

THE CAMPAIGN OF 1856.

NOMINATIONS OF THE DEMOCRACY.

FOR PRESIDENT. JAMES BUCHANAN, OF PENNSYLVANIA.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT. JOHN CABUL BRECKENRIDGE, OF KENTUCKY.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD PROJECT ENDORSED.

Grand Finale of the National Convention, &c., &c., &c.

FROM OUR GENERAL NEWS REPORTER. CINCINNATI, JUNE 6, 1856.

FIFTH DAY. At 10 A. M., the President called the Convention to order.

The Hall was not full when the balloting for a candidate for president commenced.

FIFTEENTH BALLOT. Buchanan 108, Douglas 113, Pierce 84, Fremont 45.

When Vermont was called, Mr. Hibbard, of New Hampshire, rose and said that the unanimous vote of the delegation that he represented, had thus far supported Franklin Pierce, but that New Hampshire had determined to cast her vote for that statesman who was presented to the present Administration.

North Carolina led off on the same tack, and was followed by South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida and Texas.

Tennessee cast her 12 votes for Buchanan. Pierce ran down to 3 votes.

Buchanan 108, Douglas 123, Fremont 6, Pierce 2, Fremont 1.

The New York State went over to Douglas on the sixteenth ballot. Maine continued her vote on Buchanan. Ohio gave him two votes. Kentucky cast all her votes for Douglas, having previously given him but 7.

The ball votes were rejected by the Chair, a point of order being raised on this in consequence of Ohio cast 12 votes for Douglas.

After the announcement of the result on the sixteenth ballot, Mr. Fremont, of Kentucky, said he had stood firm by Douglas to this point, but he now felt confident that the resolution demanded the nomination of James Buchanan.

Transients in order, and order resumed all over the hall. "No, No, No," Douglas has sufficient friends, &c.

Mr. Brown continued: "He thought the friends of Mr. Fremont should be made his own friends, and that once and for all, he would withdraw his name from the Convention, and that he would support the nomination of James Buchanan."

Mr. Buchanan rose and said: "Without advising any of you, I have just received a letter from Mr. Fremont, in which he has declared that he will support the nomination of James Buchanan, and that he will withdraw his name from the Convention, and that he will support the nomination of James Buchanan."

Mr. Fremont continued: "He thought the friends of Mr. Fremont should be made his own friends, and that once and for all, he would withdraw his name from the Convention, and that he will support the nomination of James Buchanan."

Sudden Departure of Lord Cowley from London to Paris.

The steamship Washington, Capt. Caswell, which left Southampton on the 21st of May, arrived at this port early yesterday morning.

The steamship Niagara arrived at Boston from Halifax at five o'clock yesterday morning. Her mails for New York were forwarded from Boston in the early train, and reached this city at five o'clock in the evening.

The Paris correspondent of the London Herald, writing on the 17th of May, says:—

A few minutes ago, as the Emperor was driving up the Boulevard, in a open carriage, attended by a guard of honor, a shot fell from a house, struck the Emperor, and he fell from his carriage. He was rushed to the Hotel de St. Louis, and the Emperor was attended by the Emperor's physicians.

No allusion is made to such a circumstance in the Monitor.

Mr. Henry Berkeley was to be appointed Governor of Texas.

There was a full attendance of capitalists at the Treasury on the morning of the 19th inst. It is reported to be the morning of 26,000,000, but the only tender was from Messrs. Rothschild. On the sealed paper of the government being opened the offered price and the reserved price were found to be 2108, and 1107, 10s. 7d. for every $100 of money. The loan was almost taken at the latter rate, which is equal to 99 for 100.

The application, including the amount required by the Messrs. Rothschild themselves, were stated to amount to 540,000,000, and the total sum to be raised by the government was 5,700,000. The surplus capital to be raised was 5,160,000. The surplus capital to be raised was 5,160,000.

The foundation stone of a new military hospital, named the Royal Victoria Hospital, was laid by the Queen of Great Britain, with great pomp and ceremony, on the 10th May. The site selected is situated about six miles from Southampton, and is about half a mile from the sea. The hospital will be sufficiently large to accommodate 1,000 patients. The land purchased by the government covers 100 acres, and the frontage of the building alone will extend upwards of 1,400 feet. The pile will, it is expected, cost 2,200,000. An accident occurred on board one of the gunboats ranged off the shore for the purpose of sailing her Majesty. By the unexpected discharge of a gun which was being loaded, two women were horribly mutilated and killed.

The London Times of May 9, reports:—

Her Majesty's steam ship Basilisk, 6, Commander Crofton, left Spithead on Saturday for the West India and Central America station.

Her Majesty's steam ship Columbus, 5, Captain G. Ramsey, C.B., went out of Portsmouth harbor on Saturday, and is expected to arrive at New York in a day or two for the purpose of conveying the British troops to the West India and Central America station.

The same journal of May 20, says:—

Advised from Gibraltar on the 18th inst. The Resolute steam transport put into the Bay on the morning of the 18th inst. from the Crimea and Malta, to call, preparatory to conveying her troops to Canada with 33 officers, 675 rank and file of the 9th Regiment, 100 of the 17th, and 18 of the Land Transport Corps, all under the command of Colonel Inglefield. An order was issued on the 16th inst. for the Resolute to proceed to the West India and Central America station, and to be ready to receive the British troops destined for America, who were to be embarked and sent on to their respective destinations prior to any other troops.

The Resolute was accompanied by the British gunboat Basilisk, 6, Commander Crofton, which was to accompany the Resolute to the West India and Central America station.
