

F. B. SAYRE A VISITOR AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Miss Genevieve Clark Will Select House's Wedding Gift to Miss Wilson.

UNIQUE DINNER AT FORT Starts With Cocktails in Foster Quarters and Ends at Donnelly's.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Several young people are spending the week end at the White House. Francis B. Sayre, fiance of Miss Jessie Wilson, arrived early this morning and the Misses Lucy and Mary Smith of New Orleans came this evening for a short visit to their relatives, the President and Mrs. Wilson. They visited them during the summer at Cornish.

Miss Margaret Wilson left today for a few days visit in Philadelphia and New York. She will sing Tuesday afternoon at the Bellevue-Stratford for the benefit of a home for working girls. It will be the first time Miss Wilson has sung in public since her father was elected. During her visit in Philadelphia she will be the guest of Miss Collins.

Miss Jessie Wilson and Mr. Sayre spent the morning walking and this afternoon motor riding. Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, who is to be beat man at the wedding, arrived in New York from Savannah, Ga. The committee in charge of the gift from Congress to Miss Wilson will send Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of the speaker, to New York soon to select the silver service which they intend to give as a wedding gift. They expect to raise $2,000.

Tafts to Go to Hot Springs. Mrs. Thomas K. Laughlin, sister of Mrs. William Howard Taft, spent a few days here this week and started today for Hot Springs, Va., where she has a cottage for November and December. She is part of that time with her and the former President and Miss Helen Taft also will be her guests. Mrs. Laughlin will open her home here in December.

The Military Attaché of the Russian Embassy and Mme. Golovinski are rejoicing in the birth of a daughter. The newly appointed Argentine Minister to Venezuela and Mme. Malbran, who were in New York for the Argentine Minister and Mme. Naon, left Washington today for their new post of duty. Mr. Malbran had been first secretary of the Argentine legation here for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roosevelt returned to their Washington home from their summer place at Sayville, L. I., and have as their guests Mrs. Roosevelt's sister, Mrs. H. E. Bischoff. A unique entertainment was given this evening at Fort Myer in honor of the retiring commander and Mrs. Joseph Garrison, who will leave soon for the Russian post at Fort Bliss, Tex. The officers and their wives gave a progressive dinner, serving cocktails in the quarters of the Russian Attaché, Lieut. and Mrs. Victor Foster, soup at the quarters of Lieut. and Mrs. Simpson, the next course at Lieut. and Mrs. Carter's, salad in the quarters of Lieut. and Mrs. Shaw, dessert in Col. Garrison's own quarters, and coffee and liqueurs at Capt. Donnelly's, where dancing completed the festivity.

Col. and Mrs. Bradford and their two daughters have been in Fort Myer for five years, during which time the elder one, Lucie, was married to Lieut. Foster. The latter recently was ordered back to Fort Myer from Fort Riley, Kan.

DANCE AT GARNWELL, TUXEDO. Brilliant Party Given by the Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Shipman.

TUXEDO PARK, Oct. 31.—At Garnwell, the Tuxedo residence of Mr. and Mrs. Edson Bradley of Washington, the Rev. and Mrs. Herbert Shipman, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bradley, are giving a dance to-night. The Bradley mansion is beautifully decorated for the occasion with cut chrysanthemums, potted plants and autumn foliage. A collage of autumn leaves and the large piazzas to shelter the guests from the cold winds during the promenade between the dances. Mr. and Mrs. Bradley entertained a party of twenty-five at the club before the dance. Dinners were given all over the park, after which all assembled at the Bradley house for dancing. A house of cut-to-night guests will remain over Sunday. A buffet supper will be served at midnight. There was about 200 people present.

CROZIER—WILLIAMS. Delivered-General in U. S. A. Weds Washington Girl in London.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—After a friendship of about twenty years, Brig.-Gen. Crozier, chief of ordnance of the United States army and a brother of Mrs. John E. Reynolds, and Miss Mary Williams, E. Reynolds of this city and Miss Mary Williams, daughter of the late Augustus Williams of New London, Conn., and a familiar figure in Washington society, were married today at St. George's Church, Hanover Square, London. The bride and groom were received here today by the bride's father. The wedding took place in the presence of only a few guests, including Ambassadors and Mrs. Bacon Allen, of the United States Embassy staff and several British officers who were friends of the bridegroom.

Major George O. Squier, American Military Attaché in London, was the man, while the bride was given away by her brother, former Commissioner of Immigration of New York. Gen. Crozier, a native of Ohio, was created a Baronet in 1899. He was a delegate to the International Peace Conference at The Hague in 1899 and was chief ordnance officer during the Pekin relief expedition in 1900. He is a member of the American Geographical Society of the University, New York Yacht, Metropolitan, Army and Navy and Chevy Chase clubs.

