

THE ROYAL NUPTIALS.

The Duke of Edinburgh's Marriage to the Grand Duchess Marie of Russia.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—G. A. M.

The London journals this morning are filled with articles and programmes of ceremonies on the occasion of the Duke of Edinburgh's marriage, which will take place at half-past twelve P. M. to-day in St. Petersburg.

ENGLAND.

Bullion Supply to the Bank—Cash Reserve and Liabilities—American State Finance—The Metropolis Enveloped in Fog.

TELEGRAMS TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

LONDON, Jan. 22, 1874.

The bullion in the Bank of England has increased £200,000 during the past week. The amount of bullion given to the Bank of England on balance to-day is £10,000.

The council of foreign bondholders have telegraphed to America a protest against the reduction of interest on Louisiana bonds.

SCOTLAND.

Fire in a Cotton Factory—Thousands of Operatives Out of Employment.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

LONDON, Jan. 23.—G. A. M.

A large cotton factory in Glasgow was destroyed by fire last night. The loss is estimated at £150,000. Four thousand operatives are thrown out of employment.

FRANCE.

Specie in Flow to the Bank—Sale of a Newspaper Forbidden by the Government.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

PARIS, Jan. 22, 1874.

The specie in the Bank of France has increased 13,361,000 francs during the past week.

The government has issued an order forbidding the sale of the newspaper L'Opinion Nationale.

SPAIN.

Provincial Command—Communication with France Interrupted.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

MADRID, Jan. 22, 1874.

Sanchez Bruga has been appointed Captain General of Galicia.

No letters or telegrams have been received from France for three days.

AOHEEN.

Native Battle Against the Hollanders' Conquest.

TELEGRAM TO THE NEW YORK HERALD.

LONDON, Jan. 22, 1874.

Despatches from Penang report that the Acheens continue to make a desperate resistance to the occupation of their country by the Dutch.

They recently attacked the principal position held by the invaders, but met with a repulse. The Dutch army has been reinforced.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.

Rev. C. N. Chandler, of Baltimore, is stopping at the St. Denis Hotel.

Judge Josiah G. Abbott, of Boston, is again at the Brevoort House.

Some of the papers speak of the new Chief Justice as Moses R. Waite.

General S. R. Marvin, of Albany, has arrived at the Fifth Avenue Hotel.

Ex-Governor Saunders, of Nebraska, is staying at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

An Fat and Ah Wee are before the Sacramento Court for killing Ah Quong.

Edward Parker, of Boston, has painted Summer, for Thaddeus Hyatt, of London.

Mrs. Hallack, widow of General Halleck, and her son were at last advices in Nice.

General Jubal A. Early is talked of for Lieutenant Governor of the Old Dominion.

Congressman Thomas C. Platt, of Oswego, N. Y., is registered at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

Captain Willoughby Wallace, of the British Army, is quartered at the Everett House.

A Mr. Ruby has just married a Miss Jett in Maryland, and the partners are immortalizing them.

Miss Harriet Augusta Smith, of Wisconsin, is added to the list of heroic women who have shot a bear.

Mrs. Waite, wife of the last nominee for Chief Justice, is a handsome, stylish woman, fond of society.

Colonel A. K. McClure will not accept the democratic nomination for "Centennial" Mayor of Philadelphia.

George Gerard, United States Consul for the Falkland Islands, is among the recent arrivals at the Astor House.

Don Platt is announced as having nearly completed a moral drama for Clara Morris, the emotional actress.

Professor Benjamin Peirce, Superintendent of the United States Coast Survey, has returned to the Brevoort House.

George Fox has dissolved partnership with A. T. Stewart, with several millions in his pocket. He managed the English branch of the house.

Ex-President Bazot, of St. Domingo, who arrived from St. Thomas yesterday in the steamship South America, has apartments at the Brevoort House.

Mayor Wood, of Petersburg, Va., was arraigned before the Grand Jury in that city on Thursday last upon charges of incompetency and intemperance.

The prettiest woman in Washington this winter, it is said, is the wife of Senator Torrey, of Arkansas. She is described as a Spanish-looking beauty, with very long black lashes, dark eyes and rather small, tidy figure.

THE SIAMSE TWINS.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

The following answer was received to-day by Mayor Stokes, from Greenboro, N. C., to a question sent by him relative to the Siamese twins, as to whether it was possible to obtain some physiological information about them.

Inform the doctor that I shall be in Philadelphia to-morrow night at the American Hotel. I attended the Siamese Twins.

JAMES HOLLINGSWORTH, M. D.

COLLISION OF THE NEW JERSEY CENTRAL RAILROAD.

Last evening a freight train ran into a passenger train on the New Jersey Central Railroad, near Communipaw station. The fireman and one passenger were killed and a passenger was fatally wounded. The engineer of the freight train struck that on account of the fog he was unable to discover the signal. The passengers were transferred to the Pennsylvania Railroad through the Jersey City depot to Newark, N. J.

COLLISION OF THE NEW JERSEY CENTRAL RAILROAD.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

Patrick Naughton, a locomotive engineer, was convicted in the Police Court to-day of throwing a live dog into a locomotive furnace, burning him to death. He was fined $100 and sentenced to the Workhouse for six months. The case was prosecuted by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck a fellow-workman, named Michael Rowan, upon the neck, breaking the collar-bone of the latter and otherwise injuring him internally. Rowan is not expected to live.

TERRIBLE DEATH OF A WORKMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22, 1874.

An accident occurred to-day at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, by the breaking of some of the scaffolding surrounding the United States war ship Quinebaug. Frank Ingram, a workman, was precipitated to the floor, a distance of twenty feet, and was instantly killed. In falling, his right arm came down head foremost, and struck