

Fragments of Bodies Found in the Ruins Yesterday. What the Debris in Flood's Alley May Concoct. ADDRESS BY THE MAYOR. The Fire Marshal's Investigation. THE RELIEF FUNDS INCREASING.

hastened the progress of the flames; the origin of the fire, I should think, was in the disarranging of the boxes while the piece of scenery was being connected with the theatre stage manager was peremptorily ordered by me not to leave the stage during a performance, under penalty of dismissal.

William C. Field, of No. 638 Fulton street, testified—An inspector and he have charge of all the meters and in the meter department of the Brooklyn Gaslight Company; I was at the corner of Pearl and Fulton streets, on my way home from the Brooklyn Gaslight Company, when I saw the building in flames; the theatre had two main gas pipes, one three-inch pipe from Johnson street and another three-inch pipe from the Washington street; the meter that supplied the stage and auditorium was under the stage, in the cellar; the other meters supplied the theatre in the cellar on the Washington street; these were in the cellar on the Washington street; we have tap gas on the sidewalk which we can shut off the gas; the meter on the Washington street is about one o'clock and on the Johnson street side the next day; I had to dig up the walk to reach the latter one; I am sure the gas was not shut off until it was one o'clock on the Johnson street; the gas could be cut off by the force of the heat on the lead connections by which the meters were connected with the pipes; the meter on the Johnson street side the meter which supplied the theatre was out of early in the fire.

JOHN JONES OF THE STAGE. John Jones, superintendent, stated that the fire broke out on the middle of the stage; one of the borders took fire; it caught from one of the borders; it was in a moment, almost as fast as a powder explosion, some of the stage hands got out by a side door, some through the windows; others through the theatre; it was pulled out in a moment; I saw the fire on the Johnson street side; I was employed there only a little longer than a week, and during that time I saw the fire on the stage, but there might have been one in the fire.

ERNEST REYNOLDS'S TESTIMONY. Ernest Reynolds, of the Broadway street, near Tenth avenue, New York, was in the gallery with William Norman, a friend from New London, Conn.; Norman was drinking out of a bottle and was knocked down by the crowd; I saw the fire on the Johnson street side; I was employed there only a little longer than a week, and during that time I saw the fire on the stage, but there might have been one in the fire.

EDWARD LOONEY, a detective, saw the curtain in the box office of the Brooklyn Theatre on fire on November 11th; he saw the fire on the Johnson street side; I was employed there only a little longer than a week, and during that time I saw the fire on the stage, but there might have been one in the fire.

THE COMMITTEE OF ENTERTAINMENT. The sub-committee of the Charitable Entertainment and Relief Committee met yesterday afternoon at the Park Theatre, Mr. Maverick acting as chairman and Mr. William Davidge as secretary. It was stated that the following actors and actresses had volunteered their services in a performance for relief—Ettie Henderson, Miss Zoe, Minnie Doyle, Amy Roberts, Louise Sylvester, Mrs. and Miss Eldridge, J. W. Stevens, J. W. Row, C. A. Willis, F. Rode and others.

THE FIRE MARSHAL'S INVESTIGATION. The investigation instituted by Fire Marshal Keady still continues. Mr. Keady says he intends to ascertain the bottom facts in the matter, and will not cease in his labor until he accomplishes what he has undertaken. During the proceedings yesterday Mr. William C. Kingsley, one of the owners of the building, and Mr. John P. Smith, who was a manager of the theatre during Mrs. Conway's regime, were examined.

THE FIRE MARSHAL'S INVESTIGATION. Mr. Kingsley testified that when the theatre was built the architect was instructed to erect a "first class building in every respect," and that he believes that these directions were carried out. Mr. Smith gave evidence of the strict system in force when Mrs. Conway was the lessee of the theatre, during which time no fire occurred.

of those establishments. The managers of the Wade Opera House will also probably do the same thing. Camilla Ufer offers the entire proceeds of her first concert for the benefit of the theatre.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen yesterday a letter was read from the Commissioners of Fire and Buildings recommending that an ordinance or an act of the Legislature be passed empowering the commission to place two men at each public place of amusement and public assembly, churches, schools, &c., to have charge of fire apparatus, which was laid over. THE BULLINGTON FIRE. TWO NEGROES IN CUSTODY FOR INCENDIARISM—A CITY WITHOUT WATER AND WITHOUT LAMPLIGHT AT NIGHT—DETAILS OF THE LOSSES AND INSURANCE. Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 11, 1876. The destruction caused by the great conflagration in this city yesterday has planned about two score of poor families into sorrow and want. The hard earnings for years back of many a skillful mechanic and brawny laborer have been swept away. All this was the work of an incandescent fire, commonly called a "fire bug" or an incendiary.
