

JOHN R. HEGEMAN, NEAR 75, IS DEAD

President of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company Succumbs to Long Illness.

LEAD IN SMALL POLICIES

Built Up One of Greatest Companies in America During Career.

John Rogers Hegeman, for forty-nine years an officer of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and for the last twenty-eight years its president, died yesterday at his home on Orienta Point, Mamaroneck. Mr. Hegeman had been in poor health since an attack of pneumonia in the fall of 1918. Despite his several heart attacks, he continued to lead the company's affairs until his death.

His Interest in Mamaroneck.

On February 3 last, while Hegeman was ill in bed, his estate was being settled and the estate with them his wife and children. He had a large and valuable estate in Mamaroneck, the total damage being estimated at $100,000. He had a large and valuable estate in Mamaroneck, the total damage being estimated at $100,000.

Success Came Early.

Mr. Hegeman was born on the old King's Highway in Flatlands, now called Flatbush, on April 18, 1844. His death yesterday occurred only twelve days before the day on which he would have passed the three-quarters of a century mark. He was the son of John G. and Charlotte Owen Rogers Hegeman.

DIED.

CONLAN—John J., at his apartment, 1 Thirtieth street, on Friday, April 4, 1919. Funeral service at the Church of St. Ignace, 84th street and Park avenue, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment Woodlawn Cemetery.

CONLAN—Members of the Manhattan Club are requested to attend the funeral services at the Church of St. Ignace, 84th street and Park avenue, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment Woodlawn Cemetery.

EDWARD G. WHITAKER, President. FIELD—On Friday, April 4, 1919. Augusta Currie Bradburn, widow of William Hazard Field and daughter of the late William Bradburn and Mary Pearson. Funeral services will be held at St. Bartholomew's Church, Park avenue and Fifty-first street, on Monday morning, April 7, at 10 o'clock.

HARKELL—At Davison, Fla., on Wednesday, April 3, 1919. Frank W. Harkell, husband of Clara L. Harkell and son of Benjamin Harkell and the late Hattie E. Seale. Funeral services at the residence of his brother, Leonard C. Harkell, 21 Morris place, Bloomfield, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

MARBLE—Scott Services "THE FUNERAL CHURCH" at 110 West 125th street, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M. Interment at the cemetery on the Hudson river, on Monday, April 7, at 10 A. M.

THOMAS O'NEILL IS DEAD.

End Comes Suddenly to Well Known Baltimore Merchant.

MANY PARTIES AT SPRINGS.

New York Colonists Entertain Friends at White Sulphur.

JOHN ROGERS HEGEMAN.

married Miss Evelyn Lyon, who also lived in Brooklyn. He survived her a few months more than four years.

Apostle of Small Policies.

At the time Mr. Hegeman joined the Metropolitan it had only $331 policies in force. The offices of the company were at 243 Broadway. In 1878, through the efforts of Mr. Hegeman and the late Joseph E. Knapp, then president, the industrial department was organized. This department is the present day has outstanding more than four million policies. It was his work as vice-president of the Metropolitan that brought him wide recognition as an insurance man.

He did much to popularize insurance among the great body of laboring and middle class people, who knew little about it. He was a man of wide acquaintance and a vast army of agents throughout the country preaching the doctrine of care for the future and for dependents. Very small policies were written by the company.

In October, 1881, he succeeded Mr. Knapp as president of the company, with headquarters at 100 Broadway. He was elected to the First National Bank, member of the Mamaroneck Cooperative Building and Loan Association and a number of other local organizations and societies. His estate at Orienta Point, where he lived for more than thirty years.

His estate at Orienta Point, where he lived for more than thirty years. He was a man of wide acquaintance and a vast army of agents throughout the country preaching the doctrine of care for the future and for dependents. Very small policies were written by the company.

The constant growth of the company made it necessary to expand its quarters several times. From the building at 243 Broadway the business was moved to 319 Broadway and later it found a new home at 42 Park place. In April, 1893, less than two years after Mr. Hegeman's accession to the presidency, the last move of the company was made. A corner lot on Madison avenue and Twenty-third street was selected and on this site has risen the great Metropolitan Building. Gradually under Mr. Hegeman's leadership the Metropolitan has become one of the largest and most successful of the great life insurance companies of the world.

