BLINKERS ON AND OFF IN THE CASE OF MONTGOMERY.

Facts Concerning the Manipulation of This Horse Which Have Caused a Stir

old Problem-Is Dalmatian the Best? The wearing of blinkers in many cases of thoroughbred racehorses. Some horses Weighing 181% pounds to the man, the light cannot beat the cheapest kind of selling est on the river, the New Yorkers had the platers without blinkers, while they can roughest course. It was made all the worse ake the measure of the best with them. In manipulating horses some trainers resort | ahead of the coaching boats on this side the "on and off" method with blinkers, which in a majority of cases brings about a liberal wash, adding to the existing evil form reversals not generally anticipated by the racing public engths in front of Montgomery, who was although Johnson carried five somersault that shocked the atalent. This time Hildreth let him run with out the blinkers and also started him in a race at a mile and a furiong on the dirt course. Carrying only 103 pounds and ridden by Shilling, Montgomery, meeting such horse as Reybourn and Norbitt, was not serious / considered until his price went up to 7 to 1 Then a rumor came from the paddock that Hildreth and his friends were confident of success, although they gave no explicit reason. Shilling, who rode Montgomery, hover showed greater energy. He whipped the son of Pessara until he was ready to fall out of the saddle, and the old horse was not serious and three-difft seconds slower than Charies Edward's world's record.

Then it dawned on the students of form that Montgomery did not like blinkers and.

wen by a short margin in 1.51 3-5, just one and three-fifth seconds slower than Charles Edward's world's record.

Then it dawned on the students of form that Montgomery did not like blinkers and was not partial to the grass. But of course it was too late. In view of these circumstances racegoers believe that the turf authorities should maist upon uniform equipment of horses and that in case of a change make with their consent due notice should be posted at the track for public inspection. The switching of blinkers is an judit fick, and racegoers say it should not trick, and racegoers say it should not tolerated on the local tracks.

The championship of the three-year-old class is again very much in doubt. Daimatian's victory over The Turk last Saturday upset the calculations of many turf sharps who had pronounced The Turk the best three-year-old colt innmediately after his superb victory in the Fidul Stakes.

So many reversis have occurred in the three-year-old stakes that the situation just now is amusing. The Turk began this year's campaign by easily defecting Duke of Ormonde and Prince Imperial in the Arverne Stakes at aquedut. He followed with a victory over Grasmeere in the Williams burg Stakes, the distance, as in the Arverne, being six furlongs. the said ile. The Turk showed a vast improvement in the Carlton Stakes, one mile forcing Sweep to a bard drive to beat him by three parts of a length in 1391-5. In that race Dalmatian was humped at the start and finished a poor third, while Prince Imperial was left at the post. Just at the time that Sweep was looked upones the star colt, however, Dalmatian upset form by winning the Brooklyn Derby. The distance was a mile and a quarter and the time was 2.97. Dalmatian's success being attributed to the great horsemanship of Shilling Prince Imperial was a close second and Sweep, an overwhelming favorite, was third.

sweep, an overwheiming favorite, was third.

There was rough riding in this event and Sweep was cut behind, but he seemed to have been outclassed at the route. Dalmatian, Dugan up, was badly beaten in the Swift Stakes at seven furiongs. He met Woodford Clay's filly Ocean Bound on equal weight terms, and the latter made a show of him, so much so that Dalmatian, tring in the stretch, was beaten out for the place by Fauntleroy. Ocean Bound, undefeated this year, was therefore hailed as the best three-year-old until The Turk won the Tidal Stakes at a mile and a quarter in 201 t-5, incidentally making Dalmatian, Prince Imperial and Grasmere look like selling platers.

Then there was talk of a match between Ocean Bound and The Turk to decide the championship, but it went up in thin air when Dalmatian won the Coney Island Jockey Club Stakes on Saturday and The

Mishaps and Errors in the Intercollegiate Races on the Hudse

It is not likely that there will be soon again an intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie under the conditions which marked the competition last Saturday. The varsity eight oared crews were sent away from the mark in such water that Columbia, on New Developments in the Three-year- the far outside course, and Wisconsin, next to the Morningside men, might as well have packed their shells in the morning before the race, for all the chance they had. gomery as an example. On June 17 this of the men. Columbia was rigged extra high so that the water was unusually deep.

Columbia's tactics were to rate the first be receded in the prices because sivewed persons did not fancy him. Montgomery could not raise a gallop that day and finished eighth, twenty lengths behind Blackford, the winner.

The next day Montgomery, carrying ten pounds more and again ridden by Shilling, was made the hottest kind of a favorite in a race at a mile and a furlong not on the grass, but on the regular track. Hiddreth sent him to the post without bilinkers on that occasion, and the Pessara horse, displaying his beat form, won in a drive from Frank Purcell and Perry Johnson, the time being 1.53. On June 29 Montgomery went back to the grass course without bilinkers and at 4 to 1, ridden by Dugan, he ran a bans up race, only to finish third, a narrow margin behind Quantico and Rockstone.

Then eams another shift and an upset that made regulares scratch their heads shift hink hard. On June 22 Montgomery, with 11s pounds, Shilling up, with bilinkers and a favorite, ran at a mile and a furlong on the grass and was disgracefully beaten. He showed that he did not fancy the turf course, and also was hampered by the hood he wore. Strange to say, too, Perry Johnson, the winner of this race, finished fending this in front of Montgomery, who was lengths and to spurt the last halfmile at 36 strokes fight along. But the four miles and to spurt the last halfmile at 36 strokes fight along flow for the four miles and to spurt the last halfmile. The New Yorkers had been covering the last halfmile at 36 strokes fight along. But the flow of the function for the four miles and to spurt the last halfmile at 36 strokes fight about horse ran in a race at a mile and a sixteenth on the turf. He wore blinkers, was ridden. Columbia's tactics were to rate the first won by The coaches didn't want to send their pounds less and Montgomery packed the same impost recorded in the race of June 18, in which on the dirt track Johnson finished nearly five lengths behind Hildren's old campaigner. But on June 22 mobody possessing paddock wisdom was foolish enough to bet on Montgomery, while practically all the sharps took liberal odds against Perry Johnson.

Right en top of this ridiculously poor showing Montgomery came back the following day last Friday—with a form somersault that its crew would do well to get out did that its crew would do well to get out did that lits of the New Yorkers yield to persuasion. The idea was that a postponement would mean no race until Monday and that would be hed for the crews and besides there would be no crowd. As to the spectators, not more than one in ten really knew what was going on at the finish anyway. And as for the crews no postponement could have done more effectually for the chances of Columbia and Wisconsin than did startions in the rolling sea on which the race was rowed.
