

Tableaux Vivants Reveal Beauties At Palm Beach Women of Winter Cology Posing to Represent Famous Paintings.

Special to THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD. PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 22.—A noteworthy gathering attended the tableaux vivants given last night in the home of Miss Joseph Risher, for the benefit of a children's foster home in England, sponsored by Lady Thompson.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE: New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierpont Morgan Hamilton postponed their trip to Europe until March. Mr. and Mrs. James C. Rea have come from Pittsburgh and are guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland H. Dodes.

Cornell's Spring Day Circus Arrives

Cornell's ballet of freshmen: Messrs P. A. Kirby, W. F. Landers, D. W. Coleman, C. W. Dean, C. P. Maxson, G. E. Harrison, I. Mayer, T. L. Humphrey, R. S. Long and M. S. Kirsh.

Traditional Festivities Transplanted to Hotel Commodore From Ithaca. This is Cornell's big red day in New York. The long yell that in so many June has smothered all other college exclamations at regattas at Poughkeepsie is due to echo in the Commodore Hotel from 11 o'clock this morning on to this evening.

French Engravings Of 18th Century Among Art Shows

On Exhibition at Knoedler's—Chinese Antiques in Toning Gallery. If ever a period expressed itself in art the 18th century in France did, and the engravings that have come down to us from that time are not the least expression of it.

Oratorio Society To Have Six Day Music Festival

That Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Company, and among other things president of the Oratorio Society of New York, is the fairly godfather financially for a great festival of music which the society has arranged nights and afternoons from April 6 to 11, in the city.

Two Orchestras' Sunday Concerts

Two orchestral concerts were given yesterday afternoon. The Symphony Society's Orchestra in Aeolian Hall repeated its programme heard in Carnegie Hall on the previous night with Pablo Casals as soloist in Haydn's cello concerto in D major.

ACADEMY IN ROME WANTS $1,000,000 Campaign to Celebrate 25th Anniversary.

The American Academy in Rome, founded by Americans for the education of Americans in art, will celebrate this year the twenty-fifth anniversary of its founding by raising an endowment fund of $1,000,000. The fund will be divided into five parts, which will include $100,000 for the accommodation of women, $150,000 for classical studies, $150,000 for landscape architecture, and $150,000 for musical composition and $150,000 as a general endowment.

Mr. Brewster's Paintings

Recent paintings by Eugene V. Brewster of Brooklyn are on view in the Babcock Galleries until February 29. Mr. Brewster paints a variety of themes but seems to be most at home in his treatment of river and harbor scenes. The artist has one advantage that is not too common even among better known painters, and that is that he seems to know in advance exactly the line the picture is to take and goes straight to it.

Weather at Winter Resorts.

Temperatures and atmospheric conditions at winter resorts at noon yesterday were reported as follows: Miami, Fla.—70; clear. Palm Beach, Fla.—72; clear. Hamilton, Bermuda—41; clear.

PEARY BURIED IN ARLINGTON TO-DAY

Simple Service Will Be Held in Washington Home. Special to THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD. ARLINGTON, Feb. 22.—The funeral of Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary will be held from his home in Wyoming avenue to-morrow morning, Chas. Carroll G. Wright, U. S. N., will conduct the services, while delegations from the Yale Club, the Aerial League, the National Geographic Society and the Explorers Club of New York will attend. Interment will be in Arlington.

DIES IN WASHINGTON

Superintendent of Police Once Was a Storm Centre Due to His Many Reforms. STARTED AS A REPORTER

Gained Distinction in Athletics, Forest Service and in Other Fields. Special to THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD. WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Raymond W. Pullman, superintendent of police of Washington, much criticized and much praised for his reform activities on the capital's police force, died to-day after a short illness. He was suffering from double pneumonia but his death was caused by a blood clot reaching his heart.

Major Pullman was appointed superintendent of police by President Wilson early in the latter's first administration. At the time he announced that he intended to make his department part of the social service of the city, and his carrying out of this and other reform measures made him a storm centre in the capital.

He was born in Fairfax county, Va., in November, 1853, and attended the public schools in Washington. He gained distinction as an athlete. Qualified as a Reporter.

After completing his education he entered the advertising business, but soon left this to become a reporter on a local newspaper. In that capacity he learned much about the police force. He became much interested in sociological problems, and took an idea from a reporter who had been in a city where almost every resident is interested in the subject.

