

MAP SHOWING LINE OF HARRY THAW'S FLIGHT TO CANADA

made up his mind that the men he was carrying were bank robbers. "You don't look right to me," he told them, "and I don't want to drop you. There's been a lot of safe blowing around here and it won't do for a man of my reputation to be mixed up in any such business. I'm going to take you to the station. You get right off here and walk wherever you want to."

Thaw, standing in the road with woods all around him, pleaded guilty to the crime. He did not tell him who he was, but he swore he was no bank robber. He showed a roll of bills and offered to share with the driver if he would take the party into Canada. He said that he would do any such thing. He whipped up his horse and disappeared down the road.

At the village of Herford they found another man, who pleaded guilty and was wanted so distasteful. For $9 he agreed to carry them across the line to the little village of St. Helensville. There at a country hotel they spent last night.

Sheriff Heaton, Goes to Phone. Deputy Sheriff Kelsey, unable to capture them, called the sheriff of the Dominion, using the telephone. Thaw was asleep when Canadian officials came pounding at the hotel to tell the proprietor that one of his unexpected guests was Harry K. Thaw.

The hotel was watched all night and early this morning Thaw was arrested. He made little objection, insisting that he would be spending the night in a hotel. He was taken in an automobile to Coaticook and lodged in the lockup.

This lockup is a rather flimsy little building, and the guard that was out around it this morning was enough for seven murderers. Immediately Thaw's companions engaged as his lawyer Dr. W. L. Shurtiff, C.

At 1:30 Thaw was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Dupuis on a complaint that he was a fugitive from justice. The Justice ordered that he be taken to Sherbrooke.

Dr. Shurtiff announced that in the morning he would apply to Judge Globensky for the liberation of his client on a writ of habeas corpus. He said that the offense with which Thaw was charged was escape from an asylum on the American side of the line—was not extraditable.

After leaving the Justice's office Thaw was examined by a doctor because he looked flushed and feverish. The doctor found that Thaw was very much excited, but otherwise seemed to be all right. He referred to the doctor to take a thumb print. He reported to the physician his declaration that he was safe in Canada and could not be extradited.

Then Thaw was brought to Sherbrooke. He arrived here at 3:15 this afternoon. After ordering supper sent to the jail from a hotel Thaw went out to a clothing store.

FORESEE TROUBLE IN EXTRADITING THAW

State Authorities Think Canada Will Send Fugitive to New Hampshire. RAISES NEW QUESTION Granite State May Refuse to Take Runaway or, If It Does, Let Him Stay.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Complications have developed in the effort to extradite Harry K. Thaw from Canada, which may send him from being brought back to this State. Thaw crossed the Canadian border from New Hampshire. This fact may block the plan to send him back to Massachusetts.

The Attorney-General's office commenced to cooperate to-day with District Attorney Conger of Dutchess county in an effort to bring Thaw back to this State. Deputy Attorney-General Franklin A. Kennedy, who represented the State in several actions commenced by Thaw's counsel to gain his freedom, probably will be sent to Canada by Attorney-General Carmody to try to influence the Canadian authorities to send Thaw back.

The Attorney-General's office was notified to-day that the Canadian authorities had discovered a law which would permit the deportation of a person who escapes from a foreign asylum or prison within five years of the date of his escape. If Thaw had crossed the New York-Canadian border there would be no question now of his return to this State, but as matters stand Thaw must be deported into New Hampshire.

Mr. Conger has read the section of the Canadian law which provides for the deportation of any person who has been confined in an insane asylum for more than a year. He believes that the Canadian authorities will read the law as he does, and that Thaw will soon be delivered into the hands of some county, in New York, Vermont, or New Hampshire.

Mr. Conger has had dealings with the Canadian before, and he is inclined to believe that if Canada doesn't want Thaw, he will be able to get him back in quick time, regardless of arguments of lawyers.

Mr. Conger's assistants will send for the minutes in the Anhalt case to see if there is any precedent for the extradition of a fugitive from Canada. If there is any evidence of this, and if it appears that there will be trouble in having Thaw returned, a warrant will be obtained charging him with bribery. This is a felony and is extraditable.

If there is no evidence of bribery in the Anhalt case Mr. Mack will begin an investigation in the Anhalt case to learn whether Thaw has ever bribed an attendant for any purpose in his five years stay at Matteawan.

CONGRER OFF TO FIGHT FOR RETURN OF THAW

Thinks Canadian Authorities Will Deport Him to United States. DEPEND ON DOMINION LAW If That Fails Warrant Will Be Issued Charging Thaw With Bribery.

