

Our German Correspondence.

BRUNNEN, July 9, 1849. The Reaction in Germany--Abolition of the Rights of Suffrage, &c. &c.

The London papers giving, at present, such copious extracts from the German journals, and the postal communication between this country and England, and between England and the United States, having been so much accelerated through the weekly packets from Liverpool, that you are regularly in possession of the latest news from these parts, in less than three weeks, I am afraid I am often forestalled in the accounts I give you of what is passing here. However, as I have not written for some time, you may be desirous of hearing direct from this quarter again.

The upward state of things which I described in my last, continues to subsist, and the great political conviction that commenced so auspiciously last year, and through which Germany appeared to have thrown off the chains that had oppressed her for so many ages, seems to have had no other result than to rivet them still closer. The counter-revolution has been complete, and every thing in this kingdom is revolving back towards the ancient régime; laws are issued by the ministry, and confirmed by the King, in the same manner as in the most palmy days of absolute monarchy, with hardly a reference to the future apportionment of the representatives of the nation, which, indeed, appears to be considered as quite supererogatory.

The opening of the Chambers, which, according to the constitution of December 5, ought to have taken place in the month of June, has been postponed for six weeks, ostensibly on account of the disturbances in the western provinces of the Kingdom and the south of Germany. You are aware that the second Chamber was dissolved, April 27, for no other reason than that its members were in a minority on several motions made by the popular party, who were joined by the right centre (the moderates), and who contended that the ministry's refusal to resign, and the other alterations of the constitution, proposed in the bill, were an illegal measure, and ought to be immediately rescinded. This decision having passed by a strong majority, the only constitutional measure left to ministers was to resign, as the other alternative--that of continuing to govern by the elections--had been tried already without effect; but the ideas of Messrs. Manteuffel and Brandenburg, on constitutional government, are different from those usually entertained, and instead of resigning themselves, they thought proper to refer the Chambers to the right about, and to secure a more obscure parliament by altering the law of election. The first Chamber being elected by a property qualification, in the manner in which the feudal and moneyed aristocracy, who agreed to every thing the minister laid before them; and it was, therefore, thought sufficient to procure it; but the second being chosen by universal suffrage, was easier to be got rid of, and the same principle would only serve to strengthen the democratic party, and reduce the ministerial clique to a still more hopeless minority.

The scheme which is now in vogue, is worthy of a Michaelus. It consisted in issuing a law by which a property qualification is in reality obtained, although the semblance of universal suffrage is left, which the King had repeatedly promised to do, but which this time he has reduced to mere fiction. You will judge of the ingenuity of this delectable invention, by the following particulars--The voters are divided into three classes, of which the highest direct tax class, or, in other words, the proprietors, are reduced to one-third; the middle class, or the first class, down to 20, who pay from 60 thalers down to 20, will be the second class; while the third class, composed of all the others, will be the fourth, and will be reduced to one-third; and, finally, of all laborers, journeymen, servants, &c. You are not to be deceived, by the bye, that there is no direct election here, but the voters (electors) have to be chosen by a number of electors (wahlmann) for each district, who are then to meet, and choose the member for the Chamber by a majority. Now, according to the new law, the number of electors in each district is equal to the number of electors in Berlin, where there are 400,000 inhabitants, the lists made out by the civic authorities show that 2,000 voters belong to the first class, 7,000 to the second, and 20,000 to the third; and, therefore, the number of electors, who return eight members to the second Chamber. Thus you will perceive that the votes of the two thousand individuals composing the first class go only for as many as the votes of the 20,000 of the third class, or, in other terms, the suffrage of a single individual of the more favored order of society is equivalent to that of thirty-six persons of the Parish class of country. It is not to be supposed, however, that the majority in the Chambers will be secured to the representatives of the united aristocracy of birth and wealth, while the king's conscience is soothed by the preservation of at least a few electors of the lower order; for, in fact, the word of promise to the ear, and breaking it to the sense.

The demerit, justly considering this new law an alteration even on the extreme constitution, have mostly determined not to vote at the elections. In this case, the ministerialists will have it all their own way, and not many liberals are likely to be elected; and, therefore, the government brought in by government will be an income tax, as money is want-d, and must be had anyhow. It remains to be seen whether the law-owners and moneyed men when the next Parliament will be convened, will be content with the protestations of their loyalty and devotion to the King, will agree to open their purses wide enough for the demands made upon them.

Your correspondent at the court of Prussia, Mr. Hammer, has presented to the King in a private audience, last Saturday week. We were all very sorry to lose Major Donelson, who had made himself generally respected during his residence at Berlin, and is followed to the King in a private audience, last Saturday week. We were all very sorry to lose Major Donelson, who had made himself generally respected during his residence at Berlin, and is followed to the King in a private audience, last Saturday week.

