

William T. Tilden 2d Becomes World's Tennis Champion by Defeating Vm. M. Johnston in National Title Match

BRITONS FAIL IN GOLF MEDAL TEST

Cyril Tolley, Roger Wethered and Lord Charles Hope Out.

By KERR N. PETRIE.

Unless T. D. Armour of Lothburn, Scotland, had yet proved equal to the task of shouldering the entire responsibility and burden of a suddenly and unexpectedly imposed upon him the menace of the second British golf invasion passed yesterday with the playing of the 36 hole qualifying rounds in the National Amateur Championship over the Engineers and North Shore Country Club links. While freely predicted that these two grueling circuits would cause the downfall of many of the favored ones, not many were prepared for the wholesale failure of that actually did transpire. Those who went down more or less ignominiously were many, but the most significant happening of all was the failure of the three who had been expected to stand by to duplicate what Harold H. Hilton had done in 1911 at Apawamis. The trio consisted of Cyril J. H. Tolley, the British titleholder; Roger Wethered of Lothburn, Scotland, and Lord Charles Hope, and not one of the party survives for the first round of match play this morning.

Whatever aspirations Lord Charles Hope may have entertained for the whole of yesterday in the first round over the North Shore links, for he came back to play his second eighteen holes over the Engineers circuit with a card of 91. Wethered was in little better plight, for he was out of the hole in 187 strokes. The first mentioned of the two practically had settled himself at the fourteenth hole, for he rolled up the new inspiring total of eleven strokes for the particular hole, and in the afternoon at the Engineers Lord Charles Hope and Wethered each made an 85, but their position was untenable from the first.

It was the big surprise of the afternoon among the invaders. He had cracked out a fairly respectable round of 81 at North Shore, which seemed safe enough for his purpose. But in the afternoon he experienced a rough time at the particular hole, and he had turned in a fair 43, but he was numbered among the slain the minute he noted a 9 for the tenth, which means one has been beaten. It is a fact that one has been beaten. It is a fact that one has been beaten. It is a fact that one has been beaten.

Not was Canada much better plight than the United States at the end of the day. Beginning with most of the stalwarts who had carried her colors in the international match on Saturday, she was left with only P. Grier, her present titleholder, to fight for her in the match play, that is, provided W. J. Thompson is not successful in gaining one of three places in the play off this morning. Thompson scored 83 and 82, and that put him alongside of a double at the top of the list. John N. Stearns, Jr., of Nassau, W. H. Gardner of Buffalo, Sam Graham of Greenwich, J. T. L. Hubbard of Brookline, Albert Seckel of Riverside, former Western champion, and George W. H. Gardner of New Orleans. This party will start out this morning bright and early—half-past eight, to be exact—to break the deadlock and fight for the three remaining places in the draw.

At that it may be remarked in passing, was well in the charmed circle, with a total of 83 made at North Shore in the morning and a 78 compiled over the Engineers' links toward the tail end of the day.

Among the representatives of the Dominion who failed were George H. Turpin of Royal Montreal, who was runner-up last year's titleholder, and Frank Thompson. McLuckie is the man who in the international match on Saturday had so soundly defeated Francis Oulmet, while it was Thompson who put Bobbie Jones to rout.

For such is golf. Yesterday Jones was out to atone for that defeat. Last night scarcely any one remembered it. What they were talking about was the North Atlantic tour which came through the thirty-six holes of medal play like a cork through a flood, and how when every thing seemed set for a Massachusetts medal victory the Southerner, Fred Wright, showed the median at Edgewood State titleholder, for the honors with a grand total of 154.

For Wright that is the time indeed a triumph, for this is the first time that he has played in the national amateur championship and the first time that he has qualified. It is worthy of note that Freddie broke into the championship game at Merion in 1914, in the tournament in which Jones also made his debut.

formerly metropolitan junior champion, at 158. In the next group at 159 were Robert A. Gardner of Chicago, D. E. Sawyer of Swaney, the metropolitan champion; Max R. Marston of Merion and Francis Oulmet of Philadelphia. Chick Evans was with Richard Hickey of Atlanta and J. Simpson Dean, the Princeton captain, at 160.

