

Miss Anita Emmet to Become Bride of Mr. B. H. Wood

Represents Fourth Generation From Thomas Addis Emmet, Founder of Family Here.

Mr. Richard Temple Emmet of 77 East Eighty-ninth street and Ashfield, Mass., yesterday announced the engagement of Miss Anita H. Emmet, his daughter, to Mr. Barton Harwood Wood of New York, son of Henry Clay Wood, who has been chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission since 1917.

Mr. Wood was born in Paris. He prepared for college at St. Mark's School and was graduated from Amherst in 1910. While practicing law in New York in 1916 he enlisted in the Colorado National Guard for service on the Mexican border. Later he obtained a commission as Second Lieutenant at Camp Funston. He went overseas with the field artillery of the First Division.

Mr. Wood was born in Paris. He prepared for college at St. Mark's School and was graduated from Amherst in 1910. While practicing law in New York in 1916 he enlisted in the Colorado National Guard for service on the Mexican border.

Mr. Wood was born in Paris. He prepared for college at St. Mark's School and was graduated from Amherst in 1910. While practicing law in New York in 1916 he enlisted in the Colorado National Guard for service on the Mexican border.

Mr. Wood was born in Paris. He prepared for college at St. Mark's School and was graduated from Amherst in 1910. While practicing law in New York in 1916 he enlisted in the Colorado National Guard for service on the Mexican border.

Mr. Wood was born in Paris. He prepared for college at St. Mark's School and was graduated from Amherst in 1910. While practicing law in New York in 1916 he enlisted in the Colorado National Guard for service on the Mexican border.

Mr. Wood was born in Paris. He prepared for college at St. Mark's School and was graduated from Amherst in 1910. While practicing law in New York in 1916 he enlisted in the Colorado National Guard for service on the Mexican border.

Mr. Wood was born in Paris. He prepared for college at St. Mark's School and was graduated from Amherst in 1910. While practicing law in New York in 1916 he enlisted in the Colorado National Guard for service on the Mexican border.

Mr. Wood was born in Paris. He prepared for college at St. Mark's School and was graduated from Amherst in 1910. While practicing law in New York in 1916 he enlisted in the Colorado National Guard for service on the Mexican border.

Mr. Wood was born in Paris. He prepared for college at St. Mark's School and was graduated from Amherst in 1910. While practicing law in New York in 1916 he enlisted in the Colorado National Guard for service on the Mexican border.

Mr. Wood was born in Paris. He prepared for college at St. Mark's School and was graduated from Amherst in 1910. While practicing law in New York in 1916 he enlisted in the Colorado National Guard for service on the Mexican border.

Mr. Wood was born in Paris. He prepared for college at St. Mark's School and was graduated from Amherst in 1910. While practicing law in New York in 1916 he enlisted in the Colorado National Guard for service on the Mexican border.

Mr. Wood was born in Paris. He prepared for college at St. Mark's School and was graduated from Amherst in 1910. While practicing law in New York in 1916 he enlisted in the Colorado National Guard for service on the Mexican border.

Mr. Wood was born in Paris. He prepared for college at St. Mark's School and was graduated from Amherst in 1910. While practicing law in New York in 1916 he enlisted in the Colorado National Guard for service on the Mexican border.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.

New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Hooker, who passed the winter and spring in Lake Forest, Ill., are at the Ritz-Carlton. They will go to Tuxedo Park for the holiday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Lanier Washington are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Winthrop Bowen at Bald Hill, in Woodstock, Conn.

Mr. Marshall Field, 54, who has been at the St. Regis for a few days, will sail for the Adriatic to join his wife in Paris.

Mrs. J. Stevens Ulman, now at the Du Lancy Hotel place in Southampton, writes for her children for part of this month to North East Harbor, Me.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson of Chicago are at the St. Regis on their way to the White Mountains.

Mrs. Walton Hill Brown and Mrs. McNeal Sessler, her daughter, have returned from California and have joined Mr. Brown at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. James Speyer will start soon for Europe, where they will remain until the autumn.