Railroad Mismanagement.

From the London Times. We have read with great care, and with a desire to give every allowance, the mass of evidence taken before the Committee of Investigation on the York, Newcastle and Derwent Railway. After our continual expressions of distrust in the existing direction of railway companies, and our repeated demands for a public audit, we should hardly be surprised to find that the directors of the company, when they were taken, if they were surprised, just as a man who has heard of battles all his life is surprised when he sees one, or as a man is surprised when he first sees an elephant. We cannot effert of the imagination, and with more distrust of human nature than it was pious to avow, we certainly did conceive the possibility, not to say the probability, of utter confusion or disfracture in the management of railway accounts, notwithstanding the parade of auditors, general meetings, half-yearly statements, and other gaudy, but really of no use, no longer deceiving, or the imagination. The ordinary figure, stupendous bulk, and grotesque movements of the animal, are actually before us, and appeal to the senses. We now know what we suspected, indeed, if one could so thoroughly anticipate all the details of the imagination. The ordinary figure, stupendous bulk, and grotesque movements of the animal, are actually before us, and appeal to the senses. We now know what we suspected, indeed, if one could so thoroughly anticipate all the details of the imagination.

his secretary, his auditors, and his church leaders, strike one with the idea of novelty and originality, as if we had not seen the like before, and could not be surprised to find it. The directors of the York, Newcastle and Derwent Railway, when they were taken, if they were surprised, just as a man who has heard of battles all his life is surprised when he sees one, or as a man is surprised when he first sees an elephant. We cannot effert of the imagination, and with more distrust of human nature than it was pious to avow, we certainly did conceive the possibility, not to say the probability, of utter confusion or disfracture in the management of railway accounts, notwithstanding the parade of auditors, general meetings, half-yearly statements, and other gaudy, but really of no use, no longer deceiving, or the imagination.

Three years ago, the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company, as it was then called, resolved, at Mr. Hudson's suggestion, and against sufficient grounds, to purchase shares in the Sunderland Docks to the amount of £75,000. For various causes, though the shares have been bought, Parliamentary powers are still wanting for the operation. In the interval, however, and particularly about two years since, Mr. Hudson, being chairman, made further purchases of shares as to double the amount. He now holds the second purchase of the company, as well as the first, and the question who the shares belong to happens to be of grave importance to the possessor. The committee repudiate them, and calls on Mr. Hudson to refund the money, which he has paid from the funds of the company. We are not going into the question of Mr. Hudson's authority or intentions in purchasing the dock shares, but for the most important feature in the case is the way in which business is done by a railway company. Last November Mr. Close, the secretary of the company, made out certain accounts, in which £129,000 was inserted as an account of the Sunderland Docks, and as part of a sum total of £1,989,228. On the 13th of the month that sum total was adopted by a minute of the directors, and published next day in a printed statement, which expressly mentioned the Sunderland Docks, and as part of one of the items included in the sum, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Foreign Theatricals.

Speaking of Madam Sontag, the London Spectator says--It is a pity that the actress should be so much talked of in the London papers, as if she were a new discovery. She is a very good actress, and her talents are well known to all who have seen her perform. Her talents are well known to all who have seen her perform. Her talents are well known to all who have seen her perform. Her talents are well known to all who have seen her perform.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

The New Orleans Abduction Case--Further Proof Against the Spanish Consul.

From the New Orleans Picayune, July 31. The case of the abduction of the young girl, Maria, from the Spanish Consul's residence in New Orleans, has been the subject of a long and interesting trial at the office of Justice Night, long before the appointed hour, the court-room was filled with spectators, and the trial was conducted with the usual solemnity of the occasion. The witnesses were then sworn, and the trial proceeded. The Spanish Consul, Don Juan de la Cruz, appeared as counsel for Capt. McCreary.

O. I. Donnell, Mexican Consul, (examination record of Saturday last.) The passport given to E. Torres, was not the passport given to the young girl, Maria, on the 25th of June, the Spanish Consul did nothing else to witness, when he requested witness to let him know if he could not be sworn to the facts of the case, whenever requested to refuse passports to persons, always does so; witness did not ask the Spanish Consul if he could be sworn to the facts of the case, whenever requested to refuse passports to persons, always does so; witness did not ask the Spanish Consul if he could be sworn to the facts of the case, whenever requested to refuse passports to persons, always does so.

