This is the latest portrait of Gen. Foch, Commander-in-Chief of the allied armies, upon whose shoulders rests the heaviest military burden in history. It was taken at his headquarters and gives a different impression from the pictures published of him at the time of his elevation to the supreme post. Photo French Pictorial Service.

When her hospital in France was bombed by the Huns this British nurse, although wounded, lost neither her nerve nor her smile. Photo by Central News.

Gen. Pershing inspecting the guard and saluting as they stand rigidly at "present arms." The American commander is a stickler for military smartness and the troops under him reflect his attitude. Copyright, Committee on Public Information.

Part of the huge crowd that marched in Vladivostok to protest against the "Prussian rule" of the Bolsheviki in that city. The demand was for restoration of universal suffrage and direct and secret ballot. Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

Clothing sent to Salvage department of American army in France. From this miscellaneous collection of garments the good ones will be sorted and fixed up, so Uncle Sam will save money. Copyright, Committee on Public Information.
