

MILL STRIKE CHILDREN TO BE SEEN IN CONGRESS

Fifty Lawrence Operatives Will Go to Meet Washington Committee To-morrow.

FEDERAL INVESTIGATION ON

Departments of Justice and Labor Send Men to Mill Town—Cavalrymen Break Up Band of Women.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 28.—A party of fifty or more men, women and children...

About half of the party will be children more than 11 years of age who have worked in the mills and are on strike.

One of the Federal investigations, that concerning the alleged illegal action of the police in preventing a number of children from starting for Philadelphia last Saturday morning...

Danneberg's mission is to ascertain if the police action was in violation of the Interstate Commerce law...

Members of the strike committee which had charge of the shipping away of the children gave their evidence to-day.

Much comment arose to-day over the action of three cavalrymen, members of the Roxbury Horse Guards, Troop D, First Cavalry...

The people scattered, one group toward the Common, where they were soon joined by the others.

Then a small body of cavalrymen cantered up and rode into the station, taking it up effectively but injuring no one.

A sergeant of the Metropolitan police took her into custody on a charge of profanity and while waiting for the patrol wagon another woman who stood looking on and saying nothing, was seized and taken to the police station.

This was clearly indicated to-day by Attorney-General Wickersham when discussing the action of the Department of Justice in seeking to determine whether Federal laws have been or are being violated by the Lawrence authorities.

LOOKS FOR BEAUTY DOCTOR.

Coroner Investigating Patient's Death Wants Autopsy.

The police are looking for Mamie Royser, a negro, under whose treatment as a "beauty specialist" Mrs. Bertha Williams died suddenly on Tuesday night at the home of her sister, Miss Rand, at 847 Kelly street, the Bronx.

She was not to be found yesterday at 1248 Lenox avenue, the address given to the police by Miss Rand, who said her sister had been treated by the colored woman before, nor at another address which Miss Rand also furnished.

Coroner's Physician Curtin, who made a preliminary examination of the dead woman's body yesterday morning, said last night that the cause of death was a strong irritant poison, probably carbolic acid.

A downtown beautician, commenting yesterday on the death of Mrs. Williams under beauty treatment, said that she had known of patients fainting at times, and in that case, she said, the masseuse must immediately apply a restorative.

Miss Rand admitted last night that her sister was not well at the time she received the treatment.

GOT BONDS AT PISTOL POINT.

Atlanta Doctor Tells of Recovering Property From Unrecorded Brokers.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 28.—How Dr. N. G. Long of Atlanta, at the point of a pistol, forced Clarkston & Co., stock brokers of New York, to return to him thirty-nine bonds valued at $500 each, was revealed to-day by papers filed in a suit brought in the Atlanta Superior Court.

Forty bonds were deposited with Clarkston & Co., according to Dr. Long, and one of them he did not recover. The fortieth bond found its way to the Lowry National bank of Atlanta, and Dr. Long's suit is brought to recover this bond.

Dr. Long says he deposited the forty bonds with Clarkston & Co., to be sold for $200,000, the brokers to have 10 per cent. commission if a sale was made.

Clarkston & Co. failed to sell the bonds and Dr. Long says he demanded their return. The brokers demurred, said Dr. Long.

"After certain delays," said Long, "I went to the office of the company and demanded my bonds. I was in Clarkston's private office and made the demand of him. While I was talking Richard Hartley, who is supposed to be the 'company' of Clarkston & Co., came in and locked the door.

"I levelled the pistol at him and told him to unlock the door. He did. Then Clarkston started to open the drawer of his desk to get a revolver, I presume. I turned the pistol on him and told him to shut his desk and stand up. He did. I then told him to deliver my bonds to me, and after a while I got thirty-nine bonds.

"He wouldn't produce the other one and I left without it, as I would rather give up the one bond than kill the two men.

Dr. Long said that he had heard that a son of Henry Watterson had been thrown out of a window in the building where Clarkston's office was a short time before he made his visit and he was prepared for trouble.

The fortieth bond was sold to a young man who was in possession of the bond. Bank here, and Long wanted it. Clarkston & Co. allege that the bond was due them for expenses.

Harvey Watterson was killed on November 12, 1898, by a fall from the window of his own law office in the Trust Company of America Building. The directory for that year, as for this year, shows the firm of Clarkston & Co. and no firm with name resembling that was in the same building or anywhere near it in 1908.

ALEXANDER ANDREW KILLED. Montclair Girl Falls From Bicycle in Front of Trolley.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Feb. 28.—Audrey Andrews, 9 years old, only daughter of Mark Andrews, vice-president of the National Association of Organists and organist of St. Luke's Church, Montclair, was run down and killed this evening shortly after 5 o'clock by a trolley car on the Valley Road line of the Public Service Railway Company at Claremont, avenue, a short distance from her home, 265 Claremont avenue.

The girl was riding a bicycle on Valley Road. Directly ahead of her was her brother, Mark Andrews, Jr., 5 years old, on another bicycle. A Valley Road trolley car that was coming from Upper Montclair was behind the two children and as the car approached they were riding alongside the single track.

The motorman, Michael Hoatson of Montclair, sounded the bell. The little boy apparently became alarmed and jumped from his wheel. As he alighted Audrey ran into him. Her bicycle upset and she was overturned in front of the car. The car passed over the child and ran some distance before it was stopped.

According to the deed of gift governing the British international trophy the races must be held over a "suitable course in sheltered waters." This course "shall be not less than twenty-five nor more than thirty-five nautical miles and shall be arranged so as to avoid any angle in the course of less than 120 degrees and there shall be a distance of at least 100 yards between any two marks.

Some motor boat men are in favor of going further up the river and holding the races on the Tappan Zee. Up there it is thought there would be no driftwood trouble and a splendid course could be laid off, sheltered in all winds except the north. All these courses are to be carefully considered by the governors of the Motor Boat Club and the course selected will not be announced until the members of that board have made up their minds that they have a course which will be absolutely fair to all interested.

The French motor boat men have until May 1 to send in their challenge. It is understood that the boat building in France is intended for this race, as it is impossible to get it ready in time for the Monaco meeting.

CONSIDERING COURSE FOR MOTOR BOAT RACE Several Yacht Clubs Anxious to Take Charge of International Event.

DRIFTWOOD AN OBSTACLE Huntington Larchmont, the Lower Bay and Hudson River Among the Places Suggested.

There are several yacht clubs that would like to have the international motor boat races this year. An international race is always a drawing card and a motor boat race is very spectacular.

There have been two races at Huntington and the course there gave great satisfaction to the challengers as well as the challenged. The Dixie II. and Dixie IV were the winners. One race was held off Larchmont and there Dixie III. defeated Pioneer because the latter had her intake choked and caught fire.

Some motor boat men think the race should be in the vicinity of New York, where all who wished could witness it. The great trouble with a course near the city is that there is always so much driftwood on the Hudson river and the harbor that it is a very dangerous to run speed boats.
