In front, between huge folding doors facing the hallway, the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack are draped and entwined.

At the head of the catafalque is a magnificent wreath, which is inscribed: "With the deepest sympathy from the Lord Mayor and citizens of Liverpool."

When the night vigil ends at 7 A. M. the remains will be escorted as on their arrival to the landing stage, where a White Star Line tender will take them to the Lusitania, which is now in mid-stream.

It has been the one bright spot on this occasion of sorrow to see the spontaneous and united efforts of everybody in Liverpool to show unbounded respect to one of America's eminent men.

The Cunard company, which will transport the body to New York, is not sparing any effort to make its return to that city dignified and appropriate.

The nurse who accompanied the Mayor on the trip across told the correspondents of The Sun that she had been exceedingly anxious about her charge, as she knew that his system was terribly run down.

On the morning of the day he died she noticed a change for the worse in his appearance, and asked him how he was feeling. The Mayor replied: "Oh, I am all right; you need not be so anxious about me, do not bother yourself; I am going to be all right."

The doctor said that when he responded to the call for the physician the Mayor was in a state of collapse and gasping for breath.

BETTER BEFORE END CAME. Mayor Gaynor Chatted With Child Morning of His Death.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun. QUEENSTOWN, Sept. 12.—The White Star Line steamer Baltic, with the body of Mayor Gaynor aboard, arrived here at 4:25 this morning.

Although the names of Miss Gaynor and Mr. Whalen were on the passenger list as members of the Mayor's party, it was officially denied that Mr. Gaynor had been accompanied by any one except his son Rufus and a nurse.

It was learned that during the voyage Mayor Gaynor kept to his stateroom most of the time and did not participate in any of the social activities aboard the vessel.

Wanted No Extras for Himself. The officers of the Baltic frequently asked the Mayor if there was any special attention he desired.

The steward, who had gone to call Mayor Gaynor for luncheon about 1 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, returned on deck and told the nurse that he could get no answer from the Mayor and suggested that she had better go and look at her patient.

See Almost Collapse. Rufus Gaynor and the nurse hurried down to the Mayor's stateroom and found the Mayor dead in his chair.

VERY SAD, SAYS CROKER. Didn't Know Mayor Gaynor, but Is Sorry About His Death.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun. DUBLIN, Sept. 12.—"It is very sad," said Richard Croker, the former head of Tammany Hall, speaking to a correspondent of The Sun to-day of the death of Mayor Gaynor.

"I did not know Mayor Gaynor," he added, "but it is sad that he should die at sea as he did. I am out of politics, which I have left to younger men"—then he paused—"but there are good men who will follow in Judge Gaynor's footsteps, and I may say that his place will be filled by the right man."

kind. He did not discuss the political situation in New York with any one aboard the Baltic and it is doubtful if he had made up his mind as to what course he would take in the coming campaign, although it was his purpose to decide the question on the trip.

The Mayor had no definite plans as to what he would do when the vessel arrived at Liverpool. He had crossed simply for the ocean voyage.

When the news of the death of the Mayor reached New York the wireless body remarks on the strange coincidence that the attempt on his life was made while he was on the deck of a liner bound for Europe and that his death occurred on another steamship as he was approaching this side.

All Festivities on Board Stopped. As soon as the death of the Mayor was announced all dances and other festivities which had been in preparation were cancelled.

Rufus Gaynor looked very much worn out when seen after the arrival of the Baltic here. He had not slept more than an hour since his father's death.

CELTIC DIDN'T GET FLASH. Passengers First Hear of Mayor's Death From Pilot.

Passengers on the White Star liner Celtic, which docked at 5 o'clock last night, did not hear of the death of Mayor Gaynor until the pilot boarded the vessel near Sandy Hook yesterday afternoon.

It was said last night that the news of the Mayor's death was sent by wireless to every vessel within reach, and they could not understand why the Celtic passengers did not get the message, as she spoke Quarantine on Thursday night.