Senator and Mrs. Philander C. Knox have closed their Washington home and are at Valley Forge, Pa.

Mrs. James D. Morgan, with her mother, Mrs. Edwin P. Abell of Baltimore, will sail for Europe July 17.

At Other Places. Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Bristol Draper of Hopedale, Mass., who have had an apartment at the Hotel Somerset, Boston, for the winter, will return to the middle of September.

Mrs. George Holden Tinkham has closed her town house in Commonwealth avenue, Boston, preparatory to going to the new beach house, Swampscott, for the summer.

The Rev. Alexander Mann, D. D., rector of Trinity Church, Boston, and Mrs. Mann have gone to their summer home at Wannox for the season.

Sir Herbert and Lady Ames are registered at the Hotel Somerset, Boston.

Officers of the navy and their wives gave a dance last night in the Training Station Armory for Miss Judith Lee Dimmick. Receiving with Miss Dimmick were her parents, Capt. and Mrs. Douglas E. Dimmick, and Commander and Mrs. George C. Logan.

Mr. Albert Good Jennings is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Duncan at Bon-River.

MRS. GRACE McMILLAN GIBSON ENGAGED TO MAJOR M. E. LOCKE

Bride-to-Be Is Granddaughter of Late Senator McMillan of Michigan.

Special to THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD. WASHINGTON, July 2.—Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wetmore McMillan of New York will announce on Sunday the engagement of their niece, Mrs. Grace McMillan Gibson of Washington, to Major Morris Ernest Locke, U. S. A. The wedding will probably take place in Washington within a few weeks.

Mrs. Gibson was Miss Grace Jarvis and was the second wife of Mr. Preston Gibson of Washington and New York. She is a granddaughter of the late United States Senator James McMillan of Michigan and was married to Mr. Gibson in Washington on February 23, 1907.

They were divorced in Washington in March, 1917, and the two children by the marriage, James McMillan Gibson, now ten years old, and Mary Preston Gibson, who is seven years old, were awarded to her in the decree of the court. During the first year of their married life Mr. and Mrs. Gibson took a prominent part in the social life of Washington, Newport and the "North Shore" resorts of Massachusetts.

Mr. Gibson, who is a son of the late Randall Lee Gibson of Alabama and a nephew of Chief Justice White of the United States Supreme Court, first married the late Mrs. M. E. Locke, daughter of the late Marshall Field of Chicago. They were married in 1896 and were divorced seven years later. The first Mrs. Gibson subsequently married Mr. Algerton Burnaby of London, England. Last October Mr. Gibson married Mrs. Beatrice Benjamin Pratt, formerly the wife of Mr. Alexander D. Pratt, on duty as instructor at the General Staff College in Washington. His home is in Cincinnati and he is connected with several of the old-line families of that city. His wife was a Miss Longworth. He served overseas with the Twenty-sixth Division.

Major Locke is on duty as instructor at the General Staff College in Washington. His home is in Cincinnati and he is connected with several of the old-line families of that city. His wife was a Miss Longworth. He served overseas with the Twenty-sixth Division.

When she was a child she attended a dancing academy in Camden, N. J., conducted by one "Professor" Wroe. After the full course Wroe arranged for a public performance of his pupils in Philadelphia to show off their accomplishments in dancing, and he arranged the appearance of his pupils as "The Wroe's Buds."

Ann made such a hit that she won the consent of her parents to go on the stage, and the red rosette which she wore then was cherished as a symbol of good luck. But the stage career was to begin only when she finished school, so it was up to her to study hard, for the harder she studied the sooner she would be able to return to the stage.

She studied at the Grand Central and will hold 20,000 persons comfortably and great congestion was avoided last night. The opening of the gates leading to the platform was delayed for a few minutes by the throng of perspiring passengers who were waiting for the train.

Thousands Expected at Open Air Performance To-night. An audience of several thousand is expected to attend the "Evening with Shakespeare" to-night at the Rosemary Open Air Theatre on the estate of Roland Conklin, Huntington, L. I., for the benefit of the American Red Cross.

