ARRIVAL OF THE PHILADELPHIA AT NEW ORLEANS.

THE NEW MINISTER OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS—THE YERBA CRUZ INCIDENTS—PROPOSED LOAN OF $3,000,000, &c., &c.

Further advices from Mexico to the New Orleans Daily, state that Yanez has accepted the portfolio of foreign relations.

The dates from the City of Mexico are to the 25th inst., and Vera Cruz to the 3rd inst.

The United States steamer Powhatan, arrived at Vera Cruz on the 1st inst., with Judge Conkling, the new Minister to Mexico, on board.

The United States steamer Fulton, also arrived at Vera Cruz on the 1st inst., with the commissioners appointed to examine into the Gardner claim.

The Senate had rejected the proposed amnesty to the Vera Cruz insurgents.

A proposition had been introduced in Congress for the negotiation of a loan of three millions, at a rate not exceeding 5 percent per annum.

Orders had been issued for the arrest of General Uruga, but no arrest had been made at the latest dates.

The Guadalupe revolution was getting still more formidable. The new plan evokes a convention to elect a new President, reform the constitution, call upon Santa Anna to return, and invites Uruga in the meantime to head the movement.

Nothing further had transpired respecting the Tehuantepec route. Ramirez was preparing the documents in the Senate for publication.

The revolutionary movements continued in various parts, and it was reported that the Mexican government troops had joined the insurgents.

The Legislature of the State of Puebla, had passed no resolutions against Senator Aguirre, Minister of Justice, for allowing the exportation of two millions and a half of specie to England, without paying the duties.

The Supreme Tribunal had also passed resolutions against the Minister of War for not complying with the provisions of the 11th article of the treaty with Guadalupe Hidalgo, and enjoining whether any resolutions made with the United States, released them from the obligations of the treaty.

A private letter, dated Mexico, October 17, contains the following:

I read you the President's Message on the opening of Congress yesterday. I refer you to it. Now is the time here, in consequence of the existing revolution.

The applicants for the Tehuantepec route are Messrs. James Lebo, Filep Garcia, Mr. Stevenson, of New York, Mr. Lee, of P. Letzler for the Louisiana company, some say Mr. Sloo, but we will see in a few days.

From Washington City.

THE CAPITAL EXTENSION—CHIEF CLERK DEAD.

I learn from Mr. Strong, the general superintendent of the works of the Capitol extension, that about two hundred and fifty of the mechanics and laborers have been discharged, and that most of the remaining hundred will be dismissed at the close of the present week.

The funeral of Dr. Drake took place to-day, and was largely attended by the medical profession and citizens generally.

A—Col. McLane came into my office about the 7th or 8th of September last, and asked me if I had seen the Baltimore paper.

He said that some of the Baltimore papers had asserted that General Pierce's name had been dropped by an officer in Baltimore.

Major McKelvey said to this latter part of the evidence, which was thought to be irrelevant, and was accordingly expunged from the minutes.

Col. Roberts' evidence was then continued:—

He did not hear when the accused was the officer referred to in the said article in the Old Defender, as the author.

Col. McLane asked me if I knew what he said of the army was stationed in Baltimore; he said he had heard it was Captain McLane, Robert McLane's brother.

Major McKelvey again objected, and a discussion took place as to whether the name of McLane should be admitted.

Strangers were ordered to withdraw; and on being re-admitted the Judge Advocate announced that the evidence in this case was as follows:—

THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Conservation of Bishop Wainwright, in Trinity Church.

IMPRESSIVE AND INTERESTING CEREMONY.

Sermon of Bishop Chase, of New Hampshire, &c., &c., &c.

Trinity Church was yesterday the scene of one of the most solemn, interesting, and impressive ceremonies of the Christian Church, namely, the consecration of a bishop.

The Reverend Jonathan Mayhew Wainwright, the recently elected Bishop of the diocese of New York was to be consecrated in the sacred office of the Episcopacy of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and very great interest was manifested to witness the ceremonial.

The hour appointed for the commencement of the service was 11 o'clock, A. M., but for more than two hours previous, there holding tickets for admission crowded to the church for the purpose of securing seats.

It was found necessary to place members of the police force at the center gates and doors, to restrain the rush which would otherwise have been made to procure places within the edifice.

Long before the commencement of the solemn proceedings, the auditory of the church was filled to its utmost capacity; and many ladies were forced to go away without being able to procure admission.

A procession was formed in the vestry room, and entered the church in the following order:—

First—The candidates for orders, and students of the Theological Seminary, attired in citizen dress and numbering some sixty gentlemen; these took the pews assigned to them in the north and south aisles.

Second—The deacons, and

Third—The priests, the juniors among them coming first. The clergy attired in surplice and scarf, and numbering about 150 proceeded down the middle aisle, and occupied the seats therein reserved for them, and the seats in front of the chancel
