

FLIGHT FROM MEXICO BEGUN

Americans Pour Into Vera Cruz on Way to Safety.

HINT AT INTERVENTION

Word Is Used for First Time in Washington Order to U. S. Consuls.

THE DEADLOCK CONTINUES

President Wilson Will Delay Action Until Dr. Hale Submits Report.

Hundreds of Americans, heeding President Wilson's advice to leave Mexico, have arrived at Vera Cruz from the capital and other points. Most of them are seeking passage to the United States.

The influx of Americans into Vera Cruz has inspired the people of that city that war is near and anti-American sentiment is growing, the populace unanimously applauding Gen. Huerta's stand against the Washington proposals.

For the first time since the Washington Government took a hand in the Mexican situation, the possibility of armed intervention was openly referred to in the instructions sent by the State Department to the United States Consuls in the republic south of the Rio Grande.

John Lind, President Wilson's special envoy, is still at Vera Cruz, but the Washington Government has learned that his negotiations with Huerta have been resumed.

Secretary of State Bryan said yesterday that no programme of definite action would be adopted until W. Bayard Hale, personal representative of President Wilson, who is now on his way to Washington, submits his report of conditions in Mexico, which he has observed at first hand.

LIND WAITS AT VERA CRUZ.

Asks for Advice From Mexico City Before Returning There.

Mexico City, Aug. 26.—The American Embassy has received a telegram from Envoy Lind saying: "I am comfortably lodged in Vera Cruz. Keep me informed. Will return if there is any assistance to our neighbors here." By neighbors he refers to the Mexicans.

The Embassy says: "We think Lind will not return for the present." High officials declare that the Government's attitude is unchanged. Nobody sees any possibility of his backing down.

All the newspapers are dignified in tone and do not attack Americans and hardly indulge in criticism of the American Government. All counsel prudence and dignity and urge the people to wait for developments.

All the American clergymen, presided over by the dean of their corps, Dr. Butler, a Methodist, who has resided more than twenty years in Mexico met today and discussed the situation. They decided not to leave the country. All the missions and schools will remain open.

A committee of Americans, headed by the Episcopal minister, Dr. William Neville, visited Gen. C. H. M. Agramonte. The chairman of the committee recommended that the Americans draw up a protest against the non-recognition of this Government by the United States and against Wilson's order to leave.

Gen. Agramonte counselled doing nothing for the present, but it is very probable that a meeting will be held later. Dr. Butler says: "We are in no danger here. We believe President Wilson was misinformed."

PREDICTS DROP IN MEAT PRICES.

Representative Kinkead Says New Schedule Will Cut Living Cost.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—A prediction that the Democratic tariff schedule placing meat on the free list will reduce the cost of living so far as that commodity is concerned was made in the House yesterday by Representative Kinkead of New Jersey. Mr. Kinkead filed evidence in support of his contention in the form of a letter from George C. Engel, a New York commission merchant.

EARNED 5 CENTS; LOST $10,000.

Odd Kink of Railroad Law Deprives Injured Boy of Damages.

William W. Bullock, Jr., a twelve-year-old boy of Chappaqua, N. Y., loses a verdict for $10,000 against the New York Central for serious injuries by a decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court setting aside the verdict of a jury and dismissing the boy's complaint.

CONVICTED MEN BARRED FROM NAVY BY DANIELS

Secretary Ends Plan of Allowing Prisoners to Escape Sentence by Enlisting.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels has written a letter to the Governor of Maryland severely criticizing the action of the State's Attorney that of Commonwealth for giving a man accused of theft the alternative of taking his punishment in the courts or enlisting in the United States navy.

This step by the Secretary is in keeping with his policy to make conditions more attractive and pleasant for the men of the navy. Secretary Daniels's letter to the Governor of Maryland is as follows:

"NAVY DEPARTMENT. "WASHINGTON, Aug. 28, 1913. "MY DEAR GOVERNOR: It has recently been brought to the attention of the Department that through the misrepresentations of one of the Maryland State officers a young man who was charged with theft has been enlisted in the navy. It appears that he was arrested April 18, 1913, for stealing and had a hearing before the State's Attorney. At the hearing he informed the authorities that he had contemplated enlisting in the navy and was therefore advised by the State's Attorney that the preference of enlisting in the navy or taking his punishment by committing a crime was not due him from the State's Attorney. He was accompanied to the navy recruiting station, Baltimore, Md., by a deputy sheriff."

