British Stubbornness Against American Backbone.

WASHINGTON, March 12, 1871. The Joint High Commissioners have finished the first week of their deliberations. They have done a great deal of business. The hot weather seems to have already affected some of the members, but they will have hotter weather and hotter work before they conclude their labors.

DEAL OF DINING AND WINING.

The idea given to it that all the pending questions between this country and Great Britain will be speedily settled to the satisfaction of both countries. Prominent people here, however, who take the deepest interest in this important international affair, who closely watch all the indications and who have taken special pains to acquaint themselves with the course of the proceedings, are inclined to the opinion that the Commission will NOT ARRIVE AT ANY CONCLUSION.

CONCERNING CANADA.

Since the date of the President's Message last December. Then the creation of the Dominion of Canada was referred to in anything but complimentary terms, as a semi-independent but wholly irresponsible government. Now, it is stated upon good authority, that the administration regards the establishment of the Dominion government as a step toward annexation to the United States and altogether worthy of being encouraged and sustained by us.

MR. THORNTON'S RECENT LETTER.

LECTURE LAST EVENING BY BISHOP BAILEY AT ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH—FIERCE DENUNCIATIONS OF VICTOR EMMANUEL AND THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENT.

St. Joseph's Catholic church, Sixth avenue and Washington place, was crowded to inconvenience last evening to hear the Right Rev. James Roosevelt Bailey, Bishop of Newark, lecture on the Roman question. After referring to the present position of the Pope and the order which the Catholic Church was going through, the lecturer went on to speak of the CHARACTER OF THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENT.

CHARACTER OF THE ITALIAN GOVERNMENT.

He had followed its history since its formation, and he knew of no government of ancient or modern times that had gained its position so much by treachery, bribery and the power of Europe, had attained its present strength by corruption and its dimensions by robbery. It has taken possession of the Papal States by violence, and on the principle of might conquering right. To show the corruption and profligacy of the government, it was enough to state that when

RELIGION AND MORALITY.

At its foundation, but these would be looked for in a government which was so corrupt. No wonder, therefore, that the Italian government was filled with immoral and infidel teachings were published, and foul and disgusting pictures were exhibited in the streets, and that the purpose of the government was to corrupt the minds of the people and to turn them away from religion. No wonder, therefore, that the Italian government was filled with immoral and infidel teachings were published, and foul and disgusting pictures were exhibited in the streets, and that the purpose of the government was to corrupt the minds of the people and to turn them away from religion.

THE CONTINENT OF EUROPE.

liberty meant freedom from all restraint and the right to commit all crimes against society. It was a continent of robbery and plunder. The lecturer then referred to Garibaldi, the master spirit of this organized band of robbers, and said that he was not a man to be despised. He was a man who had done more for his country than any other man of his time. He was a man who had done more for his country than any other man of his time.

THE LONDON TIMES.

very truly said some time ago that he had only one idea, and that was a universal hatred of priests.

Some people may say and believe that the Italian government has a just and in view, the consummation of which will give us all the TRACHEARY AND TYRANNY, force and fraud, which it has exercised. But people should remember that the Italian government is not a government of the people, but a government of the Pope. It is a government of the Pope, and it is a government of the Pope.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

The Ku Klux Committee—Proposed Measures for the Protection of Loyalists in the South—The Question of an Early Adjournment.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 12, 1871. The committee appointed by the republican senatorial caucus yesterday consists of Morton, of Indiana; Poole, of North Carolina; Scott, of Pennsylvania; Edmonds, of Vermont; Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey; and the committee of the House republican caucus consists of Butler, of Massachusetts; Shellabarger, of Ohio; Mercer, of Pennsylvania; Thomas, of North Carolina, and Coburn, of Indiana. They will meet to-morrow morning to prepare a bill to protect loyal citizens of the United States in the full enjoyment of their rights, persons, liberty and property against Ku Klux outrages. Such offences are regarded as will be declared violations of the constitution of the United States and therefore the President will be authorized to employ land and naval forces in certain cases for the purposes indicated. Although no measure has yet been prepared it is supposed that it will be proposed to appoint commissioners to take cognizance of offences for the purpose of removing them before the Senate caucus resolved to act only on Ku Klux outrages, while that of the House related to give such legislation the preference over all other subjects.

The Early Adjournment Question.

There is a disposition on the part of some of the republicans to adjourn without any legislation whatever. The democrats will oppose all measures in relation to the South.

The Interest on the Pacific Railroad Bonds.

It has been published in some papers that the Secretary of the Treasury intends to demand the payment of interest on bonds issued to the Union Pacific Railroad. This is not true. The question whether the roads are liable to pay interest before the bonds are due does not appear to be settled by the recent act of Congress. The Treasury is paying the roads one-half of the proceeds of transportation, as required by said act.

Contest for the Seat of Delegate from Utah—The Female Saints and Suffrage.

The Mormon question is revived to some extent by the claims of the Gentile candidate in the last election to the seat in Congress now occupied by the Mormon Utah delegate. I was in Salt Lake City during the election. There were over 20,000 voters returned for Captain Hooper, who was Brigham Young's chosen candidate, and who, of course, was declared elected. The census taken soon after the election showed the total population of Utah, including all the women and all the children, to be less than 90,000. That many thousand illegal votes were cast for Hooper is a fact which is not denied by any one, and even the saints themselves could not deny it. In fact, many illegal votes were also cast for General Maxwell, the Gentile candidate, a fact which even some of the stoniers in Corinne will be willing to substantiate. The vote returned for the Gentile in Corinne exceeded the total population of the town; so that, so far as the point of illegal voting is concerned, there is no advantage on either side, except with reference to numbers; and in this the Prophet, the Apostles and the Elders, who went to the polls with many of their wives and concubines, had a vast advantage. The Gentile was completely "overwhelmed by superior numbers." However, the Gentile claims the seat in Congress, and he gives his reasons. There is one noticeable difference between the two rival candidates. Captain Hooper is a man of letters, and his title of captain on account of having commanded a company in the Mormon army was sought to defy the authority of the United States, and General Maxwell received his title of general on account of his signal services in command of a brigade which fought for the honor of his country. Hooper has lost little save his hair, but Maxwell lost his leg in battle and bears on his body the marks of other wounds. Yet Hooper is a saint and Maxwell is a sinner. Maxwell is here to contest the seat with Hooper. He appeared before the Committee on Elections of the House of Representatives on Saturday, and presented a statement of his case. The matter will come up again on Tuesday on a motion of Maxwell to reconsider the action of the committee, which decided to give Hooper sixty days to take his case to the Senate in person. The following is Maxwell's stirring story:

The barometer remains generally below the average over the country, east of the Mississippi. The diminution of pressure, which was reported on Saturday night in progress on the western side of the Alleghenies, produced a well marked storm centre, which passed this morning over Virginia northward, with heavy rain and blaine winds, and now probably covers the State of Maine. The barometer is rising between the lower lakes and the Atlantic coast and in the South Atlantic States with clear and fair weather over the whole of that region. Rising barometer and falling temperature prevail from Indiana North and west.

PROBABILITIES.

Fair weather and fresh winds are indicated for the country east of the Mississippi on Monday, with clearing up weather on the coast of Maine.