The programme is under the direction of the Shakespeare Playhouse. William Faversham will take the part of "Julius Caesar" in the forum scene of "Julius Caesar." In the Forest of Arden scene from "As You Like It" Adele Kline will appear as Rosalind, Sydney Thompson as Celia, Walter Conroy as Orlando, Frank McEneaney as Touchstone, Gertrude Linnell as Audrey, and Whitford Kane as William. In the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet" Madeline Belmont will play Juliet and Connelly the Romeo. In the garden scene from "Twelfth Night" Adele Kline will be Viola, Sydney Thompson the Olivia, and Charles Webster the Orsino.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Ingalls arrived at the Homestead yesterday from their home in Greenwich, Conn. Mrs. Robert R. Hill, who has taken Ingalls, arrived yesterday from Washington.

Mr. Walter Carey of New York and Mr. Frederick Richardson of St. David, Pa., have arrived at the Homestead. The first two movements of Tachovsky's "Patriotic" Symphony were played to the rumbly drums of distant thunder. With the third movement rain began to fall. Some of the less interested or brave among the 4,000 present left the concert to seek shelter under umbrellas.

Oblivious to the drops, the musicians played on and finished the symphony. The concert was resumed after the intermission with Miss Marguerite Fontaine singing the "Sing-Song from Cadmus." "The Robin Wanderer" then came a real downpour. Musicians fled and the audience left, regretting three unplayed Grieg numbers.

A policy of frequent concerts by naval musicians to be given in the street in front of its club house, East Forty-fourth street, has been put in operation by the Navy Club. The band from the dreadnaught "Tennessee" gave concerts at 11:30 and 4:30 P. M. on Thursday, and will repeat at the same hours July 5. The band from the Bay Ridge naval base will give concerts at those hours on July 7. The concerts have the two-fold purpose of interesting passersby in the navy and in the Navy Club for seamen when ashore.

FOURTH TRAVELLERS RECORDS OLYMPIC VOYAGERS

More People Leaving City for Holiday Than Ever Before in History of Railroad.

As the result of a widespread desire by city dwellers to go elsewhere over the Fourth of July every one who could possibly get out of town yesterday did so, and those who couldn't are planning to leave to-day or to-morrow. Railroad officials said last night that the number of holiday pleasure seekers exceeded all figures they had ever known and that they found it hard to handle the crowds that stormed the ticket windows and filled the Grand Central Terminal and Pennsylvania Station in seemingly never ending streams.

The unusually heavy travel is attributed to two factors. In the first place, the celebration of the Fourth comes on Monday this year and many department stores and other commercial houses closed their doors last night, not to reopen until Tuesday morning. Besides, thousands of persons who hitherto had no money to spend on pleasure excursions are traveling with their families. All possible means of conveyance are being pressed into service and all records for traffic in the vicinity of New York are being smashed.

When traffic was heaviest trains were moved out of the Grand Central on a minute and a half delay. Three minutes of delay were made up by the train. This fact alone is expected to save the northern lines from being literally swamped with homecoming New Yorkers Monday night and Tuesday morning.

The excursion at the Grand Central will hold 20,000 persons comfortably and great congestion was avoided last night. The opening of the gates leading to the platform was delayed for a few minutes by the throng of perspiring passengers who were waiting for the train.

Some of the Olympic voyagers were Capt. C. A. Baglett, marine superintendent of the White Star Line, who is in command of the hospital ship Britannia when she was torpedoed in the Ionian Sea; Princess Olga Hassan Douglas Crawford, correspondent of the London Times; Jane Cowell, Major George Haven Putnam, Reinold Werner, Gerath Basso; Lambert Murphy, tenor; the Hon. Janet Laing and Isabelle May, Janet's daughters, who have been twenty-two years in the Atlantic service, said he was glad that the time had come, through the use of oil fuel, when firemen no longer visited the surgery with bottles of kerosene.

