

see like a rapid fire gun should be the stand, could come to no other conclusion, in my opinion, than that the aviator was bluffed in his repeated private declarations to friends that he would take the stand and fight his own fight to the open "to the last ditch."

And yet Gov. Sulzer always has done the blizzard at critical moments, his friends say, and has always placed much reliance upon his bravado manner of expression without regard to the facts.

Harvey D. Hinman and Judge D-Cady Herick continued collaborating today upon the opening of the defense when the court of impeachment convened at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

It would not surprise those familiar with the situation if the defense rested upon the evidence furnished by the prosecution and summed up with a demand for a dismissal of the articles of impeachment, first upon the ground that nothing is charged against Gov. Sulzer except his misuse of campaign funds which were given for his own personal use and that, in any event, he cannot be impeached for so using those funds before he becomes Governor.

D-CADY HERRICK'S REAL NAME.

The Puzzling Hypothesis Was Heatowed by His Father.

It is almost ten years now since wide publicity was given to the origin of D-Cady Herick's Christian name. Many persons, including some newspaper writers, found it difficult today to spell it correctly. In the Social Register and the New York City Directory the hypothesis is omitted. "Who's Who in America" puts a period after the D.

Ex-Judge Herick's name is not Daniel Cady or Donald Cady or David Cady. It is just D-Cady. It has been repeatedly supposed that he was named after Judge Daniel Cady, a noted jurist who was a relative of his stepmother. But this belief is erroneous. He was named after David Cady, a merchant of Amsterdam, who was a great friend of the family. Judge Herick's father had an aversion to two given names, so he took the "D" of David and coupled it with a hyphen to Cady, constituting D-Cady.

PEGOUD HEARS HE IS DEAD.

Aviator Reported Murdered—Coming to United States.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun. PARIS, Oct. 4.—The absence since yesterday morning of the daring aviator Pegoud, whose "loop the loop" feat high in the air has made him famous, caused reports to spread that he had been murdered and thousands who waited vainly for his appearance at the Heriot aerodrome this afternoon, believed that the rumors were well founded.

The boulevard was ringing this evening with the shouts of newsboys selling a newspaper with a story that Pegoud had been killed. Pegoud bought one of the papers. He was sitting on the terrace of a boulevard cafe when he heard the newsboys' shouts. The aerial aviator glanced over the story, smiled and resumed his coffee.

Pegoud will make a flight at Rue de Valenciennes, he intends to go to the United States to show America the aerial contortions with which his name is associated.

TWO FRENCH AVIATORS DIE.

One Falls at Chamonix, the Other at Helms.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun. CHAMONIX, Oct. 4.—Lieut. Laverne, a military aviator, was killed by a fall from the sky in a military airplane when the machine failed to respond to his orders and fell 200 feet.

Helms, a military aviator, was killed by a fall from the sky when he was flying over a mountain with a passenger. The passenger's spine was injured.

CIGARETTE CAUSES SIX DEATHS.

Some One on French Steamer Let It Fall: Explosion Follows.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun. PARIS, Oct. 4.—Six persons were killed by an explosion of petroleum on the French steamer Aurea at Algiers today when some one dropped a lighted cigarette and the fluid was ignited.

"LA TRAVIATA" AT BUSSETO.

Toscanini Directs Vocal Performance in Italian Town.

BRUSSELS, Italy, Sept. 30.—The little theatre of Busseto saw a wonderful performance this evening in honor of the hundredth anniversary of Verdi's birth.

Under the direction of Arturo Toscanini, "La Traviata" was sung, with Luceria Bori in the title role; the tenor, Garioni and the eminent baritone, Pasquale Amato.

The setting was charming and every detail of the highest refinement. It was a genuine triumph for Toscanini and for the artists who cooperated with him voluntarily in this memorable homage to Verdi.

The little auditorium was packed, 600 persons being present. It was like the attendance at a premiere at the Scala, in miniature. In the endpiece was the Duke of the Abruzzi, whose entrance was greeted with the royal march.