A new drama, entitled an "Alarming Sacrifice," by Mr. Buchanan, has been produced at the Haymarket. The provisions of the Birmingham festival, to be held on the 14th, 15th, 16th, and 17th of September, has attracted and excited much interest. The festival is to be held on the 14th, 15th, 16th, and 17th of September, has attracted and excited much interest. The festival is to be held on the 14th, 15th, 16th, and 17th of September, has attracted and excited much interest.

Mr. Spier, it is stated, has retired from the management of the Olympic. Carlotto Orli has recovered from the effects of an attack of cholera, and is expected to make her reappearance at the Paris Opera. The "Prophete," by the Royal Italian Opera, is being rehearsed at Covent Garden. Madama Viardot is to sing the part of the heroine in the opera.

A London paper says--A marine musketeer was given on Monday, by Mr. de Kowalski, at the residence of Madama Viardot, a performance of the opera "The Prophet." The musketeer was given on Monday, by Mr. de Kowalski, at the residence of Madama Viardot, a performance of the opera "The Prophet." The musketeer was given on Monday, by Mr. de Kowalski, at the residence of Madama Viardot, a performance of the opera "The Prophet."

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Theatricals and Miscellanea.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute. Last February 20, a special general meeting of shareholders, summoned by advertisement, was held for the purpose of cancelling the bill, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and of annulling the bill enabling the York, Newcastle, and Derwent Railway Company to make certain branches in the counties of Northumberland and Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

The Progress of the Cholera.

IN THIS QUARTER. MATHEW'S OFFICE, New York, August 9--13 M. The Sanitary Committee of this city report 101 new cases and 44 deaths of cholera, as having occurred during the last twenty-four hours.

Summary. Cases. Deaths. Cholera, 101 44. Thirtieth street Hospital, 4 2. Great street Hospital, 1 0. Thirty-fifth street Hospital, 1 0. In private practice, 95 42. Total, 101 44.

Since yesterday, there have been reported 20 new cases and 13 deaths from cholera. There have been reported since yesterday 6 cases of cholera, and 2 deaths.

There were 2 deaths from cholera in this city yesterday. Yesterday there was one case of cholera reported, but no deaths.

Since last report there have been twenty deaths from cholera, sixteen of whom were foreigners, and four Americans. In the hospital there are sixteen cases.

The cholera report for the last 24 hours, ending this day at ten, is twenty-six cases and nine deaths, five of which occurred in the hospital and prison.

The interments for the 24 hours ending noon this day are 14, of which 9 were deaths from cholera.

The last report from Quebec mentioned 10 deaths from cholera for the preceding 24 hours. The cholera is greatly on the decrease.

The physicians of this city have reported several cases of cholera. As yet, however, it has assumed a very mild form.

It was arranged on Tuesday by Judge Bedford, with the prisoners in custody at Newark for the riot at Jersey City, to be brought down to Jersey City yesterday at 2 o'clock; and the examination to which they were entitled by the State of New Jersey, was some forty days ago. It was arranged on Tuesday by Judge Bedford, with the prisoners in custody at Newark for the riot at Jersey City, to be brought down to Jersey City yesterday at 2 o'clock.

It was arranged on Tuesday by Judge Bedford, with the prisoners in custody at Newark for the riot at Jersey City, to be brought down to Jersey City yesterday at 2 o'clock; and the examination to which they were entitled by the State of New Jersey, was some forty days ago.

It was arranged on Tuesday by Judge Bedford, with the prisoners in custody at Newark for the riot at Jersey City, to be brought down to Jersey City yesterday at 2 o'clock; and the examination to which they were entitled by the State of New Jersey, was some forty days ago.

It was arranged on Tuesday by Judge Bedford, with the prisoners in custody at Newark for the riot at Jersey City, to be brought down to Jersey City yesterday at 2 o'clock; and the examination to which they were entitled by the State of New Jersey, was some forty days ago.

Police Intelligence.

The alleged abduction of the young girl, Maria, from the Spanish Consul's residence in New Orleans, has been the subject of a long and interesting trial at the office of Justice Night, long before the appointed hour, the court-room was filled with spectators, and the trial was conducted with the usual solemnity of the occasion.

The provisions of the Birmingham festival, to be held on the 14th, 15th, 16th, and 17th of September, has attracted and excited much interest. The festival is to be held on the 14th, 15th, 16th, and 17th of September, has attracted and excited much interest.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute.

Mr. Hudson's account, which was published in the London Times, and which was confirmed by a general board on December 11. Thus, the secretary, the directors, and the general board, all sanctioned the sum total, which included the purchase of the dock shares, and sanctioned the purchase now in dispute.