Kearton—Bignoney. Montreal, N. J., Oct. 31.—Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Mildred Budd Bignoney, daughter of Daniel W. Bignoney, treasurer of the Erie Railroad Company, who lives at 140 Clareville avenue, and John Guthrie Kearton, son of the Rev. C. O. Kearton, rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity in Albany, N. Y. The wedding was on Aug. 12 last in Christ Church, Broadway and Seventy-first street, New York, the rector, the Rev. Stanley Brown Norman, officiating. The announcement of the marriage of Miss Bignoney, who is only 18 years old, was a surprise to her friends. She is at the home of her parents, who say that their only objection to the wedding was the youthfulness of the couple. Mr. Kearton is employed by a Wall Street firm.

Spelman—Noyes. Miss Mary Noyes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Noyes, 90 Remsen street, Brooklyn, and H. Beala Spelman, 24 Pierpont street, were married on Thursday in Holy Trinity Church by Bishop Burgess. Mr. Spelman is treasurer and director of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 117 Centre street. The bride's father is trustee of the Brooklyn Savings Bank and of the Brooklyn Hospital and is a director of the Home Insurance Company.

JAPANESE DINNER AT ASTOR. Given by Consul-General in Honor of Emperor's Birthday.

Perhaps the north ballroom of the Hotel Astor has seen more pretentious functions, so far as numbers and hurrahs go, but never a more picturesque one than the reception and supper given there last night by Consul-General Iijima to about 200 of his Japanese and American friends to celebrate the thirty-fifth birthday of Emperor Yoshihito of Japan. Mme. Iijima was to have received with the Consul-General, but was unable to be present on account of illness. Mme. Takamine, wife of the noted Japanese chemist, took Mme. Iijima's place in receiving the guests.

There were pretty Japanese maidens in native costume among the men and women in Occidental evening dress. Prize winning chrysanthemums had been sent over to the Astor for the occasion by the Horticultural Society.

At the speaker's table with Consul-General Iijima sat Col. H. Schiff, Dr. and Mrs. Jokichi Takamine, Dr. and Mrs. Hamilton Wright Mable, Dr. T. Iyemaga, Lindsay Russell, president of the Japan Society, and Borough President McAneny. Among the Consul-General's guests also were Prof. Asakawa of Yale, Henry Clews Prof. and Mrs. John Dewey, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clarke, J. Franklin McFadden, Judge and Mrs. George C. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Holt, Vice-Consul Kurusu, Isaac N. Seligman, Prof. and Mrs. E. R. A. Seligman, K. Saito, Mr. and Mrs. Felix M. Warburg, Prof. Edward S. Morse, James S. Alexander, the Rev. George Fisher Johnson, Mayor, Port of New Jersey, Mr. and Mrs. R. Ichimiyama, H. Sakai, Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Muschenheim, Gen. Thomas H. Hubbard, Dr. George F. Kunz and Mr. and Mrs. Austin Feuchtwanger.

Lindsay Russell proposed a toast to the Emperor and Dr. Takamine followed with a toast to the President, Mr. McAneny, Dr. Mable, Mr. Schiff, Mr. Russell, Dr. Takamine and Mr. Iijima in their short addresses dwelt upon our cordial relations with Japan.

The dinner guests included Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Pell, James B. Cutting, Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Carl Springer, Mrs. Eleanor Terry Campario, Mrs. W. T. Simpson, George Klein and Mrs. N. Neilson.

The Rev. J. Henry Watson.

The Rev. J. Henry Watson died of heart disease yesterday at his home, 51 West Seventy-fifth street. He was 67 years old. He was graduated from Harvard in 1866 and came to New York to be an assistant at Trinity Chapel. Later he was assistant at St. John's Episcopal Church, Stamford, Conn., and at St. Mark's, Philadelphia. He became rector of Trinity Church, New Rochelle, and afterward rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Hartford, Conn. Mrs. Watson, who is a daughter of the late Dean Hoffman, two sons and a daughter survive him.

Fannie E. Otley.

Fannie Otley, mother of James H. Otley, who recently retired from the McColl Company, died on Thursday at her country home at Glen Cove, L. I. She was born in Ontario county, N. Y., sixty-seven years ago, but had lived in Denver, Col., for fifteen years, spending half the time in the East with her son. She is survived by James H. Otley and his daughter in Denver. The funeral will be held from Mr. Otley's home, at 29 West Fifty-third street, on Monday.

Plays and Players.

"The Passing Show of 1913" will close at the Winter Garden after to-night's performance. The piece will go on the road to-night at the Majestic Theatre, Brooklyn, on Monday.

The Victoria Theatre was converted into a clinic temporarily yesterday morning when Mlle. Gabriel, the "half woman," gave a private exhibition before several students representing the College of Physicians and Surgeons. Dr. Lyman Howald delivered a lecture on Mlle. Gabriel, who was born legless.

Sam Bernard and his supporting company of fifty will appear in a new sketch called "His Partner's Wives" next week at the Forty-fourth Street Music Hall. Like his present offering, "The Modiste Shop," it was adapted from "All For the Ladies."

The Stevens Alumni has taken all the seats for "The Little Cafe" at the New Amsterdam Theatre for December 5. This will be the third successive year that the alumni has visited the theatre in a body.

FLOWER SHOW OPEN TO-DAY.

