JOHN STREET TABLE READY.

Malden Lane Historical Society to Dedicate Memorial.

A bronze tablet to be placed on the building at 11 John Street, corner of Broadway, for the Malden Lane Historical Society will be dedicated to-morrow evening in the assembly hall of the New York Historical Society at Central Park West, between Seventy-sixth and Seventy-seventh streets. The ceremony will begin with an address by Augustine K. Sloan and then will follow the unveiling of the tablet. "The Story of John Street" will be told by Dr. Edward Haganman Hall. The exercises will close with a lecture by Albert Ellmann on "Curiosities of New York History." A complimentary luncheon will be given to-morrow by the Malden Lane Historical Society to its members at the Lawyers Club, 415 Broadway. The tablet bears the following inscription: "John Street, named in honor of John Harpenden, a tanner, whose homestead was situated at the corner of Maiden Lane and Broadway. He was a public spirited citizen who owned much land in this vicinity a portion of which he bequeathed to the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church in 1723. John Street first appears upon a map bearing the date 1659, describing a section known as the shoemakers' lane extending from Maiden Lane to Ann Street, east of Broadway. John Street became identified with the jewelry trade about 1850. Erected by the Malden Lane Historical Society, 1914."

PROF. E. W. BROWN IS HONORED.

Receives Gold Medal From Council of the Royal Society.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 18.—One of the highest honors ever accorded a Yale scientist has just been given Prof. Ernest William Brown of the university, according to an official announcement made here today. That King George has approved the presentation by the Council of the Royal Society of a gold medal to the astronomer for his investigations in astronomy. This medal has rarely been awarded to any one but a British subject and is one of two that are given yearly by the King.

Prof. Brown came to Yale in 1907 and during the last six years he has devoted much of his time to computing new tables of the moon's motions, a series of 500 terms from which it is possible to compute the position of the moon at any time. The work has just been completed and is being published at Yale.