The Canadian champion, Grier, and Gardner W. White of Nassau were the only ones at 161. A stroke behind was Armour, in company with J. B. Rose of Allegheny, D. Clarke Corkran of Baltimore, Philip Carter of the National Links, E. P. Allen of Milwaukee and Reginald M. Lewis of Greenwich. J. Wood Platt of North Hills, S. Davidson Herron, Oakland, the national titleholder; Frank W. Dyer of Upper Montclair and F. C. Newton, the Massachusetts Lesley cup team captain, were safe at 162, while Jess W. Sweetser, the intercollegiate champion; Maurice Hisley of Atlantic City, Charles Hoffer of Bala and M. M. Clark of Merion barely escaped the tie.

The Summary:

Table with 3 columns: Name, Score, and Position. Lists names like Bobby Jones, J. Wood Platt, and others with their respective scores and positions.

Did Not Qualify:

Table with 3 columns: Name, Score, and Position. Lists names like J. A. Gammon, Warren Corbett, and others who did not qualify.

Domination Stars Fall Out.

Among the representatives of the Dominion who failed were George H. Turpin of Royal Montreal, who was runner-up last year's titleholder, and Frank Thompson. McLuckie is the man who in the international match on Saturday had so soundly defeated Francis Oulmet, while it was Thompson who put Bobbie Jones to rout.

The Draw.

The draw for the first round of match play, which begins this morning, was as follows, three players given by pending the result of the play-off for the last three places:

Eights Feature Harlem's Greatest Rowing Regatta

Unions Win Senior Contest Over Vespers by Seven Feet—Nortons of Worcester Take Two Other Big Crew Battles—Zoha Again Beats Heller.

By DANIEL.

Eight-oared shell racing, which only a few years ago was given up for dead on the Harlem, was revived on that river yesterday afternoon in a most sensational manner in the twenty-ninth annual Middle States regatta. There were three eight-oared shell contests and every one of them was a hammer, with the last of the trio developing the most stirring battle yet seen on the historic course. Old timers like Jim Wilkinson gave it the palm.

It was in the senior eights, next to the last contest on the program, that this memorable struggle was witnessed by about twenty thousand persons who occupied points of vantage on both banks of the river. And to the Unions of the Harlem went the honor of coming home in England.

Against the Unions were pitted the Vespers and the Undines of Philadelphia. Pre-race "dope" had it that the Quaker City eight would have it out almost all the way, but the Vespers were not to be so easily deterred. The men from the Harlem sprang a great surprise. They won over the Vespers by only seven feet, while the Undines were only three feet behind the fellow-oarsmen from the Schuylkill.

It was a stirring battle from start to finish. The Unions won because they had the better form and were able to sustain a terrific pace from the start to the mile. For three-quarters of a mile the three boats were almost on a line. Then the Unions began to pull away. The advantage was not very great, but it was enough to give the Unions the win. The Vespers were caught in 5:14.2, while the Undines were timed in 5:15.2.

The other two eight-oared shell races were also won by the Unions. The Club of Worcester, Mass., took the middle race, and the North Shore Club of Worcester, Mass., took the final race. The Unions were again the victors.

Zoha Again in King.

The biggest betting race of the day, and the most talked about, was the senior single sculls—a race which really was for the national championship. Jack Kelly eliminated Louis Zoha of the Atlantans in the association singing in the national and then gave Kelly a great race for the championship, again pitted against Heller.

W. E. Garrett Gilmore of the Bachellors won the Philadelphia title, while the North Shore Club of Worcester, Mass., won the association singles earlier in the day, and Frank Shea of the Nonpareils, winner of the quarter-mile dash, had strong support as the men vied for the starting line. Walter Rigling of the Undines and Dave Anderson of the Actives were the other starters.

