FIRE ON U. S. TROOPS

Mexican Bandits Were Looting House on U. S. Side. El Paso, Jan. 19.—A skirmish between United States soldiers and Mexican bandits, in which one cavalry horse was killed, was reported to-day to the military authorities here by a man named Lee, who arrived from Doyle Wells on a motorcycle.

When the soldiers dismounted, they fired on the Americans, killing one of the horses and causing the three others to stampede and get away. Lee made his way to Doyle Wells on foot, got a motorcycle there and rode to Hootsita to report the skirmish.

A detachment of thirty soldiers was sent out today to search for the bandits. The first report said seven United States soldiers had been kidnapped by the bandits, but this proved untrue.

Darrie Steffen, a deserter from the Eighth United States Cavalry, is declared to be the leader of the Mexican bandits who gave battle to the American troops.

Exactly the basis on which the examination of the following week was given the information that Gen. Carranza had not obtained his military commission from the National Conservatory of Music was replaced by a patriot who could not tell a Jew from a Turk.