MILITANTS FIRE MANSION.

Beautiful Country Home at Hampton Court Damaged.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The Elms, the costly and beautiful country home of the late Dr. Thomas H. Martin, former chancellor of the diocese of London, in Hampton Court, was badly damaged by fire today. The blaze was of an incendiary origin and two suspects suspected of being responsible for it were arrested by the police shortly after the fire had been extinguished.

Later in the day the two women were brought up in a motor car and identified as Miss May Richardson and Miss Rachel Deane. The former was recently released from prison. The pair were remanded for further hearing, bail being refused. The police declare that Miss Richardson admitted that she had set fire to the Elms and expressed the hope that she had made a good job of it.

SPANISH GUNBOAT IN CRASH.

Carried With Transport at Cadix—Badly Damaged.

Special Cable Dispatch to The Sun. CADIX, Oct. 4.—The gunboat General San Juan in the harbor here today. The vessel was badly damaged and was saved from sinking only by incessant use of the pumps.

She was towed into dry dock.

CHURCH OUSTS PASTOR SCHENCK.

Action Follows Report of Preacher's Attention to Young Women.

MANASSAS, N. Y., Oct. 4.—The charge made against Rev. Hattie P. Schenck, pastor of the First Methodist Protestant Church, that he was seen holding Miss Sarah Freeman upon his lap in a deserted railroad car led to the dramatic denunciation of his pastorate here and the possible termination of his ministerial career.

Officers of the church at a secret meeting tonight decided to request the conference of the eastern district at Atlantic City next Tuesday to supply a new minister to take Mr. Schenck's place.

The secret dismissal of the pastor caused a sensation.

Mr. Schenck was enraged by the unexpected turn of affairs and threatened to kick a man who called at his house.

GOOD-BY!
Colonel Roosevelt Leaning on the Steamer's Rail as the Vandyck Starts for South America.

Anthony Flax, who chronicled the jungle trip of the Roosevelt party.

Mr. Roosevelt was dressed in a dark gray suit and a new gray campaign hat of the familiar pattern. There was a white extraction in his buttonhole. The dark hands and mustaches set up a cheer for "Teddy," and a strong lugged long-shoreman drew a wave of the hat and a "Good luck to you, boys," when he called out "Good boy, Teddy. Shoot 'em in the eye."

The Colonel was accompanied by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and Miss L. Mary Sayer. He was accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, who was with him as a personal secretary. The party was as far as Buenos Ayres came later.

It is a steep climb from the dock to the Vandyck's deck, and the party was not up until about 10 o'clock. The party was not up until about 10 o'clock. The party was not up until about 10 o'clock.

BIRD CONTRADICTS BARNES.

Johns Roosevelt in Line of Short and Cuts Off Seabury Story.

FRANCIS W. BIRD, Progressive country chairman, backed up Col. Roosevelt and used the same short and ugly word yesterday when he spoke of the charge made on Friday by William Barnes, Republican State chairman, that the Progressives had made a bargain with the Democrats for the Court of Appeals.

Here is what Mr. Bird had to say about it:

"Mr. Barnes lies when he states that there was any agreement, deal or understanding between the Democrats and the Progressives as to Judge Seabury's nomination for the Court of Appeals by the Progressive party. No arrangement was ever made with the Democrats as to his nomination and as a matter of fact the Democrats did not nominate Judge Seabury. I placed Judge Seabury in nomination at the Progressive conference. He was nominated by that conference because he is thoroughly well qualified. Mr. Barnes is well accustomed to bipartisan deals with Tammany Hall."

Mr. Bird also charged Judge Werner and Judge Hosack with reactionary principles and intimacy with "big business."

FALL OF SANTA ROSALIA REPORTED BY FEDERALISTS.

Huerta's Generals Claim Complete Victory Over Rebels in the North.

