

ment in each delegate at large and each alternate at large, said Mr. Glyn, whose head had not become at all confused by the eulogy. "I shall go as a district delegate, and that is honor enough for me."

Senator Root in Good Humor.

Former Senator Elihu Root was in the chair when the second session of the convention met at fifteen minutes before noon. Most of the delegates were in the veteran and dignified reading of a list of honorary vice-presidents got stuck on a name and had to back out and start all over again. Mr. Root interjected: "I referred to committee on education. This really put the convention in good humor at once."

Platform Wins Approval.

Dr. Butler was warmly applauded as he ran lightly up the stage steps with the platform in his hands. Before he started to read the report of the platform committee, he struck the band struck up "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." The reading was punctuated with outbursts of approval and applause. Then Samuel S. Koenig, New York county leader, presented the report of the committee on the "Big Four" and their alternates. He read the name of Senator Wadsworth first. There was clapping, then cheering and the delegates at last got to their feet. Every one was looking at Miss Mary Garrett Hay. There she sat with her back up against a pillar, looking demurely at it as if to distinguish her from the stage, although she was in the front of the hall. Implacable, adamant, "Wadsworth moved not even a facial muscle during the demonstration to Senator Wadsworth."

Woman's Suffrage Amendment.

"We repeat the declaration made at Saratoga on July 19, 1913, relative to the equal participation of women in the activities of the Republic and in the government of the nation. We earnestly urge upon the signatures of these States that have not yet acted on the pending amendment to the Constitution of the United States, that it be adopted by the States and that women generally may participate in the elections to be held in November next for President and Vice-President, for the House of the Senate and for an entire House of Representatives."

Industrial Problem.

"The property of modern society rests upon productive industry. Productive industry is the basis of the satisfaction and willing cooperation of those who engage together to carry it forward. The wage worker is entitled, as a human being, to a proper share of the product of his labor and the conditions of labor and to share in determining the circumstances under which his personal co-operation shall be given."

Miss Hay Denies Candidacy.

Word had been sent to her some time ago, Miss Hay said, that if she would be in opposition to the Empire State Wadsworth's renomination, it would be impossible for her to go as a delegate at large. "I never asked anyone to vote for me," she said, "and I cannot see how my opposition to the candidacy or election of a United States Senator can have anything to do with being a delegate to the Republican National Convention."

High Cost of Living.

"The high cost of living presses upon every individual and every home. Increased production, stimulation of enterprise, checking of private extravagance and waste and the reduction of the cost of production are the national necessities. In this every citizen and every household can help."

Military Policy.

"We are opposed to a large army of professional soldiers. We favor the maintenance of a small standing army, with a trained citizen reserve subject to call for service only in case of declaration of war by Congress. The training of citizen soldiers should be in order to protect the nation and its conduct shared by citizens who are not officers of the Regular Army."

Immigration.

"The recent administration of laws relating to immigration has been shocking in the extreme. More important than new legislation is correct enforcement of the law that now exists by able, industrious and conscientious officials who fully understand its significance and purpose. The administrative staff should be adequate and thoroughly competent. Congress should at once make available for the use of immigration authorities the evidence in relation to criminals to be found in the police and court records of the localities from which they come."

Why Colds Lead to Pneumonia.

When a cold is neglected it attacks the lining of the lungs — then it is pneumonia. Father John's Medicine treats colds and prevents pneumonia because it nourishes the system and drives out the poisonous waste matter — any other way of treating a cold is likely to lead to pneumonia. Not a "cough syrup" or "balsam" depending upon dangerous and weakening drugs, but a food medicine and body builder. — Ade.

National Budget and Business Administration of Government.

"We urge the prompt passage of legislation to authorize a national budget. The Congress will then become the constructive critic of the President's policies and the people will be able to hold both the President and the Congress responsible for their action or failure to act. The only practical method of retrenchment is not to appropriate public money."

Peace Treaty and Nations League.