HOT! WEATHER MAN SAYS NO.

Blames Humidity for Suffering—Electrical Storm at Night.

The popular impression that yesterday was a hot day was officially contradicted by the weather men, who breathe the air that real mundane folks cannot breathe, being of limited altitude, very much less than that of the Whitehall tower, 414 feet above ground.

After the prophets had gone home, that is about 11:30 P. M., there was an electrical bombardment and coolness followed. The national prophets predict fair skies to-day with brisk to moderate southwest winds. They say nothing of the temperature, but the local seers were inclined to believe that it might be not so warm to-day.

George Wallace, 63 years old, who is employed as a clerk at 229 Broadway, was overcome by the heat yesterday while walking in Sixth avenue at Twenty-third street. He was taken to New York Hospital. His condition is said to be serious.

LAMAR ASKS CHANCE TO EXPOSE BIG LOBBY

Wants to Tell Congress How Railroads Tried to Beat Anti-Trust Law.

MAKES OFFER TO OVERMAN

He Hasn't Been Arrested Yet, Although Indicted 43 Days Ago.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—David Lamar, the Wolf of Wall Street, who was indicted in New York for impersonating Congressmen with intent to defraud J. P. Moran & Co. and other Wall Street firms, but who never has been arrested, has stepped once more into the limelight in Washington by addressing a letter to Senator Lee Overman of North Carolina, chairman of the lobby investigating committee.

Mr. Lamar insists that he has an array of facts regarding the present activities of a railroad lobby in Washington. He charges that this is the continuance of a similar railway lobby which in 1909 was exceedingly active in an effort to secure the adoption and passage by the Senate of certain amendments to the commerce court railroad bill.

Evidently Mr. Lamar got his dates mixed, as the commerce court railroad bill did not come before the Senate until after Mr. Lamar's letter to Senator Overman is as follows:

"DEAR SIR: I am prepared to furnish the investigating committee of which you are chairman, with evidence proving the existence of a lobby supported by the leading railroad corporations of the country for the purpose of controlling the enactment of legislation in the Senate.

"My testimony will show that in 1909 this lobby was very active in an effort to secure the adoption and passage in the Senate of the commerce court railroad bill in a form which would repeal the Sherman anti-trust act and, furthermore, give to these railroad corporations the lawful right to consolidate or merge two or more competing lines of railroads; and that this lobby thus supported continues in existence in Washington up to the present time, engaged in an organized effort to accomplish the very same purpose which would have been effected had the lobby been successful in procuring in 1909 the enactment of the legislation I have referred to, viz: Nullification of the Sherman anti-trust act and the right to exercise a single control of competing railroad companies.

"As my testimony would make necessary the immediate issuance of process to obtain the attendance as witnesses of a number of other persons it is most desirable in order to effect the service of such process for the committee to hear me at an early date.

"I am staying for the present at the Continental Hotel in Washington, and thanking you in advance for the courtesy of a reply. I remain, 'DAVID LAMAR.'"

When seen by THE SUN correspondent to-night Senator Overman said: "I have not yet received David Lamar's letter, but as he apparently has furnished the press with copies of it I do not believe I am transgressing the courtesies in saying that if Mr. Lamar thinks he has some facts tending to prove the existence of a 'strong railway lobby' in Washington the committee will be very glad indeed to hear from him. Mr. Lamar suggests that he be heard at an early date and I see no reason why he should not be given the opportunity at least to outline what he hopes to produce."

Senator Overman accepted with a laugh the suggestion that Mr. Lamar's previous exposure before the Senate lobby investigating committee had predisposed the committee in favor of a careful review of his allegations. But Senator Overman feels that if Lamar is able to suggest names of individuals representing the railway companies as legislative agents in Washington and to suggest members of the House and Senate who have been approached on behalf of the railway companies the present committee, empowered so broadly by the original Committee resolution, would do well to look into the matter.

