

CONNOLLY QUEENS HEAD MAN

SHIPLEY, REP., VOTES FOR HIM, SAYING "I DON'T CARE."

Harry Miller made Magistrate—The Two Changes Made to Portend Eminent District Attorney De Witt Knows of No Charges of Corruption.

Maurice E. Connolly was elected President of Queens yesterday, and Harry Miller of Jamaica was appointed City Magistrate in Connolly's place.

The election was held in the Mayor's reception room at the City Hall. The three Aldermen who voted for Connolly were Daniel Ehntholt, who was nominated by the Independence League in Long Island City and endorsed by a Republican of Corona, where he is a neighbor of Mr. Connolly.

MAGAZINES BY FREIGHT.

Results indicate a Saving in Mail Expenses of More Than $4,000,000 a Year.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Reports received to-day by Postmaster-General Hitchcock covering the shipment of magazines by fast freight in September, the first month for which the new plan has been in operation, show that periodical mail matter aggregating $57,704,000, or the equivalent of 318 carloads, was sent by fast freight in the third contract section alone, comprising the States that range from Ohio to Iowa.

If mail shipments by freight continue at the same volume throughout the year the cost of transportation, including cartage charges, will be about $500,000. The expense of sending the same amount of magazine matter by mail, as under the former practice, would be about $2,000,000 a year. Thus the annual saving for the third contract district should be about a million and a half.

Although the magazine mailings in the third section are somewhat heavier than the average for the entire country, it is believed that when shipment by fast freight is made in the practice in the other three sections there will be a total annual saving of from four to five millions, showing that Mr. Hitchcock's original estimate was conservative.

The results obtained in one month's operation establish beyond question the success of his plan of shipping magazines by freight.

LITTLE GIRL VANISHES.

New Jersey Villagers Making a Night Search for a Two-Year-Old.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Oct. 4.—Practically the whole hamlet of Frankfort, eight miles from Somerville, is out tonight with lanterns and dogs scouring the countryside in an effort to find the two-year-old daughter of John F. Gray, who disappeared from the front yard of her father's home at 6 o'clock this evening.

The child, who is not large for her years, put on a red coat over her blue white dotted dress, covered her brown hair with a white plunk and started out to play in the yard just as dusk was coming on. She had not been out of the house fifteen minutes before her father went to call her to supper, and failing to find her started a search.

Mary Zorniski, who lives near Philip Diehl's general store and in sight of the Gray home, says she saw a shabby one-seated automobile stop in front of the place at about dusk and saw the driver get out and lift something into the machine. What it was she could not tell. The auto went away in the direction of Somerville.

When the child's father learned about the auto he telephoned to County Detective George D. Cotton, who went in his automobile from Somerville.

Before he got there an organized searching party, with Mr. Gray at the head, was already at work searching every place where the little girl might have strayed. There are not many more than half a hundred inhabitants in the hamlet of Frankfort, and both men and women joined in the search up to midnight, but resulted in nothing. Frankfort is on the south branch of the Central railroad, with an open country for miles around where it would be hard for a child to get lost and be unable to find its way home.

John F. Gray is a farmer in very modest circumstances and in no financial position to pay a reward for the return of his child if she has been kidnapped. Earlier in the evening County Detective Cotton suggested that the man in the automobile might have accidentally run over the little girl and then taken her to a hospital, but the Somerset Hospital, the only hospital in the vicinity, reported that no child had been brought there.

MAN IN MISS LANDER'S ROOMS.

Banditmaster Left Warning to Her Visitor Now Held as Burglar.

Miss Adelaide Lander, the banditmaster, left her rooms in the St. George apartment house, which is immediately behind St. George's Church on East Seventeenth street, yesterday afternoon, asking the janitress to give a suit case to Arch S. Campbell, a young man who occasionally called at the St. George. By no means was she to let Mr. Campbell into the apartment. Miss Lander then started for New London, Conn., to see her mother.

Campbell is a traveling man selling railroad supplies. He has an office at 90 West street. He came along later in the afternoon and asked Lottie Gyar, the janitress, if Miss Lander had left anything for him. He took the suit case and then asked to be let into Miss Lander's apartment. The janitress refused. Then Campbell went away.

