

MOTHERS' SERMON PACKS TABERNAACLE

"Wild Bill" Donovan and Irvin Cobb Hear the Rev. Mr. Sunday Preach.

905 IN SANDUST TRAIL

Rody Gets Great Burst of Melody From the Reserved Seat Sections.

The preliminaries and prelude of any one of the Rev. Billy Sunday's nightly gospel meetings are scarcely less lively and entertaining than the crowd gathering period before a world's series baseball game or a big football game.

Last night, for example, when Billy held one of the very biggest and most successful revival meetings to his credit so far in the New York campaign, the uninitiated stranger might have had a pretty hard time determining, before Billy took the platform and burned out all trivialities with the flaming sincerity of his preachments, what the 20,000 and odd were gathered in the tabernacle for.

There never was an itinerant preacher in the interests of religion which had less of the atmosphere of the traditional, conventional, solemn faced, don't speak above a whisper revival, than the one before Mr. Sunday went into action and began to preach a sermon to mothers which was based on the rescue of Moses from the bulrushes at a time when the Jewish people were far more interested in making bricks than in computing interest in the atmosphere of a meeting.

Notables Present. Traditionally, so to speak, Wild Bill Donovan, manager of the New York Yankees of the American League of Baseball Clubs, had slipped in habitually to take a seat with Secretary Billy Felschman of the insurance company and to a paltry young woman who was there to write her impression of how Billy's style appeared to a leading light of Mr. Ziegfeld's Midway Gardens.

When Billy called for trail hikers last night, he responded and these with the 238 of the afternoon made 905 for the day. The first four men in line were sailors. A woman approached, leading a small child, and asked him to take her to a side aisle. She recovered her offspring and led him toward Billy, but with the feet of the platform she caldrait one again escaped, and this time for good. The mother went forward alone.

In the afternoon Billy preached the sermon for mothers before issuing the invitation to the trail. Nine-tenths of the trail walkers in the afternoon were women and the relatively few men were company men.

Get a policy in Mr. Sunday's company. Rody advised the Mutual folk, who were in the insurance. There was a breezy laughter at that, and then the trombonist soloed "a patriotic drama in three acts"—"Yankee Doodle," "Dixie" and "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The nightly musical zane of playing "Brighten the Corner Where You Are" began with Rodeheaver tossing fragments of the music over his shoulder, and part of the congressionally adopted hymn line or two to Bill Donovan, Irvin Cobb and the newspaper men with the team.

He took his sermon text from Exodus 11: 1: "Take this child and nurse it for me, and I will give thee thy wages." He told the story of Pharaoh's death in the Red Sea, and then the story of the devotion and faith of Moses's mother when she placed her baby in an ark and set it down among the bulrushes, of it, and then the kindly hearted princess of Egypt, and the mother being sent for to nurse her own child. The angels were pretty busy while the music was going on, Billy told the congregation.

There were no many persons present who were the three who were called upon by the committee to be announced later. The Aldermanic chamber was filled to capacity, and many large property owners and representatives of various real estate organizations entered warm protest. His proposal he amended to include only apartment houses containing passenger elevators, but this, too, was fought.

COMEDY PUT INTO SWAIN TESTIMONY

"Gentiles Don't Got No Common Sense," Markewich Is Alleged as Saying.

COURT REBUKES CHEERS

Assistant District Attorney Credited With Odd Bits of Philosophy.

"A Gentle is always a Gentle, but they don't got no common sense." According to the testimony of Isadore Alexander, formerly an official in the Cloakmakers Union, who appeared yesterday as a witness for the City Club in the hearing of charges against District Attorney Swain, this interesting bit of philosophy was first given to him in a conversation with Assistant District Attorney Markewich.

"What for business are you sneaking into Gentiles?" Alexander swore Mr. Markewich demanded of him one day when he had been called to the District Attorney's office in regard to an appeal from a conviction for labor case. "Wouldn't you rather see the Yiddish fellows do it in the office than the Gentiles? Listen, Isadore—a goy is a goy. He's the same as a Gentile. A Gentile is always a Gentile—and they don't got no common sense."

At this point in Isadore's recital of the bits of wisdom that he swears were dropped by the Assistant District Attorney the applause from the crowded court room brought down a rebuke from the bench. Judge Lewis, as special commissioner in the trial. When testimony was resumed the witness stated that the official told him that he was a good fellow and that all he had to do was to tell the truth.

He Says They Called Him a "Liar." "I'm willing to tell the truth, but you don't want the truth," he swore the witness. "I said the same thing before Mr. Swain and Mr. Dooling and Mr. Tally and they abused me," he went on. "And when they called me a liar and many other names, I was so mad I cried."

Next to Isadore the most interesting witness of the occasion was a Jewish tailor, named William Levine, of 17 Cannon street, who took the stand for the prosecution. It was evident, however, that the City Club attorneys had expected a more colorful testimony than Levine gave. After a lengthy examination by Attorney Mellen it was clear that the witness was far from sympathetic with the City Club's case.

Witness Denies Coaching. "Since you pleaded guilty of perjury before Judge McIntyre have you seen a small child named Billy?" the District Attorney's official questioned Mr. Mellen in the direct examination. "When it had developed that the witness was coaching in this court," the witness answered.

"Were you coached by any one as to what to say here to-day?" "I was coached by my lawyer," the witness answered. "I was coached by my lawyer," the witness answered.

In the cross-examination by Attorney Stanchfield, the witness admitted he had lied when he was arrested following the assault and taken to the station house. He admitted that he had written in paper as belonging to him and confessed that it had not been used in the attack on Manushevitz as he had formerly testified.

At a recent dinner to the chairman of the Republican county committee a committee of the party, who had been held in effect that only one more fusion administration was necessary to change New York into a Republican stronghold. As a Democratic candidate for nomination to any such arrangement, I feel quite sure that those who, like myself, have at times found themselves in opposition to the regular organization of the party, are in the majority.

At the meeting last night a committee on the subject of the party was formed. The two will hold open sessions at the Hotel Hermitage, which has been selected as permanent headquarters of the committee, to receive the views of all members of the party and to select candidates and platform. No candidates have as yet been mentioned.
