Short Circuit Followed by Electric Display Causes Panic on Cars.

GUARDS PUT OUT FIRE IN SPITE OF HEAT TOO

Four persons were burned by flames from a short circuit in a Broadway subway train at the Manhattan street station late yesterday afternoon.

The train, an express from Borough Hall with ten cars, all well filled, was pulling into the Manhattan street station when the short circuit occurred.

Boy of 7 Goes Beyond His Depth in the Lake in Central Park.

Three boys who sought relief from the heat yesterday in the cooling water were drowned. One, a child of 7, drowned in the lake in Central Park, one in the Sound of Whitestone and one in a pond in Passaic.

Ernest Mauro, 12, son of Louis Mauro of 18 Eleventh avenue, Whitestone, swam out too far in the Sound of Whitestone Landing yesterday afternoon, and though William McCall answered his cries for help and dived for him several times he was dead when brought to shore.

The little boy, Phillip Coni of 334 Tenth avenue, came over to Central Park yesterday afternoon with his five-year-old brother Memo and other boys to wade and sail boats in the lake.

HAD $17,000 CHECK; DEAD BESIDE TRACKS

Body at Hastings Identified as That of Richard Moynan of Brooklyn.

Autumn Pearl Crushed by Car.

When the body was searched only 20 cents was found. An identification card led to the finding of his daughters in Brooklyn. Miss Fannie Moynan told the police her father had shown her a certified check for $17,000 before he left to transact some business in Westchester county. Upon his return the family had planned to go to the exposition in San Francisco.

William McKeon, the freight agent, discovered the body at 3 o'clock in the morning. The body was badly mangled and lay beside the tracks used by passenger trains.

As no witnesses have been found except McKeon, who can tell only of finding the body, it is not expected the inquest to be held in a few days will develop anything to aid the police in solving the mystery.

Ignatz Rebbner, 45, of 728 East Twelfth street, dived into the East River at Tenth street yesterday afternoon to get cool. A few minutes later bystanders noticed that he was gone. After some time the police of Harbor A recovered the body.

At about the same time an unknown man was seen swimming about in the East River at Market street. Suddenly other bathers saw him sink. They did not see him rise again and the body could not be recovered. Nobody could describe the man.

BLAST STIRS BROADWAY.

Firemen Slide Down Hose Lines to Fight Subway Blast.

Ex-Chief Gives Views.

"I had supposed that all the drinking firemen had been weeded out of the department," former Fire Chief Conway, who owns the saloon building, said to a reporter for THE SUN. "This looks as if Hague thinks there are still some left, doesn't it? However, I approve of his efforts to keep firemen away from firewater, and if the fence will keep them out of my son's saloon all well and good. It has been my experience that a fireman or any other man wants a drink he is going to get it even if he has to go over a fence."

"No, I have not decided to become a candidate for Commissioner, but of course no one can tell what the future may bring forth. I am not particularly interested in the controversy over the fence, but you must bear in mind that if it's a spite fence the State gives one redress. There's much better business, however, than building fences."

Ex-Chief Conway retired on January 1 after nearly thirty-four years of service. He was head of the department twenty-three years.