MATTEAWAN, Aug. 19.—District Attorney Edward A. Conger, accompanied by Sheriff Fred Hornbeck and former District Attorney John E. Mack, left Foughkeepie at 9:41 to-night to go to Ottawa, the seat of the Dominion Government. They are not taking any warrants with them, but are confident that the return of Thaw to the United States, and possibly to New York State, can be accomplished through the Canadian Department of Immigration.

Dr. Kieb, superintendent of the Matteawan asylum, received a telegram at 9 o'clock to-night from Charles N. Daniels, United States Consul Agent at Montreal, saying that the attorney who has been retained by Thaw to fight his extradition to the Federal authorities here says it would be impossible to extradite Thaw on a conspiracy charge on account of his mental condition.

Any attempt on the part of Harry Thaw to take refuge in Canada would be fatal to his chances of liberty, according to the Federal authorities here. They say that the Canadian immigration laws are so strict that Thaw must sooner or later be deported to return to New York as an undesirable or as an insane alien.

Acting United States District Attorney Addison S. Pratt said yesterday that in his opinion the only hope that the Matteawan officials have of securing Thaw's release in this country is by the Federal prosecutor explaining that Thaw could not be extradited from any State or foreign country, and that attempts to arrest him on a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice must necessarily prove futile since Thaw is legally insane.

Thaw's lawyers, Mr. Pratt thought, might raise the point of the insanity of Thaw's detention in Matteawan and by their persistence delay their client's deportation perhaps as long as a year or more. He said that he was certain that the Canadian immigration authorities would eventually be swayed by Thaw's record and his confinement in the asylum for insane criminals.

Mr. Conger has had dealings with the Canadian before, and he is inclined to believe that if Canada doesn't want Thaw, he will be able to get him back in quick time, regardless of arguments of lawyers.

Mr. Conger's assistants will send for the minutes in the Anhalt case to see if there is any precedent for the extradition of a fugitive from Canada. If there is any evidence of this, and if it appears that there will be trouble in having Thaw returned, a warrant will be obtained charging him with bribery. This is a felony and is extraditable.

THAW'S MOTHER LEAVES CITY.

Seems Radiantly Happy as She Starts for Country Home. Mrs. Mary C. Thaw left yesterday morning for her home at Cresson, Pa. Just as she was about to board a train at the Pennsylvania terminal she was met by William H. Moore, a private detective, who has served the Thaw family for the past several years.

While waiting in the terminal a process server handed Mrs. Thaw a summons issued by United States Commissioner Shields for her to appear within twenty days before Judge Holt in an action brought by John B. Gleason for $23,000 for legal services. This is the second time Gleason has brought suit against Mrs. Thaw. The first action was dismissed. Gleason was counsel for Thaw during his first trial for murder.

Mr. Conger has had dealings with the Canadian before, and he is inclined to believe that if Canada doesn't want Thaw, he will be able to get him back in quick time, regardless of arguments of lawyers.

Mr. Conger has had dealings with the Canadian before, and he is inclined to believe that if Canada doesn't want Thaw, he will be able to get him back in quick time, regardless of arguments of lawyers.

Mr. Conger has had dealings with the Canadian before, and he is inclined to believe that if Canada doesn't want Thaw, he will be able to get him back in quick time, regardless of arguments of lawyers.

Mr. Conger has had dealings with the Canadian before, and he is inclined to believe that if Canada doesn't want Thaw, he will be able to get him back in quick time, regardless of arguments of lawyers.

Mr. Conger has had dealings with the Canadian before, and he is inclined to believe that if Canada doesn't want Thaw, he will be able to get him back in quick time, regardless of arguments of lawyers.

Mr. Conger has had dealings with the Canadian before, and he is inclined to believe that if Canada doesn't want Thaw, he will be able to get him back in quick time, regardless of arguments of lawyers.

THAW AUTO FOUND, BUT NOT PLOTTERS

Rumor Conspirators Got $20,000 for Aiding Escape at Matteawan. MAN WHO PAID SOUGHT Detectives Expect to Learn His Name When Leader of Automobile Band Is Captured.

The six cylinder touring car which bore Harry Thaw away from Matteawan was found and identified yesterday, but none of the five conspirators who used it in helping Thaw to escape has been captured. The car was abandoned at Rochester, N. H., when Thaw fled into Canada.

It was reported in Longacre Square last evening that two of the five men had returned to New York. Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty instructed the inspectors of the old and new Terdeloin districts to have their men search all the garages and places where chauffeurs gather. Bureau detectives were out in automobiles making the same search.

By telephone yesterday Deputy Commissioner Dougherty learned from John Collins, owner of several public automobiles running from Times Square, that on Friday morning he was in his garage at 125 West 42nd street, when he saw a man who he recognized as Richard J. Butler, and that he sent Roger Thompson with it as chauffeur. Butler and Thompson are two of the five men for whom warrants are out on the charge that they carried out the plot to help Thaw escape from the asylum and into another State.

