

Ruth Hits Two More Home Runs, Increasing His Total to Thirty-one and Setting a New High Record

YANKS LOSE ONE AFTER BEATING SOX

Win First Game, 8 to 2; Drop Second, 8 to 5—Costly Errors.

By WILLIAM B. HANNA.

Babe Ruth yesterday got two home runs off Dick Kerr, the left hander of the White Sox, and set a new record for hitting home runs in any one season. The Ruth mark now is 31. The complete record is as follows:

Babe Ruth's Record of 31 Home Runs

Table showing Babe Ruth's home run record by month: MAY (1), JUNE (10), JULY (20).

He hit with which Ruth broke his home run record of last year—twenty-nine—was delivered in the fourth inning of the second game, and was the eighth of the two.

He piled it far up into the right field bleachers. It was a drive that landed in the right field bleachers. He didn't stop to think of the new figures of thirty homers, but set them hitting up to thirty-one.

The Yankees scored three home runs in this game, but still kept their lead. The Sox had a better support than Thormahlen of the Yanks did. His backing varied from steady and sure to brilliant and sure. Thormahlen's varied from brilliant to steady and sure.

The opposing troops were late going into action. A water laden cloud burst all over the scenery about 1 o'clock and made such a mess of the field that the Yankees decided to play but one game, and that at 3:30. He got to thinking it over, however, and decided to start in at 2 o'clock on a double header.

The Yankees rattled the hits off Wilkinson at a furious rate. The first two were singles and killed them to stave off a run. Peck, Pipp, Pratt, Bodie, Ruel and Shawkey carried on the assault. Bodie sent a homer plunging into the left field gallery in the fifth inning after Thormahlen had hit for two runs. He shifted the game for half an hour just after the Sox, who dawdled and stalled over it, finished their half of the fifth inning.

Musel Climbs the Wall.

The fielding feat of this game was executed by Musel. He backed into the wall, jumped and came down with a line from Weaver's follow-up. The Sox, aided by a smattering of hits and a fumble by Peck, took into themselves two runs, which gave the Yankees no concern whatsoever.

Robert Thormahlen was removed in the thick of a batting spell in the second game, which the Yankees frittered away through errors by Hannah and slow fielding in other places. Hits were bunched on Thormahlen, who wrenched the Sox out of the game at the end of the first inning.

Thormahlen's misplays were costly, but he was doing his best after having been on the sick list, and the groans and pained yells on him by the crowd, or a certain rough neck element if it were humanly ungenerous, are to be understood. "Rough neck" is used advisedly. It's only the rough neck element that would do that sort of thing. The point arose, why pitch Hannah if he wasn't hit and with Ruth going well, and he was remembered that slow fielding by Ward and Musel helped in the downfall.

Ward was slow on bunts, though the rest didn't help him any, but also he was great on hot hits and to his position. He handled hot shots splendidly. Weaver, Eddie Collins and Jackson made whirlwind plays for the Sox, plays which were the same for them. Jackson sealed the left field woodswork and clutched a rip roarer from Musel, and Collins, paragon of all second basemen, converted a searing slash from Bodie's mallet and converted it into a double play. In no previous game had the Sox blown such a race.

Jackson hit to right for a home run in the second hit into the bleachers in the fourth. His home run followed a single by Pipp. Pratt tripled in the sixth after a two bagger by Peck, and he led toward success.

A Pass Starts Mischief.

The seventh and eighth innings went slawly. A pass to Peck in the seventh inning started mischief. J. Collins singled and Peck poked a single into a double play. In no previous game had the Sox blown such a race. Jackson hit to right for a home run in the second hit into the bleachers in the fourth. His home run followed a single by Pipp. Pratt tripled in the sixth after a two bagger by Peck, and he led toward success.

MAMAUX'S WILD PEG BEATS THE DODGERS

Allows Daubert to Score for Reds in Ninth.

Special to THE SUN and NEW YORK HERALD. CINCINNATI, July 19.—The champion Reds evened their series with the league leading Dodgers this afternoon when they took the fourth game of the series by a score of 5 to 4. The Dodgers now are only two games in the lead. Mamaux's wild throw over Koney's head in the ninth inning scored Daubert with the tally that gave the Reds a victory.

Peffer started for the Dodgers but the Reds hit him hard and he was chased off the slab in the fourth inning. Mamaux relieved him and had only two bad innings, the sixth and ninth.

Rueher, the Reds' twirler, was hit freely in the first six chapters, but finished strong. Not a hit was made off him in the last three stanzas. Rueher's worst seasons were his fifth and sixth when the Dodgers did all their scoring. The Reds bunched four hits off his left handed slants in the sixth inning for three runs and forged to the front, but the Reds came back in their half of the same inning and evened the count.

Groh greeted Peffer in the first session with a long triple. Daubert and Roush failed to bring him home. Duncan, however, bounced a single to left and Groh scored.

In the next inning Wingo started the Reds on the road to another tally with a sacrifice. Rueher tried to sacrifice and failed to Johnston, who threw to second. Olson muffed the peg and both were safe. Groh followed with a single to left and Wingo scored. The hit ended Peffer's stay and Mamaux took his place. Daubert sacrificed. Roush fled to Wheat. Rueher left third before Zach caught the ball, and when Olson called for the pitcher and hit the first umpire Moran called Rueher out.

