

Notable men who attended the meeting of the Roosevelt Permanent Memorial Committee held last week, photographed on the roof of the Metropolitan Building. Top row, left to right—Henry C. Wallace, Gifford Pinchot, Robert J. Wynns, Harold L. Ickes, Luke E. Wright, Russell Coles, Senator Frank B. Kellogg, General Leonard Wood, Elihu Root, Carl E. Akeley, Rev. T. Manning, rector of Trinity Church; William Sewall, Gilbert Pierson, Governor James P. Gooch of Indiana, Governor R. Livingston Beekman of Rhode Island, Congressman Wallace White, John T. King, vice chairman; Will H. Hays, chairman of the National Republican Committee; Robert R. Moton of Tuskegee Institute, Thomas A. Marlow, National Committeeman; Earle S. Kinsley, National Committeeman; Irvin R. Kirkwood, Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt and William Boyce Thompson, chairman of the committee.

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

Rose O'Neill, originator of the "Kewpies," which almost every child knows and loves. This is her most recent photograph.

Photo, International Film.

Dr. Alice Hamilton has been appointed a member of the Harvard faculty, the first woman to hold that position, as assistant professor of industrial medicine.

Photo, International Film.

New Year's Eve in the Ex-Kaiser's cellar. The picture has just reached this country. The revellers are Spartacus soldiers, and they certainly seem to be having an exceptionally enjoyable time.

Copyright, Press Illustrating Service.

Mrs. Powell Glass, wife of Major Glass, and Powell Glass, Jr., have been visiting at the home of the Major's parents, Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Carter Glass. Major Glass has just returned from France.

Photo, Press Illustrating Service.

German soldiers are getting up in the world; they have climbed from the dugouts to the roofs of Berlin. These are Spartacans engaged in sniping civilians in the Tiergarten.

Photo Copyright, Press Illustrating Service.