Some of the Olympic voyagers were Capt. C. A. Baglett, marine superintendent of the White Star Line, who is in command of the hospital ship Britannia when she was torpedoed in the Ionian Sea; Princess Olga Hassan Douglas Crawford, correspondent of the London Times; Jane Cowell, Major George Haven Putnam, Reinold Werner, Gerath Basso; Lambert Murphy, tenor; the Hon. Janet Laing and Isabelle May, Janet's daughters, who have been twenty-two years in the Atlantic service, said he was glad that the time had come, through the use of oil fuel, when firemen no longer visited the surgery with bottles of kerosene.

Some of the Olympic voyagers were Capt. C. A. Baglett, marine superintendent of the White Star Line, who is in command of the hospital ship Britannia when she was torpedoed in the Ionian Sea; Princess Olga Hassan Douglas Crawford, correspondent of the London Times; Jane Cowell, Major George Haven Putnam, Reinold Werner, Gerath Basso; Lambert Murphy, tenor; the Hon. Janet Laing and Isabelle May, Janet's daughters, who have been twenty-two years in the Atlantic service, said he was glad that the time had come, through the use of oil fuel, when firemen no longer visited the surgery with bottles of kerosene.

Some of the Olympic voyagers were Capt. C. A. Baglett, marine superintendent of the White Star Line, who is in command of the hospital ship Britannia when she was torpedoed in the Ionian Sea; Princess Olga Hassan Douglas Crawford, correspondent of the London Times; Jane Cowell, Major George Haven Putnam, Reinold Werner, Gerath Basso; Lambert Murphy, tenor; the Hon. Janet Laing and Isabelle May, Janet's daughters, who have been twenty-two years in the Atlantic service, said he was glad that the time had come, through the use of oil fuel, when firemen no longer visited the surgery with bottles of kerosene.

Some of the Olympic voyagers were Capt. C. A. Baglett, marine superintendent of the White Star Line, who is in command of the hospital ship Britannia when she was torpedoed in the Ionian Sea; Princess Olga Hassan Douglas Crawford, correspondent of the London Times; Jane Cowell, Major George Haven Putnam, Reinold Werner, Gerath Basso; Lambert Murphy, tenor; the Hon. Janet Laing and Isabelle May, Janet's daughters, who have been twenty-two years in the Atlantic service, said he was glad that the time had come, through the use of oil fuel, when firemen no longer visited the surgery with bottles of kerosene.

Some of the Olympic voyagers were Capt. C. A. Baglett, marine superintendent of the White Star Line, who is in command of the hospital ship Britannia when she was torpedoed in the Ionian Sea; Princess Olga Hassan Douglas Crawford, correspondent of the London Times; Jane Cowell, Major George Haven Putnam, Reinold Werner, Gerath Basso; Lambert Murphy, tenor; the Hon. Janet Laing and Isabelle May, Janet's daughters, who have been twenty-two years in the Atlantic service, said he was glad that the time had come, through the use of oil fuel, when firemen no longer visited the surgery with bottles of kerosene.

Some of the Olympic voyagers were Capt. C. A. Baglett, marine superintendent of the White Star Line, who is in command of the hospital ship Britannia when she was torpedoed in the Ionian Sea; Princess Olga Hassan Douglas Crawford, correspondent of the London Times; Jane Cowell, Major George Haven Putnam, Reinold Werner, Gerath Basso; Lambert Murphy, tenor; the Hon. Janet Laing and Isabelle May, Janet's daughters, who have been twenty-two years in the Atlantic service, said he was glad that the time had come, through the use of oil fuel, when firemen no longer visited the surgery with bottles of kerosene.

Some of the Olympic voyagers were Capt. C. A. Baglett, marine superintendent of the White Star Line, who is in command of the hospital ship Britannia when she was torpedoed in the Ionian Sea; Princess Olga Hassan Douglas Crawford, correspondent of the London Times; Jane Cowell, Major George Haven Putnam, Reinold Werner, Gerath Basso; Lambert Murphy, tenor; the Hon. Janet Laing and Isabelle May, Janet's daughters, who have been twenty-two years in the Atlantic service, said he was glad that the time had come, through the use of oil fuel, when firemen no longer visited the surgery with bottles of kerosene.

