

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

Religious Services To-Day.

Rev. Charles B. Smyth preaches this morning in the Eleventh Street Presbyterian church, between Second and Third avenues.

At the Presbyterian church, in Forty-second street, services will be held at half-past ten A. M. and at half-past seven P. M. by Rev. W. A. Scott.

At the Church of the Reformation (Protestant Episcopal), in Fifteenth street, Rev. Abbott Brown will hold services at a quarter to eleven A. M. and a quarter to eight in the evening.

Bishop Snow will preach in the University, Washington square, this afternoon at three o'clock, on "The Harvest and the Vintage."

At the Everett Rooms, Rev. Moses Hill will speak before the Society of Progressive Spiritualists, at half-past ten A. M. and half-past seven P. M.

Services will be held in the John Street Methodist Episcopal church at half-past ten A. M. and in the evening at half-past seven, by the Rev. William P. Corbit.

At the French Church du St. Esprit, in West Twenty-second street, Rev. Dr. Verren will preach at half-past ten A. M.

At the Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Holy Trinity, Rev. Dr. G. P. Krothe preaches at half-past ten A. M. and half-past seven P. M.

At the Memorial church of Bishop Wright, Rev. F. Remondino will preach this evening, at half-past seven o'clock.

At St. Luke's Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. Dr. W. S. Foster will preach at half-past ten A. M. and again at half-past seven P. M.

Dr. Kalopothakes will give an account of the religious condition of the Greek people this evening, at half-past seven o'clock, in the Broadway Tabernacle.

Church Consecration at Morris, N. Y. Morris, N. Y., Sept. 10, 1869.

To-day Bishop Doane, of Albany, consecrated the Morris Memorial and All Saints' chapel, an edifice erected by the descendants of General Jacob Morris, General Morris was the second son of General Lewis Morris, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

The son largely inherited the father's patriotic spirit, early espoused the cause of the struggling colonists, entered the Continental Army as an officer and served with distinction to the close of the war.

While the British troops occupied the city, Morris was greatly damaged, and in consequence of his losses there and of his invaluable services to the United States Congress granted him a large tract of land in the State of New York.

At the close of the Revolution General Morris returned to his home, and in 1784, he died upon the Morris patent. In time sons and daughters grew up beneath the family roof-tree, all of whom became honored citizens; and at length still other generations had come up to him, and in the year 1869, he was succeeded by his grandson, the Rev. Dr. Doane.

The Morris Memorial and All Saints' chapel is built of substantial stone. The windows are of stained glass, and the interior is finished with oak paneling. It is twenty-six by forty feet, and is intended to seat about two hundred and fifty persons. The architecture is of the Gothic order, and was designed by Henry Knickerbocker.

Near this attractive edifice, reared by the hands of pious and grateful children, stands by the wayside a noble monument to the memory of the late General Cooper, the accomplished daughter of Judge William Cooper, and sister of J. Fenimore Cooper, who died in 1861, and was buried in the cemetery of the same name, which she had founded.

Her remains were placed in a vault which she had caused to be erected, and she was buried in the same. The monument is a simple but noble structure, and is a fitting memorial to her memory.

Profession in the Convent of Mercy, Willoughby Avenue, Brooklyn. Miss E. Dillon made her solemn profession as a religious of the Order of Mercy at the above named establishment on Friday, in the presence of a large number of the clergy and laity.

The young lady took the name of Sister Mary Bonaventura. The Rev. Dr. Murray (Kivwan) presided at the ceremony, which was of a very solemn character.

Spiritual Manifestations—Another Daniel Come to Judgment. I see that you are liberal alike to all denominations of Christians, theologians, philosophers and infidels in your generous use of the columns of the Herald on Sunday morning, and in this issue you are as generous as ever.

The Spiritualists will hold their meeting in the hall of the Spiritualists, on the corner of Broadway and Nassau, and the celebrated Clara R. Le Evers will resume her humbuggeries. Upon the subject of the séance of this young woman I wish to say a word.

Last Sunday week my curiosity got the better of my judgment, and I attended the evening performance of this wonderful lady. Entering the place and occasion worthy of the act, I armed my pocket with a few lines to the effect that "the medium is a fraud, and the spirits are the work of her well committed secret."

