

Mrs. Vincent Astor and Mrs. Lillian Havemeyer photographed aboard the Imperator just before sailing for England for the summer. Photo, International.

Miss Margaret, winsome daughter of Representative Edward W. Pou of North Carolina, who will accompany him on a trip to the Orient this summer. Copyright, Clineinst.

"La Belle Ferroniere," the first painting by Leonardo da Vinci ever to leave Europe, here to adorn the new museum at Kansas City.

M. Jules Jusserand, French Ambassador, and Charles Alexander Richmond, president of Union College, on commencement day.

The King and Queen of England and Princess Mary arriving at Clare Market, where the King laid the cornerstone of the new School of Economics. Their most recent picture to reach America. Copyright, Keystone View.

Germany paying the price of schrecklichkeit: a cattle station on the French border where cows and horses are turned over to replace some of the thousands illegally seized in the great war. Those offered are not accepted by the Allied Commission unless they attain a certain standard. Copyright, Keystone View.

Love is supreme in this man's life. Prince Ange of Denmark, who has renounced all his prerogatives and any right to the throne of Denmark to marry the daughter of the Italian Ambassador at Copenhagen. Photo, International.