Lamar has been in Washington almost continuously since his appearance before the Senate lobby committee late in June. He has made the Continental Hotel his headquarters and has had daily conferences with his two associates, Henry B. Martin, secretary of the so-called Anti-Trust League, and Herman Schultze, counsel for that organization.

The rumor has been prevalent in Washington that Lamar's continued stay in this city has been based upon his fear of prosecution under the New York indictment.

Lamar's latest move is regarded here as an obvious attempt to make things unpleasant for some of the men whom he holds responsible for the smirching of his name and that of Edward Lauterbach before the lobby committee. It is believed here that Lamar intends to use his appearance before the lobby committee as a means of further attack on the Union Pacific officials and other prominent railway men.

Within the last few days there has been a renewal in Congress of the agitation for a Congressional inquiry into the dissolution of the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific merger. Representative Kindel of Colorado has introduced a resolution for the selection of a committee to investigate and questioning the choice of Louis Krauthoff, an attorney of New York city, as commissioner of the Circuit Court to see that the letter and spirit of the anti-trust law were adhered to by the railroad company in its dissolution.

BRYAN LECTURES IN RAIN.

Drives in Automobile Through Storm to Reach Engagement.

KENNETT SQUARE, Pa., Aug. 29.—Driving through a pelting rain by automobile at a speed that sometimes reached fifty miles an hour, Secretary of State Bryan reached, this little town to-night from Doylestown, Pa., where he lectured this afternoon.

A heavy rain poured down upon the Chautauqua tent and water trickled under the feet of the audience when Mr. Bryan delivered his address. "The Making of a Man," tonight.

The tent was pitched in a hollow and that made matters worse. By the time Bryan finished speaking there were three inches of water over some parts of the ground. T. Ellwood Marshall of Kennett Square presided at the meeting. Mr. Bryan returned to Washington to-night.

RELIGIOUS SHAVES ALLOWED.

Court Commends Barber Who Shaved Man So He Could Go to Church.

PATERSON, N. J., Aug. 29.—It is not a crime to keep a barber shop open on Sunday providing it is for the purpose of shaving men wishing to go to church. That was the ruling of Acting Recorder St. Lawrence, made in the police court to-day when he dismissed the complaint against James Furto, who runs a shop in the West Paterson section.

"Cleanliness is next to godliness," quoted the court, "as we know. If the barber could help this man go to church by shaving him and permitting him to go to church he did a good deed, and I am not the one to say him nay."

HELD UP AND ROBBED ON RIVERSIDE DRIVE

Two Men With Revolver Stop Inventor at 79th Street and Get $153.

Julius G. Fischer, an inventor employed by the Singer Sewing Machine Company living at 230 Third street, Elizabeth, N. J., was held up last night at Riverside N. Y., and Seventy-ninth street by two men who robbed him of $153 and a $100 watch and chain.

Fischer came to town intending to visit his sister at 161 East Seventy-seventh street before starting for the Patent Office in Washington this morning with models for four inventions. He lost his bearings after leaving the Seventy-ninth street station of the subway and walked west toward the river.

Meeting two men, one of whom wore a cap not unlike that of a conductor or a motorman, the inventor inquired the way to his sister's home. Instantly a revolver was pointed at him and he was backed into the shadow of a concrete mixer. He held up his hands according to orders and the pair emptied his pockets in a few seconds.

The robbers generously surrendered 10 cents of the inventor's money to pay for carfare, they said. Then they struck him over the head with a cane and directed him to go due east without turning around or something worse would happen.

Fischer stumbled over to Broadway, and later found his way to the West Sixty-eighth street station, where he told his story.

The inventor said the robbers didn't take the trouble to look into his satchel, which contained models of a shoe stretcher, a holder for a tie, a mustache protector to be used by men getting shaved and a device for easing bothersome corns. He said they will be worth $5,000 when he gets them patented.

MRS. M. B. BEEBE GETS DIVORCE.

Wife of New York Bird Curator Wins Decree in Reno.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 29.—Judge Harwood to-day granted a decree of divorce to Mrs. Mary Blair Beebe, who sued Charles William Beebe, curator of ornithology at the New York Zoological Gardens, on the grounds of cruelty.