Artistic office furniture and interior decorations on which money was lavishly expended was also a part of his legacy.

Following the widespread insurance investigation of Gov. C. E. Hughes and during the term of William Traverser, Mr. Hegeman was indicted ten times in May, 1907, seven being for forgery, and three for perjury. The charges grew out of an investigation of certain yearly premiums of the company to the State Department of Insurance. Mr. Hegeman fought the indictments with the aid of Attorney John G. Hill and Attorney J. O'Brien. He was acquitted and all were subsequently dismissed as groundless. He was finally cleared after a long and bitter battle in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court dismissed the last two perjury indictments.

Looked Like Edwin Booth.

Mr. Hegeman was a man of striking appearance and personality. He did not in the least resemble a captain of industry or business man as the type is generally described. Indeed, he has on many occasions been likened by newspaper intimates to the late Edwin Booth. His hair was long and ringed with gray, he had a high forehead, a prominent nose, a large part of the burden of chief executive of the company, but still retained a great interest in his affairs. In the summer of 1914 while in Europe he became ill and he escaped the war and returned to this country in September. He died on October 24, 1918, leaving an estate of $245,000. Mrs. Hegeman was for many years a noted soprano singer in choirs of well known churches. She also sang in the Metropolitan's contributions and efforts Salem Baptist Church in New Rochelle was built. A memorial window was placed in the church in honor of Mr. Hegeman, and Mr. Hegeman recently expressed a wish that his funeral might be held there, as had been his wife's.

For some years Mr. Hegeman was devoted to yachting and was a member of the New York, American and Larchmont Yacht Clubs. His business interests were not confined to the Metropolitan, but he was a director of the Metropolitan Bank and of the National Surety Company and was a trustee of the Union Trust Company. He was a member of the Holland Society, the Kings County Historical Society, the National Geographic Society and the Westchester Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Hegeman leaves one son, Major John J. Hegeman, assistant secretary of the Metropolitan, who was for many years prominent in the National Guard of New York State; a sister, Miss Abbie Hegeman of Flatbush; his sister-in-law and her husband, George W. Rogers, Agnes Schell, a brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers and Mr. Lyon made their home with him in Mamaroneck.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday at 11:30 o'clock in Salem Baptist Church, New Rochelle, of which the Rev. Dr. T. B. Johnson, is pastor. Interment will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

AXEL LUNDEEN.

Axel Lundeen, 43 years old, died yesterday morning in his home, 542 West 124th street, following a relapse from pneumonia. He came to this country from Sweden at the age of 9 years, and for several years before coming to New York he lived in Newark. He was well known in art engravings and was a member of several fraternal organizations, among them Cosmos Lodge, F. and M. of Newark. The body will be sent today to Red Oak, Iowa, the family home, for burial. His widow will accompany the remains.

PAINTS PITTSBURG AS SOOTLESS CITY

Raymond Holland Puts Smoke in Picture, but No Touch of Coal Dust.

IDEALISM OF ARTIST

Dog Portraits by Percival Rousseau Are Placed on Exhibition.

MANY PARTIES AT SPRINGS.

New York Colonists Entertain Friends at White Sulphur.

JOHN ROGERS HEGEMAN.

married Miss Evelyn Lyon, who also lived in Brooklyn. He survived her a few months more than four years.

Apostle of Small Policies.

At the time Mr. Hegeman joined the Metropolitan it had only $331 policies in force. The offices of the company were at 243 Broadway. In 1878, through the efforts of Mr. Hegeman and the late Joseph E. Knapp, then president, the industrial department was organized. This department is the present day has outstanding more than four million policies. It was his work as vice-president of the Metropolitan that brought him wide recognition as an insurance man.

He did much to popularize insurance among the great body of laboring and middle class people, who knew little about it. He was a man of wide acquaintance and a vast army of agents throughout the country preaching the doctrine of care for the future and for dependents. Very small policies were written by the company.

