

A GALLANT IRISHMAN'S SPLENDID STAND.

One section of the deep shelter trenches was rushed by the Germans, and when relieved by the British only one of the fifteen British soldiers was standing, and he kept on firing until he fell unconscious from the effects of his wounds.

Drawn by R. Caton Woodville from a sketch by Frederic Villiers.
Copyrighted, 1914, by The Sun Printing and Publishing Association by special arrangement with the Illustrated London News.