"We favor immediate ratification of the pending treaty of peace, with such distinct reservations and declarations as shall make it clear to all the world that the United States retains its unconditional right to withdraw from the League of Nations on proper notice; that the United States assumes no obligation, either legal or moral, to send American soldiers or sailors for service abroad unless the Congress, by its constitutional power, shall so authorize; and that the Monroe Doctrine is protected both in letter and in spirit; that no foreign power or council of foreign powers shall have any control whatsoever over the domestic policies of the United States; and that the Government and the people of the United States shall retain the right to operate under Part XIII. of the treaty, the so-called labor clauses, into the net spread by International Socialism."

League of Nations. In its original form, cannot and should not be ratified by the Senate or accepted by the people of the United States. To do so would not only contract away control by the American people of their own policy and act but would certainly embroil the country in an endless succession of wars, great and small."

Foreign Trade.

"The United States has become a creditor nation and a large exporter of manufactured goods. For a considerable period of years it must be paid for its loans and exports wholly in goods. Under these circumstances exclusion of imports necessarily means the limitation or discontinuance of exports. While this fact may lead to some temporary modification of our tariff policy, pending the restoration of a normal balance of trade, the principle of protection must be retained as a national policy not only for use in maintaining American standards of labor and industry when present conditions change but in order to insure the nation's economic well-being and its capacity to produce within its own limits those supplies which the war has shown to be necessary both for the subsistence and for the defence of the people."

Merchant Marine.

"We believe that both the national defense and proper care for our foreign commerce require a merchant marine of the best type of modern ship, flying the American flag, manned by American seamen, owned by private capital and operated by public energy. We believe it to be the duty of the Government to aid in the promotion of the establishment of permanent overseas service and specified routes that will make satisfactory provision for carrying the United States mails."

Social Advance.

"We recognize that health, housing and education are essential to that satisfaction and willing cooperation which is the basis of our progress. We urge that prompt study be given to ways and means of protecting and promoting the health of the people, of providing better and more adequate housing, particularly in large centers of population and for families with children; of encouraging land settlement through cooperative effort and of improving the schools of the land, with special reference to providing thoroughly trained and properly paid teachers."

Federal Trade Commission.

"We charge that the Federal Trade Commission as at present constituted has deliberately prostituted its proper function. It has persecuted trade unions, established a precedent of interference with the administrative supervision of the Federal Trade Commission, properly constituted, and should be told in definite terms what business practices are and what are not prohibited by the act. It should be reorganized, who are, first of all, American citizens, and to them must be assigned the solemn duty of removing the cause of industrial warfare and of jointly establishing responsibility in the organization and conduct of industry."

Republican Party and War.

"The Republican party may take the greatest satisfaction in its record during the war. While we should have welcomed action by the President which would have eliminated all questions of party policy in the conduct of the war and in the conclusion of the terms of peace, nevertheless, we gave willing and patriotic cooperation in every effort to carry out the war to triumphant success. The Republicans in Congress made the winning of the war possible by providing both the leadership and the necessary vote to pass the original selective draft act and its supplementary legislation. The Republicans in Congress made the winning of the war possible by providing both the leadership and the necessary vote to pass the original selective draft act and its supplementary legislation."

Praised for Independence.

Order L. Mills, who presided, praised the course of the Senator in standing by his convictions. He said it was impossible to judge a man on a single issue, which often did not meet with approval of the majority. Referring to the old days of bribery and corruption in legislative halls, Mr. Mills said that now the same sort of people try to accomplish their ends by publicity and threats of driving men out of public life unless they bent their wills to that of certain agitators."

Warns Against Fanaticism.

He, explaining the reasons why he was opposed to constitutional prohibition, said: "I voted against the amendment in the Senate because our Constitution is a framework of government which defines and limits the powers delegated to that Government by the people. It ought not to be confused and encumbered by the addition of a single word."

Mexicans Release American.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Official advice that Wilson W. Adams, an American citizen, had been released by the Mexican bandits who kidnapped him on February 13, in Zacatecas, Mexico, were received today by the State Department.

money are being spent and at what point retrenchment is either necessary or practicable. The inordinate extravagance of the present administration calls for most emphatic rebuke."

