MADISON SQUARE SOUTH, NEW YORK NOW ON FREE VIEW 9 A. M. TO 6 P. M. (Sunday Excepted) TO BE SOLD AT UNRESTRICTED PUBLIC SALE

On Thursday Evening January 21st, at 8:30 o'clock in the Grand Ball Room of the Plaza (Admission by card to be had free of the managers)

The Private Collection of Early English Portraits and Other Paintings formed by the late F. A. G. Hood, Esq. Dorset Square, London and to be sold by direction of his son, G. F. W. HOOD, Esq., of Fern Bank, Carlisle, England, owing to the conditions brought about by the European war.

The Hood Collection, the chief glory of which is its group of portraits by English masters, was formed by the late F. A. G. Hood of England and is now sold by his son. That it is a sale reluctantly entered into by the owners may be presumed from the fact that a number of the canvases are portraits of ancestors of the Hoods.

including "The Hon. Mrs. Bushell," By Sir Henry Raeburn

Praised by Robert Louis Stevenson in "Virginibus Puerisque" "Raeburn's 'Hon. Mrs. Bushell' is one of his finest things, being quite free from the artificiality in lighting to which he was so addicted. The old head has more modelling in it, too, than was customary with him. The portrait is truly painted, a solid, thought-out piece of workmanship."—ROYAL CORTISZOZ IN THE TRIBUNE.

John Willet Hood (ancestor of the late owner) By Gilbert Stuart

"And to round out the ensemble with a dignity and distinction flattering to our national pride there is a capital portrait by the great eighteenth century American, Gilbert Stuart. His 'John Willet Hood,' one of the old family memorials we have mentioned, is significant of the most winning phase of the artistic period from which it dates. It has character, it is well drawn; the quiet tones are pure and attractive, and the whole work breathes a note of refinement and well poised strength. It is one of the pillars of the collection."—ROYAL CORTISZOZ IN THE TRIBUNE.

Admiral Berkeley (under whose orders the Leopard engaged the frigate U. S. Chesapeake in 1807)

By Sir William Beechey

"Not all the pictures are portraits. A dignified and distinguished portrait of our national pride there is a capital portrait by the great eighteenth century American, Gilbert Stuart. His 'John Willet Hood,' one of the old family memorials we have mentioned, is significant of the most winning phase of the artistic period from which it dates. It has character, it is well drawn; the quiet tones are pure and attractive, and the whole work breathes a note of refinement and well poised strength. It is one of the pillars of the collection."—ROYAL CORTISZOZ IN THE TRIBUNE.

The Lute Player By Jacob De Bray

"The Lute Player" by Jacob De Bray, is one of the most striking canvases in the collection."—THE TIMES.

Lieut. G. Hood Robinson By John Opie

"Opie rises to a dignity quite beyond that usual to him in this spirited young head, richly modelled in a grave scheme of black and gray and white."—THE TIMES.

ILLUSTRATED AND OTHER CATALOGUES AND FURTHER INFORMATION WILL BE FURNISHED BY THE MANAGERS

The sales will be conducted by MR. THOMAS E. KIRBY and his assistant, Mr. Otto Bernet, of the AMERICAN ART ASSOCIATION, Managers 2, 4 and 6 E. 23d Street, Madison Sq. South, New York.