SCAMPS AT THE CITY'S SHOW

BOYS HOOK A FIRE CHIEF, A FIRE HOUSE AND AN ENGINE.

Caught at This Bare Foot Work They Threaten to Set the Mayor on Their Captors—Tenement House Department Displays Some Complaints.

When the crowd was thickest at the Budget Show at 330 Broadway yesterday Battalion Chief Clark, in charge of the Fire Department exhibit, saw two boys taking particular interest in the map which has little figures showing fire houses, engines, fire chiefs and firemen. One of the boys slipped into a corner, removed his shoes and stockings and came back in his bare feet. When he thought no one was looking he put his foot on the map and pressed hard, and when his foot came off a fire chief was sticking to it.

This happened to the other boy, who removed his shoes and stockings. He got away with a fire house, and at the same time his companion captured an engine. Then Chief Clark grabbed them. He summoned a detective from the Police Department exhibit and the boys were handcuffed.

"Where do we go," asked one of the boys, who wasn't alarmed, "to S. S. (Sing Sing) or the pen?" They told the boys they were going to photograph them. "Well, wash me face," said one of them, "an' let me look pretty."

They laughed at the police and firemen when they were let go. Later in the day a detective picked up a boy he suspected of having stolen things from the police exhibit. In an effort to frighten him they gave him a sample of what is known as the "third degree."

"If you don't go easy wid me," said the boy, "I'll knock yuh tuh Willie Gaynor, and you'll get hell." So they let him go, but a police official who knew of the two incidents remarked: "There will have to be a lot of teaching done to bring those boys around right."

Borough President McAnany of Manhattan was the principal speaker yesterday at the exhibit. The show continued to draw large crowds, especially at the noon hour. Much interest was taken in an exhibit arranged by Kate H. Chagnor, registrar of the Tenement House Department. It consisted of samples of letters making complaints to the department of tenement houses, 40,000 and 50,000 complaints were made every year, but it was true that a majority of them had a substantial basis and were of a nature that the department could help. One man wrote: "Will you please send an inspector to my room at the above address. I live on the fourth floor, front, west. My wife has washing in the tubs soaking for about three weeks and she will not take them out or wash them."

UNIVERSITY SAFE BLOWN.

Watchman Barely Prevents Robbers From Getting Away With Loot.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 4.—Three robbers were driven from the University of Michigan money vault in the treasurer's office at 4 o'clock this morning at the point of a revolver in the hands of the lone night watchman and $400 in cash which the robbers had blown out of the safe and laid piled on a table was saved. About $25 in a separate package was taken.

Watchman Reuben Armbruster was unhurt in the fight and as far as is known none of the shots he fired at the robbers took effect. The robbers blew the vault doors with nitroglycerine and also blew open the safe doors. The booty they sought was $35,000 which was taken in by Treasurer Campbell yesterday, the opening day for the fall term of the university. The robbers were familiar with this fact and had planned accordingly, but the money had been transferred to a bank last night. On Monday there was $50,000 in the vault and it is believed that the robbers had hoped to get into the building that night.

GRAND JURY HEARS STOLEN BOY

And Indicts Pallozello, Suspected of Several Kidnappings.

Pietro Pallozello was indicted yesterday for kidnapping Michael Scimeca, 5 years old, the son of Dr. Mariano Scimeca of 4 Prince street. The child was the principal witness before the Grand Jury. Pallozello was arraigned before Judge O'Sullivan, who remanded him to the jail in default of $7,500 bail. Lily Mills, 14, of Glen Head, and Jennie Yocano, 16 years old, two girls who, the police say, saw Pallozello make off with Michael, were sent to the Children's society by Judge O'Sullivan in order that they might not be intimidated.

Michael Scimeca was kidnapped in June, 1910, and was mysteriously returned a few months later. His father denied that he had paid any money for his return. Pallozello, the police think, was also implicated in the kidnapping of two other Italian boys, Vincenzo Sabella and Pietro Quatrone.

Uruguayan Charge of Affaires Acuar.

Hugo V. de Pena, son of Carlos Maria de Pena, Minister from Uruguay to this country and Chargé d'Affaires of the Uruguayan Legation here, had his chauffeur, Juan Carlos de Balbino, arrested at his car out last Saturday night without permission and smashing it badly. The charge is grand larceny.

