

LABOR LESSENING BUSINESS FACTOR

S. F. Loree Tells Rutgers Alumni Mental Alertness Is the Chief Requisite.

Railroad President Says Larger Share Must Be Passed On to New Generation.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 14.—President S. F. Loree of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad was one of the chief speakers this evening at the alumni dinner held in connection with the four-day celebration of the 100th anniversary of Rutgers College.

Mr. Loree spoke of the "Rutgers graduates in the world of business affairs." Mr. Loree sketched the development of business from the Garden of Eden down to the present day with the modern organization of industry.

Mr. Loree said, "searches historical fragments that enable an estimation of the relative comfort of existence at different stages of progress, will realize with never ceasing amazement the magnitude of the gulf which separates the conditions of the twentieth century from any earlier period."

"The significant fact of industrial development has been the steady and great reduction of the contributory effort of labor, the substitution for heavy muscular labor of the watching and tending of machines, and at the same time the call for a higher physical and mental alertness, an increase in mental attainments, an augmented control of conduct and attention; while those who, in the competitive struggle, attain positions of management must unflinchingly devote themselves to further and further preparation, the while enduring the almost intolerable toll of thought involved in the conduct of a changing, growing, competitive adventure."

At the exercises this morning addresses were made by delegates from various educational institutions and honorary degrees were conferred.

DOZEN ARRESTS MADE IN CANAL ZONE STRIKE

Leaders of Negro Employees Accused of Violation of Intimidation Laws.

DUTIES OF CAPITAL

Railroad President Says Larger Share Must Be Passed On to New Generation.

PANAMA, Oct. 14.—A dozen leaders of the negro employees in the Canal Zone, who are on a strike for higher wages, were arrested today, charged with violation of the intimidation laws. The arrests took place after Lieut.-Col. Harding, acting Governor of the Canal Zone, had urged on President Valdez that some action was necessary. The operation of the canal will not be affected, it is officially announced.

All the locks, dams and other parts of the canal are under guard. The mechanical, municipal, building, commissary and quartermaster divisions are short of men. No far there has been no delay in dredging or to ships passing through the canal. Accommodations have been offered to workers who feared to return to Panama. The strikers com- mune artisans, teamsters, laborers and hospital attendants.

There were lively times on the fourth floor of a rooming house at 258 West Forty-third street last night when three well-dressed men, believed by the police to know something about extensive automobile robberies "down East," walked in and found Detectives Owens, Fitzpatrick and Levitt waiting for them.

The trio described themselves as Elvin Hall, 54 Tremont street, Lynn, Mass.; Walter Finney, 8 Commercial street, Lynn, and Harry Ward, 42 West Seventy-second street, this city.

The detectives had a warrant from Lynn for Hall and Finney, issued in connection with motor car thefts, and had been tracing their movements in this city for several days. They forcibly entered the accused men's room last night and found letters written by Ward to Finney, in which he suggested "sending on more machines" and found fault because the license numbers hadn't been "sufficiently scratched out."

There was a shuffling of feet outside the door, and the detectives hid quickly as Ward walked in, slowly followed by Hall and Finney. Owens grabbed Hall and the others ran out. Fitzpatrick floored Finney in a lower hall and sub- dued him. Ward tried to break through the door but was overpowered by Levitt. In the meantime, Ward wriggled out of Owens's clutches and tried to escape through a window, but he was caught by a leg and pulled him back into the room.

BARNARD STUDENTS FEWER THIS YEAR

Increased Tuition and Readjustment of Courses Immediate Causes.

MANY NEW SCHOLARSHIPS

Two New Trustees Named and Important Gifts Come Into General Use.

Dean Gilderleeve of Barnard College issued yesterday a report of the academic year 1915-1916. Registration has decreased, due partly to the stricter entrance requirements and partly to the increase of tuition from $150 to $200. The readjustment of courses in other parts of the university has continued to reduce the number of students coming from other faculties for a portion of their work.