Mrs. Beebe testified that in return for her six years of clerical work for her husband in his researches she had ruined her eyesight and received nothing. Blair made a formal denial of the charges. He was represented at the trial, but made no contest. Mrs. Blair appeared in court wearing clouded glasses.

The couple were married on August 6, 1902. They separated in January last. They have no children. Mrs. Blair did not ask for alimony and she will not take her maiden name.

Charles William Beebe has been curator of birds at The Bronx Zoo since 1889. His wife was formerly Mary Blair Rice of Clarkton, Va. He is the author, with Mrs. Beebe, of "Two Bird Lovers in Mexico" (1905), "The Bird" (1906) and the "Long of the Sun." He has written many scientific papers and monographs relating to birds.

On his return in 1911 from a bird hunting expedition in Asia Mr. Beebe said he could not have accomplished what he did had it not been for Mrs. Beebe.

THAW TO BE CALLED INTO COURT TO-DAY

New Move May Result in Quick Deportation of Fugitive.

WOMAN SHIELDS RUNAWAY

Wife of Canadian Justice Prevents His Obeying Order to Act.

SHERBROOKE, Que., Aug. 29.—A writ of habeas corpus will be sued out before Judge Hutchinson of Superior Court here by Samuel W. Jacobs, attorney for New York State officers, calling for the production of Harry Thaw to-morrow morning in the Superior Court here.

This means that Thaw will be produced in court here to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. Jacobs will plead that Thaw be tried immediately because he is held on a faulty commitment.

The immigration authorities are returning to Sherbrooke to be on hand in the event that Thaw is ordered out of Sherbrooke Jail. They will seize him immediately, according to the best information now at hand, and take him into their custody. Should this occur Thaw may be declared an undesirable on Monday or even to-morrow and deported early in the week.

Up to the present time, strange as it may seem, Thaw has really been in the hands of a little French-Canadian woman of Coaticook, five miles from here.

Her husband is Alexis Dupuis, he who signed the faulty commitment on which Thaw is being held in Sherbrooke Jail. Alexis, a retired green grocer, is now a Justice of the Peace. Having signed the commitment he has the power, according to Canada's laws, to summon the prisoner before him, determine that the papers are, as all the world knows, incorrect, and thereupon order the prisoner released whether the prisoner likes it or not.

All of this Justice Dupuis is willing to do, wants to do, in fact, but Madame will have none of it. She stamped her foot as she spoke.

So one would have questioned her authority for a moment and least of all Alexis. Mme. Dupuis spoke vehemently and at length. In the end Alexis, true to his French extraction, threw out his hands and shrugged his shoulders.

Helpless, Says Justice of Peace.

"You see," said he, "I am helpless. Madame is determined and when Madame is determined what can one do?" It sounds like a page from "The Man Who Understood Women." But it was far more realistic than that. Magistrate Dupuis. He twirled his black and gray mustache, he walked up and down the room.

"I am overwhelmed with mortification because the commitment is a commitment when it should be a demand. I made the error and I should like to right it, but what can I do?" There are only two persons in all Canada, so it is said here, who can come to the front now and stop the slow grind of legal machinery that Thaw's lawyers have started for him.

They are this little Magistrate Dupuis and the Premier and Attorney-General of Quebec, Sir Lomer Gouin. The Attorney-General's office was appealed to by William Travers Jerome yesterday. The appeal according to Jerome's own statement, met with no success.

Representatives of the Immigration Department went to Magistrate Dupuis Wednesday. They explained the situation to him and begged him to exert his peculiar powers in the predicament. Dupuis consulted his wife.

Magistrate Was Threatened.

When he explained her attitude the Immigration authorities threatened him. They even said they would make a charge against him and secure a warrant for his arrest if he did not comply. Again there was a conference of the Dupuis family and again the Justice announced that he was helpless.

Since then attorneys representing New York State have gone to Dupuis and Appleton for his help. He told them the same story that he had told his first visitors; namely, that he was helpless.