HONOR WADSWORTH AT GREAT DINNER

1,500 Republicans Pay Tribute to His Courage on Public Questions.

ANSWER TO SUFFRAGISTS

Senator Explains Stand on Prohibition Amendment and Pleads for Moderation.

Tribute to the ability and public courage of James W. Wadsworth, Jr. in his record as United States Senator from New York State was paid by more than 1,500 Republicans at a dinner given in his honor in the big ballroom at the Hotel Astor last night.

Most of the prominent leaders in the State were on the Committee of Two Hundred which arranged the affair in order to demonstrate to the people that the Senator has real backing for re-nomination and reelection in spite of the opposition of Miss Mary Garrett Hay and other suffragists of the Anti-Saloon League.

Order L. Mills, who presided, praised the course of the Senator in standing by his convictions. He said it was impossible to judge a man on a single issue, which often did not meet with approval of the majority.

Referring to the old days of bribery and corruption in legislative halls, Mr. Mills said that now the same sort of people try to accomplish their ends by publicity and threats of driving men out of public life unless they bent their wills to that of certain agitators."

He, explaining the reasons why he was opposed to constitutional prohibition, said: "I voted against the amendment in the Senate because our Constitution is a framework of government which defines and limits the powers delegated to that Government by the people. It ought not to be confused and encumbered by the addition of a single word."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Official advice that Wilson W. Adams, an American citizen, had been released by the Mexican bandits who kidnapped him on February 13, in Zacatecas, Mexico, were received today by the State Department.

ment in each delegate at large and each alternate at large, said Mr. Glyn, whose head had not become at all confused by the eulogy. "I shall go as a district delegate, and that is honor enough for me."

Senator Root in Good Humor.

Former Senator Elihu Root was in the chair when the second session of the convention met at fifteen minutes before noon. Most of the delegates were in the veteran and dignified reading of a list of honorary vice-presidents got stuck on a name and had to back out and start all over again. Mr. Root interjected: "I referred to committee on education. This really put the convention in good humor at once."

Platform Wins Approval.

Dr. Butler was warmly applauded as he ran lightly up the stage steps with the platform in his hands. Before he started to read the report of the platform committee, he struck the band struck up "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." The reading was punctuated with outbursts of approval and applause. Then Samuel S. Koenig, New York county leader, presented the report of the committee on the "Big Four" and their alternates. He read the name of Senator Wadsworth first. There was clapping, then cheering and the delegates at last got to their feet. Every one was looking at Miss Mary Garrett Hay. There she sat with her back up against a pillar, looking demurely at it as if to distinguish her from the stage, although she was in the front of the hall. Implacable, adamant, "Wadsworth moved not even a facial muscle during the demonstration to Senator Wadsworth."

Woman's Suffrage Amendment.

"We repeat the declaration made at Saratoga on July 19, 1913, relative to the equal participation of women in the activities of the Republic and in the government of the nation. We earnestly urge upon the signatures of these States that have not yet acted on the pending amendment to the Constitution of the United States, that it be adopted by the States and that women generally may participate in the elections to be held in November next for President and Vice-President, for the House of the Senate and for an entire House of Representatives."

Industrial Problem.

"The property of modern society rests upon productive industry. Productive industry is the basis of the satisfaction and willing cooperation of those who engage together to carry it forward. The wage worker is entitled, as a human being, to a proper share of the product of his labor and the conditions of labor and to share in determining the circumstances under which his personal co-operation shall be given."

Miss Hay Denies Candidacy.

Word had been sent to her some time ago, Miss Hay said, that if she would be in opposition to the Empire State Wadsworth's renomination, it would be impossible for her to go as a delegate at large. "I never asked anyone to vote for me," she said, "and I cannot see how my opposition to the candidacy or election of a United States Senator can have anything to do with being a delegate to the Republican National Convention."

High Cost of Living.

"The high cost of living presses upon every individual and every home. Increased production, stimulation of enterprise, checking of private extravagance and waste and the reduction of the cost of production are the national necessities. In this every citizen and every household can help."

