

MRS. WERNER LOSES ACTION FOR DIVORCE

Justice Bijur Takes Word of Lillian Draper, Named as Corespondent.

SHE LENT WERNER MONEY

Exporter Is in Ludlow Street Jail on Complaint of a Third Woman.

The testimony in a suit for divorce brought by Maude St. John Werner against Frederick J. Werner, head of the exporting firm of F. J. Werner & Co. of 11 Broadway, discloses that Supreme Court Justice Bijur believed the testimony of Justice and the correspondent in the case rather than that of Werner's partner and other witnesses called by Mrs. Werner.

The case also brought to light the fact that Werner is in Ludlow street jail under an order of arrest obtained by Miss Marion Whitten in a suit in which he is charged with getting $1,000 under a promise of marriage. The details of Miss Whitten's allegations against Werner have not yet been made public through the filing of a complaint, but Werner has obtained an order from Justice Blanchard substituting himself as his own attorney in the suit.

The Werners were married at Iliolo, Philippine Islands, in 1902, and after Werner came to New York and started an exporting business he established a residence at Roselle, N. J. In her complaint Mrs. Werner charged her husband with misconduct with Miss Lillian Draper, between 1909 and 1913, at 601 West 125th street and 98 Claremont avenue. Werner and Miss Draper became acquainted when both were connected with the Paper Export Association.

The chief witness against Werner was his partner, Joseph Gassner, who lived at 152 West 127th street, and who said that Werner accompanied him to Harlem about fifty times and said he was on his way to see Miss Draper. Gassner declared that Werner always referred to Miss Draper as "Briektop" and that he was known to the employees in the house where she lived as "Dr. Thomas." He said that occasionally Werner stopped on the way and bought wine to take to Miss Draper.

Werner denied that his relations with Miss Draper had been improper and said that she was seldom alone when he called. The correspondent defended herself vigorously on the witness stand, and in her testimony she said:

"I was interested in helping Mr. Werner because of his wife and children and I worked him to make good on their account. I never tired of hearing him talk of them. I helped him when he lost his position and was thrown out contemptibly. "Did he pay your rent?" asked counsel for Mrs. Werner.

"How dare you ask such a question?" replied Miss Draper. "Not one penny. I got him a position and would do it again."

"I believe Miss Draper and will dismiss the complaint," said Justice Bijur. Lewis Schuidentfel, counsel for Mrs. Werner, objected to the court's decision, and declared that the "unselfish, altruistic action of Miss Draper in lending Werner money for his family's sake is nothing but a flimsy and wholly improbable explanation and invention."

Miss Draper was telling the truth. COXMAN DOYLE AT SING SING. Hears Prison Musicians Play and See Vaudeville Show.

OSSEKING, N. Y., May 30.—Sir Arthur Cecil Doyle and W. J. Burns were the guests of Warden Clancy at Sing Sing prison today. They attended the band concert and vaudeville show given by the convicts in the administration building and had luncheon with the warden. Later they were shown through the prison and saw the death house, but did not enter it. Sir Arthur complimented the warden on the prison band and said he could hardly believe the musicians were prisoners.

Since his return to the death house Charles Becker is said to have lost a good part of the cheerfulness that characterized his first confinement there. He was reported to have been particularly depressed today. He often asks attendants what they think of his chances for another trial. He is dissatisfied with his cell No. 17, which is on the upper tier and does not get as good a light as the cell he had on the first tier.

KILLS HIMSELF IN STREET.

G. S. Smith, on Eve of Wedding Anniversary, Cuts His Throat.

NEWARK, N. J., May 30.—A man who is believed to be George S. Smith of 1135 Rodgers avenue, Flatbush, Brooklyn, committed suicide at New Jersey, Railroad avenue and Green street, this morning by cutting his throat with a razor. Cards belonging to "Dr. William P. Roberts, 2182 Clarendon road, Brooklyn," led to the probable identification.

Smith is a bridegroom of less than a year and his wife, who is 19 years old, was due to-day from Germany, where she went to visit relatives March 7. A few days ago her husband received a letter from her, saying she wanted to be home for their first wedding anniversary next Thursday.

From Dr. Roberts it was learned that the description of the suicide tallied with that of Smith. The doctor said that Smith called on him yesterday and appeared to be depressed, worrying over imaginary troubles. The doctor said he tried to impress upon him that there was no need for worry and slapping him on the back, told him to go to a moving picture show. The suicide was about 25 years old.

COLUMBIA SENIORS HEAR SERMON TO-DAY

Chaplain Knox to Deliver the Baccalaureate Address in University Gymnasium.

Columbia University begins to-day exercises incidental to the 100th commencement, which will be held on Wednesday. The candidates for degrees, estimated at 2,000, will hear the Rev. Raymond C. Knox, chaplain of the university, preach the baccalaureate sermon this afternoon in the university gymnasium.

The senior class day exercises will be held in the gymnasium to-morrow afternoon, after which will come a baseball game on South Field between the Columbia and Syracuse varsity nines and a the dance in Earl Hall. Later Dean Russell will preside at the reception for the recipients of degrees from Teachers College.

George McAneny, President of the Board of Aldermen, is to address the Phi Beta Kappa society to-morrow evening following a meeting of the society at which the year's initiates will be formally taken into the bonds. The seniors of Barnard College will hold their class dance in Earl Hall immediately after Mr. McAneny's oration.

Barnard College will have the honor of beginning the day's ceremonies Tuesday. The annual ivy day exercises will take place in the Milbank quadrangle at 4:30, just half an hour before the statue of Thomas Jefferson, which is to stand in front of the school of journalism building, is unveiled. Tuesday evening will be devoted to the campus festivities, which will include organ recitals and dances on the green.