At the close of the performance, she did not have "gone off." But I went in, and being seated, was visited by another material Spiritualist. In his efforts to make a fortune out of the Spiritualists, he has for the material body comforts of life.

This brother asked me for some money in advance, and I gave him five dollars. He then proceeded to perform his "tricks," and I was much amused at the manner in which he performed them.

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

At the close of the performance, he turned to me and said, "I have been very successful in my business, and I have made a large amount of money. I am now going to Europe, and I will be back in a few weeks."

NEW YORK CITY.

THE COURTS.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

Alleged Procurement of Fraudulent Bonds.

The United States vs. Stephen and Frank Kinney.—Defendants were arrested on a charge of giving fraudulent bonds for the release of their distillers, which was under seizure about two years ago for alleged violation of the revenue laws. The examination of the case was continued yesterday, and the following testimony was taken:—

Alexander Hoch testified:—When I came to the Commissioner's office to go on the bond for Kinney I found the bond was for a larger amount than I was worth, and I refused to sign; I then went back to No. 6 Centre street, with Kinney, when we got there we found Brockman, and Kinney said to him that would not sign the bond; he then asked Brockman to go on the bond, saying it was a mere form; Brockman said he had not property enough, and Kinney then spoke about Brockman's signing under another name; Brockman said he would go under the name of Michael Kinney, and Kinney then went to the Commissioner's office together.

Christian Encke was called as a witness and testified that he was solicited by Stephen Kinney to sign the bond, either in his own name or that of his land-lord, and that he refused to do so. He also corroborated the statement of the former witness in reference to Brockman.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

NEW YORK CITY.

THE COURTS.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

Alleged Procurement of Fraudulent Bonds.

The United States vs. Stephen and Frank Kinney.—Defendants were arrested on a charge of giving fraudulent bonds for the release of their distillers, which was under seizure about two years ago for alleged violation of the revenue laws. The examination of the case was continued yesterday, and the following testimony was taken:—

Alexander Hoch testified:—When I came to the Commissioner's office to go on the bond for Kinney I found the bond was for a larger amount than I was worth, and I refused to sign; I then went back to No. 6 Centre street, with Kinney, when we got there we found Brockman, and Kinney said to him that would not sign the bond; he then asked Brockman to go on the bond, saying it was a mere form; Brockman said he had not property enough, and Kinney then spoke about Brockman's signing under another name; Brockman said he would go under the name of Michael Kinney, and Kinney then went to the Commissioner's office together.

Christian Encke was called as a witness and testified that he was solicited by Stephen Kinney to sign the bond, either in his own name or that of his land-lord, and that he refused to do so. He also corroborated the statement of the former witness in reference to Brockman.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

NEW YORK CITY.

THE COURTS.

UNITED STATES COMMISSIONER'S COURT.

Alleged Procurement of Fraudulent Bonds.

The United States vs. Stephen and Frank Kinney.—Defendants were arrested on a charge of giving fraudulent bonds for the release of their distillers, which was under seizure about two years ago for alleged violation of the revenue laws. The examination of the case was continued yesterday, and the following testimony was taken:—

Alexander Hoch testified:—When I came to the Commissioner's office to go on the bond for Kinney I found the bond was for a larger amount than I was worth, and I refused to sign; I then went back to No. 6 Centre street, with Kinney, when we got there we found Brockman, and Kinney said to him that would not sign the bond; he then asked Brockman to go on the bond, saying it was a mere form; Brockman said he had not property enough, and Kinney then spoke about Brockman's signing under another name; Brockman said he would go under the name of Michael Kinney, and Kinney then went to the Commissioner's office together.

Christian Encke was called as a witness and testified that he was solicited by Stephen Kinney to sign the bond, either in his own name or that of his land-lord, and that he refused to do so. He also corroborated the statement of the former witness in reference to Brockman.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Another War Widow—She Marries and Continues to Draw Her Allowance. Before Commissioner Stillwell.

The United States vs. Rosa Magrath.—Defendant's husband was killed in the war, and she was placed on the pension list. In time she married again, and her union with her second husband not being all she had fancied, she abandoned him, as it is said, and again drew her pension as a widow, swearing that she was not a married woman. She was held in the sum of $300 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

<