Military Policy.

"We are opposed to a large army of professional soldiers. We favor the maintenance of a small standing army, with a trained citizen reserve subject to call for service only in case of declaration of war by Congress. The training of citizen soldiers should be in order to protect the nation and its conduct shared by citizens who are not officers of the Regular Army."

Immigration.

"The recent administration of laws relating to immigration has been shocking in the extreme. More important than new legislation is correct enforcement of the law that now exists by able, industrious and conscientious officials who fully understand its significance and purpose. The administrative staff should be adequate and thoroughly competent. Congress should at once make available for the use of immigration authorities the evidence in relation to criminals to be found in the police and court records of the localities from which they come."

Why Colds Lead to Pneumonia.

When a cold is neglected it attacks the lining of the lungs — then it is pneumonia. Father John's Medicine treats colds and prevents pneumonia because it nourishes the system and drives out the poisonous waste matter — any other way of treating a cold is likely to lead to pneumonia. Not a "cough syrup" or "balsam" depending upon dangerous and weakening drugs, but a food medicine and body builder. — Ade.

National Budget and Business Administration of Government.

"We urge the prompt passage of legislation to authorize a national budget. The Congress will then become the constructive critic of the President's policies and the people will be able to hold both the President and the Congress responsible for their action or failure to act. The only practical method of retrenchment is not to appropriate public money."

Peace Treaty and Nations League.

"We favor immediate ratification of the pending treaty of peace, with such distinct reservations and declarations as shall make it clear to all the world that the United States retains its unconditional right to withdraw from the League of Nations on proper notice; that the United States assumes no obligation, either legal or moral, to send American soldiers or sailors for service abroad unless the Congress, by its constitutional power, shall so authorize; and that the Monroe Doctrine is protected both in letter and in spirit; that no foreign power or council of foreign powers shall have any control whatsoever over the domestic policies of the United States; and that the Government and the people of the United States shall retain the right to operate under Part XIII. of the treaty, the so-called labor clauses, into the net spread by International Socialism."

ment in each delegate at large and each alternate at large, said Mr. Glyn, whose head had not become at all confused by the eulogy. "I shall go as a district delegate, and that is honor enough for me."

Senator Root in Good Humor.

Former Senator Elihu Root was in the chair when the second session of the convention met at fifteen minutes before noon. Most of the delegates were in the veteran and dignified reading of a list of honorary vice-presidents got stuck on a name and had to back out and start all over again. Mr. Root interjected: "I referred to committee on education. This really put the convention in good humor at once."

Platform Wins Approval.

Dr. Butler was warmly applauded as he ran lightly up the stage steps with the platform in his hands. Before he started to read the report of the platform committee, he struck the band struck up "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." The reading was punctuated with outbursts of approval and applause. Then Samuel S. Koenig, New York county leader, presented the report of the committee on the "Big Four" and their alternates. He read the name of Senator Wadsworth first. There was clapping, then cheering and the delegates at last got to their feet. Every one was looking at Miss Mary Garrett Hay. There she sat with her back up against a pillar, looking demurely at it as if to distinguish her from the stage, although she was in the front of the hall. Implacable, adamant, "Wadsworth moved not even a facial muscle during the demonstration to Senator Wadsworth."

Woman's Suffrage Amendment.

"We repeat the declaration made at Saratoga on July 19, 1913, relative to the equal participation of women in the activities of the Republic and in the government of the nation. We earnestly urge upon the signatures of these States that have not yet acted on the pending amendment to the Constitution of the United States, that it be adopted by the States and that women generally may participate in the elections to be held in November next for President and Vice-President, for the House of the Senate and for an entire House of Representatives."

Industrial Problem.

"The property of modern society rests upon productive industry. Productive industry is the basis of the satisfaction and willing cooperation of those who engage together to carry it forward. The wage worker is entitled, as a human being, to a proper share of the product of his labor and the conditions of labor and to share in determining the circumstances under which his personal co-operation shall be given."

Miss Hay Denies Candidacy.