The commencement exercises, the big feature of the week, will take up nearly all Wednesday. The Teachers College seniors will start the day by making their class gift to the university at 8:45 o'clock. The academic procession, made up of the candidates for degrees, the faculty, alumni and trustees, will march into the gymnasium at 10:30 o'clock, when the degrees will be conferred by President Butler. The Columbia alumni will lunch in the gymnasium, the Barnard alumni will have their repair in Brookline and will attend a baseball game with their in Thompson gymnasium.

The alumni of Columbia will have their annual costume parade on South Field after the luncheon, and the Barnard alumni will emulate their brothers by having a parade on the Milbank quadrangle. The Columbia graduates will watch the Columbia nine try to beat the University of Pennsylvania after the parade and then will adjourn to the commons for a beefsteak dinner. The day will be brought to an end with a songfest on the library steps.

ARBITRATION PLAN FOR CITY. Bruere Submits Outline to Mayor for C. F. U. Delegates.

James P. Holland, chairman of the Central Federated Union, said yesterday that City Chamberlain Bruere, on behalf of the delegates of the C. F. U., had submitted to Mayor Mitchell a plan for the appointment of an arbitration board to deal with all the grievances of the city employees in relation to their work.

He expected to see the representatives of the C. F. U. would hold a conference shortly with the Mayor, and he had reason to believe the Mayor would give the question favorable consideration.

WORKHORSE HAS HIS DAY; DOG HEROES, TOO, EXTOLLED

Veterans of City Streets Draw Applauding Crowds to Fifth Avenue--Medals and Ribbons for Winners.

The ordinary work horse had his day yesterday. The horses that bring the city's milk, haul its trunks and deliver its groceries shared honors with the horses that help clean the streets, put out fires and do police work. Eight hundred and sixty animals in all paraded up Fifth avenue behind a brass band, while thousands of New Yorkers applauded.

Mrs. James Speyer, president of the New York Women's League for Animals, which arranged the parade, handed out ribbons, medals and cash prizes. With her on the reviewing stand in Madison Square were Fire Commissioner Robert Adamson, Street Cleaning Commissioner J. T. Fetherston, E. W. Bush, president of the Missouri Pacific railroad; Miss Emma Prohman and many others.

A hundred judges began work early yesterday morning, looking over the horses which were lined up on the cross-town streets from Washington Square to Tenth street. By 10 o'clock each winner had his ribbon and the parade moved up Fifth avenue. In front of the reviewing stand winning horses that work for the city departments were decorated with medals and cash prizes were given to the owners of others. Life saving medals were awarded to several dog heroes.

The mounts of Sergt. John Schofield and Policeman Lowry Mead won blue ribbons in spite of their 22 years each. These horses are Frank and Dart, the veteran animals of the Police Department. Lieut. Gorge Wood's Shamrock, 19 years old, got a blue ribbon. Other blue ribbon winners in the Police Department were the mounts ridden by Policemen Alexis Kleinmeier, William T. McGrail, Edward C. Turner, James F. Smith, Adolph Stoll, along the line. Each of the teams won a prize in its class. The horses of the Bernheimer & Schwartz Brewing Company, the Knickerbocker Ice Company, the Acker, Merrall & Condit Company and the Fort George Express Company also won prizes.

The smallest "horse" to get a blue ribbon was Charles Kennedy's Peanut. He was driven by William Kennedy and won in the pony class over James Goodfellow's Jimmy. Yesterday's show was the eighth annual parade, and was the result of the work of Mrs. James Speyer.

"The work horse parade," said Mrs. Speyer yesterday, "serves to stimulate every year more and more both driver and owner to a kinder and a better care of their dumb breadwinners. The New York Women's League for Animals was organized in 1910 and its particular objects are the maintenance of dispensaries and hospitals for the treatment of animals and the promotion of kind and humane treatment."

"Each blue ribbon winner in the parade to-day received a $5 cash prize, red ribbon winners got $3 and yellow ribbon winners $1. Light blue ribbons indicated honorable mention."

Mrs. Speyer and her fellow workers were delighted with the success of the parade. They were especially pleased that so many New Yorkers deserted other amusements and celebrations to line up along Fifth avenue to see the work horses.

Clergyman and Wife Wed 59 Years. The Rev. Dr. Jesse E. Thomas, formerly pastor of the First Baptist Church of Brooklyn, now the Baptist Temple, and his wife celebrated yesterday the fifty-ninth anniversary of their marriage. The celebration took place at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Harrington of North Westland avenue, Queens, L. I.

WEATHER FORECAST

Washington Predictions for To-day and To-morrow.

For eastern New York, fair to-day and to-morrow; light to moderate, variable winds. For New England, fair to-day and to-morrow; light to moderate, variable winds. For New Jersey, fair to-day and to-morrow; light to moderate, variable winds.

NEW YORK, May 31.—There was an area of low pressure passing eastward over the lake regions in the middle Atlantic and New England States yesterday, attended by cloudiness and scattered showers in these districts. There was somewhat of an increase of temperature in these sections. Showers and thunderstorms also occurred in the Ohio and Tennessee valleys and in parts of the Southern States. In the States in the extreme West and Northwest it was generally fair. It was warmer again in the Rocky Mountain States and Northwest, and it was becoming generally warmer everywhere east of the Mississippi River.

In this city the day was cloudy, with some showers and a little sunshine and slightly warmer; winds fresh, southerly; average humidity, 74 per cent; barometer, corrected to read to sea level, at 8 A. M., 30.25; 8 P. M., 30.12.

The temperature in this city yesterday, as recorded by the official thermometer, is shown in the annexed table:
