Richards Beats Hunter.

For appetacular tennis the victory of Richards over Hunter, one of the most successful of the metropolitan tournaplayers this season, easily led the early set before Hunter had found his best speed, Richards had comeratively little trouble in getting to net and blocking his opponent's recomfortable margin, exhibiting some pero volleying and overhead smashing

It was quite different in the second set, en play grew decidedly more spirited, tuse Hunter increased the of his drives. Richards found he suld not reach the forward court in me to meet the fast travelling ball and had to stay back to prevent being As the next best thing Richards began to mix up his strokes in puzzling fashion, chopping a short return to bring Hunter up to the net and then driving back on his heels with a well di-down the side lines. Hunter's speed kept him busy, how ever, and it was not an easy matter for Richards to tune his shots or choose his openings. Richards led at 4-3 after games had alternated most of the way, or Hunter sported strongly and after a series of sparkling railies went out into

At this stage many of the games were solig to deuce and Hunter seemed on road to stretching the match into extra sets. Richards, however, playing confidently and smoothly and outsteadywith sames in a row for the set and the, 6-3, 8-6. Toward the close Richards was up at the net again at every opportunity and flashed another on of decisive volleying.

Glards was up at the net again at the ry opportunity and flashed another dishiftion of declaive volleying.

Watson Washburn of New York, Charles Garland of Pittsburg, Richard N. Willlams of Boston, Willis E. Davis of San Francisco, William M Johnston of San Francisco and N. W. Niles of Boston will appear there. In view of their previous performances it would appear that Willlams or Johnston should come through this half, the winner being left to fight it out with William T. Tilden of Phila-delphia, who is in the fourth quarter.

Fred B. Alexander of New York, Clarence J. Griffin of San Francisco, Richard Harte of Boston, Dean Mathey of New York, Waliace F. Johnson of Philadelphia and Roland Roberts of San Fran-cisco are in the third quarter, thus assuring several splendld matches in early rounds. The fourth quarter has William T. Tilden of Philadelphia, Vincent Richards of Yonkers, Fritz Bastian of Indianapolis, Walter Merrill Hall of New York and Walter Westbrook of Detroit as its principal figures.

Play will begin at 1 o'clock on Mon-day. Entries for the veterans and father and son championships are still being received. The draw for those tournaments will be made the end of this week. The pairings for the national singles championship follow:

UNDER A BUSHEL

Before inflation began to show its effects, the light of Guaranteed Mortgages was partly hidden under a bushel. You knew then that they were always worth par, but the fact may not have appealed to you as of great importance. Now that other standard securities have dropped 30% you realize the merit of a 51/2% investment that never depreciates.