For several years he was associated with Clifford Pinchot in the Government Forest Service. He served as chief of the office of information of his branch. While in this position he continued his studies and writings and gained considerable reputation as a writer of ability in this line. He became one of President Wilson's most ardent supporters.

Opposition to some of his radical changes in the running of the Police Department was more usually kept in the man he had succeeded, Major Richard Sylvester, had been superintendent so long he seemed as permanent as the Capitol, and his methods also were fixed and unchangeable. He was a man of abrupt abandonment of old traditions therefore proved a shock.

Praised for His Qualities. Just how he was regarded by those who appointed him may best be shown by a statement issued by Commissioner Louis P. Brownlow at the time of his appointment. The Commissioner said: "Mr. Pullman is a man of the highest character, of demonstrated executive ability and broad social vision, and I feel the people of Washington are to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a man in this position."

He had his appointment as superintendent of the police departments of many other cities. Last year he went to New York and spent a day in the traffic court on the post-graduate course in the Municipal House in order to study the management of such cases. Major Pullman was a member of the National Press Club, the Literary Club and several other organizations.

DR. J. VAN DER POEL, DIES IN HOME HERE

Aged 62, He Practised Long; Noted as a Lecturer. Dr. John Van der Poel, aged sixty-two, long a practicing physician and surgeon and lecturer on medical topics in this city and for one year of the war a member of the staff of the hospital at Chelsea, died to-day at his home, 56 West Fifty-second street.

Born in Albany, Dr. Van der Poel was a son of Dr. Samuel Oakley and Gertrude Lansing. He completed his post-graduate work abroad, studying at the Universities of Berlin, Leipzig and Vienna. Upon returning to the United States he resumed his work in New York and was associated with the Medical College of New York University as a lecturer.

WARDEN TROMBLEY, DANNEMORA, DEAD

One of Best Known Prison Heads in N. Y. State. Special to THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD. DANNEMORA, N. Y., Feb. 22.—Pneumonia caused the death to-day of John Trombley, warden of Clinton prison and one of the best known prison heads in the State. In the seven years that he had ruled over Clinton he had come to be known as the only warden who never relaxed his appointment to the post at the worst of the criminal element. Clinton was made a dumping ground for the jail breakers and such daring ones as "Jim Forrester" and "Big Bill" Green were sent there to be reformed. Warden Trombley reformed them—if reformation was possible—with the aid of local police. Under Trombley's administration Clinton became known as "the Siberia of America," and Trombley was referred to as "Iron Pat."

Warden Trombley was born in Clinton County, N. Y., in 1857. He was a member of the Democratic State committee at one time, and in 1910 and 1911 he served in the Assembly. He leaves a wife and eight children.

COUNT CAMILLO PECCI.

Rome, Saturday, Feb. 21.—Count Camillo Pecci, nephew of the late Pope Leo XIII, is dead. When his uncle was Pope the Count was an important personage at the Pontifical court. He married Silvia Rispo Garzon at Havana, Count Pecci's daughter married the son of the Duchess of Montmorency.

Importer Stricken in Office, Dies.

Charles W. Lawton, 60 years old, an importer living in 144 West Thirtieth street, died last night in Bellevue Hospital of a cerebral hemorrhage. He was found unconscious on Saturday night in his office at 1125 Broadway, by his wife. She had become alarmed by his failure to return home at the usual time.

PEARY BURIED IN ARLINGTON TO-DAY

Simple Service Will Be Held in Washington Home. Special to THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD. ARLINGTON, Feb. 22.—The funeral of Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary will be held from his home in Wyoming avenue to-morrow morning, Chas. Carroll G. Wright, U. S. N., will conduct the services, while delegations from the Yale Club, the Aerial League, the National Geographic Society and the Explorers Club of New York will attend. Interment will be in Arlington.

DIES IN WASHINGTON

Superintendent of Police Once Was a Storm Centre Due to His Many Reforms. STARTED AS A REPORTER

Gained Distinction in Athletics, Forest Service and in Other Fields. Special to THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD. WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Raymond W. Pullman, superintendent of police of Washington, much criticized and much praised for his reform activities on the capital's police force, died to-day after a short illness. He was suffering from double pneumonia but his death was caused by a blood clot reaching his heart.