The Board of Aldermen will meet on Tuesday to elect their presiding officer, who in case Mayor Kline falls ill or leaves the city, will become Mayor Ralph Folke, leader of the majority, and Henry H. Curran, chairman of the finance committee, have been spoken of as possibilities.

PUBLIC FUNERAL FOR GAYNOR IS PLANNED

Services Will Be Held on September 22 in Trinity Church.

BODY WILL LIE IN STATE Municipal Boards Take Action—City Will Wear Mourning 30 Days.

The funeral of Mayor Gaynor will be public. It will be held in Trinity Church on Monday, September 22, at 11 A. M.

Arrangements for the service were begun yesterday by a committee of city officials and friends of the late Mayor.

There will be a committee of representatives of the various civic bodies in the city to meet the body when it arrives on the Lusitania.

There were meetings yesterday of the Board of Estimate, of the Mayor's Commissioners, of civic bodies and of various associations, all for the purpose of adopting resolutions of respect or of making necessary arrangements.

Committee in Charge. The preparations for the funeral will be completed by a committee, which consists of Robert Adamson, Dock Commissioner Robert A. C. Smith, Robert W. de Forest, Corporation Counsel Archibald Watson, Water Commissioner Henry S. Thompson, Bridge Commissioner Arthur J. O'Keefe and Dr. Ernst J. Lederer.

The meeting of greatest public importance held yesterday was that of the Board of Estimate. In special session the Board adopted resolutions providing that there should be a mourning period in this city of thirty days.

The chair that Mayor Gaynor used was draped in black and remained empty. The members of the Board of Estimate, Col. Kline, their chief, as Mr. Chairman, a considerable crowd listened to the short speeches and heard the adoption of the resolutions.

Borough President McAneny's tribute to Mayor Gaynor contained these expressions: "There is no man in this board who does not feel a sense of personal loss in the death of Mayor Gaynor. I think that the body will be taken to the city hall in Brooklyn. It will remain there until Saturday afternoon."

At 4 P. M. on Saturday, September 20, the body of the Mayor will be carried to the City Hall, where in the great rotunda it will lie in state until the hour of the funeral procession on Monday morning.

It is expected that not fewer than 100,000 citizens will pass through the City Hall on Sunday to view the casket, which will be guarded by men of the uniformed service of the city, policemen and firemen.

Procession to Church. There will be a procession from the City Hall down Broadway to Trinity Church at about 10:30 A. M. on Monday. The service, which will begin at 11 A. M., will be conducted by Bishop David H. Greer, if the Bishop can be located at the place where he is spending his vacation in Maine. If he cannot be communicated with, the service will be conducted by Suffragan Bishop Burr.

The Bishop of the Suffragan Bishop will be assisted by the Rev. Dr. L. E. Holden, pastor of the Episcopal Church in St. James, L. I., and by the Rev. Dr. Frank Page, formerly pastor of the St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church, Brooklyn. Dr. Page now lives in Culpeper, Va.

He was one of the last of the old and intimate friends of Mayor Gaynor who had the opportunity for a lengthy talk on the morning of the day that the Mayor was notified at the City Hall that the people desired him to run independently for Mayor.

Dr. Page called on the Mayor. They chatted for half an hour, and it was only when Mayor Gaynor was summoned to the steps of the City Hall that Dr. Page left him.

The city officials are desirous of having Bishop Greer conduct the service. Robert Adamson said yesterday that the Bishop is at Northeast Harbor, Me., and that efforts had been made to reach him.

The Bishop is expected back in the city before the day of the funeral.

The details of the funeral have not yet been worked out. The honorary pallbearers have not been selected.

The actual bearers of the casket will be eight men from the uniformed forces of the city, four policemen and four firemen. These will be men from the ranks, and with whom he was accustomed to chat or philosophize.

The Department of the East will provide an escort of soldiers for the body of the Mayor. Major-Gen. Thomas H. Barry indicated yesterday that the United States Army will assist in honoring the Mayor's memory.

There were many firemen and policemen who enjoyed frequent talks with the Mayor. As he walked to and from the City Hall or about the city, it was his habit to speak to men of the uniformed forces and chat with them on all sorts of subjects.