Some of the Olympic voyagers were Capt. C. A. Baglett, marine superintendent of the White Star Line, who is in command of the hospital ship Britannia when she was torpedoed in the Ionian Sea; Princess Olga Hassan Douglas Crawford, correspondent of the London Times; Jane Cowell, Major George Haven Putnam, Reinold Werner, Gerath Basso; Lambert Murphy, tenor; the Hon. Janet Laing and Isabelle May, Janet's daughters, who have been twenty-two years in the Atlantic service, said he was glad that the time had come, through the use of oil fuel, when firemen no longer visited the surgery with bottles of kerosene.

Some of the Olympic voyagers were Capt. C. A. Baglett, marine superintendent of the White Star Line, who is in command of the hospital ship Britannia when she was torpedoed in the Ionian Sea; Princess Olga Hassan Douglas Crawford, correspondent of the London Times; Jane Cowell, Major George Haven Putnam, Reinold Werner, Gerath Basso; Lambert Murphy, tenor; the Hon. Janet Laing and Isabelle May, Janet's daughters, who have been twenty-two years in the Atlantic service, said he was glad that the time had come, through the use of oil fuel, when firemen no longer visited the surgery with bottles of kerosene.

WILLIAM H. MULDOON. 188 in Steerage Cause Liner to Delay Landing 2,000 Passengers Here.

In the East for the Redemptorist Order, and of which he was the first rector, died last Thursday in the rectory of the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, in Manhattan, 221 East Sixty-sixth street, where he had been for some time stationed. Sunday night his body will be brought into the church in a solemn procession and a requiem mass will take place Monday morning.

William H. Muldoon, for nearly half a century a newspaper man, died yesterday in his home at 222 Decatur street, Brooklyn, in his 73d year. He had been ill for a year.

Mr. Muldoon was born in New York. He was 23 years old when he became city editor of the Brooklyn Times. Later he held the same position on the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, but relinquished it for a paper, "The Brooklyn Daily Eagle," which he edited for a number of years. He was also editor of the New York Times, and joined the staff of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, to continue his political writing. He was a member of the New York Press Club, and was a frequent contributor to the New York Herald, which appeared in the Sunday editions.

For the last two years Mr. Muldoon has been editor of the Park Department of Brooklyn, and also a contributor to the New York American. A daughter, Mrs. William H. Connor, died in 1918. Mr. Connor, an inventor, died in 1918. Mr. Connor, an inventor, died in 1918. Mr. Connor, an inventor, died in 1918.

Among those who hoped to get off the Olympic were nearly all the members of the New York Symphony Orchestra, who have been making a Mt. Mansfield excursion. Mayor Hylan's committee appointed to receive the orchestra went down the bay on the police boat Patrol and gave the musicians vociferous greeting and then steamed back to Manhattan. It was intended to have a grand excursion on the Olympic. The orchestra was to be taken to the City Hall, but this was called off after it was learned definitely that they would stop down the bay overnight.

Efforts of the White Star line to get suitable boats to take the cabin passengers, all of whom had been passed by Health Officer Leland Cofer in the afternoon, were unavailing as all of the boats of the large sea excursion steamboat lines and all of the big tugs were in service. Only those passengers who had urgent reasons for leaving the liner last night were able to get away. The liner was taking only hand baggage. The steamer passengers will be taken to Hoffman Island this morning.

Among the cabin passengers was W. A. White, inventor of the low pressure feeding machinery which is used on the Olympic and nearly 700 other merchantmen. He was much interested in the progress of the ship and was as delighted as her commander, Capt. Bertrand Hays, over the announcements of her daily runs, the best of which was 277 miles from Cherbourg at an average of twenty-one knots.

White said she had made up an average twenty-two knots on an expenditure of 600 tons of oil fuel when the stokers got accustomed to the work. As a coal burner she carried 500 more in her crew, which was made up of 100 men. Converting the great ship into an oil burner cost nearly $3,000,000.