Flower Exhibit Takes Nearly Twice the Space of Last Year's.

The annual fall exhibition of the Horticultural Society of New York was opened with a private view for members and their friends last night at the American Museum of Natural History. The floral display, which is unusually large and interesting, occupies nearly twice the space of last year's exhibition. The exhibition will be open to the public to-day and will continue until Tuesday next.

Features of the floral show are the specimens of lush chrysanthemums exhibited by Samuel Determyer and Adolph Lewisohn. One of the exhibits in chrysanthemums is a freak specimen that has the shape of peacock feathers and is called the Sylvia Slade. It is a decorative example and on a single bush are at least 200 blooms. It is from the Gray-stone gardens.

The North Pacific Indian hall is devoted to orchids, and the display is much larger than heretofore. One of the notable exhibits is contributed by Mrs. Henry Graves of Orange, N. J., who sends a display of rare yellow orchids. Joseph Manda is represented by blue butterfly orchids and the lady slippers. Other exhibitors in the orchid display are Clement Moore, Julius Roehrs and Lager & Hurstel.

The cut flower exhibit is shown in the hall of forestry, and includes the ornamental exhibits of the Windsor, the scarlet and white ground. The exhibitors include Henry Fairchild Osborn, president of the museum, H. Darlington, Mrs. W. D. Guthrie, John J. Baker, G. G. Mason, Mr. Determyer, William H. Fisher, Charles Hathaway, Sidney M. Colgate and Austin Colgate.

In the display of cut flowers and roses Mrs. W. D. Guthrie, Mrs. F. A. Constance, Henry Fairchild Osborn, G. G. Mason, William Stillaber, Miss C. A. Bliss and W. B. Thompson are among the exhibitors.

LOEFFLER'S MUSIC EXCELLENTLY PLAYED

"Villanelle du Diable" Reproduced at Symphony Society's Second Concert.

MME. HOMER THE SOLOIST

Metropolitan Contralto Heard in Music From Works of Bach and Verdi.

The chief interest of the second concert of the New York Symphony Society at Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon was found in the final number, Charles Martin Loeffler's "Villanelle du Diable." The work was last played here by the Philharmonic Society under Gustav Mahler in February, 1911, when it received much applause. Yesterday afternoon, although it was the last number, the audience expressed its pleasure in such a manner that the composer had to show himself and bow his thanks.

Mrs. Loeffler's brilliant talent as a composer has long been known to the inner circle of music lovers, those who are not afraid to like or dislike the pictures suggested by the opinions of Europe's conductors, and their credit, have at no time hesitated about giving Mr. Loeffler a hearing, for they well know that while he is a modernist in the full sense of the term he is also an independent.

His songs, his chamber music and his orchestral compositions are alive with the new thought in melodic and harmonic sense. He is not a follower of Strauss or Debussy. He is a creator of original, his treatment of it is his own. Best of all he has something to say, which cannot always be affirmed of so many of his contemporaries, for he converses in the speech of the musical futurists.

The "Villanelle du Diable" is one of Mr. Loeffler's most effective orchestral compositions. It is not one of his direct, for it is rather a piece of musical description than an expression of emotion. But it is panoramic in its richly colored and carefully depicted pictures, suggestive of Rollin's poem. The orchestration has not a bald spot and the numerous rhythms afford constantly renewed stimulation to the ear. The work had been carefully prepared by Mr. Lamorch and his men and it was played admirably.

The concert began with Haydn's D minor symphony, after which Mme. Louise Homer of the Metropolitan Opera House sang "Oh, Farden 'Ma" from Bach's "St. Matthew" passion. Then followed Brahms's serenade in D, and before the Loeffler work the air "Oh, Don Patale" from Verdi's opera "Don Carlos." Mme. Homer sang the Bach air better than the Verdi music, but the audience enjoyed the popular style of the latter more, and therefore reserved its larger approval for the contralto's delivery of it.

It may be that Mme. Homer knew that she sang the Bach better, for her artistic knowledge ought to have told her so. Certainly it is tempting to be metric in the early Verdi. His century music is hard to resist when the composer's thought seems to call for it. But those who are the days for resurrecting the music of the past, the music of the past, must be celebrated and his last works are sadly wanting in air, which can be taken out and used for concert purposes. The entire programme heard yesterday will be repeated to-morrow afternoon.

Paderewski's Recital.

Mr. Paderewski has recovered from the grip, which disabled him for two weeks, and he will give his postponed recital in Aeolian Hall this afternoon at 2.30. The programme comprises a fantasia and fugue by Bach-Liszt; sonata in E major, opus 10, by Beethoven; carnival by Schumann; three pieces, Nocturne, Mazurka and sonata by Chopin, and two études by Liszt.

Mrs. Rider-Kelsey Recital.

Because of the sudden illness of Claude Cunningham, the baritone, the joint recital which was to have been given by him and Mme. Corinne Rider-Kelsey at Carnegie Hall has been postponed. Mrs. Rider-Kelsey will give a recital at the Metropolitan Opera House to-morrow afternoon.