Major Pullman was appointed superintendent of police by President Wilson early in the latter's first administration. At the time he announced that he intended to make his department part of the social service of the city, and his carrying out of this and other reform measures made him a storm centre in the capital.

He was born in Fairfax county, Va., in November, 1853, and attended the public schools in Washington. He gained distinction as an athlete. Qualified as a Reporter.

After completing his education he entered the advertising business, but soon left this to become a reporter on a local newspaper. In that capacity he learned much about the police force. He became much interested in sociological problems, and took an idea from a reporter who had been in a city where almost every resident is interested in the subject.

For several years he was associated with Clifford Pinchot in the Government Forest Service. He served as chief of the office of information of his branch. While in this position he continued his studies and writings and gained considerable reputation as a writer of ability in this line. He became one of President Wilson's most ardent supporters.

Opposition to some of his radical changes in the running of the Police Department was more usually kept in the man he had succeeded, Major Richard Sylvester, had been superintendent so long he seemed as permanent as the Capitol, and his methods also were fixed and unchangeable. He was a man of abrupt abandonment of old traditions therefore proved a shock.

Praised for His Qualities. Just how he was regarded by those who appointed him may best be shown by a statement issued by Commissioner Louis P. Brownlow at the time of his appointment. The Commissioner said: "Mr. Pullman is a man of the highest character, of demonstrated executive ability and broad social vision, and I feel the people of Washington are to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a man in this position."

He had his appointment as superintendent of the police departments of many other cities. Last year he went to New York and spent a day in the traffic court on the post-graduate course in the Municipal House in order to study the management of such cases. Major Pullman was a member of the National Press Club, the Literary Club and several other organizations.

DR. J. VAN DER POEL, DIES IN HOME HERE

Aged 62, He Practised Long; Noted as a Lecturer. Dr. John Van der Poel, aged sixty-two, long a practicing physician and surgeon and lecturer on medical topics in this city and for one year of the war a member of the staff of the hospital at Chelsea, died to-day at his home, 56 West Fifty-second street.

Born in Albany, Dr. Van der Poel was a son of Dr. Samuel Oakley and Gertrude Lansing. He completed his post-graduate work abroad, studying at the Universities of Berlin, Leipzig and Vienna. Upon returning to the United States he resumed his work in New York and was associated with the Medical College of New York University as a lecturer.

WARDEN TROMBLEY, DANNEMORA, DEAD

One of Best Known Prison Heads in N. Y. State. Special to THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD. DANNEMORA, N. Y., Feb. 22.—Pneumonia caused the death to-day of John Trombley, warden of Clinton prison and one of the best known prison heads in the State. In the seven years that he had ruled over Clinton he had come to be known as the only warden who never relaxed his appointment to the post at the worst of the criminal element. Clinton was made a dumping ground for the jail breakers and such daring ones as "Jim Forrester" and "Big Bill" Green were sent there to be reformed. Warden Trombley reformed them—if reformation was possible—with the aid of local police. Under Trombley's administration Clinton became known as "the Siberia of America," and Trombley was referred to as "Iron Pat."

Warden Trombley was born in Clinton County, N. Y., in 1857. He was a member of the Democratic State committee at one time, and in 1910 and 1911 he served in the Assembly. He leaves a wife and eight children.

COUNT CAMILLO PECCI.

Rome, Saturday, Feb. 21.—Count Camillo Pecci, nephew of the late Pope Leo XIII, is dead. When his uncle was Pope the Count was an important personage at the Pontifical court. He married Silvia Rispo Garzon at Havana, Count Pecci's daughter married the son of the Duchess of Montmorency.

Importer Stricken in Office, Dies.

Charles W. Lawton, 60 years old, an importer living in 144 West Thirtieth street, died last night in Bellevue Hospital of a cerebral hemorrhage. He was found unconscious on Saturday night in his office at 1125 Broadway, by his wife. She had become alarmed by his failure to return home at the usual time.

DIED

KENT.—At Elizabeth N. J., Feb. 21, 1920, Harry W. Kent, in his 48th year, of the family of Kent and of the Henry A. Funeral services at the home of his brother, Percy T. Kent, 710 Newark av., Tuesday, Feb. 24, at 2:30 P. M. Interment convenience of family, Evergreen Cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

DONNELLY.—On the death of Donnelly, New York, American Red Cross surgeon, who gave up his life in helping the sick and suffering in Serbia, Feb. 22, 1915. Brothers John and Cornelius.