THE NEWS.

IMPEACHMENT.

The High Court opened with the customary ceremonies yesterday, the audience in the galleries being larger than usual.

Mr. Frelinghuysen's order to permit as many of the counsel and Managers as chose to speak in the closing argument was read, and after general discussion was laid on the table.

The examination of General Sherman was then resumed. Mr. Stanbery asked him if he had formed an opinion that the good of the service required another man in Mr. Stanton's place, but objection was made, and after a long discussion the Senate refused to admit the question.

with thoroughgoing radical delegations in both houses, excepting a straggling conservative here and there—and let us suppose that under this arrangement General Grant is elected to the Presidential succession, with a radical Congress at his back sufficiently strong in both houses to sustain him or overrule him—what then? What comes next?

A new field of reconstruction opens before us, "outside the constitution." With President Grant held under the leading strings of Congress, with the Supreme Court reorganized on the radical platform of loyalty, with the Senate reduced to a mere servant of the House—call it the French Council of Five Hundred, or the Directory, or the Assembly, or what you will—we shall be close upon the Consulate and the empire.

From the other side, an organ of opposite politics, but having the same taste in style and the same instinct toward blackguardism, we had on the same day an article headed, "Is General Grant a Drunkard?" and detailing the little-battle of twaddling Tilton, the puerility of Mrs. Stanton and the spleen of Wendell Phillips. Such is the decency of the party press.

The Impeachment Trial—General Sherman's Evidence Admitted.

The proceedings in the Court of Impeachment yesterday were important and interesting. After the Senate had decided upon allowing all of the Managers and counsel to make speeches after the close of the testimony, General Sherman was recalled, and the question of the admissibility of his testimony was again brought before the court.

stition under which we live. Can he, then, in his conscience vote yes, feeling and knowing it to be wrong? Can a man who has been Governor of a great sovereign State like Iowa, and who has had such ample experience in the national legislature as Senator Grimes has, permit himself to become the mere tool of a faction? Can he be bullied or driven into playing the catspaw by Butler and Stevens?

Senator F. T. Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey.

The first article of impeachment proposes to remove from his place the President of the United States for having issued an order dismissing from office the Secretary of War. It is alleged that this dismissal violated a certain law, though Congress declared at the time the law was made that removing the Secretary of War would be no violation of its letter or spirit.
