THE NEWS.

IMPEACHMENT.

In the High Court yesterday the galleries were crowded to excess. Nearly all the members of the House were present, and all the Managers and counsel for the President.

On the opening of the court Mr. Williams moved to take up his order to read the eleventh article first, which was adopted. Mr. Fessenden then proposed an adjournment of half an hour to await the arrival of Mr. Grimes, but it was discovered that Mr. Grimes was present.

The Secretary of the Senate then, by direction of the Chief Justice, read the eleventh article, and the Chief Justice, arising in his place, put the question to each Senator. The vote in the end stood 35 for conviction and 19 for acquittal, one being wanted for a two-thirds vote for conviction. Anthony and Sprague, of Rhode Island, who were considered doubtful, voted for conviction, and Ross, Fowler and Van Winkle voted for acquittal. Senator Wade, the Vice President pro tem, voted guilty.

On the result being stated a motion to adjourn to Tuesday, the 20th inst., was immediately made by a radical member. The Chief Justice ruled it out of order, but his decision was overruled by a vote of 34 to 20. Mr. McCreey moved as an amendment that the High Court adjourn without day, but it was lost by a vote of 47 to 6. Mr. Bucklewell moved to make the day Monday next, but it was lost, and the original motion was then put and carried by a vote of 32 to 22. So the High Court of Impeachment adjourned until the 20th inst.

The President's friends are highly elated over the result, which they argue will be the same on the other articles. The radicals although greatly depressed are not entirely without hope, as they say a two-thirds vote on any one article of the ten yet to be voted upon will convict and remove as completely as all of them. The excitement in this city and throughout the country was very great.

On resuming legislative business, in the Senate the Judiciary Committee reported a bill for the admission of Arkansas. Mr. Hendricks asked leave to make a minority report. The question then recurred on concurring with the House on an adjournment until the 20th inst. Mr. Hendricks favored it, and said the republicans have no fear that the Democrats will ask a similar adjournment when the New York Convention meets. Mr. Sumner favored it for the reason that he did not wish the Senate to have any communication with the President while judgment was pending. Several Senators opposed a recess because they wanted to pass the Arkansas bill and receive another defiant veto from the President before the final vote on impeachment is taken. Mr. Henderson said as long as the President was not convicted it would not injure them to send a bill to him. He then adverted to his case on the trial, and some sharp words ensued with his colleague, Mr. Drake. The concurrent resolution was finally rejected by a vote of 24 to 25.

In the House, after the return from the Senate chamber, a resolution was offered by Mr. Edridge providing for an investigation into the alleged attempts of Missouri members to influence the vote of Senator Henderson. It was decided first by the Speaker and then by the House that it was not a question of privilege. Mr. Benjamin, of Missouri, said that the delegation desired an investigation. Mr. Bingham, from the Impachment Managers, reported a resolution directing them to investigate for the more efficient prosecution of the impeachment, the charges of corrupt means being used to influence the votes of Senators. Mr. Ross objected on the ground that the House had no right to try Senators, and Mr. Robinson objected on the ground that the case had been submitted to the court and the Managers could not be further heard. Both points of order were overruled. The House resolved to consider the resolution by a strict party vote. Mr. Bingham then stated that the Managers at the close of their testimony had reserved the right to present additional evidence and, if necessary, additional articles. Another "fence making" scene occurred and another resolution was adopted.

EUROPE.

The news report by the Atlantic cable is dated yesterday, May 16. The German Customs Parliament places a tax on home grown tobacco.

The steamship City of Paris furnishes mail details of our cable despatches to the 7th of May. The ministerial crisis in England, resulting from Mr. Disraeli's defeat on the Irish Church question and his tender resignation of office, occupied unusual attention in Great Britain, but the main points of the history of the cabinet interregnum reached us in our cable telegrams and have already appeared in our columns.

The Osiris, an Austrian military organ, contains an article on the warlike preparations of the surrounding Powers, from which it draws the conclusion that a large increase in the army of Austria "is a matter of necessity."

REBELLIONS.

Telegraphic advices from Mexico by way of Matamoros state that Santa Anna is reported concealed somewhere in the country, and that three noted imperial officers had arrived at Vera Cruz from Cuba. A score of spies have been immediately set to work. The Indians are still depreeding along the Rio Grande.

A somewhat caustic correspondence has taken place between Mr. Henry Bergh, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and Mr.

