

NEW EVIDENCE FOUND TO PROVE BALLOU MURDER

Unexpected Discovery Brings Inquest to Sudden Stop.

POLICE SURE OF CRIME

Second Man Now Involved in Case, Says Chief Brennan.

NEW LETTERS ARE SEIZED

Investigators Load Automobile With Articles From Mrs. Angle's Flat.

STAMFORD, Conn., June 29.—The unexpected discovery of evidence which may supply a motive for putting Waldo R. Ballou out of the way and which more strongly than ever indicates the presence of a third person in the Ripowan Building last Tuesday night, when the aged politician received fatal injuries was made this afternoon.

The discovery caused Coroner Phelan to adjourn his inquest at the moment he was to call his first witness. He continued the $5,000 bail of Mrs. Helen M. Angle, whose apartments Mr. Ballou visited on the night of his death. The session is now set for Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Chief of Police Brennan told reporters to-night of the discovery, but in a most guarded manner.

"All I can say," he said, "is that we made discoveries at the flat to-day which in my opinion establish a murder. It involves a third person, a second man; that is all I will tell you."

The chief stood firm in this. He would not even hint at what he had found nor would he explain how a second man was dragged into it. He did say that he believed the mystery in the case would be cleared by Thursday afternoon or Friday.

Three Keen Minds Direct Inquiry.

Investigation into the death of Mr. Ballou is now proceeding under the direction of three men of highly trained intelligence. Homer S. Cummings, who becomes State's Attorney of Fairfield county on Wednesday, is at the head of the investigators. Mr. Cummings has been Mayor of Stamford, is now vice-chairman of the National Democratic Committee, was personal counsel for Charles S. Mellen in the recent prosecution of the ex-president of the New Haven and is also counsel for John Billard. With him are Albert B. Phillips, city prosecutor of Stamford, and Chief Brennan, a veteran investigator of crimes.

These three men, accompanied by Dr. Bruce Weaver, pathologist, and Harold Parsons, city engineer, spent three hours in the flat of Mrs. Angle this morning. In the afternoon, when joined by Coroner Phelan, they spent two hours more there. As a result of those investigations an automobile took to police headquarters to-night a bundle of letters which filled a collar box, a rug which was on the floor of Mrs. Angle's bedroom, a pillow, some bed clothing and some other articles which the police would not show.

The letters were so carefully guarded that no one would tell who had written them or who had received them. It was said they were not from "Charlie" or "C," the gunner of the Texas, whose letters were found on Friday, but that was all.

Rug May Have Been Washed.

It was learned that the rug was taken because on the under side of it the investigators found blood stains which were not visible at the first superficial examination because it appears as if the top side of the rug had been carefully washed, when or by whom was not stated. Dr. Weaver will make a chemical analysis of the stains to-morrow.

The police theory is that Mr. Ballou went to Mrs. Angle's apartments and remained until 9:30 o'clock, when he left and went to Kessler's saloon, where he took a drink of whiskey, which was not an unusual thing for him to do. Something made him decide to return to the apartment, which he did, as Mrs. Angle has related.

Ex-Judge H. Stanley Finch, who is the counsel for Leonard Blondell, father of Mrs. Angle, supplied an additional theory to-day.

"If Mr. Ballou was struck at that time any person could have done it," he said. "A man could have secreted himself in the building for the purpose of robbing Mrs. Angle, and as the hall was dark he could have struck Mr. Ballou. Mrs. Angle was known to be the collector of her father's rents during his absence and on this very night had $500 in cash in her possession."

The police comment on this was that Mr. Ballou unexpectedly came upon another man in the building and soon after fell with a crash, as Merritt and Rabbit, the two men in the building, heard. Later he was carried out by Mrs. Angle, who told him on the street for fresh air and for fear of the scandal which would follow the discovery of a tragedy so near her door.

ANTI-SERB RIOTS FOLLOW ARCHDUKE'S MURDER; FOUR KINGS TO ATTEND FUNERAL ON FRIDAY

Fears Expressed That Assassination of Austrian Heir and Wife May Lead to a Conflict With Serbia.

VIENNA, June 29.—There is general mourning in the city over the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand, the heir to the throne, and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenberg, at Sarajevo, the capital of Bosnia, yesterday.

While everything is quiet here at present there is an undercurrent of fear that yesterday's tragedy may lead to serious complications between Austria and Serbia, in which the Serbs, who are in great numbers in Bosnia and Herzegovina and other Austrian territory, would side with the latter country.

The Archduke Francis Ferdinand, it was generally known, was very aggressive in his acts and opinions, and his removal leaves a peculiar situation owing to the age and feebleness of Emperor Francis Joseph and the fact that little or nothing is known of the Archduke Charles Francis Joseph, the new heir to the throne.

