hughes, one of the foremost members of the bar of the State of New York and the lawyer of the entire Eastern bar recently chosen to sit on the bench of the highest court in the land, can so misinterpret the plain letter and spirit of the Constitution of his own State as to attempt to bring again before the Legislature of the State the direct nominations measure that has been so decisively defeated.

lines a week a head for maintenance. Calculations have been made on behalf of the Government which show that in the course of time the saving in poor law expenditure will be nearly equal to the sum granted out of the imperial exchequer for old age pensions.

For the trades just mentioned a system of unemployment, invalidity and widowhood insurance is contemplated in the budget. The insurance benefits are on a somewhat lower scale and are given for shorter periods than those which the stronger trade unions pay.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN:—Many people, if not most people, will concur in the following opinion of Senator Root's Governor Hughes will make a splendid member of the highest court in the land.

If in the future United States Supreme Court Justice Hughes is outvoted by his associates will he call an extraordinary session of the court? He would have as much authority under the United States Constitution to convene an extraordinary session of the United States Supreme Court as he has under the Constitution of the State of New York to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature for the purpose of going over again the bills for direct nominations.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

The four direct nomination bills were exhaustively debated both in the Senate and in the Assembly at Albany and were beaten. The Hinman-Groen bill, the first Cobb-Hughes compromise bill, the second Cobb-Hughes compromise bill and the Grady-Frisbie direct nominations bill were all defeated by the Senate and the Assembly and eventually defeated.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

Article IV, section 4, of the State Constitution declares: "He [the Governor] shall have power to convene the Legislature or the Senate only on extraordinary occasions. At extraordinary sessions no subject shall be acted upon except such as the Governor may recommend for consideration."

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

I venture the opinion that the framers of the Constitution never intended that the power to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature should be used by a Governor except in the direct cases of emergency, and then only to consider legislation that had not been considered to a finish in open session.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

The Legislature has been in session five months. There is ample evidence to warrant the assertion that direct nominations have been discussed from every point of view by the Legislature just adjourned.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

Should Governor Hughes in the message which under the Constitution he must send to the Legislature on June 20 reintroduce the subject of direct nominations he will violate the spirit of the Constitution, the interpretation which has been put upon it by the best lawyers and the keenest Judges of the State, and his own oath of office as well, and furthermore he will be guilty of an attempt to override the wishes of the people as expressed by their chosen representatives.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

The framers of the Constitution never for a moment intended that a Governor should have power to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature for the purpose of attempting to coerce legislators into accepting his personal views of legislative measures; especially did these framers never intend giving power to a Governor to call the Legislature in extraordinary session for the purpose of giving a Governor an opportunity to coerce legislators into accepting measures which after free and full debate had been defeated by the representatives of the people.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

No Democratic Governor, no Republican Governor has ever dared to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature for the sole and simple purpose of attempting to coerce it and to fasten upon the people of the State legislation which their representatives had defeated.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

I cannot believe it possible that Governor Hughes, one of the foremost members of the bar of the State of New York and the lawyer of the entire Eastern bar recently chosen to sit on the bench of the highest court in the land, can so misinterpret the plain letter and spirit of the Constitution of his own State as to attempt to bring again before the Legislature of the State the direct nominations measure that has been so decisively defeated.

lines a week a head for maintenance. Calculations have been made on behalf of the Government which show that in the course of time the saving in poor law expenditure will be nearly equal to the sum granted out of the imperial exchequer for old age pensions.

For the trades just mentioned a system of unemployment, invalidity and widowhood insurance is contemplated in the budget. The insurance benefits are on a somewhat lower scale and are given for shorter periods than those which the stronger trade unions pay.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN:—Many people, if not most people, will concur in the following opinion of Senator Root's Governor Hughes will make a splendid member of the highest court in the land.

If in the future United States Supreme Court Justice Hughes is outvoted by his associates will he call an extraordinary session of the court? He would have as much authority under the United States Constitution to convene an extraordinary session of the United States Supreme Court as he has under the Constitution of the State of New York to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature for the purpose of going over again the bills for direct nominations.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

The four direct nomination bills were exhaustively debated both in the Senate and in the Assembly at Albany and were beaten. The Hinman-Groen bill, the first Cobb-Hughes compromise bill, the second Cobb-Hughes compromise bill and the Grady-Frisbie direct nominations bill were all defeated by the Senate and the Assembly and eventually defeated.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

Article IV, section 4, of the State Constitution declares: "He [the Governor] shall have power to convene the Legislature or the Senate only on extraordinary occasions. At extraordinary sessions no subject shall be acted upon except such as the Governor may recommend for consideration."

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

I venture the opinion that the framers of the Constitution never intended that the power to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature should be used by a Governor except in the direct cases of emergency, and then only to consider legislation that had not been considered to a finish in open session.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

The Legislature has been in session five months. There is ample evidence to warrant the assertion that direct nominations have been discussed from every point of view by the Legislature just adjourned.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

Should Governor Hughes in the message which under the Constitution he must send to the Legislature on June 20 reintroduce the subject of direct nominations he will violate the spirit of the Constitution, the interpretation which has been put upon it by the best lawyers and the keenest Judges of the State, and his own oath of office as well, and furthermore he will be guilty of an attempt to override the wishes of the people as expressed by their chosen representatives.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

The framers of the Constitution never for a moment intended that a Governor should have power to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature for the purpose of attempting to coerce legislators into accepting his personal views of legislative measures; especially did these framers never intend giving power to a Governor to call the Legislature in extraordinary session for the purpose of giving a Governor an opportunity to coerce legislators into accepting measures which after free and full debate had been defeated by the representatives of the people.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

No Democratic Governor, no Republican Governor has ever dared to convene an extraordinary session of the Legislature for the sole and simple purpose of attempting to coerce it and to fasten upon the people of the State legislation which their representatives had defeated.

THE POWER TO CALL EXTRA SESSIONS.

I cannot believe it possible that Governor Hughes, one of the foremost members of the bar of the State of New York and the lawyer of the entire Eastern bar recently chosen to sit on the bench of the highest court in the land, can so misinterpret the plain letter and spirit of the Constitution of his own State as to attempt to bring again before the Legislature of the State the direct nominations measure that has been so decisively defeated.