Mme. Dupuis delivered herself of quite a long oration this afternoon when newspaper men called. Part of the speech was directed at Dupuis himself, part of it was directed at the Immigration Department.

"You are going to do nothing that will hurt Harry Thaw," she said. "He is a young man to whom every woman in America owes a debt of gratitude. He rid the world of a monster whose name was White, but whose heart was black. Thaw is a splendid young man, and if the men won't, the women of Canada will see to it that he is not delivered to the wolves who are pursuing him."

KEENE OFFERED SURGEON $5,000.

Died After Operation—Estate Settles Bill for $4,000.

A petition before Surrogate Fowler yesterday showed that the late Dr. James H. Tuttle, who operated on James H. Keene on January 3 last, the day Mr. Keene died, had an oral understanding with Mr. Keene that he was to receive $5,000 for the operation.

Dr. Tuttle died not long after Mr. Keene and his executors sent a bill for $5,200 to Solomon Hanford, executor under Mr. Keene's will, claiming the extra $200 as a consultation fee. Mr. Hanford refused to pay, saying the bill was excessive.

The petition before Surrogate Fowler yesterday was by the Tuttle executors for permission to settle the claim for $4,000. The court permitted the settlement.

CHICAGO NAILS ON TANGO LID.

Cafe Revellers Dance Until New Ordinance Goes Into Effect.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—The lid closed at midnight to-night on the tango, turkey, bunny and bear dances, which have figured in the revelry in certain restaurants and cafes.

The new ordinance forbidding this kind of entertainment became operative then. The frolic prevailed up to the last moment.

ABRUZZI A PRIZE "TANGOIST."

Duke Who Wined Miss Elkins Qualifies as Dancer.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. ROME, Aug. 29.—The Duke of the Abruzzi, who was formerly engaged to Miss Katherine Elkins, won the prize at an aristocratic dance in Venice last night for his perfect and graceful tango in competition with Miss Giulia Lelia.

MISSIONARY MURDERED IN CHILE

The Rev. Carl Hansen Reported Killed at Workman's Hand.

The cable yesterday brought to the American Bible Society and the Methodist Foreign Mission Board news of the murder of the Rev. Carl Hansen of Santiago, Chile. No details as to the cause were given, but word is anxiously awaited.

Hansen was for a year a Methodist missionary and local preacher under the board in this city, and in 1905 was appointed a co-worker for the Bible Society and given charge of its work in Chile.

Hansen's success, so the society said yesterday, was in selling Bibles to workmen in the nitrate fields of Iquique. All of the details contained in the cable were the effect that Hansen was killed by a workman.

TOKIO SWEEP BY TYPHOON.

Scores Killed in City Where 15,000 Houses Are Submerged.

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. TOKYO, Aug. 29.—A typhoon is prevailing in this district and there are immense floods. Scores of people have been killed and hundreds of houses destroyed. Fifteen thousand houses are submerged in Tokio alone.

HUNT THAW PLOTTER IN AUTOS.

Police Search For Rockaway for Dick Butler; Still Elusive.

A tip went through the Tenderloin last night that Dick Butler, who has been frequenting his old haunts since Harry Thaw took French leave of Mattewau, was in Far Rockaway and that he had made up his mind to surrender.

Whatever the friends of the missing chauffeur may have thought the police had other ideas. So last night five automobiles filled with detectives were scouring Nassau county and giving particular attention to a house in Valley Stream. The owner of the house is a former member of the Fire Department. He said the detectives were wrong if they suspected that Butler was hiding there.

From another source it was learned that Butler and two companions were on Long Island last night. Up to midnight there was no indication that Butler intended to give himself up.

CASTS AWAY $3,000 AMBERGRIS.

Girl Throws Substance Into Sea, Not Knowing Its Value.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 28.—Sergeant James Moffitt of the Seventh police station to-night is lamenting the fact that his daughter Helen threw away at least $3,000 worth of ambergris yesterday. Miss Moffitt was spending the day at Watch Hill, and while strolling along the shore picked up a grayish substance somewhat larger than a Rugby football, breaking off a small piece she threw it back into the water, saving a little out of curiosity.

