

MR. MORGAN NOW ON WAY TO RECOVERY

Condition So Satisfactory Only One Doctor Remains With the Patient.

STRICT GUARD IS KEPT

J. P. Morgan is safely on the road to recovery from the attack of appendicitis which necessitated an operation last Friday. His condition was so satisfactory to his medical advisers and family that only one doctor remained yesterday at the Morgan home on East Island, near Glen Cove, L. I.

Dr. James W. Markoe returned to the city, leaving Dr. H. H. M. Lyle in charge of the patient. Dr. Markoe visited the patient again in the evening, and at 9 o'clock this bulletin was issued: "Mr. Morgan has had a comfortable day and his condition is satisfactory."

The first news that came from the Morgan home yesterday morning was that Mr. Morgan was practically out of danger. His temperature and pulse completely reassured his physicians, who found also that he had passed a comfortable night. A formal bulletin was issued by Dr. Lyle and Dr. Markoe at 10 A. M. and was given out at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. in the following terms:

"J. P. Morgan spent a comfortable night following the operation upon him for appendicitis and his condition today is in every way satisfactory, according to the bulletin issued by his physicians."

A very strict guard is being maintained at the Morgan country place. A chain stretches across the bridge that connects Dana Island with East Island. Guards patrol the Sound near the Morgan home and no boats can approach the island without being challenged. These precautions were taken in order to guarantee perfect quiet.

It was learned that word has been conveyed to friends of the Morgan family that strict quiet has been ordered by the doctors for both in and around the house and that all inquiries should be made at the Morgan offices rather than by personal or telephone call to the house.

So far as could be learned, the only calls admitted to the Morgan grounds during the day was the Rev. John Hinton, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church of Larchmont, near Glen Cove, of which Mr. Morgan is a vestryman. He called just before noon and after returning here said:

"Mr. Morgan appears to be doing very well. He rested comfortably last night and this morning, and the family is very optimistic about his condition."

MILITIA TO SUPPORT GARRISON'S POLICY

National Guard Leaders Assure Secretary Big Army Plans Are Acceptable.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The strong support of the National Guard organization was virtually assured the Garrison military policy to-night, following the termination of a series of conferences between Secretary Garrison and officials of the militia organizations.

While not attempting to commit the National Guard as a whole, the officers who have been conferring with Mr. Garrison to-night indicated that as individuals they will support the new plan for the military establishment.

During the last few days there has been a growing impression that the fear that the proposed new forces of "Continental" would supersede the militia and would result in the National Guard adopting an unfriendly attitude toward the Administration's new policy. This fear is being largely dispelled as a result of the conference of the last two days.

Major-General C. R. Foster of Florida, chairman of the executive committee of the National Guard Association, discussed the attitude of the National Guard organization officers toward the Administration's proposals. This was at the conclusion of a final conference in the office of Secretary Garrison at the War Department, which continued until 11 o'clock to-day. To-day the National Guardmen are leaving for San Francisco, where the annual meeting of the National Guard Association is to take place.

Gen. Foster made it clear that the National Guard is first of all for the militia pay bill now before Congress.

Discussion of this measure and other plans of the Administration for strengthening the militia was the chief object of the conference, Gen. Foster said. Every detail of the Administration's plans for aiding the militia was thoroughly gone into, he said. Gen. Foster expressed great satisfaction that the complete military policy of the Administration does not minimize the importance of the organized militia as a part of the national defense, but instead includes provisions for strengthening it.

Gen. Foster announced that the executive committee of the National Guard Association drew up while in Washington its report on the militia pay bill to be presented to the convention in San Francisco on November 9. The measure, which is to receive the strong endorsement of the committee, calls for the expenditure of about $8,000,000 a year for Federal pay of the militia in addition to the expenditures now made by the War Department for the equipment and other aid of the militia.

MIDSHIPMAN IS DISMISSED

Edward J. Lowry of Rhode Island Guilty of Unbecoming Conduct.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 30.—Edward J. Lowry of Rhode Island, a member of the second class of the Naval Academy, was dismissed from the service to-day after a court of inquiry had found that he had acted in a manner unbecoming a midshipman. He was tried on charges connected with the theft of money from another midshipman.