Word had been sent to her some time ago, Miss Hay said, that if she would be in opposition to the Empire State Wadsworth's renomination, it would be impossible for her to go as a delegate at large. "I never asked anyone to vote for me," she said, "and I cannot see how my opposition to the candidacy or election of a United States Senator can have anything to do with being a delegate to the Republican National Convention."

High Cost of Living.

"The high cost of living presses upon every individual and every home. Increased production, stimulation of enterprise, checking of private extravagance and waste and the reduction of the cost of production are the national necessities. In this every citizen and every household can help."

Military Policy.

"We are opposed to a large army of professional soldiers. We favor the maintenance of a small standing army, with a trained citizen reserve subject to call for service only in case of declaration of war by Congress. The training of citizen soldiers should be in order to protect the nation and its conduct shared by citizens who are not officers of the Regular Army."

Immigration.

"The recent administration of laws relating to immigration has been shocking in the extreme. More important than new legislation is correct enforcement of the law that now exists by able, industrious and conscientious officials who fully understand its significance and purpose. The administrative staff should be adequate and thoroughly competent. Congress should at once make available for the use of immigration authorities the evidence in relation to criminals to be found in the police and court records of the localities from which they come."

Why Colds Lead to Pneumonia.

When a cold is neglected it attacks the lining of the lungs — then it is pneumonia. Father John's Medicine treats colds and prevents pneumonia because it nourishes the system and drives out the poisonous waste matter — any other way of treating a cold is likely to lead to pneumonia. Not a "cough syrup" or "balsam" depending upon dangerous and weakening drugs, but a food medicine and body builder. — Ade.

National Budget and Business Administration of Government.

"We urge the prompt passage of legislation to authorize a national budget. The Congress will then become the constructive critic of the President's policies and the people will be able to hold both the President and the Congress responsible for their action or failure to act. The only practical method of retrenchment is not to appropriate public money."

Peace Treaty and Nations League.

"We favor immediate ratification of the pending treaty of peace, with such distinct reservations and declarations as shall make it clear to all the world that the United States retains its unconditional right to withdraw from the League of Nations on proper notice; that the United States assumes no obligation, either legal or moral, to send American soldiers or sailors for service abroad unless the Congress, by its constitutional power, shall so authorize; and that the Monroe Doctrine is protected both in letter and in spirit; that no foreign power or council of foreign powers shall have any control whatsoever over the domestic policies of the United States; and that the Government and the people of the United States shall retain the right to operate under Part XIII. of the treaty, the so-called labor clauses, into the net spread by International Socialism."

ment in each delegate at large and each alternate at large, said Mr. Glyn, whose head had not become at all confused by the eulogy. "I shall go as a district delegate, and that is honor enough for me."

Senator Root in Good Humor.

Former Senator Elihu Root was in the chair when the second session of the convention met at fifteen minutes before noon. Most of the delegates were in the veteran and dignified reading of a list of honorary vice-presidents got stuck on a name and had to back out and start all over again. Mr. Root interjected: "I referred to committee on education. This really put the convention in good humor at once."

Platform Wins Approval.

Dr. Butler was warmly applauded as he ran lightly up the stage steps with the platform in his hands. Before he started to read the report of the platform committee, he struck the band struck up "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." The reading was punctuated with outbursts of approval and applause. Then Samuel S. Koenig, New York county leader, presented the report of the committee on the "Big Four" and their alternates. He read the name of Senator Wadsworth first. There was clapping, then cheering and the delegates at last got to their feet. Every one was looking at Miss Mary Garrett Hay. There she sat with her back up against a pillar, looking demurely at it as if to distinguish her from the stage, although she was in the front of the hall. Implacable, adamant, "Wadsworth moved not even a facial muscle during the demonstration to Senator Wadsworth."

Woman's Suffrage Amendment.

"We repeat the declaration made at Saratoga on July 19, 1913, relative to the equal participation of women in the activities of the Republic and in the government of the nation. We earnestly urge upon the signatures of these States that have not yet acted on the pending amendment to the Constitution of the United States, that it be adopted by the States and that women generally may participate in the elections to be held in November next for President and Vice-President, for the House of the Senate and for an entire House of Representatives."

