

This is the 104th Aero Squadron, which formed part of the 5th Army Corps Observation Group, A. E. F., and which did notable work in the St. Mihiel and Argonne-Meuse drives. The fliers bagged many Hun planes. Their fighting record is second to none.
Copyright, Press Illustrating Service.

Frederick B. Royce, long prominent in Boston traction affairs, has been appointed general manager of the B. R. T.
Copyright, International Film.

Andreas Parley and Mile. Anna Ludmilla of the Parley-Oukrainsky ballet with the Chicago Grand Opera Company at the Lexington Theatre. Their dancing has excited much interest and their poses are positively wonderful.
Photo, Gertrude Fairchild.

Lieut. Herbert O. Tilton, Eatontown, N. J., of Company B, 80th Pioneer Infantry, died in France on December 20 of blood poisoning incurred in the performance of duty at the front. He had a fine war record.
Photo, White Studio.

Another aero squadron, the 99th, which has an unusually fine record. This organization has to its credit a long list of enemy planes, likewise four citations from French and Americans. The men are known as the Buffaloes and have adopted that animal for their insignia. They did all the photography for the 5th Army Corps in three big offensives.
Copyright, Press Illustrating Service.