In October, 1881, he succeeded Mr. Knapp as president of the company, with headquarters at 100 Broadway. He was elected to the First National Bank, member of the Mamaroneck Cooperative Building and Loan Association and a number of other local organizations and societies. His estate at Orienta Point, where he lived for more than thirty years.

His estate at Orienta Point, where he lived for more than thirty years. He was a man of wide acquaintance and a vast army of agents throughout the country preaching the doctrine of care for the future and for dependents. Very small policies were written by the company.

The constant growth of the company made it necessary to expand its quarters several times. From the building at 243 Broadway the business was moved to 319 Broadway and later it found a new home at 42 Park place. In April, 1893, less than two years after Mr. Hegeman's accession to the presidency, the last move of the company was made. A corner lot on Madison avenue and Twenty-third street was selected and on this site has risen the great Metropolitan Building. Gradually under Mr. Hegeman's leadership the Metropolitan has become one of the largest and most successful of the great life insurance companies of the world.

Artistic office furniture and interior decorations on which money was lavishly expended was also a part of his legacy.

Following the widespread insurance investigation of Gov. C. E. Hughes and during the term of William Traverser, Mr. Hegeman was indicted ten times in May, 1907, seven being for forgery, and three for perjury. The charges grew out of an investigation of certain yearly premiums of the company to the State Department of Insurance. Mr. Hegeman fought the indictments with the aid of Attorney John G. Hill and Attorney J. O'Brien. He was acquitted and all were subsequently dismissed as groundless. He was finally cleared after a long and bitter battle in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court dismissed the last two perjury indictments.

Looked Like Edwin Booth.

Mr. Hegeman was a man of striking appearance and personality. He did not in the least resemble a captain of industry or business man as the type is generally described. Indeed, he has on many occasions been likened by newspaper intimates to the late Edwin Booth. His hair was long and ringed with gray, he had a high forehead, a prominent nose, a large part of the burden of chief executive of the company, but still retained a great interest in his affairs. In the summer of 1914 while in Europe he became ill and he escaped the war and returned to this country in September. He died on October 24, 1918, leaving an estate of $245,000. Mrs. Hegeman was for many years a noted soprano singer in choirs of well known churches. She also sang in the Metropolitan's contributions and efforts Salem Baptist Church in New Rochelle was built. A memorial window was placed in the church in honor of Mr. Hegeman, and Mr. Hegeman recently expressed a wish that his funeral might be held there, as had been his wife's.

For some years Mr. Hegeman was devoted to yachting and was a member of the New York, American and Larchmont Yacht Clubs. His business interests were not confined to the Metropolitan, but he was a director of the Metropolitan Bank and of the National Surety Company and was a trustee of the Union Trust Company. He was a member of the Holland Society, the Kings County Historical Society, the National Geographic Society and the Westchester Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Hegeman leaves one son, Major John J. Hegeman, assistant secretary of the Metropolitan, who was for many years prominent in the National Guard of New York State; a sister, Miss Abbie Hegeman of Flatbush; his sister-in-law and her husband, George W. Rogers, Agnes Schell, a brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers and Mr. Lyon made their home with him in Mamaroneck.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday at 11:30 o'clock in Salem Baptist Church, New Rochelle, of which the Rev. Dr. T. B. Johnson, is pastor. Interment will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

AXEL LUNDEEN.

Axel Lundeen, 43 years old, died yesterday morning in his home, 542 West 124th street, following a relapse from pneumonia. He came to this country from Sweden at the age of 9 years, and for several years before coming to New York he lived in Newark. He was well known in art engravings and was a member of several fraternal organizations, among them Cosmos Lodge, F. and M. of Newark. The body will be sent today to Red Oak, Iowa, the family home, for burial. His widow will accompany the remains.

PAINTS PITTSBURG AS SOOTLESS CITY

Raymond Holland Puts Smoke in Picture, but No Touch of Coal Dust.

IDEALISM OF ARTIST

Dog Portraits by Percival Rousseau Are Placed on Exhibition.

MANY PARTIES AT SPRINGS.

New York Colonists Entertain Friends at White Sulphur.

JOHN ROGERS HEGEMAN.

married Miss Evelyn Lyon, who also lived in Brooklyn. He survived her a few months more than four years.

Apostle of Small Policies.