The court did not find him guilty of theft, but held that his action in the matter was reprehensible and that it was inadvisable for him to remain in the service.

FAY MYSTERIOUSLY GETS NEW COUNSEL

Patrick J. McDonald Retained to Defend German Suspect in Bomb Plot.

PLANS TO SUE OUT WRIT

There was manifest yesterday a mysterious move apparently with the aim of freeing Robert Fay, the German lieutenant, who was arrested with four others, including Max Breitling, on a charge of plotting to destroy munition ships, or else persuading him to keep silent about his connection with the German Government.

Fay had an interview with Louis Jersawitz of 220 Broadway, who was appointed by United States Commissioner Houghton to act as his counsel. He informed the lawyer that he no longer wanted his services and would get someone else or, according to Jersawitz, that some other lawyer would be sent to him.

Shortly afterward it was learned that Patrick J. McDonald, 28 Park Row, had been retained. McDonald said he did not know why Fay had sent for him.

"I shall immediately sue out a writ of habeas corpus to obtain the release of my client," he said. "I shall prepare the papers and I expect to have my client in court by Wednesday, unless unforeseen circumstances intervene."

To that John C. Knox, special Assistant United States Attorney, replied: "Well, let him get his writ of habeas corpus. We shall be glad to show Fay out strong the Government's case is against him. We can do that easily without revealing in substance any more of the facts than we already have done. We have many more facts and we have enough to send Fay and his associates to Atlanta for a substantial term of years."

The same afternoon it was learned that plans were being worked up for a strong defense, not only of Max Breitling, Dr. Herbert Koenig and Paul Baesele, the three apparently wealthy young men in the case, but also for both Fay and Walter E. Scholz, who really have confessed a plot to disable ships carrying military ammunition to the Allies.

Abraham Snyceker, attorney for Scholz, intimated that he might not be retained in the case. August Ziegenfuss, attorney for Breitling, visited Mr. Knox and announced that his client meant to turn State's evidence. He declined to give any clue to what he wished to discuss with Mr. Knox.

Fay in the Tombs yesterday insisted to reporters that he had made no confession to the Federal agents other than that he had planned to disable munition ships. He denied that he had received money from the German secret service and also denied that his name was H. A. Koenig.

Assistant United States Attorney-General Charles Warren, who has charge of the military cases, was yesterday in the Tombs. He conferred with H. Snowden Marshall and with him discussed the plan for the prosecution of the five men. He had an interview with William J. Flynn, chief of the secret service, and with William M. O'Leary, local head of the investigators of the Department of Justice.

GERMAN NEWSPAPERS DISPUTE STATEMENT MADE BY SUSPECT

Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN. AMSTERDAM, via London, Oct. 30.—The German newspapers deny that Robert Fay, arrested in New York in connection with an alleged conspiracy to blow up munition ships and plants, is a German officer.

ONCE LIVED IN LONDON

Fay Left for United States After Business Failed.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—THE SUN correspondent has learned that Lieut. Robert Fay, held in New York for the German bomb conspiracy, lived in Kensington from July to September in 1912. His ostensible business was the sale of importation foods and he had an office in Chancery Lane, where he employed a typist. Apparently he did not do any business.

His landlady for that period describes him as extremely popular with animals and children, winning their friendship almost immediately. He was intensely anti-English, constantly denigrating the British army and praising in the highest terms the German troops. At the same time he roundly denounced the Kaiser and the governing classes of Germany, whom he professed to hold in the greatest esteem. He said he was a Socialist. Shaw was his favorite author. The landlady did not think Fay was an officer, as he frequently said he had served as a private in a first line Cologne regiment.

When his business failed in England Fay went to the United States, saying he would depend for his support on the kindness of his brother-in-law, Scholtz. Fay's father was a master in the middle class boys' school in Cologne. About a month before the outbreak of the war Fay wrote from New York that he intended to make a fortune or commit suicide. A few days before the war he wrote to Scholtz saying he hoped soon to obtain a job in London.

KAISER NOT BANKING IN LONDON

AMSTERDAM, via London, Oct. 30.—A denial of the report that the Kaiser has a private credit of $1,000,000 in the Bank of England is printed in a recent number of the North German Gazette, the official organ of the German Government. A copy of this paper, just received here, declares that this rumor is absolutely without foundation.