Everything known to promote safety at sea in the Olympic's equipment, including a safety steering device which is used on the Olympic and nearly 700 other merchantmen. He was much interested in the progress of the ship and was as delighted as her commander, Capt. Bertrand Hays, over the announcements of her daily runs, the best of which was 277 miles from Cherbourg at an average of twenty-one knots.

White said she had made up an average twenty-two knots on an expenditure of 600 tons of oil fuel when the stokers got accustomed to the work. As a coal burner she carried 500 more in her crew, which was made up of 100 men. Converting the great ship into an oil burner cost nearly $3,000,000.

White said she had made up an average twenty-two knots on an expenditure of 600 tons of oil fuel when the stokers got accustomed to the work. As a coal burner she carried 500 more in her crew, which was made up of 100 men. Converting the great ship into an oil burner cost nearly $3,000,000.

White said she had made up an average twenty-two knots on an expenditure of 600 tons of oil fuel when the stokers got accustomed to the work. As a coal burner she carried 500 more in her crew, which was made up of 100 men. Converting the great ship into an oil burner cost nearly $3,000,000.

White said she had made up an average twenty-two knots on an expenditure of 600 tons of oil fuel when the stokers got accustomed to the work. As a coal burner she carried 500 more in her crew, which was made up of 100 men. Converting the great ship into an oil burner cost nearly $3,000,000.

White said she had made up an average twenty-two knots on an expenditure of 600 tons of oil fuel when the stokers got accustomed to the work. As a coal burner she carried 500 more in her crew, which was made up of 100 men. Converting the great ship into an oil burner cost nearly $3,000,000.

White said she had made up an average twenty-two knots on an expenditure of 600 tons of oil fuel when the stokers got accustomed to the work. As a coal burner she carried 500 more in her crew, which was made up of 100 men. Converting the great ship into an oil burner cost nearly $3,000,000.

Mrs. Grace McMillan Gibson.

MISS PENNINGTON'S TALISMAN THE ROSE

Dancer Tells Why She Always Wears One.

The curious superstitions of stage folk generally seem to exist without rhyme or reason. Yet Miss Ann Pennington in "Scandals of 1920" insists that her "red rose" superstition is founded upon fact. She declares this is the case whenever she dances she must wear a red rose somewhere. "Penny" counts for the rose in this way:

When she was a child she attended a dancing academy in Camden, N. J., conducted by one "Professor" Wroe. After the full course Wroe arranged for a public performance of his pupils in Philadelphia to show off their accomplishments in dancing, and he arranged the appearance of his pupils as "The Wroe's Buds."

Ann made such a hit that she won the consent of her parents to go on the stage, and the red rosette which she wore then was cherished as a symbol of good luck. But the stage career was to begin only when she finished school, so it was up to her to study hard, for the harder she studied the sooner she would be able to return to the stage.

She studied at the Grand Central and will hold 20,000 persons comfortably and great congestion was avoided last night. The opening of the gates leading to the platform was delayed for a few minutes by the throng of perspiring passengers who were waiting for the train.

Thousands Expected at Open Air Performance To-night. An audience of several thousand is expected to attend the "Evening with Shakespeare" to-night at the Rosemary Open Air Theatre on the estate of Roland Conklin, Huntington, L. I., for the benefit of the American Red Cross.

The programme is under the direction of the Shakespeare Playhouse. William Faversham will take the part of "Julius Caesar" in the forum scene of "Julius Caesar." In the Forest of Arden scene from "As You Like It" Adele Kline will appear as Rosalind, Sydney Thompson as Celia, Walter Conroy as Orlando, Frank McEneaney as Touchstone, Gertrude Linnell as Audrey, and Whitford Kane as William. In the balcony scene from "Romeo and Juliet" Madeline Belmont will play Juliet and Connelly the Romeo. In the garden scene from "Twelfth Night" Adele Kline will be Viola, Sydney Thompson the Olivia, and Charles Webster the Orsino.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Ingalls arrived at the Homestead yesterday from their home in Greenwich, Conn. Mrs. Robert R. Hill, who has taken Ingalls, arrived yesterday from Washington.

