

Giants Take Another Game From Cubs; Yankees Lose to Indians; Dodgers Beat Cardinals in Eleventh Inning

YANKEES MAKE PLENTY OF HITS BUT FEW RUNS

Maisel Breaks Collarbone in Game Won by Cleveland.

MORTON PITCHES WELL FOR THE WINNING TEAM

Although the Yankees made eleven hits yesterday, their batting was full of infirmities. It was in vain when men were throwing the bases waiting to be batted home.

The Yankees were not lost the game but lost the services of Fritz Maisel for a month. In chasing a fly ball Maisel fell on the wet grass, struck on his shoulder and cracked his collarbone.

The batting of the Yankees was as it has been most of the season, lackluster in that drive and durability which groups hits and carries pounding of the ball far enough along to round up a score.

Graney flattened one of Markle's slow ones in the first inning and converted it into a base hit. Turner drew four balls, Speaker sacrificed and Smith spilled a three bagger over Maisel's head.

Turner and Speaker touched off base hits in the third inning as if that was the easiest thing they did. Speaker hit and a sacrifice fly brought old man Turner home. The aged albatross reached base four times during the game, once on a hit, three times on walks.

The Yankees made one run in the third and missed a whole bunch of them. Passes to Gillooley and Maisel and a hit by Baker filled the bases with two out. A pass to Gordon forced a run in and a grounder, Pipp to Howard, proved a man on base and the Yankees took the field. Hits by Baker and Gideon and a double steal by the same two, assisted by Howard's slow return to O'Neill, procured a tally for the Yankees in the fifth.

The Yanks were peering away and had a fair chance to overhaul their opponents until Numamaker's squeeze unloaded a single and home run respectively off Caldwell in the sixth. Maisel pitched forward on his right shoulder chasing Graney's home run and hurt himself. High took his place, and the change weakened the Yankees in batting, for Maisel is the only one of the outfielders who is hitting hard enough to break tissue paper.

Poor Work in Eighth. There were the usual two out in the seventh when Baker, whose squeeze amp with the oak others couldn't follow, dropped a home run in the right wing of the grand stand. There were five men on bases when Yankees took the eighth, of whom only one had through transportation.

The promising procession began with Beck making a hit. Numamaker's squeeze to left for another single. No pinch hitter made his appearance at this stage. Love did his own batting. He fouled off to Turner, who pitched as hard as a pinch hitter could have done. Gillooley bunted and drew a wild throw from Morton, on which Beck reached the plate. That ended Morton's career.

When Bagby passed Magee the fans took heart, but Bagby was not particularly anxious to have Magee hit, for putting him on base made a game impossible, and such is what happened to Numamaker at the plate when High grounded lamely to Turner. Baker grounded to Howard, who bunted around and helped himself to ten assists during the course of the misty afternoon. Having made a single, double and a home run, he had done a man's work and couldn't do more than that.

PERRITT AND MERKLE HELP GIANTS TO DOWN THE CUBS

Former's Pitching and Latter's Fielding Enable McGraw's Men to Win by 3 to 2 and Score Their Sixth Consecutive Victory.

Chicago, May 15.—Fred Merkle and Pol Perritt attended well to the general giant uplift throughout the second clash with the Cubs at Charlie Weeghman's North Park this afternoon. Between the pair of them with occasional exhortations on the part of such interlopers as George Burns, Dave Robertson, Larry Doyle, Benjamin Kauff, Artie Fletcher, Bill McKechnie and Red Doolin they took the second straight from Chicago and the sixth in a row of their first Western invasion. The game, like the action of this sun kissed, wind blown afternoon, was as tight and emotional all the way as could be desired. The Giants won by 3 to 2, but they had not won till the last Cub was turned back in the ninth inning.