There will be a committee of representatives of the various civic bodies in the city to meet the body when it arrives on the Lusitania.

On account of the press of business the courts were not closed.

The Union League Club adopted resolutions of respect for the Mayor, which were read at the funeral.

In St. James a public meeting has been called for next night. The Mayor's neighbors and friends will testify to their loss.

The executive committee of the Mayor Gaynor Fusion and Nominating League adopted resolutions. The headquarters of the league will be closed until next Monday.

Hundreds of Messages. Hundreds of letters, cablegrams and telegrams were received yesterday by Secretary Adamson and by Mrs. Gaynor at St. James, Baron Sakatani, Mayor of Tokio, cabled:

"Please accept deepest sympathy with your citizens for demise of your beloved Mayor Gaynor from myself and citizens," was written yesterday, the commission sent condolences by letter.

Other messages were received from Nathaniel H. Levi, president of the Broadway Board of Trade; William Beth, Kuech' Ling, the Chinese consul-general; Harry S. Patten, Mayor John J. Irving of Birmingham; acting Mayor Dennis F. Collins of Elizabeth; F. L. V. Hoppin, Adjutant-General of the First Brigade; Mayor Frank K. McCall, David F. Meyer, William A. Shakan and others.

The State conference of Mayors in session at Utica sent condolences to the people of this city.

Over night the facade of the City Hall had been hung with black. Every window in the city flags were at half staff. Mourning buttons appeared—discs of black bearing the white legend: "We Mourn Mayor Gaynor."

Around and about the City Hall a larger crowd than is usual moved quietly and talked in subdued tones for more news of the circumstances of the Mayor's death and of his last acts and words.

"Now I Can Get Some Rest." Lieut. William Kennel of the Police Department, the last man to shake hands with Mayor Gaynor, said yesterday that he was tired.

"Now I can get some rest. I am free," he said yesterday, "but I am not satisfied with his appearance," said Lieut. Kennel yesterday.

Norman Gaynor called on Mayor Kline yesterday and thanked Col. Kline for the consideration he had shown in his appointment to the Lord Mayor of Liverpool and to American consular agents asking that the transfer of the Mayor's body be facilitated.

Mr. Gaynor said that his mother was still suffering from the shock and that she had been unable to greet sympathetic callers. Her daughters are with Mrs. Gaynor at Deepwells.

KLINE SAYS HE'LL KEEP OLD COMMISSIONERS

Can't See How Gaynor Selections Can Be Improved Upon, He Explains.

Col. Ardolph L. Kline, the new Mayor of New York, said again yesterday that he had no thought of removing any of Mayor Gaynor's Commissioners.

"I don't intend to enter into the matter," he replied. "Take Adamson, for instance," he said, turning to Mayor Gaynor's secretary, who was standing by his side. "I have known him for years and I do not intend to remove him. Why, he is a commissioner himself."

Then, with a smile, he went on: "But as for that man Lieut. Kennel, outside, I am going to demote him and send him to the wide of Staten Island—just as far away as I can."

"But, really, gentlemen, as long as I am here, Adamson and Kennel will remain."

The new Mayor was asked what he intends to do about carrying out Mayor Gaynor's policy of closing restaurants at 1 o'clock. For half a minute the new Mayor seemed puzzled for an answer, and then he said:

"Gentlemen, don't ask me a question like that. I have not thought of the question of important policies. Whether the restaurants at 1 o'clock has served for good or ill I do not know. You cannot dispose of that question without serious consideration."

A number of Republican district leaders called on the new Mayor yesterday to tell him that they would let Police Commissioner Waldo go. Others who called upon him told him that it would be bad politics to turn out Mr. Waldo at this time.

The new Mayor, when he left the house of his son-in-law, Frederick Schell, in Jamaica yesterday, found a number of mounted policemen on hand ready to escort him to his train.

Mr. Kline had nothing to say about it, but went to the station house of the precinct and asked to have the guard withdrawn, because he wanted no display to mark his coming and going.