Collins, a heavy, reticent man who worked up from back driving to his present estate as owner of a flock of up to date automobiles, says that Butler told him on Thursday night that he wanted the black Packard on Friday to take his family on an outing in the country. He said he would be back on Saturday night or Sunday morning. The car was left in his garage on Friday, including the chauffeur's services.

On Friday morning, Collins said to Commissioner Dougherty, "Butler and Thompson rode away in the car and I haven't seen them since. On Sunday night some one who said he was Thompson called me up and said the car was all right. That's the last I've heard."

Collins was standing in front of Downing's cafe, Seventh avenue and Forty-third street, when a New York reporter with him yesterday. He insisted that when he let Butler have the car he didn't know what it was to be used for.

Denies Knowledge of Plot. "That Packard," he said, "was the 1913 model and cost me $3,000. I'm worried about it. I don't know anything about Harry Thaw and don't want to. All I know is that the car was left in my garage on Friday morning."

THAW QUIT AUTO AT FARM

Took Electric Car Near Rochester, N. H.—Gaiolene Garry. Rochester, N. H., Aug. 19.—Harry K. Thaw, who escaped from Matteawan, was seen Monday afternoon at a farm near Adams, N. H., where he was staying. He was seen in a car which he had driven from Rochester, N. H., to Adams, N. H., where he was staying. He was seen in a car which he had driven from Rochester, N. H., to Adams, N. H., where he was staying.

Two men in an automobile, built like a racer, drove up to the John J. Rankins farm, near Adams, N. H., on Monday afternoon. The car was driven by a man who was seen in a car which he had driven from Rochester, N. H., to Adams, N. H., where he was staying.

Before leaving they stated that they had a car which they would like to sell. They would call for it. When she came to allow them to leave the car they asked her $25 and promised that more would be paid when the machine was called for.

Miss Rankins, however, noticed that the four did all of the talking. The man seemed rather nervous and did not appear to like the surroundings. His attention was attracted by the electric car tracks about half a mile away.

These things he noted and the electric car tracks attracted his attention. He noticed that the car was a 1913 model and was over five feet and had usually thick lips. He wore smoked glasses.

The men inquired the road to White Mountains, the chauffeur admitting that he knew nothing about the section. Before leaving they stated that they had a car which they would like to sell. They would call for it. When she came to allow them to leave the car they asked her $25 and promised that more would be paid when the machine was called for.

Miss Rankins, however, noticed that the four did all of the talking. The man seemed rather nervous and did not appear to like the surroundings. His attention was attracted by the electric car tracks about half a mile away.

These things he noted and the electric car tracks attracted his attention. He noticed that the car was a 1913 model and was over five feet and had usually thick lips. He wore smoked glasses.

RICH MAN STRANGELY SLAIN

Frank Park of Indianapolis Victim of Mysterious Murder. Indianapolis, Aug. 19.—Frank Park, wealthy real estate man of this city, was murdered in mysterious circumstances on Monday night. The victim was found in his home, and the murder was a shocking event in the city.

There was no gasoline in the tank and the spark plug was out. In the automobile were two auto coats and several pairs of shoes. It appeared as if the car had been purchased near Worcester, Mass., where the wheels showed considerable mud.

Butler has a flat at 36 West Twenty-seventh street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, where he has lived for several years. He is a member of the Longshoremen's union. But the crosses of Long Acre Square said that an Assemblyman Butler and Collins were a time ago friends and that Butler was often seen at the club where Collins had his office.

None of the five men wanted for conspiracy to murder Harry Thaw, Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty said yesterday, returned to his home in this city yesterday.

Butler has a flat at 36 West Twenty-seventh street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, where he has lived for several years. He is a member of the Longshoremen's union. But the crosses of Long Acre Square said that an Assemblyman Butler and Collins were a time ago friends and that Butler was often seen at the club where Collins had his office.

None of the five men wanted for conspiracy to murder Harry Thaw, Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty said yesterday, returned to his home in this city yesterday.

Butler has a flat at 36 West Twenty-seventh street, between Eighth and Ninth avenues, where he has lived for several years. He is a member of the Longshoremen's union. But the crosses of Long Acre Square said that an Assemblyman Butler and Collins were a time ago friends and that Butler was often seen at the club where Collins had his office.

None of the five men wanted for conspiracy to murder Harry Thaw, Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty said yesterday, returned to his home in this city yesterday.

EMPTY TONIC BOTTLES FOUND IN THAW'S AUTO

Raised Question Whether Fugitive Had Yielded to Thirst for Drink. BOSTON, Aug. 19.—News despatches received here to-night from Sherbrooke, Quebec, indicate that for a certainty Harry K. Thaw will be extradited into the Dominion of Canada by the Judge who will sit on his case to-morrow.