Perritt outpitched Jim Vaughn, the left handed behemoth from Texas and elsewhere. Mr. Perritt doled out a sparse half dozen blows to the enemy, at least one of which was a fluke—and kept them so well spread that they were unable to break through his guard in only one inning. Edifying as was Perritt's general behavior it is doubtful if he could have survived against the catcher who played by Vaughn in the pinches without the expert assistance of Toledo's distinguished citizen.

Here are a few of the many instances where Fred Merkle lent something more than moral support: In the seventh inning with the score at its final figure, Doolin, who committed a double, threw a muff on Archer, the first batter. When Mulligan laid down a pretty bunt Merkle's eye the latter had to hustle. Here he was, the first of the two who carried the tying run, light from the third. Another second later he made the prettiest stop of the afternoon and stopped as much as the first kept the exhibition from running into overtime.

Again in the eighth inning Merkle started a hit by knocking down an exceptionally vicious curve ball. The ball bounded away from Fred so that he had no chance to make a single handed play against the catcher. Neither did he start a wild time loss to Perritt, that Pat clutched just in time for the second out. Zimmerman's single and a pass to Saier followed. Merkle retired the side by garlanding Pinch Fitch. Zwilling's sharp rap. He wouldn't have had a chance for this play had the infielder not batted and converted a double into a base hit. Turner drew four balls, Speaker sacrificed and Smith spilled a three bagger over Maisel's head.

DODGERS NIP CARDS IN ELEVENTH INNING

Mowrey's Lucky Hit, Which Bounded Over Miller, Sends In Deciding Runs.

New Yorkers. Errors gave New York a lead of three runs. A battery error figured in New York's run column. Archer dropped Vaughn's pickoff as Fletcher stole in the second. Fletcher batted single with one out. McKechnie hit in the run after Merkle fumbled and then threw low on George Burns after Perritt whiffed to start New York's third. Robertson sacrificed. Doyle sent a Texas leaguer just beyond Saier's reach and Burns tied the score. Perry might have clinched the game had he kept his head up when Benny Kauff scratched a hit in front of the plate. Vaughn feigned the dribbler so poorly that he was caught by the catcher. Doyle pulled to a dead stop at second and was so slow getting started again that he dared not venture beyond third, though Kauff was standing on second when the ball got back to the infield. Larry could almost have walked home on this miscue.

Merkle and McKechnie both singled to left with none out in the fourth and advanced on Doolin's roller to Vaughn. The outfield came away in for Perritt. Pol Mulligan raked in Vaughn's unfortunate, the clout carried right where Flack was waiting. Vaughn purposely passed Burns, filling the bases for the chance to steal. Archer hit for him, and the clout carried right where Flack was waiting. Vaughn purposely passed Burns, filling the bases for the chance to steal. Archer hit for him, and the clout carried right where Flack was waiting.

Larry Doyle opened the fifth with a single. He stole as Kauff breezed and got an extra base on Archer's overthrow. Mulligan raked in Perritt's rap and smothered the run at the plate. McKechnie dodged safely around Saier, who was waiting on the line with the ball for a hit that opened the sixth. Left with none out in the fourth and advanced on Doolin's roller to Vaughn. Yale Man Hurt in Football Practice

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 15.—On the first play of Yale's opening scrimmage in spring football practice this afternoon Donald Blodgett of Bridgeport, Conn., an end on the varsity squad last fall, broke his leg. Blodgett was spilling the interferences when he sustained his injury. The practice this afternoon consisted of nearly an hour's scrimmaging, with four teams, in action, and it was probably the hardest spring work that has ever been undertaken at New Haven. Another day of scrimmaging will follow to-morrow, and it will close the spring practice.

WHEAT CLEVER IN NINTH

St. Louis, May 15.—Ready base running by Zach Wheat in the ninth inning and Mike Mowrey's lucky hit which bounded over Jack Miller's head in the eleventh gave Brooklyn a victory over the Cardinals to-day, score 4 to 2. For the first nine innings today the game was one of the most brilliantly played ever seen here. Brooklyn won because it played more clever ball in the final inning.