SUSPENDS COURT INTERPRETER.

Tandlich Removed Pending Investigation Into Craft Charges Involving Nine Cops.

Michael Tandlich, the interpreter in Special Sessions whom John Horay, now in the Tombs awaiting sentence for grand larceny, accuses of offering him $50 not to "squeak" on policemen implicated in the suspension of Tandlich by order of Chief Justice Russell. Tandlich was closed with Assistant District Attorney Press for an hour. It was said that Tandlich had put in a general denial of the whole affair.

Judge Swann, before whom Horay was convicted, had a long talk with Horay and his wife, Sophie, in the afternoon. Later Judge Swann gave out a statement containing a number of additional statements which Horay and his wife made about Tandlich. The statements are along the same lines as those made the preceding day, that Tandlich had offered lush money to Horay's wife providing Horay kept his mouth closed while he was in the Tombs and that Tandlich helped policeman graft. Detective Leigh was assigned to take Mrs. Horay home.

District Attorney Whitman will try to bring Policeman Reuben R. Huntington of the Union Market station to trial next week. Judge Swann will probably hear the case. Huntington was indicted with Horay for fleeing a Russian immigrant. The six policemen who testified at the trial of Horay and who Judge Swann said did not tell the truth will be put on trial at Police Headquarters in a day or two. Commissioner Waldo decided yesterday morning after reading Horay's allegations that the seven men were put on trial and found guilty or not guilty the better for the department. It was also announced that Judge Swann would be summoned as a witness and it was intimated that he would be asked to substantiate his statement that the policemen had lied under oath.

The six men who came under Judge Swann's particular displeasure were Lieut. Robert F. Mills, Sergt. Merritt, Patrolmen Max Label, Charles A. Sauer, Paul J. Berne and James B. Haggerty. They testified that they had seen Huntington in the station house about the time Horay says he was dividing with the policeman in his home money stolen from Dahn Krongratnik, a Russian peasant with Huntington's assistance. Patrolman Slattery and Detective Burke testified for the prosecution at the trial, but they will be tried with the other men.

Huntington, who is charged with larceny and is out on $5,000 bail, has been tried at Police Headquarters, but no decision has been announced as yet.

FIRE IN STEAMSHIP AT PIER

Three Fireboats Fight Flames in the Tennyson's Cargo.

The freighter Tennyson of the Lamport & Holt Line was loading at Pier 8, foot of Pineapple street, Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon when Capt. Arthur Allen saw smoke coming out of hatch 2. The crew and a gang of longshoremen tried to put out the fire, which was in the coal bunkers, but it got beyond their control and an alarm was sent in. Three fireboats, the Boody, Mills and New Yorker, came.

The fire by this time had spread to other parts of the hold containing the ship's mixed cargo consigned to Brazilian ports. Several firemen of Engine Company 107 who penetrated far below the deck were overcome by smoke but were revived. After an hour's work the fire was put out. The cargo was valued at $200,000 and about $100,000 damage had been done, according to the Fire Department estimate, though the salvage corps thought the damage was greater.

The Tennyson was due to sail to-day for Bahia and Rio de Janeiro. She had booked fifty first class, twenty-five second class and 200 third class passengers.

BARON ROSEN GOES TO RUSSIA.

Lloyd Bryce Also on Magretania—W. G. Rockefeller Did Not Sail.

The Countess Mauretania sailed yesterday with the unusually large autumnal list of 400 cabin passengers, some of whom had been originally scheduled to take the crippled Olympic. Among them are Baron Rosen, the retiring Russian Ambassador, who said he was going to give up diplomacy and become a politician, by which he meant that he was to be a member of the Council of the Empire. Ridgeley Carter, American Minister to Rumania and Serbia, Lloyd Bryce, American Minister to the Hague, and Joseph Leiter, who is taking his mother to southern Europe, where he will leave her for the winter. The name of William G. Rockefeller was on the passenger list, but he did not sail. Lord Strathcona, High Commissioner for Canada in London, did sail and said he was too busy to be interviewed about the report that he was going to give up his job.