Mr. Walter Carey of New York and Mr. Frederick Richardson of St. David, Pa., have arrived at the Homestead. The first two movements of Tachovsky's "Patriotic" Symphony were played to the rumbly drums of distant thunder. With the third movement rain began to fall. Some of the less interested or brave among the 4,000 present left the concert to seek shelter under umbrellas.

Oblivious to the drops, the musicians played on and finished the symphony. The concert was resumed after the intermission with Miss Marguerite Fontaine singing the "Sing-Song from Cadmus." "The Robin Wanderer" then came a real downpour. Musicians fled and the audience left, regretting three unplayed Grieg numbers.

A policy of frequent concerts by naval musicians to be given in the street in front of its club house, East Forty-fourth street, has been put in operation by the Navy Club. The band from the dreadnaught "Tennessee" gave concerts at 11:30 and 4:30 P. M. on Thursday, and will repeat at the same hours July 5. The band from the Bay Ridge naval base will give concerts at those hours on July 7. The concerts have the two-fold purpose of interesting passersby in the navy and in the Navy Club for seamen when ashore.

A policy of frequent concerts by naval musicians to be given in the street in front of its club house, East Forty-fourth street, has been put in operation by the Navy Club. The band from the dreadnaught "Tennessee" gave concerts at 11:30 and 4:30 P. M. on Thursday, and will repeat at the same hours July 5. The band from the Bay Ridge naval base will give concerts at those hours on July 7. The concerts have the two-fold purpose of interesting passersby in the navy and in the Navy Club for seamen when ashore.

CHICAGO MUSICIANS MAY QUIT.

Theatre Orchestras to Strike Unless Demands Are Met.

Chicago, July 2.—Chicago theatres may have a strike of musicians as a result of the failure of playhouse managers and orchestra performers to reach an agreement on pay increases.

Joseph Winkler, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, today stood firm in his refusal to accept a 35 per cent. increase and declared that the union would insist on the 50 per cent. raise. Sunday night, it is said, will witness the darkening of a number of the loop playhouses unless a truce is declared or an agreement reached.

The management of "The Girl in the Red Light," which planned to open Sunday afternoon at the Chicago Theatre, so alarmed that the engagement was cancelled and the company ordered back to New York.

"Movies" at Arenas Home. Hillbrook, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. George Arenas in Rye, N. Y., began to receive a number of guests for a sumptuous "movie" party. In the drawing room with 600 guests forming the audience "The Sporting Duchess" was presented. Many among the spectators were familiar with the play. The side scenes had been made on the Hillbrook estate. The roles in the photoplay were taken by professional players.

When the film had been shown supper was served on the terrace. Dancing concluded the "movie" party.

Condition of Gen. Gorgas. London, July 2.—The condition of Major-General William G. Gorgas, former Surgeon-General of the United States Army, was very serious this evening.

Notes of the Theatres. George M. Cohan will continue with "Jimmy Hood" in his new play, "The Sign of the Cross," at the Liberty Theatre. The play will be produced by Augustus Pitts on its first night at the Liberty Theatre on Monday. The play will be produced by Augustus Pitts on its first night at the Liberty Theatre on Monday.

Notes of the Theatres. George M. Cohan will continue with "Jimmy Hood" in his new play, "The Sign of the Cross," at the Liberty Theatre. The play will be produced by Augustus Pitts on its first night at the Liberty Theatre on Monday. The play will be produced by Augustus Pitts on its first night at the Liberty Theatre on Monday.

Notes of the Theatres. George M. Cohan will continue with "Jimmy Hood" in his new play, "The Sign of the Cross," at the Liberty Theatre. The play will be produced by Augustus Pitts on its first night at the Liberty Theatre on Monday. The play will be produced by Augustus Pitts on its first night at the Liberty Theatre on Monday.