The Dodgers pushed their tally over the plate on successive singles by Johnston, Nelis and Wheat in the fifth. Rueher tried to sacrifice and failed to Johnston, who threw to second. Olson muffed the peg and both were safe. Groh followed with a single to left and Wingo scored. The hit ended Peffer's stay and Mamaux took his place. Daubert sacrificed. Roush fled to Wheat. Rueher left third before Zach caught the ball, and when Olson called for the pitcher and hit the first umpire Moran called Rueher out.

The Reds tied the score in the same inning when Wingo singled, stole second and scored on Daubert's single. Jack was the first Red to face Mamaux in the ninth, and after fouling off a couple he doubled to centre. The ball bounded over Meyer's head but was recovered by Wheat. Roush then bunted to Mamaux and had the third base. Mamaux tucked the ball over Koney's head and former Dodger crossed the plate with the winning run. The score:

Maranville and Holke Headed for New York

It was learned yesterday that a deal between the Giants and the Braves is near consummation. It is likely to be completed and the players transferred before the Giants return to the Polo Grounds next week.

According to the best of information Rabbit Maranville and Walter Holke are to become Giants, and George Kelly, Jess Winters and another pitcher as well as an infielder are to go to the Braves. Maranville will play shortstop and Dave Bancroft will move over to second base.

A third club may be involved in the deal, which has been brewing for the last three weeks, but struck a snag last week. It is said that this snag has been removed. Holke, it will be remembered, is with the Giants for many seasons and was released to the Reds in the deal which sent Chase a Giant. The Reds sent Holke to the Braves.

MARSHALL RETAINS LEAD AT CHESS

Only One More Round to Be Played in Masters' Tourney.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 19.—With one more round left to be played in the masters' tourney of the Atlantic City Chess Congress on the Million Dollar Pier, Frank J. Marshall, United States champion, retained the lead to-day by winning his game in the ninth and semi-final round from C. T. Sharp, the Philadelphia city champion, who put up a capital fight, but resigned after forty-three moves. Marshall had the white side of a queen's pawn opening, which Sharp treated with a counter gambit. In a rook and pawn ending, the American champion obtained the upper hand by means of two connected passed pawns. This victory gave Marshall 4 1/2 victories and 2 1/2 defeats, still half a point better than the record of Jaffe of New York, who wrested second place from Mikolovich of Los Angeles by defeating the Westerner in forty-one moves. Jaffe played the queen's pawn opening and won the "exchange" on the twenty-sixth move, after which he had the game well in hand.

DULUTH, July 19.—Syracuse University's senior eight defeated the Duluth Boat Club senior eight on St. Louis Bay here this afternoon by a margin of two feet in a mile and a quarter race. The time was: Syracuse, 6 minutes 17 1/2 seconds; Duluth, 6 minutes 17 1/2 seconds.

The race was a desperate struggle to the finish. At the half way mark Duluth seemed slightly ahead; then a supreme effort by the Syracuse crew cut down the lead and the variety shell flashed across the line, winner by a half second.

The crew crews leave to-night for Worcester, Mass., where they are entered in the National Regatta, and will again compete for the privilege of representing this country in the Olympic meet. The crew will be accompanied by a contingent of crew and his Duluthians.

GOTHAM SENDS BEST TO WORCESTER RACES

Harlem River Clubs Well Represented at Big Gathering

Out of the dozen cities to take part in the forty-sixth national amateur regatta at Worcester, Mass., on Friday and Saturday New York is second in the number of clubs represented. The Lone Star Boat Club, the most active on the Harlem River this season, heads the list with entries in the senior and intermediate double shells. The winners of the former event are to be the American Olympic candidates. The seniors, David S. Mainin and Henry Frolsch, distinguished themselves July 5 by taking third place at the people's regatta at Philadelphia, and on the same day the intermediate crew finished second in their race. Witold L. Schwab and Samuel Siegel of the Intermediate shell are 35 years of age and their weights average 136 pounds.

The second New York entry in the senior double shell comes from the Metropolitan Rowing Club and consists of Stanford Wells and John Shultz. Wells is an excellent oarsman and Shultz has for some years been head coach of the Metropolitan.

The New York Athletic Club is sending a crack crew to compete in one of the four Olympic championship races, the senior quadruple scull shells, or centipede. Stroke Krouche has been a prominent figure in American rowing for some years and lately distinguished himself at Philadelphia.

The course at Worcester extends for one and a quarter miles straightaway over

Lake Quinsigamond, and several thousand spectators are expected to be present. The New York crews are to leave Thursday morning and intend to put in a stiff afternoon's practice before the races begin.

The local entries are: Lone Star Boat Club; Senior Double Shell—David S. Mainin, stroke; Henry Frolsch, bow; Intermediate Double Shell—Witold L. Schwab, stroke; Samuel Siegel, bow; Metropolitan Rowing Club; Senior Double Shell—Stanford Wells, stroke; John Shultz, bow; First Bohemian Boat Club; Senior Double Shell—Henry R. Heller, stroke; John Shultz, bow; New York Athletic Club; Senior Quadruple Scull—Louis Zohar, stroke; O. Smith, H. J. Schopp, Dewitt C. Baker; positions undecided.