New York in Lead.

New York won more events than any other city, but it had a margin of only one victory over Philadelphia, which came up with a strong entry and did very well indeed. New York won seven events, the Nonpareils and the Bohemians accounting for two each, while the Lone Stars, Ravenswoods and Unions got one apiece. The Undines and the Club of Worcester were the only Philadelphia teams to win.

WILSON DEFEATS JOHNSTON FOR TITLE

Continued from First Page.

THE Yankees this season have played to approximately 1,700,000 persons, and they have three weeks to go. It is not improbable that they will reach the 2,000,000 mark. In any event, they will close all past performances. The attendance yesterday was 10,000 in the morning and 23,000 in the afternoon. It was a cloudy day and with a drizzle in the afternoon and evening.

So Slim Sallee is back with the Giants. McGraw is a great hand for giving men a second trial after they have been with some other National League club. Sallee, Doyle, Herzog and Demaree, for instance.

Just at this point the clouds opened up again, rain falling so heavily that the gallery started a dash for the exits. Tilden and Johnston continued to play, however, with the hope of finishing the set, and on the first point Johnston volleyed the ball for placement. While the stroke was being made, however, Eddie Condon, in the umpire's chair, waved his hand and called for a time-out, making no attempt to reach Johnston's returns, so as to be sure of drawing the third set with the advantage of service. The second set, like the first, was completed in the surprisingly quick hour. The men were wasting very few shots, trying for placement repeatedly or manoeuvring skilfully so as to force one another out of position.

Both men were keyed up when the third set tennis pitch when the third set while the rallies being longer and more stirring than ever. With the score 3-1, Johnston, who appeared to be stroking more confidently and more determinedly than ever, earned the first break through service by hitting the ball into the net at the corners. The loss of service seemed to arouse Tilden, who, for a stretch of nearly half an hour, had not been playing up to the speed he had flashed in the opening set, and he bobbed up with a spurt that forced Johnston to yield his service and brought the games to 4-1.

A stroke of luck favored Tilden at this stage. With Johnston leading 4-30 and with one point needed to make his lead 5-3, Tilden, racing after a forehand drive sent it back rather low and with terrific force. The ball hit the top of the net, hung there for a moment, and Johnston, making no attempt to return it, called for a time-out. Johnston, as matters turned out, probably would have won the set at 4-1. As it was, however, Tilden drew a 30-30, and Johnston, who had been in the twelfth game, when the Philadelphia finally broke through for the set at 7-5.

In the last few games Tilden was flashing the same whirlwind tennis stroke, hitting with the surprising speed of a bullet. His service, carried by Johnston to take all the chances, was as good as Johnston came to the forward court, Tilden sent the ball whizzing past his rival with such great frequency that it appeared foolhardy for Johnston to persist in the net attack. But the Californian had his mind set on forcing the attack and he continued the same tactics to the end. The score went to 3—all and then Tilden took the next three games.

Tilden was twice within a point of the match before he ended it finally with a service ace followed by a stinging drive to Johnston's backhand that the latter could not return. Both victor and vanquished received a tremendous ovation as they left the court and Tilden had to race off the court to avoid the scores of hero worshippers who attempted to reach him as he made his way to the clubhouse.

William A. Campbell of New York outlasted Russell A. Dana of Providence in the final set. Campbell won the set 6-4. As it was, however, Tilden drew a 30-30, and Johnston, who had been in the twelfth game, when the Philadelphia finally broke through for the set at 7-5.

Yankee Attendance May Reach 2,000,000

THE Yankees this season have played to approximately 1,700,000 persons, and they have three weeks to go. It is not improbable that they will reach the 2,000,000 mark. In any event, they will close all past performances. The attendance yesterday was 10,000 in the morning and 23,000 in the afternoon. It was a cloudy day and with a drizzle in the afternoon and evening.