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 4.—Santa Rosalia has fallen before the attack of Gen. Federales under Gen. Castro, according to advices received here this morning in a telegram from Gen. Salvador Mercado, military governor of Chihuahua, to Guillermo Porras, personal representative of Gen. Huerta in this city.

Santa Rosalia was defended by 4,000 constitutionalists under Gen. Francisco Villa. The despatch said the town was taken after four hours heavy fighting yesterday afternoon, following a siege which started on Thursday morning. The constitutionalists are said to be retreating southward. No other details of the battle, which was considered by the rebels as a critical one for the establishment of the irregular power in Chihuahua, have been received.

Col. Juan N. Vasquez, commander at Juarez, also received a telegram from Gen. Mercado stating that Gen. Castro had not been killed, nor even wounded, in the battle. The rebels following their evacuation of the town, are said to have scattered in every direction, followed by bands of Federalists under the command of Gen. Francisco Castro, Manuel Landu, Josu Manicilla, Marcos Garayza and Antonio Rojas. Gen. Jose Ynez Salazar did not arrive in time to take part in the battle, which remains north of Chihuahua to wait for any rebels that might wander in that direction after the evacuation of the town.

Brasile Hernandez, who is under arrest at Fort Bliss as a prisoner of war, will be extradited to Mexico by the State authorities if Gov. Mercado of Chihuahua is successful in the extradition proceedings, which he has started. Hernandez was arrested here when he came to visit his wife. A habeas corpus proceeding has been started for him and will come up in the United States court here Monday.

NOT TRUE, SAYS WERNER.

Judge's Friends Say Roosevelt Tried to Make Deal With Him.

ROCHESTER, Oct. 4.—Justice William B. Werner this afternoon denied the allegation that he had telephoned to Col. Theodore Roosevelt asking him for the Progressive nomination for Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals. Judge Werner was found on the golf links of the Rochester Country Club and was emphatic in denying that he ever asked the Progressive leader for his support.

Friends of Judge Werner here declare that Col. Roosevelt called him on the telephone and said that if he would stand on the Progressive platform he could have the nomination.

Judge Werner, they say, told him that he could not do this, and the result was the attack upon Werner made by the Colonist in his speech at the Rochester convention.

JAIL BUILDERS TO BE TRIED IN DECEMBER

Construction Co. Officials Pleaded Not Guilty to Great Meadows Charges.

THE STATE LOST $585,000

Thirteen Indicted for Larceny of Material and Padding of Payrolls.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Persons named in thirteen indictments returned on September 23 by a special Washington county Grand Jury at the conclusion of the investigation of the charges of graft in the construction of the Great Meadows prison appeared in the Supreme Court at Hudson Falls today and entered pleas of not guilty.

All furnished bail. Justice Post fixed October 25 for hearing the motions to dismiss the indictments and the first week of December for commencement of the trials.

The indictments are as follows:

Hudson Valley Construction Company presenting false claims of padded payroll for week of July 14 to July 21, 1910.

Hudson Valley Construction Company, padded payroll for week July 28 to August 3, 1910; bail.

Charles P. Boland, Troy, padded payroll week July 14 to July 21, 1910.

Charles P. Boland, padded payroll week July 28 to August 3, 1910.

Hudson Valley Construction Company, Charles P. Boland, Cornelius V. Collins, Troy; Franklin B. Ware, New York City; Charles A. Sussdorf, Albany; William S. Hamill, Troy; Millard S. Gover, Troy; Samuel Blumenthal, Albany; Timothy D. Lenehan, Troy, and Frank W. Lynch, Troy, charged grand larceny first degree, in special delinquent contract.

Larceny of Material Charged.

Hudson Valley company, Ware, Collins, Boland, Sussdorf, Hamill and Gover, larceny of material not used in percentage work.

Hudson Valley company, Boland, Ware, Sussdorf and Collins, auditing false claim for first percentage work, about $12,522.21.