There was rioting at Sarajevo to-day, caused principally by the feeling of the pro-Austrians against the Serbs, but brought about directly by the report that a bomb had been exploded in one of the shops. Martial law was declared and at last reports the military had the situation well in hand.

Four kings, including the Kaiser, will attend the funeral of the Archduke and the Duchess next Friday night. The bodies, according to the present programme, will be buried at midnight at Artstetten, the seat of the late Archduke, some fifty miles from Vienna.

The bodies were taken from Sarajevo to-day and started on their way to Vienna via Dalmatia and Trieste. The public will be allowed to view the bodies when they lie in state here next Friday.

FOUR KINGS AT THE FUNERAL.

Bodies of Sain Couple to Lie in State in Vienna.

VIENNA, June 29.—In addition to the Kaiser, the Kings of Spain, Bavaria and Saxony are expected to attend the funeral of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenberg. The bodies will be buried at the Archduke's seat at Artstetten, about fifty miles from this city.

The bodies were removed from Sarajevo to Metkovich, in Dalmatia, to-day. They will be placed on a warship there to-morrow, and under the escort of a squadron of naval vessels will be taken to Trieste. From Trieste the bodies will be brought to this city, where they will lie in state for public view from 8 A. M. until noon on Friday. They will be taken to Artstetten at 1 o'clock that night and the funeral will take place at midnight.

The Archduke Charles Francis Joseph, the new heir to the throne, will represent Emperor Francis Joseph at the funeral. It is firmly believed here that Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenberg, were killed as a result of the plot. It is thought that the organization had its headquarters in Belgrade. The Serbian hatred of the Austrians has recently been inflamed by statements, writings and speeches made in a number of quarters. Scores of agitators have been stirring Serbian students against the Austrians and Belgrade newspapers have been filled with bitter articles attacking Austria for threatened legislation affecting Serbs.

Archduke Charles Francis Joseph, the new heir to the throne, and his son.

In the above photograph of the Sarajevo town hall the river Miljacka, into which one of the assassins jumped, is shown in the foreground. Along the wall on the right is a promenade along which the royal cortege proceeded to the town hall. Sarajevo, while a very pretty city, due principally to Austrian improvements, is still primitive, and the scene at the left is a typical view of its streets.

If the attack was caused by a desire to frighten the Austrian legislators from passing measures designed to repress the Serbs it will probably have the opposite effect, for even now before the bodies of the victims have been interred the talk of the authorities here is of passing severe measures against those Serbs who live in Bosnia and Austria. This will further embitter the relations between the two countries, as well as those between Austria and Russia, which is very friendly to all Serbs.

The city is filled with mourning emblems to-day, all the public buildings and most of the business houses being covered with black crepe.

The Emperor arrived from Ischl at 11 o'clock this morning and a vast crowd greeted him with subdued cheers. He was driven in an open carriage to Schonbrunn Castle and appeared to be in good health. Archduke Charles Francis Joseph greeted him at the palace.

All Depends on Old Emperor.

Emperor Francis Joseph, now 84 years old and ill, may be seriously affected by the latest misfortune which has befallen him. If he should die soon the political tangle caused by the assassinations would increase in perplexity, and it is possible that central Europe would be plunged into war.

The aged Emperor, by his personal popularity among the twenty races inhabiting his empire and by force of good government, has managed to keep the different parts of his empire in good feeling. If the Archduke's nephew, Charles Francis Joseph, an untitled boy of 26 years, succeeds to the throne before he has been fully trained to handle the reins of government any mistake he might make would rend his empire asunder. The heir apparent is personally popular among all classes in the empire, as is his wife.

The death of the Archduke has, it is believed, cleared the air in certain ways of a great deal of doubt as to the future. He was an ardent Catholic and the chief supporter of the powerful anti-Semitic party in Austria. He was supposed to be friendly to Germany, but never came under her influence, and as a ruler might break with Germany at any time. He was strongly anti-Russian; he was not in sympathy with the Magyar regime in Hungary, and was so strong and aggressive in his dislikes and methods that it is probable that as a ruler he would have speedily alienated important parts of his own country and powerful foreign countries.

New Heir Unknown Quantity.

It is said that Charles Francis Joseph has no strong political opinions, although it is thought that he will prove a strong supporter of Germany and the Triple Alliance. His uncle, the Kings of Bavaria and Saxony, have instilled a pro-German feeling in the young man, and the Emperor, with whom the heir apparent has always been a strong favorite, has encouraged this feeling.

His personal popularity at this time causes a general belief that if he has time to prepare for the duties of Emperor he may prove to be a second Francis Joseph, popular with all races and strong enough and polite enough to keep all his peoples contented. He is an ardent Catholic, but it is said that like the Emperor he has no inclination to mix together religion and politics.