Industrial Problem.

"The property of modern society rests upon productive industry. Productive industry is the basis of the satisfaction and willing cooperation of those who engage together to carry it forward. The wage worker is entitled, as a human being, to a proper share of the product of his labor and the conditions of labor and to share in determining the circumstances under which his personal co-operation shall be given."

Miss Hay Denies Candidacy.

Word had been sent to her some time ago, Miss Hay said, that if she would be in opposition to the Empire State Wadsworth's renomination, it would be impossible for her to go as a delegate at large. "I never asked anyone to vote for me," she said, "and I cannot see how my opposition to the candidacy or election of a United States Senator can have anything to do with being a delegate to the Republican National Convention."

High Cost of Living.

"The high cost of living presses upon every individual and every home. Increased production, stimulation of enterprise, checking of private extravagance and waste and the reduction of the cost of production are the national necessities. In this every citizen and every household can help."

Military Policy.

"We are opposed to a large army of professional soldiers. We favor the maintenance of a small standing army, with a trained citizen reserve subject to call for service only in case of declaration of war by Congress. The training of citizen soldiers should be in order to protect the nation and its conduct shared by citizens who are not officers of the Regular Army."

Immigration.

"The recent administration of laws relating to immigration has been shocking in the extreme. More important than new legislation is correct enforcement of the law that now exists by able, industrious and conscientious officials who fully understand its significance and purpose. The administrative staff should be adequate and thoroughly competent. Congress should at once make available for the use of immigration authorities the evidence in relation to criminals to be found in the police and court records of the localities from which they come."

Why Colds Lead to Pneumonia.

When a cold is neglected it attacks the lining of the lungs — then it is pneumonia. Father John's Medicine treats colds and prevents pneumonia because it nourishes the system and drives out the poisonous waste matter — any other way of treating a cold is likely to lead to pneumonia. Not a "cough syrup" or "balsam" depending upon dangerous and weakening drugs, but a food medicine and body builder. — Ade.

National Budget and Business Administration of Government.

"We urge the prompt passage of legislation to authorize a national budget. The Congress will then become the constructive critic of the President's policies and the people will be able to hold both the President and the Congress responsible for their action or failure to act. The only practical method of retrenchment is not to appropriate public money."

Peace Treaty and Nations League.

"We favor immediate ratification of the pending treaty of peace, with such distinct reservations and declarations as shall make it clear to all the world that the United States retains its unconditional right to withdraw from the League of Nations on proper notice; that the United States assumes no obligation, either legal or moral, to send American soldiers or sailors for service abroad unless the Congress, by its constitutional power, shall so authorize; and that the Monroe Doctrine is protected both in letter and in spirit; that no foreign power or council of foreign powers shall have any control whatsoever over the domestic policies of the United States; and that the Government and the people of the United States shall retain the right to operate under Part XIII. of the treaty, the so-called labor clauses, into the net spread by International Socialism."

ment in each delegate at large and each alternate at large, said Mr. Glyn, whose head had not become at all confused by the eulogy. "I shall go as a district delegate, and that is honor enough for me."

Senator Root in Good Humor.

Former Senator Elihu Root was in the chair when the second session of the convention met at fifteen minutes before noon. Most of the delegates were in the veteran and dignified reading of a list of honorary vice-presidents got stuck on a name and had to back out and start all over again. Mr. Root interjected: "I referred to committee on education. This really put the convention in good humor at once."

Platform Wins Approval.

Dr. Butler was warmly applauded as he ran lightly up the stage steps with the platform in his hands. Before he started to read the report of the platform committee, he struck the band struck up "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." The reading was punctuated with outbursts of approval and applause. Then Samuel S. Koenig, New York county leader, presented the report of the committee on the "Big Four" and their alternates. He read the name of Senator Wadsworth first. There was clapping, then cheering and the delegates at last got to their feet. Every one was looking at Miss Mary Garrett Hay. There she sat with her back up against a pillar, looking demurely at it as if to distinguish her from the stage, although she was in the front of the hall. Implacable, adamant, "Wadsworth moved not even a facial muscle during the demonstration to Senator Wadsworth."