So Slim Sallee is back with the Giants. McGraw is a great hand for giving men a second trial after they have been with some other National League club. Sallee, Doyle, Herzog and Demaree, for instance.

Just at this point the clouds opened up again, rain falling so heavily that the gallery started a dash for the exits. Tilden and Johnston continued to play, however, with the hope of finishing the set, and on the first point Johnston volleyed the ball for placement. While the stroke was being made, however, Eddie Condon, in the umpire's chair, waved his hand and called for a time-out, making no attempt to reach Johnston's returns, so as to be sure of drawing the third set with the advantage of service.

Both men were keyed up when the third set tennis pitch when the third set while the rallies being longer and more stirring than ever. With the score 3-1, Johnston, who appeared to be stroking more confidently and more determinedly than ever, earned the first break through service by hitting the ball into the net at the corners.

A stroke of luck favored Tilden at this stage. With Johnston leading 4-30 and with one point needed to make his lead 5-3, Tilden, racing after a forehand drive sent it back rather low and with terrific force. The ball hit the top of the net, hung there for a moment, and Johnston, making no attempt to return it, called for a time-out.

William A. Campbell of New York outlasted Russell A. Dana of Providence in the final set. Campbell won the set 6-4. As it was, however, Tilden drew a 30-30, and Johnston, who had been in the twelfth game, when the Philadelphia finally broke through for the set at 7-5.

In the last few games Tilden was flashing the same whirlwind tennis stroke, hitting with the surprising speed of a bullet. His service, carried by Johnston to take all the chances, was as good as Johnston came to the forward court, Tilden sent the ball whizzing past his rival with such great frequency that it appeared foolhardy for Johnston to persist in the net attack.

William A. Campbell of New York outlasted Russell A. Dana of Providence in the final set. Campbell won the set 6-4. As it was, however, Tilden drew a 30-30, and Johnston, who had been in the twelfth game, when the Philadelphia finally broke through for the set at 7-5.

LOESCHE WINNER OF PIKE'S PEAK CLIMB

Drives Lexington Special Up Hill in 22:25.2

THE match that decided the veterans' championship, Dana came through with a spirited rally in the second set and, stroking steadily and aggressively, won six out of seven games, but he failed to maintain the spurt in the last division play and was outscored decisively, 6-3, by Tilden.

Vincent Richards retained his title of junior national champion, defeating W. J. Ingraham of Oakland, R. I., in 22:25.2. Richards' drive was a hard hitter and an efficient volleyer, but Richards was too forcing for him and had little trouble furling him out of position in the rallies. With both youngsters anxious to force the attack at the net, the play was decidedly spectacular. The greater part of the match was played in the rain, but some of the sparkling strokes made the crowd forget its discomfort.

The cars were divided into three classes, according to piston displacement, and went to the line. The first class, driver, L. F. Hudson, Class 3, No. 25; 2; Packard Special; Roy Dumas; Class 2, 3; National Special; Kenneth B. Jones; Class 1, 4; Marmon Special; John Gardner; Class 5, 5; Paige Special; Ralph K. Moffet; Class 6, 6; Hudson Special; Fred Junk; Class 7, 7; Lexington Special; Albert C. Clark; Class 8, 8; Templar Special; Harry F. O'Brien; Class 9, 9; Chalmers Special; George E. Marston; Class 10, 10; Oldsmobile Special; E. J. Deady; Class 11, 11; Lexington Special; Otto Lee; Class 12, 12; Chalmers Special; Cecil Howard; Class 13, 13; Paige Special; John Schuster; Class 14, 14; Velle Special; Glen Schuster; Class 15, 15; Paige Special; H. L. Chapin; Class 16, 16; Ford Special; B. N. Ramsey; Class 17, 17; Chevrolet Special; W. F. Bennett; Class 18, 18; Chevrolet Special; D. J. McKinney; Class 19, 19; Essex Special; Dave Lesh; Class 20, 20.