PRENDERGAST SEES ROOSEVELT. Colonel Quoted as Saying Mitchell Nomination Was Mistake.

Comptroller Prendergast, who returned from abroad on Wednesday, had lunch yesterday with Col. Roosevelt. It was Prendergast that Col. Roosevelt sent the cablegram asking him to refuse a place on the Gaynor ticket and to stick by Mitchell. Mr. Prendergast had no comment to make on his conversation with the Colonel.

A caller on Col. Roosevelt yesterday, who talked local politics with him, said that the former President remarked that he was going to keep out of the campaign in New York.

"But I think the nomination of Mitchell was a mistake," he quoted the Colonel as saying.

Stock Exchange May Close. A special meeting of governors of the Stock Exchange has been called for next Monday noon, when the board will pass resolutions on the death of Mayor Gaynor and probably decide that the exchange will be closed for the day or at least at the time of the funeral.

GAYNOR FORCES WILL KEEP AFTER MITCHEL

Offer Chief Place on Ticket to McAneny, Who Refuses to Accept It.

MAY NAME HIM ANYWAY Their Hope Is That Opposition to Fusion Nominee Will Cause Withdrawal.

On the second day after Mayor Gaynor's death the leaders of his campaign started a war of extermination on the candidacy of John Purroy Mitchell, the fusion nominee.

If they can put up a candidate of their own, well and good, if they can supplant Mr. Mitchell as the fusion candidate, so much the better.

In case both plans fall there was little doubt that the bulk of the late Mayor's support will fall to Judge McCall, the candidate of Tammany Hall.

The first thing the Gaynor leaders did yesterday was to offer the place at the head of their ticket to Borough President George McAneny, fusion candidate for the Presidency of the Board of Aldermen, the second place in the city government.

Mr. McAneny refused it. Thereupon Fire Commissioner Johnson said the Gaynor would go ahead and nominate him anyway and let him decline afterward if he chose.

This action on the part of the Gaynor leaders was interpreted as a declaration of war. It was John Purroy Mitchell, a bitter, uncompromising war, intended to accomplish his defeat at all costs.

Jacob H. Schiff made the motion in the Gaynor committee meeting which substituted the name of Mr. McAneny for that of Mayor Gaynor. He said that in his opinion the only thing for Mr. McAneny to do was to accept the nomination.

To do so would be for the good of the community. Loyalty to Mr. Mitchell would be a mistake, and a refusal of the nomination on that ground would be to misconstrue his duty to his fellow citizens.

The executive committee of the Gaynor League met yesterday morning at the office of its secretary, John H. Harrington, 27 William street.

The committee first adopted a resolution of sympathy which was sent to Mr. Gaynor. Then on the motion of Mr. Schiff this resolution was adopted:

Gaynor League to Continue. "Resolved, That this league continue its work and that George McAneny be substituted as its candidate for Mayor."

"Resolved further, That the organization of this league be continued in full force and effect."

"Resolved further, That the chairman be empowered to appoint all further committees necessary to carry out the league's work."

Commissioner Johnson, Charles Steckler and other members of the executive committee of the Gaynor League went at once to the City Hall to find Mr. McAneny and ask him to accept the nomination.

They went down stairs, walked into the Mayor's office and found Mr. McAneny. Mr. Johnson directed the affairs of the city for almost four years offered the nomination in the name of his own followers.

Fire Commissioner Johnson argued with him for twenty minutes. He said that it was the Borough President's public duty to lead the fight against Tammany Hall.

The Gaynor committee was forced to be content with the declaration of Mr. McAneny, but there was more than a pretence of cheerfulness in their outlook.

It was based upon the phrasing of Mr. McAneny's last sentence. The hope that so much opposition will develop to the Mitchell candidacy that he will be obliged to withdraw and Mr. McAneny serve in his place.

Newa Stirr Fusionists. The news printed in the first editions of the afternoon papers that the Gaynor League was bent upon offering its nomination to Mr. McAneny brought Norman Hapgood down town in a hurry.

He, Samuel S. Koenig, president of the Republican county committee, who is a reluctant Mitchell backer, and Comptroller Prendergast went to Mr. McAneny's office for a talk.

They found that Mr. McAneny had already told the Gaynor people that he would not run.

"It is splendid," said Mr. Hapgood in smiling relief. "But no one who knew Mr. McAneny ever had the slightest doubt that he would do anything else."

Mr. McAneny had taken any other course. William R. Wilcox and Herman Ritter were also approached yesterday by members of the Gaynor League and asked if they would consider a nomination.

Mr. Wilcox had just returned to New York from the funeral of his father-in-law, William F. Havemeyer, son of the only Mayor of New York besides Mayor Gaynor, who died in office since the United States became a nation.

"I am down town for only a few hours," said Mr. Wilcox. "This is the first time this week that I have been in my office. I am not aware of the political situation, and I do not feel like discussing a possible nomination."

Herman Ritter was more emphatic. On the day the news came that Mayor Gaynor was dead, he remarked that the whole movement had died with him.

"I will not," he said, when he was asked whether he would take a nomination. "I would not consider it. I do not want any office."

The fusionists pointed out that Mr. Mitchell is now the designated candidate of the Republicans and Progressives and that no effort to pry him off from the nomination would succeed.

Joseph M. Price, chairman of the executive committee, left town yesterday. Norman Hapgood goes to-day. Mr. Mitchell is not expected here until Monday.

MAYOR HAVEMEYER'S DEATH ENDED SUIT

Gen. Wingate Tells of Dramatic Court Scene When John Kelly's Foe Expired.

Gen. George W. Wingate told yesterday of the death of Mayor William F. Havemeyer, who died in office in 1874, and of the dramatic effect of the news on the trial of the libel suit which had been brought against the Mayor by John Kelly.

Mayor Havemeyer and John Kelly, leader of Tammany Hall, were engaged in a bitter political quarrel, in the course of which the Mayor had attacked Kelly in connection with the leader's conduct while Sheriff.

Mr. Havemeyer charged that Kelly had profited unduly in this office at the expense of the city. Kelly brought suit for libel.

Mayor Havemeyer, through his counsel, set out a long answer, with thereon a mitigation of the alleged libel and in this answer made many statements regarding Kelly in his political life. This answer Kelly's lawyers moved to strike out as scandalous.

The argument on this motion of Kelly's lawyers came up before Justice John B. Brady in the Supreme Court on November 20, 1874. Henry L. Clinton and Gen. Wingate appeared as counsel for Kelly; Mayor Havemeyer was represented by Nelson J. Waterbury and Judge John H. Porter, who convicted Giteau, the assassin of President Garfield.

The argument was heard in a room on the south side of the present county court house. A big window opening out on the City Hall was at the left hand of Justice Brady.

Gen. Wingate made the argument for Kelly, asking that the answer be stricken out. Judge Porter rose to reply. Before he had said half an answer words of astonishment burst in the court room and the spectators began whispering excitedly.

A Tammany district leader leaned over to Gen. Wingate and whispered: "Gen. Wingate reported the report to Mr. Waterbury, of the Mayor's counsel, who had seen the Mayor only a short time before and who whispered back, 'Nonsense!'"

The confusion continued and Justice Brady rapped sharply for order. "What does this mean?" he demanded.

Gen. Wingate advanced toward the bench and told the court that he had just been informed that the Mayor was dead. Justice Brady called to Capt. Ricketts of the court squad.

"Mr. Ricketts, go outside and see if it is true."

The court officer left the room. He returned in a minute and reported: "Your Honor, it is true. Mayor Havemeyer has just dropped dead at his desk in the City Hall. They are just putting the flag on the City Hall at half mast."

Justice Brady and the lawyers looked out of the window toward the City Hall and saw the flag slowly drop down to half mast.

Justice Brady turned back to the lawyers in front of him. "Gentlemen, this ends this case," he said.

The lawyers picked up their papers and walked out of the court room. Under the law of libel such a suit ends with the death of the aggressor and there was nothing more to be done.

Mayor Havemeyer had only a month more to serve at the time of his death.