Woman's Suffrage Amendment.

"We repeat the declaration made at Saratoga on July 19, 1913, relative to the equal participation of women in the activities of the Republic and in the government of the nation. We earnestly urge upon the signatures of these States that have not yet acted on the pending amendment to the Constitution of the United States, that it be adopted by the States and that women generally may participate in the elections to be held in November next for President and Vice-President, for the House of the Senate and for an entire House of Representatives."

Industrial Problem.

"The property of modern society rests upon productive industry. Productive industry is the basis of the satisfaction and willing cooperation of those who engage together to carry it forward. The wage worker is entitled, as a human being, to a proper share of the product of his labor and the conditions of labor and to share in determining the circumstances under which his personal co-operation shall be given."

Miss Hay Denies Candidacy.

Word had been sent to her some time ago, Miss Hay said, that if she would be in opposition to the Empire State Wadsworth's renomination, it would be impossible for her to go as a delegate at large. "I never asked anyone to vote for me," she said, "and I cannot see how my opposition to the candidacy or election of a United States Senator can have anything to do with being a delegate to the Republican National Convention."

High Cost of Living.

"The high cost of living presses upon every individual and every home. Increased production, stimulation of enterprise, checking of private extravagance and waste and the reduction of the cost of production are the national necessities. In this every citizen and every household can help."

Military Policy.

"We are opposed to a large army of professional soldiers. We favor the maintenance of a small standing army, with a trained citizen reserve subject to call for service only in case of declaration of war by Congress. The training of citizen soldiers should be in order to protect the nation and its conduct shared by citizens who are not officers of the Regular Army."

Immigration.

"The recent administration of laws relating to immigration has been shocking in the extreme. More important than new legislation is correct enforcement of the law that now exists by able, industrious and conscientious officials who fully understand its significance and purpose. The administrative staff should be adequate and thoroughly competent. Congress should at once make available for the use of immigration authorities the evidence in relation to criminals to be found in the police and court records of the localities from which they come."

Why Colds Lead to Pneumonia.

When a cold is neglected it attacks the lining of the lungs — then it is pneumonia. Father John's Medicine treats colds and prevents pneumonia because it nourishes the system and drives out the poisonous waste matter — any other way of treating a cold is likely to lead to pneumonia. Not a "cough syrup" or "balsam" depending upon dangerous and weakening drugs, but a food medicine and body builder. — Ade.

National Budget and Business Administration of Government.

"We urge the prompt passage of legislation to authorize a national budget. The Congress will then become the constructive critic of the President's policies and the people will be able to hold both the President and the Congress responsible for their action or failure to act. The only practical method of retrenchment is not to appropriate public money."

Peace Treaty and Nations League.

"We favor immediate ratification of the pending treaty of peace, with such distinct reservations and declarations as shall make it clear to all the world that the United States retains its unconditional right to withdraw from the League of Nations on proper notice; that the United States assumes no obligation, either legal or moral, to send American soldiers or sailors for service abroad unless the Congress, by its constitutional power, shall so authorize; and that the Monroe Doctrine is protected both in letter and in spirit; that no foreign power or council of foreign powers shall have any control whatsoever over the domestic policies of the United States; and that the Government and the people of the United States shall retain the right to operate under Part XIII. of the treaty, the so-called labor clauses, into the net spread by International Socialism."

Sure Relief BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION 6 BELL-ANS Hot water Sure Relief

VANDERLIP URGES TRAINED LEADERSHIP Speaks at Dinner of Colgate Alumni.

WOULD BE HOOVER DELEGATE. Lawyer Hammond, Democrat, Announces His Candidacy.

HARDING MANAGER SEES MR. BARNES Expects Ohio Man to Be "Dark Horse."

"Open Washington's Birthday" ART EVENTS OF EXTRAORDINARY IMPORTANCE American Art Galleries