

INTERESTING FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE ASIA.

The Preparations for War Continued in England.

Embarkation of British Troops for Canada in the Steamship Adriatic.

Offences of the United States Against England.

Change in the Public Opinion of France on the War Question.

Important Statement of the Organ of Prince Napoleon.

America the "Natural Ally" of the Empire.

The Privateers, Pirates and Slave Traders of the Union.

Hiram Fuller on Democracy from the Time of Pontius Pilate.

THE MEDICAL TREATMENT OF PRINCE ALBERT

Our Paris and St. Petersburg Correspondence.

The United States and the Moral Reformers.

Our Paris Correspondence.

point. It is true we have not yet, but we are verging toward it. If London which are indicated to us...

Paris, Dec. 18, 1861.
Concessions from a Journalist and Mission Home-
What France Hopes from a War Between England and America...

The sudden departure of General Scott has given rise to various rumors, all more or less unfounded...

France will also profit in a commercial point of view; in fact, in all ways, will rejoice and profit when the two great English nations are decimating each other...

Had France decided in the outset to assume the attitude of moral hostility toward the Northern States...

Ministers had a hard time of it. The peculiar character of Lord Melbourne rendering him almost the only man in England who was competent to the task of managing the virgin Queen...

But now that Prince Albert is gone—now that a woman reigns over England sufficiently experienced in the art of ruling...

I have heard it distinctly stated, on authority I cannot for a moment question, that Prince Albert's departure has been a great calamity...

England as an Asylum of Exiles.
From the London Post (government organ), Dec. 20.

Our St. Petersburg Correspondence.
St. Petersburg, Dec. 14, 1861.
The Council of Ministers—Anglo-American Difficulties...

Car is likely to have a beneficial effect upon the liberations of his Ministers as he is decidedly more liberal than any of them, except, perhaps, General Chudkov and M. Valuyeff...

The interest excited by the intelligence from America is infinitely greater. For some time we had looked forward with anxiety to a rupture between the United States and England...

Accounts from the Caucasus published a few days ago in the Standard would lead us to hope that the peace of the world is at least being restored...

THE AMERICAN QUESTION.
England as an Asylum of Exiles.
From the London Post (government organ), Dec. 20.

Our St. Petersburg Correspondence.
St. Petersburg, Dec. 14, 1861.
The Council of Ministers—Anglo-American Difficulties...

not quite so, but we presume it was expected the Spanish government should have the federal cause...

Arbitration Not Needed in England.
From the London Times, Dec. 17.

The War Policy of the United States and Mr. Seward's Foreign Diplomacy.
From the London Times, Dec. 20.

The War Arguments and Secession Pleas of the London Times.
The London Times is decidedly making progress...

The War Arguments and Secession Pleas of the London Times.
The London Times is decidedly making progress...

It is to be said that such a case as within the meaning of the word of the Congress, and that England would be bound to offer arbitration before proceeding...

Now, to which of these two classes does the question of arbitration, or of undisturbed force, and therefore of violence and completion of the war, belong...

It is impossible to see that the course advocated by Mr. Obden would by no means tend to the preservation of peace either in the present contest or in the future...

It is an axiom, as every one knows, that the Northern government holds their prisoners taken on board the Southern privateers, and as it has not succeeded...

It is an axiom, as every one knows, that the Northern government holds their prisoners taken on board the Southern privateers, and as it has not succeeded...