Throng Clammers to Hear "Rigoletto" by Chicago Singers

Mme. Galli-Curci, Titta Ruflo, and Tito Schipa Applauded Vigorously.

The Lexington Theatre was stormed last night by a small army, of which at least one regiment fell outside the walls. At 8:30 o'clock a line of would-be operators extended from the front door around into Fifth street and nearly to Third avenue.

Most of these persons failed to gain admission because the walls stretched when they finally found their way into the theatre. They stood in the street and cheered, whether for themselves or the singers they could not hear it was impossible to learn.

The cause of all this popular excitement was the appearance of Mme. Galli-Curci, Titta Ruflo and Tito Schipa in "Rigoletto." The big audience applauded all three of them with vigor and enthusiasm. The two men decorated the first scene with some remarkable varieties of melodramatic laughter and some large toned singing, but later they made the rafters ring with their vigorous delivery. Mr. Tuffo was without doubt the busiest Rigoletto "the local stage has ever seen. He was doing something every second he was in sight. There have been many more subtle and more delicate touches in his performance than was not on a high musical level but vocal art took on a charm beyond its wont. He received an abundance of applause. Edouard Coeurou as Sparafucile was not as good as he was as Maddalena were the other principals. Gino Marinuzzi conducted.

Among those in the audience were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Page, Mrs. Will H. St. John, Mr. J. Langston Schroeder, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Waller, Mrs. Frederick W. Whitridge, Mrs. Theodore Toedt, Mrs. Lawrence Townsend, Mr. Rawlin L. Cotterman, Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Levy.

THREE RECITALS PLEASE. Mexican Pianist and Two Violinists Entertain Hearers.

Three recitals took place yesterday. Ernesto Berumen, a Mexican pianist, gave his annual recital in the afternoon at the Metropolitan Hotel. He played his list included Brahms' difficult F sharp minor sonata, the theme and variations of Glazounov, a "Ballade" on two Mexican folk songs by Manuel Ponce and an "Allegro de Concert" by Guiraud.

Mr. Berumen's tone was not as agreeable as before, but his work had much dignity and taste to commend it. He was more successful in his shorter numbers, where his technique, rhythm and clarity were commendable. A manuscript recital in the afternoon of the Flonzaley Quartet, seemed to interest the audience and the Guiraud concert piece was much liked. The Glazounov variations were long and somewhat tedious. The Brahms sonata was a real test for the player's grasp as to general interpretation. A friendly audience gave much applause.

In the evening, at the same hall, Mme. Charlotte Demuth-Williams gave a violin recital in the Hall. Avoiding the beaten path of Handel and Bruch's G minor concerto, she played with a pleasing tone, not large, and an excellent intonation. Her style, while not brilliant, was musical and well adapted to the style of the evening. Her husband, Albert Verchapp gave his second violin recital to a large audience. In a concert by Paganini and in other pieces, including the one on the violin, he played with a clear, firm tone and good intonation. His style might have shown more brilliance and finish, but it has poise and good taste.

Notes From the Theatres. William Collier in "The Hottentot" will be presented by Sam H. Harris at the Cohan Theatre on March 1. The play is by Victor Mapes and Mr. Collier.

Society Hears "Butterfly" at the Metropolitan

Miss Farrar in Title Role and Mr. Hackett Sings Pinkerton for First Time Here.

"Madama Butterfly" was given at the Metropolitan Opera House last night before a large audience. Miss Farrar repeated her familiar and justly admired impersonation of the unhappy Japanese bride. She was in good voice and sang well. Charles Hackett appeared for the first time as the false Pinkerton, a role to which his stalwart figure and agreeable voice were well suited.

Mr. Scott was again the inimitable Sharpless and Mrs. Fornia the Susuki. It was announced that Mr. Caruso had entirely recovered from his recent indisposition. He will sing this afternoon in "Le Trovatore." Mrs. and Mrs. Frederick Pearson's guests last night in box 2 were Lady Maitland, Mrs. Charles Robert MacNeill, Messrs. George Leslie Mather, G. Hone, William B. Post Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Dismore and Miss Carey Dismore were in the Astor box.