ROOSEVELT PLEA TO FUSION VAIN

Some Candidates Won't Promise to Shun Other Tickets.

MAY RUN WITH GAYNOR

Colonel Points to Value of United Front on Single Slate.

MITCHEL'S FINAL STAND

Refuses Independence League Nomination—Mayor's Notification Plan.

The Politics of Yesterday. Theodore Roosevelt took a hand in the fusion dispute over places on the Gaynor ticket. He incited Borough President McAneny and other fusion candidates at the Harvard Club and discussed John Purroy Mitchell's plan of keeping fusion for the fusionists. Mr. McAneny and the others refused to commit themselves.

John Purroy Mitchell declined the Independence League designation for Mayor, thus fulfilling his threat that he would retire unless Mr. McAneny and Mr. Prendergast were named on the League's ticket. He made a strong plea for fusion unity. Mr. Mitchell left town for ten days in the Adirondacks.

Mr. Commissioner Joseph Johnson announced that Mayor Gaynor had agreed to the City Hall Park notification plan. A committee of arrangements was appointed for the ceremony, which will take place on the City Hall steps at 12:30 o'clock next Wednesday. Jacob H. Schiff will preside. Tammany men said nothing.

ROOSEVELT FAILS TO END ROW.

Advices Fusion Candidates to Be "Straight," but They Won't.

Theodore Roosevelt tried yesterday and failed to straighten out a dispute that threatens to disrupt the fusionists—the dispute that arose when George McAneny and other fusion candidates refused to meet John Purroy Mitchell's desire and decline places on the Gaynor ticket before they were offered.

Col. Roosevelt met Mr. McAneny and the fusion candidates for president of the five boroughs at the Harvard Club, told them they'd better stick by a straight fusion ticket and heard that they intend to wait until something is offered before they accept or decline it.

The Colonel was called in as a doctor is summoned in consultation over a serious case. The chief officers of the committee of 107 arranged the meeting and every effort was made to keep it a matter strictly between friends. No member of the fusion committee was disposed to comment on the meeting last night.

Fusion Is Demoralized.

There was no doubt yesterday that the fusionists are up in arms against one another, all over the problematical places on the Gaynor ticket. The situation was regarded as of the utmost seriousness. The Colonel was described as saying that fusion is demoralized.

Mr. Roosevelt's feelings were well known before he went to the meeting at all. In a cablegram which he sent to Comptroller Prendergast after he had been back from the Southwest twenty-four hours he urged him to go on record against a fusion nomination. In a statement made later in the same day he asked the fusionists to stick together and decline all entangling alliances.

Mr. McAneny's answer yesterday was the same as that of two and three days ago—"There is no use declining something you haven't got. We discuss the rights of making up our minds when we know exactly the question we have to decide."

The meeting yesterday was not sought by either Mr. McAneny or Col. Roosevelt. It was arranged by members of the fusion committee who feel that the only hope of the fusion ticket is to have all the candidates stand together.

Many Candidates There.

Mr. McAneny and the Colonel met at the Harvard Club at about 3 o'clock. Joseph M. Price, chairman of the executive committee of the fusionists, was there for a short time. The men who were on hand for the whole session besides Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. McAneny were Marcus M. Marks, picked as Mr. McAneny's successor in the Presidency of the Borough of Manhattan; Deputy Comptroller Douglas Mathewson, candidate for Borough President of The Bronx; George Cronwell, renominated as Borough President of Richmond; Lewis H. Pounds, renominated as Borough President of Brooklyn; Robert W. Higgin, candidate for Borough Secretary of Queens; and Leo Aronstein, secretary of the Borough of Manhattan; George Tirrell, secretary of the Finance Department, was on hand for a while as representative of Comptroller Prendergast, who is abroad.

The meeting was described as more of a discussion than a debate. Yet the question at issue was discussed frankly, and nobody shut his door for fear of hurting the feelings of somebody else.

No One Scaled Out.

The Colonel did not try to single out Mr. McAneny or any of the others as the subject for his advice. It was collective. As it was retailed afterward, he counseled them not to take places on the Gaynor ticket. He thought it best for them to say so now, even at the risk of