Michael Connolly, Police Justice, on the subject of mercy to dumb brutes and justice to human beings. Mr. Bergh asserts that Mr. Connolly habitually disregards complaints made before him for cruelty to animals, and requests him to refuse to send all such cases to some other magistrate. Mr. Connolly somewhat caustically makes answer that he will not do it. We have telegraphic advices from St. Thomas to the 9th inst. The people were very much dejected over the delay of the United States Senate in ratifying thecession treaty. The De Soto and Saco were in port and the Shawmut was at St. Croix.

A boy fifteen years of age was arrested and committed yesterday on a charge of stealing $10,154 in bonds, mortgages and money, which he buried in the sand on East river.

A dumb woman dressed in male attire was arrested on board the steamship Erin at her pier yesterday. She had a steering ticket for Queenstown. She was committed by Alderman Coman.

One Dr. Webber was arrested yesterday on suspicion of having been concerned in the recent abortion procured on Emma Konigsberger, which produced her death.

The Callicott-Allen case was resumed in the United States Circuit Court, Brooklyn, yesterday. Numerous witnesses for the prosecution were examined. At the conclusion Callicott's bondsman refused to furnish bonds for his further appearance, and he was remanded to the custody of the United States Marshal. Mr. Allen was remanded to jail and the court adjourned till Monday.

Application was made to the Supreme Court, General Term, yesterday, for the confirmation of the report of the Commissioners on Estimate and Assessment in the matter of the opening of the new Boulevard, on the west side, from Fifty-ninth street to 165th street. Argument not yet concluded.

The jury in the case of Laura Waldron against Caroline Richings, which was on trial in the Marine Court during Thursday and Friday of this week was discharged at eleven o'clock on Friday night, they having failed to agree after a deliberation of nine hours.

In the case of the United States against Samuel R. Van Campen application was made in the United States District Court before Judge Blatchford on a writ of habeas corpus for the discharge of the accused, charged with embezzling a considerable sum of money from the First National Bank of Elmira. Argument of counsel was heard in the case, and the court reserved decision.

Governor Brownlow, of Tennessee, is reported to be in a dying condition at his home in Knoxville. Two Spaniards were arrested in New Orleans on Friday night, having in their possession gold bars worth $150,000.

General Buchanan has concluded to make no further announcement of the result of the late Louisiana election until Congress has acted upon the Louisiana constitution.

The stock market was firm yesterday. Government securities were strong. Gold closed at 137 1/2. The markets, with but few exceptions, were extremely quiet yesterday, but values were generally unchanged. Cotton was moderately active and 3/8c higher, closing at 32c for middling uplands. Coffee was dull and unchanged. On Change hour was sparingly dealt in and heavy. Wheat was in fair demand, but the firmness of sellers restricted business. Corn was in fair demand and steady, while on the west end and lower. Pork was in improved demand and about 12 1/2c per bbl. higher, while beef was more sought after and steady. Lard was only moderately active and rather heavy. Freights were dull. Naval stores were exceedingly quiet and lower. Petroleum was dull and heavy. Whiskey was inactive and nominal.

IMPEACHMENT—NOT GUILTY.

Cowardly, contemptible, mean to the last, impeachment has been beaten to death like a vile reptile in its chosen place of refuge. Driven distinctly from every point they had taken which could be called fair ground, the Managers of this great case and the radical Senators known to be for conviction, heart and soul, had remaining one opportunity to redeem themselves—one way by which they could in the last scene demonstrate to the country that they were moved by just motives and were wronged by the light in which much of their conduct had shown them. Had they, with some final grace of moral courage, faced the verdict fairly—taken, even defiantly, the responsibility of their course—that spirit would have covered many of their sins. But if they could have acted with manly honor, and so put themselves before the court as either to win their case or openly acknowledge its defeat, giving the accused the plain acquittal to which he has a right, they might have saved for their cause some popular respect and stood to the future only under the common odium of error, and not as men exhibiting in a whole career absolute disregard to and even defiance of common ideas of right.

