SQUIRREL PARTING GIFT TO MR. FORD

Continued from First Page. show, first Mr. Ford, then Judge Ben Lindsay of Denver, Dr. Jenkin Lloyd Jones of Chicago, the ship's marrying partner, then Lieut.-Gov. Andrew J. Bohnea of South Carolina, each with remarks that seemed to Mr. Bingham appropriate and to the crowd so ludicrous that they brought roars of laughter.

and waving it about his head. Mr. Ford pressed on up the gangplank and at the top he was jammed immediately in a pushing, shouting crowd of passengers calling "oh, Mr. Ford!" "Peace!" "Hurrah for peace!" and a variety of other things. Still smiling and bowing, but saying never a word, the head of the expedition was guided or rushed into the first stateroom the crowd came to. No. 2, and two uniformed policemen and several detectives stationed themselves before the door.

The Squirrel Pushed In.

Almost the only time that door was opened, except when Mr. Bryan entered to talk to Mr. Ford, was when the steward opened the door and pushed forward the cage containing the squirrel which some friend had sent tagged simply to "The good ship Nary." The squirrel came back quicker than he went in. Later he was found in the stateroom.

Edison Not Communicative.

Mr. Edison was even less communicative, supposedly because the chairman of the naval inventions board he secretly shares Mr. Ford's views on preparedness. Still Mr. Edison and Mr. Ford are close friends, so the inventor found time to pose for several flashlight photographs with the bride and bridegroom and Dr. Jones in the dining room, which had been transformed into a marriage chapel.

ardor of the party. A few of them had started already practicing the two peace songs with which, presumably, they will delight the people who Mrs. Schwimmer says, will come in from the country to look at them in Norway, Sweden and Iceland. Here is one of the songs which the country people may like to hear: Good Lord, deliver us from any clique of clan. That would turn us against any of our fellow men. While our heads are above the sea, let not money be our god. Nor the arms, the navy, or war.

The Wedding.

By virtue of the authority invested in me by the States of New York and Illinois, especially Illinois, where I pronounce you man and wife. A few minutes later Dr. Jones' attention was called to the fact that he had married the couple with a New York license aboard a ship tied up at a New Jersey pier.

Mystery in Dive into Water.

Whether or not Germans were back of the excursion there was some mystery about the man who jumped off the pier and tried to swim after the Oscar II. When taken to St. Mary's Hospital he said he was "Mr. Zero," a newspaper man and "student of psychology," but later it was said that he was Urdian J. Ledoux of Canadian birth, but living at Hoboken, N. J. There was a well defined rumor that he was a movie actor, but he was charged at the hospital with being "drunk and disorderly."

like Mr. Ford, but he is a friend of the automobile man, and so he and his wife are going along. Of the trip he said: "It can't do harm; it may do good. But I think it's too late to stop the war now. They will fight until they're through."

Hampton Furniture - of Pleasing Personality

FURNITURE of an engaging and varying personality is that fashioned for the stately rooms of the old English Manor Houses, by those who were artists by instinct as they were craftsmen by training and tradition.

From among the Hampton Reproductions may be selected for the modern home such Furniture as this - the Court Cupboard of oak with its richly carved panels and sturdy turned supports, the high-backed walnut Arm-Chairs, their backs and seats upholstered in soft-toned fabrics, or the drop-leaf canteen Table, with its quaintly effective legs and stretchers of spiral turnings.

HAMPTON SHOPS 34 AND 36 WEST 32d STREET NEW YORK

Another woman was deeply lamented by one and all was Dr. Charles G. Pease, who objects to war and to peace. He missed the Oscar II, or who decided too late that they would like to be Henry Ford's guests in settling Europe's squabbles will be booked on the Frederick VIII. Louis P. Lochner, secretary of the International Peace Society, who planned most of the trip, went on the Oscar II, but Mr. Delavaine, who writes Mr. Ford's statements, will preside at the Baltimore.

Some Miss the Ship.

All the way from Palo Alto, Cal., came Mrs. A. M. Clark, and she just missed the ship. She arrived in New York late last night and got a passport early this morning in Washington. She arrived at the dock just before the belated peace ship put out, but would not have got aboard but that Bruce Davis, a Yale man, gave her his place in line. He missed the ship, but will leave on Wednesday aboard the Frederick VIII, which will bear an overflow party.

Others who missed the ship for one reason or another were Dr. Wilfrid Grenfell, the Labrador missionary, and Mrs. William J. Thomas, national secretary of the Woman's Peace Party of Chicago.

The local headquarters at suite 717 in the Biltmore will be kept open until Wednesday at least, when the Frederick VIII sails with more peace delegates. All who missed the Oscar II, or who decided too late that they would like to be Henry Ford's guests in settling Europe's squabbles will be booked on the Frederick VIII. Louis P. Lochner, secretary of the International Peace Society, who planned most of the trip, went on the Oscar II, but Mr. Delavaine, who writes Mr. Ford's statements, will preside at the Baltimore.