His education has been careful, and he possesses the knack of making friends easily. He attended classes at the school conducted by the Benedictine monks, the most liberal Catholic seminary in Austria, and there he mingled freely with the sons of the professional and business men. His popularity with his schoolmates was of the highest, and he never took advantage of his rank to get out of any of his duties.

WILD RIOTING IN SARAJEVO.

Houses and Shops of Serbs Attacked—Bomb Thrown in Street.

SARAJEVO, Bosnia, June 29.—After a series of popular demonstrations this morning against the Serbs, who as a race are held responsible for the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, the Duchess of Hohenberg, yesterday, martial law was declared both in this city and in the district of Sarajevo, and the troops had met with great difficulty in restraining the mobs which formed in the streets.

The outbreak began when a youth hurled a bomb into a shop owned by a Serb. The riotous element immediately took up the suggestion and marched up and down in the main parts of the city, shouting imprecations against the Serbs.

The few Servians who were found were roughly handled by the crowd until they escaped. The mob broke up into several parts and went through the business part of town stoning the windows of Serbian shops, schools, clubs and homes, and looting them. Each division of the mob carried a banner with the portrait of Emperor Francis Joseph, and sang the Austrian national anthem.

The troops were finally called out to quell them. No shots were fired, but the troops were forced to club some of the more enthusiastic rioters with the butts of their muskets before the streets were cleared. Then troops were stationed in all the principal parts of the city, and the outlying districts are patrolled by armed sentries. The feeling against the Serbs by the loyal Austrians is so strong that the Servians here will be in great danger for some time to come.

N. Y. RAT WAR URGED TO PREVENT PLAGUE

Government Warns Atlantic and Mississippi Ports to Fight New Orleans Danger.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Stringent measures to prevent a bubonic plague following the reports of one death and another case in New Orleans were admitted by Surgeon-General Blue this afternoon. Two experts from the Department of Health were ordered to the afflicted city and telegrams were sent to public health officials in every State bordering on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts and those fronting on the Mississippi River detailing preventive measures.

Every port from New York to Galveston and up the Mississippi to St. Louis is to be urged to begin immediately a campaign of extermination against rats.

Dr. Blue and Assistant Surgeon-General Rucker held a long conference to-day with Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo about the conditions at ports. The Secretary then ordered Surgeon-General Blue and Assistant Surgeon-General R. H. Croll to New Orleans to investigate.

All steamers going to New York from New Orleans will be placed in quarantine and will be thoroughly fumigated.

All steamers, whether starting for coast, foreign or Mississippi River ports, will be thoroughly fumigated and then protected with rat guards.

All freight, whether leaving New Orleans by steamer or rail, that a rat might hide in will be held up unless fumigated.

In this way it is hoped to prevent the spread of the plague, which with the exception of a single case in California recently, has not been found in a human in the United States since the epidemic in cattle six years ago.

NEW ORLEANS ARMS GUARDS.

Big District Is Isolated—Five Cents a Rat in Galveston.

NEW ORLEANS, June 29.—As a result of the discovery here of two cases of bubonic plague a district eight blocks square and close to the heart of the city was placed under quarantine to-day. The City Hall, some mercantile and manufacturing establishments and many homes are included in the territory.

Armed guards are on duty and a large rat killing force has been put to work. State and city health officers have begun an elaborate clean up campaign and ample funds for the fight to stamp out the disease are said to be available.

Charles Lundene, the Swede taken from the home of the Volunteers of America suffering from the disease, died last night. W. Wilkinson, from the same place, is in a serious condition.

Two suspected cases under observation were declared to-night by health authorities not to have the plague.

Galveston, June 29.—City, State and Federal health officers adopted methods to-day for preventing the plague from gaining a foothold here by imposing a strict water quarantine against New Orleans, providing for a sanitary survey of Galveston and imposing regulations against rats entering the city from ships.

The city health officials here have renewed their offer of five cents a head for rodents, dead or alive.

READY IF PLAGUE COMES HERE

Health Officer Blacklists Ports Where Bubonic Fever Rages.

The existence of bubonic plague in New Orleans and Santiago de Cuba inspired Dr. Joseph J. O'Connell, Health Officer, last night to declare quarantine against those ports. Dr. O'Connell said:

"I believe we need not fear any visitation in New York, as we are well prepared to cope with it. It is one of the most difficult things with which a quarantine service has to deal. The peculiar agency, the rat flea, makes it impossible to declare positively that it will not invade any port, as rats and ships have been associated since ships were first made."

Every ship from plague ports will be fumigated.

GOLF CLUB INVADDED BY FENCE BUILDER

Trouble Due to Hayes's Claim to Six Lots in Big Fox Hill Links.

The serenity on the links of the Fox Hills Golf Club at Clifton, Staten Island, was disturbed yesterday by Thomas Hayes of 235 West 125th street, Manhattan, who insisted that he owned six lots in the forty acres of land leased by the golf club from the Vanderbilt estate. Hayes said he had a deed dating back to 1809 entitling him to the property. He showed his determination yesterday to obtain possession of the property by building a fence right across the fairway of one of the golf holes.