The total amount which the college received under the will of the late Joseph Pulitzer is more than $154,000. From this thirty-nine scholarships have already been established and besides these there are thirty other scholarships and five funds for the assistance of students. There are 157 State scholarship holders among the undergraduates.

Another gift has been James Talcott's donation of $100,000 for the Talcott Foundation, the income of which is to be used for religious instruction. A prize in early church history, to be known as the Caroline Gallup Reed prize, the income of a fund of $10,000, has been presented by Mrs. William Barclay Parsons in memory of her mother, Mrs. Sylvia Reed, to encourage students in the study of the origin and development of Christianity.

Progress during the year has been made in securing cooperation between Barnard and other schools of the university. The cooperative dormitory, which, with the aid of the alumnae, is solving the problem of securing healthful, pleasant and cheap residence for highly desirable students of small means and the experiment with a "Barnard farm" for week end parties to take the place of the banished "fraternities" promise to help.

The list of students who hold competitive scholarships at Barnard College this year follows: Gladys Palmer, 1917, Philadelphia; Gladys M. Cripps, 1918, Charlestown, Mass.; Frances D. Rule, 1919, St. Louis; Jane E. Casper, 1920, Spring Brook, Wis.; and Suzanne Payton, 1920, St. Louis. Pulitzer New York City Scholarships—Sophia Amson, 1918; Dorothy Brockway, 1919; and Harry Keeler, 1920. Pulitzer Competitive Entrance Scholarship—Margaret G. Myers, 1920, Bridgeport, Conn. Jesse Kaufmann Scholarship—Hedwig Koenig, 1918, Brooklyn. Martha T. Fiske Scholarship—Helen S. Hofbrook, 1918, Mobile, Brooklyn. 8 scholarships—Georgina I.

Strickland, 1917; Dora Kahn, 1918, and Sylvia Kopald, 1920. Eleanor Kinnelcut Scholarship—Wendell Llander, 1918, New York. Emma A. Titlton Scholarship—Emily Al. Downing, 1919, New York. William Mott Scholarship—Lucy Carter Lee, 1919, Macon, Ga., and Lockie Parker, 1920, Madisonville, Ky.

LIONS AND A BUFFALO NAMED.

Cabot Ward christens four Central Park Zoo newcomers. Pomp and ceremony marked the christening yesterday of the three lion cubs born August 31 to Helen and Leo in Central Park Zoo, and the buffalo calf born August 24 to Julia and Toby II. The excitement was slightly unusual in that the parents were not permitted to attend in either case, their company manners not being above reproach.

Only 10,000 of the three lion cubs Aguilada, Isabella and Guayama, after three cities in Porto Rico, of which he once was governor. The buffalo calf was named "Cody."

CONEY BATTLE WON BY GEN. DESTRUCTION

Owners of Structures Encroaching on Beach Surrender to State Forces.

Six husky handlers of axes, crowbars and other high power tools had an appointment with Deputy Attorney-General Israel M. Lerner and State Investigators Henry Unterwieser and Benjamin Simon at Surf Avenue and Sheridan's walk, Coney Island, yesterday afternoon, and everybody was on the job at the appointed time.

Mr. Lerner was armed with maps of the Coney beach and other papers that had to do with the location of bath houses, roller coasters and other vital industries of Coney which encroach on the beach between the high and low water marks. The husky workmen were armed with their axes, crowbars and other engines of destruction.

"The courts have decided," Mr. Lerner announced in effect to his little army before leading them into action, "that these privately owned enterprises must remove their beach obstructions. They haven't done so yet. Therefore, up and at 'em, men!"

At the ocean end of Sheridan's walk the first work of opening the beach to the public from Manhattan Beach to Sea Gate was begun by sliding into the Atlantic the objectionable parts of the Atlantic Baths. Resounding whacks which would have rung the bell on one of Coney's oldest hammer amusement devices every time began to resound.

"Have a heart," cried Proprietor Eddie Mooney, when he could stand no more the sight of flying splinters. "The State is going to charge me for this work anyway, so if you'll let up I'll have my 'men begin the tearing down next Monday morning."