Notes of the Theatres. George M. Cohan will continue with "Jimmy Hood" in his new play, "The Sign of the Cross," at the Liberty Theatre. The play will be produced by Augustus Pitts on its first night at the Liberty Theatre on Monday. The play will be produced by Augustus Pitts on its first night at the Liberty Theatre on Monday.

Notes of the Theatres. George M. Cohan will continue with "Jimmy Hood" in his new play, "The Sign of the Cross," at the Liberty Theatre. The play will be produced by Augustus Pitts on its first night at the Liberty Theatre on Monday. The play will be produced by Augustus Pitts on its first night at the Liberty Theatre on Monday.

WILLIAM H. MULDOON. 188 in Steerage Cause Liner to Delay Landing 2,000 Passengers Here.

In the East for the Redemptorist Order, and of which he was the first rector, died last Thursday in the rectory of the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, in Manhattan, 221 East Sixty-sixth street, where he had been for some time stationed. Sunday night his body will be brought into the church in a solemn procession and a requiem mass will take place Monday morning.

William H. Muldoon, for nearly half a century a newspaper man, died yesterday in his home at 222 Decatur street, Brooklyn, in his 73d year. He had been ill for a year.

Mr. Muldoon was born in New York. He was 23 years old when he became city editor of the Brooklyn Times. Later he held the same position on the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, but relinquished it for a paper, "The Brooklyn Daily Eagle," which he edited for a number of years. He was also editor of the New York Times, and joined the staff of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, to continue his political writing. He was a member of the New York Press Club, and was a frequent contributor to the New York Herald, which appeared in the Sunday editions.

For the last two years Mr. Muldoon has been editor of the Park Department of Brooklyn, and also a contributor to the New York American. A daughter, Mrs. William H. Connor, died in 1918. Mr. Connor, an inventor, died in 1918. Mr. Connor, an inventor, died in 1918.

Among those who hoped to get off the Olympic were nearly all the members of the New York Symphony Orchestra, who have been making a Mt. Mansfield excursion. Mayor Hylan's committee appointed to receive the orchestra went down the bay on the police boat Patrol and gave the musicians vociferous greeting and then steamed back to Manhattan. It was intended to have a grand excursion on the Olympic. The orchestra was to be taken to the City Hall, but this was called off after it was learned definitely that they would stop down the bay overnight.

Efforts of the White Star line to get suitable boats to take the cabin passengers, all of whom had been passed by Health Officer Leland Cofer in the afternoon, were unavailing as all of the boats of the large sea excursion steamboat lines and all of the big tugs were in service. Only those passengers who had urgent reasons for leaving the liner last night were able to get away. The liner was taking only hand baggage. The steamer passengers will be taken to Hoffman Island this morning.

Among the cabin passengers was W. A. White, inventor of the low pressure feeding machinery which is used on the Olympic and nearly 700 other merchantmen. He was much interested in the progress of the ship and was as delighted as her commander, Capt. Bertrand Hays, over the announcements of her daily runs, the best of which was 277 miles from Cherbourg at an average of twenty-one knots.

White said she had made up an average twenty-two knots on an expenditure of 600 tons of oil fuel when the stokers got accustomed to the work. As a coal burner she carried 500 more in her crew, which was made up of 100 men. Converting the great ship into an oil burner cost nearly $3,000,000.

Everything known to promote safety at sea in the Olympic's equipment, including a safety steering device which is used on the Olympic and nearly 700 other merchantmen. He was much interested in the progress of the ship and was as delighted as her commander, Capt. Bertrand Hays, over the announcements of her daily runs, the best of which was 277 miles from Cherbourg at an average of twenty-one knots.

White said she had made up an average twenty-two knots on an expenditure of 600 tons of oil fuel when the stokers got accustomed to the work. As a coal burner she carried 500 more in her crew, which was made up of 100 men. Converting the great ship into an oil burner cost nearly $3,000,000.

White said she had made up an average twenty-two knots on an expenditure of 600 tons of oil fuel when the stokers got accustomed to the work. As a coal burner she carried 500 more in her crew, which was made up of 100 men. Converting the great ship into an oil burner cost nearly $3,000,000.</