But an instinct carried them to a disgraceful attempt to cheat and swindle at the last in the very court. Already it has been seen in the adjournment from Tuesday until Saturday, how effectively an unscrupulous majority might outrage justice. Under the plainest letter of the law not less than two-thirds of the Senate could convict, but by this convention tactics of adjournment a majority had, as it counted, all power. It adjourned because it knew the verdict would be for acquittal, and thus kept the verdict in suspense, counting upon pressure and every possible contingency to give conviction some better chance another day. This, worthy of thimblegrigs and throwers of false dice, rather than the Senators of a great nation, was the course pursued in the High Court on Saturday. One of the many articles of impeachment had been framed purposely to catch votes. It was one that alleged least against the President; it was one specifying next to nothing—so vague and general that the simplest difference in political views with the President might, it was thought, justify Senators in voting guilty on it. It was so vague that no court should ever have entertained it. But on this, because of its very nullity, there were likely to be more votes for guilty than on any other. On this the impeachers knew they had most strength. They resolved, therefore, to force this, though it was the eleventh article in the bill, first on the attention of the court. If they should get a verdict in their favor on this one article it would be enough, and they might thus even demoralize, as they thought, the men who opposed them, and so carry the whole bill. If, on the other hand, they should fail on this they could not hope just now to win on any, and they could withdraw from the field to try the pressure again. They might find on this that they could not convict, but they would not have the common honesty to acquit. They would hold over the President, over the constitution, over the country, the threat of the revival of this bill on some other day, when bullying, bribery or the corrupt bargaining of a Presidential convention, should induce changes in their favor, and they might, through such outside means, get a verdict that their evidence and their arguments could not obtain. Such is the disgraceful, demoralizing, ruinous course the party of impeachment has taken; and this is in character with its history.

But it is defeated even at this. Impeachment has failed, even with all this tortuous scheming to aid it, and never will dare again to raise its head before the American people.

Even if these men who urge it should on some other occasion attempt to take another vote they will be hissed and hooted to silence, if not to shame, by the common voice of the whole land. Let these political gamblers go to Chicago and make their candidate. Aside from one name they can present no man as their candidate whom that very fact will not condemn to infamous defeat. The nation has now no great confidence in those persons whom it is thought these men are likely to present as their standard bearer. Fortunately, the country is not ready for Wade. There are some depths of degradation it has not yet sounded. It looks akeance at Grant for supposed complicity in this atrocious effort, and the voters will only need to know the name of the one the impeachers desire to have in power to know the name they must not fold up in their ballots next November. But if the impeachers shall not get possession of the convention—if they shall fall there as in the Senate, and the name of Chase shall be put up, the country will remember him as the man who maintained the dignity of the law so far as lay in his power, and opposed the final injustice of the Senate till voted down by men who could have done him no greater honor than was involved in that vote.

Spiritualism—Some of Its More Recent Manifestations.

The case of Mr. Home, now before the English courts, has lent an interest to Spiritualism to which otherwise it is not justly entitled. By the details of the trial which we have given from time to time in the pages of the HERALD the American public have been placed in a fair position to judge for themselves. We have no desire to prejudge the case. Whether Mr. Home did or did not play upon the weak and susceptible intellect of the rich but childless widow Lyon to the extent of robbing her of her entire property may be left with safety in the hands of the English judges. The money is, perhaps, as safe in the hands of Mr. Home as in those of Mrs. Lyon, although it might be safer in other hands than either. This, however, is a subordinate question. The fact with which we have to deal is that Spiritualism is one of the great questions of the day, and it is not possible for us to deny that this will case has given Spiritualism an importance to which intrinsically it is not entitled, and which certainly it has not formerly enjoyed. In the HERALD of yesterday we gave a large portion of the evidence both for and against Mr. Home. We gave also an account of a grand Spiritualist soiree held on May 1 in the city of Glasgow, Scotland. The Glasgow meeting was certainly a peculiarity. Those who know Glasgow and who are familiar with the names of the different parties who figured on the occasion will not be much surprised either with the meeting or with its results. It is, however, we hesitate not to say, undeniable that the investigation of Mrs. Lyon's case will, taken in connection with the Glasgow meeting, prove Spiritualism, under the organized form in which alone we have a right to look at it, to be one of if not the grandest, swindle of the age. If Home is an apostle of a new religion he is certainly one of the meanest and most mercenary apostles which the world has yet known in connection with any cause. The Jesuits have been blamed, and blamed not unjustly; but the Jesuits in their worst and most unscrupulous days behaved like gentlemen in comparison with this mean, low-minded and hungry fellow, who professes to sustain mysterious relations to the spirit world, and who makes use of his pretended power to rob weak-minded and unsuspecting widows of their property.