A summons to the Magistrate's court did not stop him from hiring ten men to dig post holes and complete the fence. So exciting became the situation that Sgt. McKee of the Stapleton police station and six patrolmen, assisted by deputy sheriffs, were needed last night to prevent trouble.

Hayes first appeared on the golf links on Sunday morning. The course is one of the best in the country. The members of the club include distinguished lawyers, bankers and professional men. Hayes was accompanied by several men. He went to a spot near Vanduser street, about half a mile from the golf clubhouse, where his alleged six lots lie. Then he started to dig his post holes within a few feet of one of the golf holes.

George W. Saacke, a member of the club, living on Fingerboard road, near Fort Wadsworth, made inquiries and when he learned what Hayes's claims and intentions were he hurried away to the Magistrate's Court, where he got a summons for Hayes on a charge of violating the Sunday law.

Hayes was held in $500 bail for examination on July 2 before Magistrate Marsh. The members of the club thought that this would stop Hayes's fence building, but it didn't. Within an hour he had his ten men at work extending his fence right across the green between two golf holes.

Then the police were called. Hayes was ordered from the links and Saacke had the fence torn down.

More trouble is expected to-day.

VILLA IN RAGE MOVES TROOPS NEAR CARRANZA

Leads 25,000 Men to Torreon, a Veiled Threat Against His Chief.

CLASH IS PREDICTED WITHIN A FEW DAYS

Fighting General in Smooth Message Explains March to North.

BRITISH HAVE WARNING TO GET OUT OF COUNTRY

Minister Carden, Fearing Disorders in the Capital, Issues Notice to His Compatriots.

The break between Carranza and Villa is widening. Gen. Villa's move to the north with his fighting army is construed as a threat against his chief. The prediction is made that a clash between the two will come within a few days if Carranza does not recede from his attitude.

Sir Lionel Carden, the British Minister to Mexico, fearing disorders, if not actual fighting, soon in the Mexican capital, has advised all British subjects to leave the capital without delay.

The A B C mediators have recalled Ambassador da Gama of Brazil from his summer home at Long Branch to Niagara Falls. Announcement of the close of the mediation conference is expected to follow shortly.

VILLA HOLDS RAILROADS.

Can Throw Men Across Coahuila and Surprise Carranza.

EL PASO, June 29.—Another few days will witness a pitched battle between Gen. Carranza and Gen. Pancho Villa for supremacy in the Constitutionalist cause unless Carranza himself manifests a complete change of attitude.

Flaming with wrath because the Supreme Chief positively refused to forward to him munitions sufficient to make the dash from Zacatecas to Mexico city, Villa and the flower of his army of 25,000 men are arriving to-night at Torreon, which is only 270 miles from Monterrey, Carranza's new capital.

The last stage has now been reached, for Villa has two lines of railroad with which he can throw his men across the State of Coahuila, and he can do it before any of the eastern Generals reported loyal to Carranza can come to his assistance. His military chiefs and representatives in the United States are now proceeding to Monterrey for the purpose of discussing the mediation proposals, but they are going singly by way of Laredo and they have no men with them.

Villa's Smooth Message.

Gen. Villa sent telegraphic despatches to his agents at Juarez to-day from a way station south of Torreon. They were in the polished phrase of Gen. Felipe Angeles, his chief of staff, artillery commander and closest adviser.

"There is no active breach," the messages ran. "I am returning because of shortage of ammunition, besides which there is no present need for me in the south, as the Federals are shortly to evacuate Aguascalientes."

There was also denial that Gen. Angeles is responsible for the rupture between the Supreme Chief and his most successful fighting General. This was in the face of the statement of Secretary Breceda on Saturday night that Angeles was the trouble maker.

"There is no evidence that Breceda, who is merely the clerk of Carranza, speaks with any of the authority of his chief," the despatch continued. "It is not the manner of the First Chief to hide behind subordinates in making his declarations."

Gen. Carranza at Monterrey shows no signs of receding from any position he has taken. In a speech last night he reiterated that he only feared "Judases in his own ranks," which was taken as another slap at Villa and Angeles. He also repented his former declarations against the United States. He declared the United States is assuming the role of a dictator, and that Mexico is tired of dictators.

"No such role will be tolerated by the Constitutionlists."

These words were enthusiastically cheered by all who heard them.

Friends of the Constitutionalist cause who are at the border towns, according to despatches received to-day, are making every effort to prevent an armed clash between the two factions. They are exerting strong pressure for peace, and it is all being exerted on Gen. Carranza himself. They are trying to make him forget his "honor," which he considers injured by the attitude of Villa toward him, his subordinates and his