Hudson Valley Company, Boland, Ware, Sussdorf and Collins, auditing false claim for second percentage profit, $2,258.80.

Hudson Valley Company, Boland, Ware, Sussdorf and Collins, auditing false claim for third percentage profit, $1,525.97.

Hudson Valley Company, Boland, Collins, Ware and Sussdorf, presenting false claim, $675 for plant charge.

Hamill, Lynch, Lenehan, Blumenthal and Gover, presenting false claim, padded payroll for week July 14 to July 21, 1910.

Hamill, Lynch, Lenehan, Blumenthal and Gover, presenting false claim, padded payroll for week July 28 to August 3, 1910.

Michael Fitzgerald of Troy, Ware and Collins, grand larceny first degree in water system contract.

Commissioner George W. Blake, designated by William Sulzer to investigate the State Prison Department, made this statement to-night as a supplement to the recent presentation of the Washington county Grand Jury and the indictments handed down today.

State Lost $585,000.

The outside value of the two prison buildings known as the Great Meadows Prison at Conestock, Washington county, is $2,000,000. The State paid $750,000 for the buildings. To this loss of $1,250,000, added the deterioration and cost of removing the boilers, electric engines and piping through the boiler room, now being built under contract, the cost of making the cell block fireproof and correcting the faults in the locking machinery and the increased cost of repairs because of the faulty construction. A conservative estimate of these added charges brings a loss to the State through carelessness of graft up to $585,000.

"When I fixed the loss at $500,000 I figured that this estimate was conservative. It was. What it will cost the State to grade the site I do not know. One estimate is $100,000. But figure it at $200,000 and the total loss runs to $785,000. These are large figures, but they are based on facts.

"Investigation into the matter was not aided in any way by any State officials whose services would be of special technical value. C. A. Sussdorf of the State architect's office declared under oath that his statements were not true. He told the Frawley committee that he had general supervision of the work at Conestock and that he had personally inspected the buildings. He declared that the materials and workmanship were excellent. He also testified:

"I wish to state under oath that there has been no bill passed through the State architect's office to which the State architect has attached his signature for which 100 cents on the dollar was not given."

"The Grand Jury reported that payrolls were padded and laborers' wage records forged and that the signature of the resident State inspector was forged on many of the invoices. It was also found that about $125,000 in bills of one kind or another were approved by the State architect without having received the approval of the inspector."

AMERICAN LINES CLOSED.

Rebels Gain Advantage in Fight for Control of Chihuahua.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Control of the State of Chihuahua will be decided in the next few days, according to advices from the State Department today. Engagements are in progress simultaneously at Torreon and Santa Rosalia. Rebel forces have been withdrawn from Torreon to defend the town of Santa Rosalia, which is held by Gen. Villa. At the last accounts the rebels seemed to have a slight advantage.

The closing down of all but one of the numerous American mining properties in the northwest part of Chihuahua has been reported to the Department. The shut-downs are due principally to the fact that no supplies can be obtained owing to the disturbed conditions of the region.

The mines of the Yaguayo Development Company and the Yaguayo Mining Company and the Dolores mine are among the latest to report suspensions. All American employees have left by various routes for the United States. The Batopilas camp is the scene of any consequence in the region now under operation.

FIREMEN RUSH TO BROOM AFIRE.

Man Who Turned in Bush Hook Alarm Crashed by Police.

Those turning a broom into the fire that brought smoke, Joe Martin, two hours and holder companies, three hose cars, three engines and a patrol wagon down Park Row and Broadway during the thick of the rush hour yesterday afternoon.

Vincent Downing, who gave his address as 17 Broadway, Brooklyn, was again small boys carrying the broom across church street near Fulton street. Evidently he thought that it was a horse.

When Lieut. Newman of look and look No. 10 asked him where the fire was he said that he thought it was "in the bell."

Downing was looked up in the Greenwich street station charged with sending a false alarm. A patrolman also made a charge of intoxication against him.
