

A modern war scene at a historic spot. Turkish prisoners being moved to the rear in captured cars at the junction of the Beersheba-Gaza line and the Damascus-Jersusalem main line
British Official Photograph.

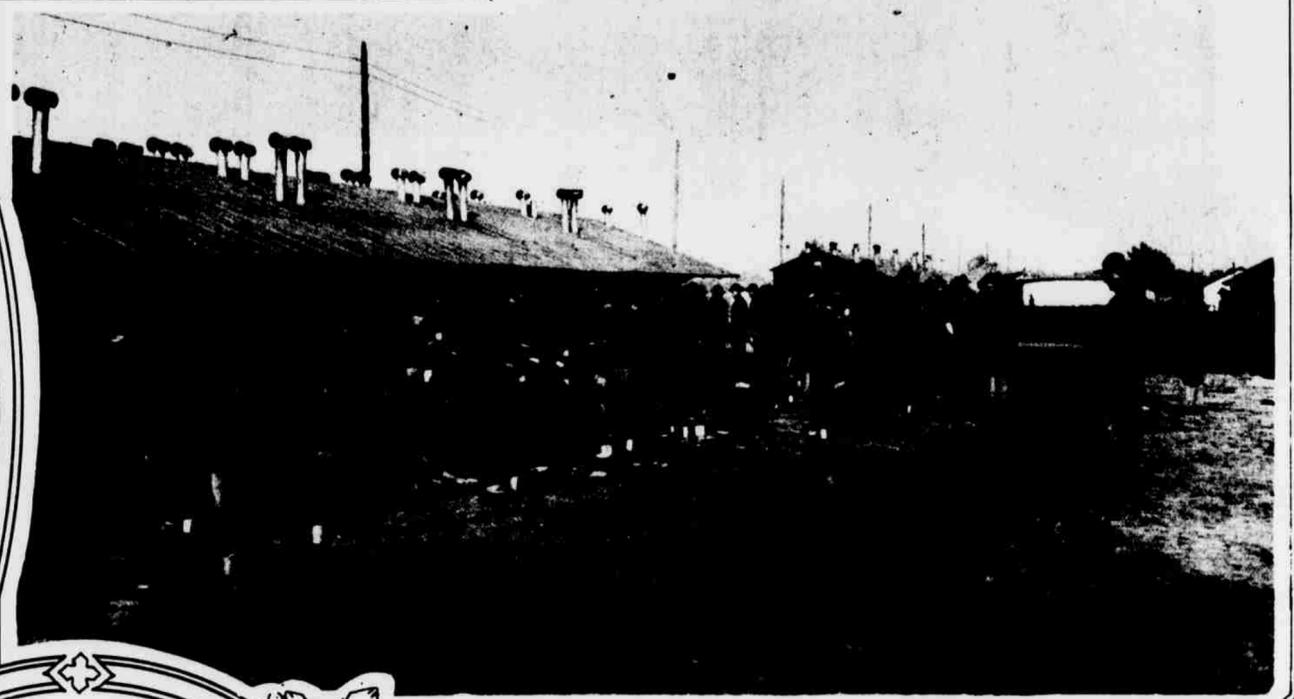

A songfest at the headquarters of the Y. M. C. A. in Paris, the Hotel du Pavillon. Here American soldiers are taken care of as well as they would be in their own homes. The hotel is fitted up with amusement rooms, lounging rooms and sleeping quarters and has become immensely popular, particularly with Pershing's men on leave.
Copyright, Kadel & Herbert.

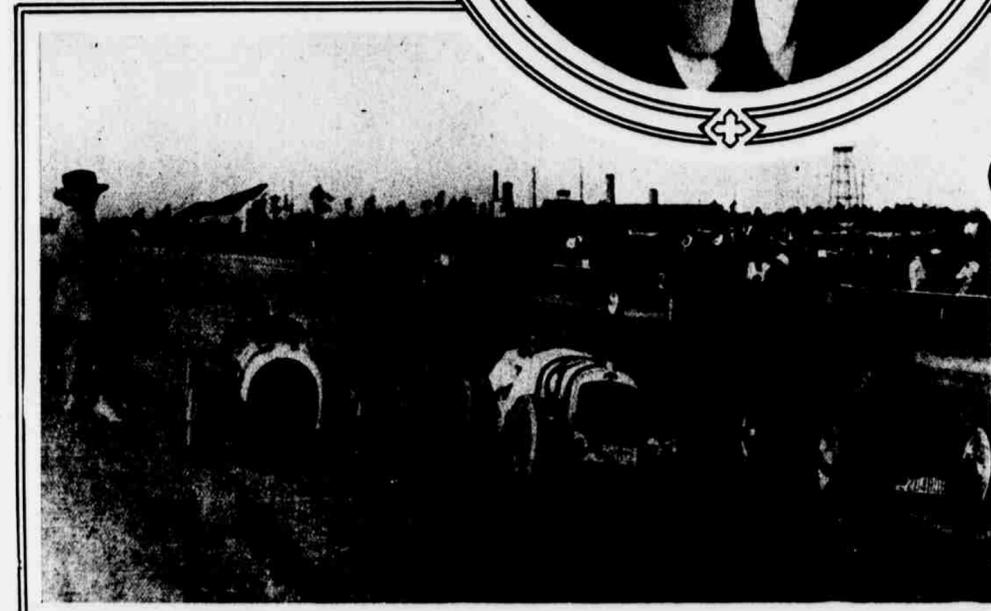

Above—A view of the fighting front in Italy. The famous Rossi paper mill, at Overion, near Asiago, shows in part and beyond are the mountains where the fighting is going on.
Copyright, F. L. Swaab.

At Right—Walker D. Hines, long a leading lawyer for the railroads in all sorts of cases, is now one of the big guns of Director-General McAdoo's Railroad Cabinet.

Copyright, Harris & Ewing, from Paul Thompson.

A soup line that betokens not poverty, but bravery. Soldiers newly arrived from the United States are getting their first meal at a temporary camp near Bordeaux. Only off shipboard a short time, these men seem to enjoy the sensation of food al fresco and on terra firma.
Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

A very unusual automobile race this one, which was held at Ascot Park Speedway in California. All the drivers were winners and so were the officials. Good time was made, one of the contestants averaging 54 seconds a mile Copyright, International Film.

The good people of Glen Ridge, N. J., have their own ideas of how to cope with coal famines. Encountering one they organized a "Cut a Cord" club, got out the Home Defence League and tackled nearby woods. Saws, axes and muscle soon produced large quantities of fuel.
Copyright, International Film Service.