The despatch further indicates that once refused the right to enter the country Thaw will be turned back into the United States, but not into New York State. He will be sent back to New Hampshire, the State from which he entered.

No word can be had from Thaw to-night. He sits in the jail at Sherbrooke much disheveled, but at the same time quiet. His attorney in Canada told him he is silent, and despite all efforts to secure an interview he remains mum.

Should Thaw be turned back into New Hampshire a pretty legal fight will ensue. It is impossible to form an opinion as to whether or not the attitude of the New Hampshire authorities will take.

DEPORTATION IS EXPECTED

Immigration Officials Think Canada Will Send Thaw Back. WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—According to experts in the bureau of immigration here, it is practically certain that Harry Thaw if he has been arrested in Canada will be returned to the United States. They point out that the Canadian immigration law is so specific on this point as to leave nothing open for controversy.

Section 3 of the Canadian immigration law provides that no immigrant, passenger or other person, unless he is a Canadian citizen or has Canadian domicile, shall be permitted to land in Canada or in case of having landed in or entered Canada, shall be permitted to remain therein, who belongs to any of the following classes hereinafter called "prohibited classes": "Idiots, imbeciles, feeble minded persons, epileptics, insane persons and persons who have been insane within five years previous."

BLAMES COURTS FOR ESCAPE.

Riley Says They Gave Thaw Special Privileges. MATTEAWAN, Aug. 19.—John B. Riley, State Superintendent of Prisons, under whom Harry Thaw was confined in the Criminal Institute, arrived at the hospital to-day an hour after the capture of Thaw became known. Judge Riley spent the day consulting with District Attorney Conger, Sheriff Hornbeck and Dr. Raymond Kieb, superintendent of the hospital. He said to-night:

"The courts required that Harry K. Thaw be shown special privileges. His escape was undoubtedly due to this undue interference with the internal management of the institution. Had he been subjected to the regulations it would have been impossible for him to have completed the arrangement by which automobiles were to be in waiting at the time agreed upon."

While his escape would have been impossible had it not been for the gross negligence or worse of an employee. "Judge Tompkins on April 5 granted an order directing the Superintendent of Prisons and the superintendent of the hospital to permit four different persons to confer privately with Thaw one day in each week. An appeal was taken, but on May 27 the appeal was granted an order directing the superintendent to obey the order of Judge Tompkins."

JERSEY A HAVEN FOR THAW.

Law Passed Last Winter Said to Pit His Case Exactly. TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 19.—Lawyers here said to-day that when Dr. Bryan E. Eynak, who testified in behalf of Harry K. Thaw, made the statement last night that he had based his case on the fact that Thaw would be safe from extradition and undoubtedly would be proved sane, he knew the law of this State thoroughly.

The insanity law, which was revised by the State Legislature last winter, has a provision that if a person is being tested as to his sanity it must be shown clearly whether the delusions that the person has are based on fact or foundation. It is also provided that if a person is being tested as to his sanity it must be shown clearly whether the delusions that the person has are based on fact or foundation.

In Thaw's case it will be remembered, the contention was that Thaw had delusions as to conspiracy, but his lawyers contended that those beliefs were founded on fact or information conveyed to Thaw.

LAMP EXPLODES; TOWN BURNS.

Business Section and Eight Homes Destroyed in North Anson, Me. NORTH ANSON, Me., Aug. 19.—The business section of this village was destroyed by fire to-day through lack of protection. Eight dwellings also were burned. The loss was variously estimated at from $125,000 to $150,000, on which there was an insurance of less than 50 per cent.

The business section consisted of about twenty-five buildings, mostly frame structures. The fire started at 3:30 A. M., when a lamp exploded in the kitchen of the Hotel Somerset, formerly known as the Brown and Hilton Hotel. It was beyond control when help arrived from Waterville and Madison.

North Anson is on the Kennebec and Somerset rivers, and has a population of 800. Nehrbauer Nominated for Assembly. Nicholas Nehrbauer was nominated for Assemblyman at a meeting last night of the Democratic Club in North Anson. He was nominated for the Assembly district of the Sixty-sixth Aldermanic district. He is now an Assemblyman, voted for Sulist when the impeachment motion was presented in Albany.

Advertisement for 'The Greys of the Canadian Rockies' by Gene Stratton-Porter. The text describes the book as a true blue story and mentions that it is available in 150,000 copies. The publisher is Doubleday, Page & Co., Garden City, N. Y.

Advertisement for 'The Greys of the Canadian Rockies' by Gene Stratton-Porter. The text describes the book as a true blue story and mentions that it is available in 150,000 copies. The publisher is Doubleday, Page & Co., Garden City, N. Y.