RESULTS AT GLEN RIDGE. GLEN RIDGE, N. J., Sept. 6.—On the morning of the Glen Ridge Club links today a thirty-six hole competition was won by G. H. Osborne with 156-105-145. Other scores: Morning Round, 18 holes, Class A—H. R. Landon, 85; H. D. Smith, 84; H. D. Smith, 83; H. D. Smith, 82; H. D. Smith, 81; H. D. Smith, 80; H. D. Smith, 79; H. D. Smith, 78; H. D. Smith, 77; H. D. Smith, 76; H. D. Smith, 75; H. D. Smith, 74; H. D. Smith, 73; H. D. Smith, 72; H. D. Smith, 71; H. D. Smith, 70; H. D. Smith, 69; H. D. Smith, 68; H. D. Smith, 67; H. D. Smith, 66; H. D. Smith, 65; H. D. Smith, 64; H. D. Smith, 63; H. D. Smith, 62; H. D. Smith, 61; H. D. Smith, 60; H. D. Smith, 59; H. D. Smith, 58; H. D. Smith, 57; H. D. Smith, 56; H. D. Smith, 55; H. D. Smith, 54; H. D. Smith, 53; H. D. Smith, 52; H. D. Smith, 51; H. D. Smith, 50; H. D. Smith, 49; H. D. Smith, 48; H. D. Smith, 47; H. D. Smith, 46; H. D. Smith, 45; H. D. Smith, 44; H. D. Smith, 43; H. D. Smith, 42; H. D. Smith, 41; H. D. Smith, 40; H. D. Smith, 39; H. D. Smith, 38; H. D. Smith, 37; H. D. Smith, 36; H. D. Smith, 35; H. D. Smith, 34; H. D. Smith, 33; H. D. Smith, 32; H. D. Smith, 31; H. D. Smith, 30; H. D. Smith, 29; H. D. Smith, 28; H. D. Smith, 27; H. D. Smith, 26; H. D. Smith, 25; H. D. Smith, 24; H. D. Smith, 23; H. D. Smith, 22; H. D. Smith, 21; H. D. Smith, 20; H. D. Smith, 19; H. D. Smith, 18; H. D. Smith, 17; H. D. Smith, 16; H. D. Smith, 15; H. D. Smith, 14; H. D. Smith, 13; H. D. Smith, 12; H. D. Smith, 11; H. D. Smith, 10; H. D. Smith, 9; H. D. Smith, 8; H. D. Smith, 7; H. D. Smith, 6; H. D. Smith, 5; H. D. Smith, 4; H. D. Smith, 3; H. D. Smith, 2; H. D. Smith, 1.

OUR STORE IS ONE BLOCK LONG AND JAMMED FULL OF BARGAINS! TO STIMULATE BUSINESS WE OFFER TIRES AT SWEEPING REDUCTIONS

ROD AND GUN. SPECIAL NOTICE—FISHERMEN. DESIRING TO REACH SHEEPSHEAD BAY BY SHIPWAY TRAIN TO NORTH AVENUE AND PLATZBURG OR LONG ISLAND RAILROAD, BUS SERVICE TO AND FROM THE BAY.

SEA BASS AND BLACKFISH. STEAMER "LINTA". SELNADA. BROOKLYN. SHAMROCK. VELOCITY. PALADIN. ROSE R. II. M.J.R. III. GEORGE M. ADMIRAL. JUDGE. SUNSHINE. R. C. LUNDY. YANKEE DODDLE. JOSEPHINE. EFFORT III. AMERICA. BIJOU. SAPHRO. NEW YORKER.

Complete Summary of Tennis Championship Final, Stroke by Stroke. Table with columns for Player, Set, and Score. Lists names like Tilden, Johnston, and others with their scores in each set.