At the time Mr. Hegeman joined the Metropolitan it had only $331 policies in force. The offices of the company were at 243 Broadway. In 1878, through the efforts of Mr. Hegeman and the late Joseph E. Knapp, then president, the industrial department was organized. This department is the present day has outstanding more than four million policies. It was his work as vice-president of the Metropolitan that brought him wide recognition as an insurance man.

He did much to popularize insurance among the great body of laboring and middle class people, who knew little about it. He was a man of wide acquaintance and a vast army of agents throughout the country preaching the doctrine of care for the future and for dependents. Very small policies were written by the company.

In October, 1881, he succeeded Mr. Knapp as president of the company, with headquarters at 100 Broadway. He was elected to the First National Bank, member of the Mamaroneck Cooperative Building and Loan Association and a number of other local organizations and societies. His estate at Orienta Point, where he lived for more than thirty years.

His estate at Orienta Point, where he lived for more than thirty years. He was a man of wide acquaintance and a vast army of agents throughout the country preaching the doctrine of care for the future and for dependents. Very small policies were written by the company.

The constant growth of the company made it necessary to expand its quarters several times. From the building at 243 Broadway the business was moved to 319 Broadway and later it found a new home at 42 Park place. In April, 1893, less than two years after Mr. Hegeman's accession to the presidency, the last move of the company was made. A corner lot on Madison avenue and Twenty-third street was selected and on this site has risen the great Metropolitan Building. Gradually under Mr. Hegeman's leadership the Metropolitan has become one of the largest and most successful of the great life insurance companies of the world.

Artistic office furniture and interior decorations on which money was lavishly expended was also a part of his legacy.

Following the widespread insurance investigation of Gov. C. E. Hughes and during the term of William Traverser, Mr. Hegeman was indicted ten times in May, 1907, seven being for forgery, and three for perjury. The charges grew out of an investigation of certain yearly premiums of the company to the State Department of Insurance. Mr. Hegeman fought the indictments with the aid of Attorney John G. Hill and Attorney J. O'Brien. He was acquitted and all were subsequently dismissed as groundless. He was finally cleared after a long and bitter battle in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court dismissed the last two perjury indictments.

Looked Like Edwin Booth.

Mr. Hegeman was a man of striking appearance and personality. He did not in the least resemble a captain of industry or business man as the type is generally described. Indeed, he has on many occasions been likened by newspaper intimates to the late Edwin Booth. His hair was long and ringed with gray, he had a high forehead, a prominent nose, a large part of the burden of chief executive of the company, but still retained a great interest in his affairs. In the summer of 1914 while in Europe he became ill and he escaped the war and returned to this country in September. He died on October 24, 1918, leaving an estate of $245,000. Mrs. Hegeman was for many years a noted soprano singer in choirs of well known churches. She also sang in the Metropolitan's contributions and efforts Salem Baptist Church in New Rochelle was built. A memorial window was placed in the church in honor of Mr. Hegeman, and Mr. Hegeman recently expressed a wish that his funeral might be held there, as had been his wife's.

For some years Mr. Hegeman was devoted to yachting and was a member of the New York, American and Larchmont Yacht Clubs. His business interests were not confined to the Metropolitan, but he was a director of the Metropolitan Bank and of the National Surety Company and was a trustee of the Union Trust Company. He was a member of the Holland Society, the Kings County Historical Society, the National Geographic Society and the Westchester Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Hegeman leaves one son, Major John J. Hegeman, assistant secretary of the Metropolitan, who was for many years prominent in the National Guard of New York State; a sister, Miss Abbie Hegeman of Flatbush; his sister-in-law and her husband, George W. Rogers, Agnes Schell, a brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers and Mr. Lyon made their home with him in Mamaroneck.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday at 11:30 o'clock in Salem Baptist Church, New Rochelle, of which the Rev. Dr. T. B. Johnson, is pastor. Interment will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

AXEL LUNDEEN.

Axel Lundeen, 43 years old, died yesterday morning in his home, 542 West 124th street, following a relapse from pneumonia. He came to this country from Sweden at the age of 9 years, and for several years before coming to New York he lived in Newark. He was well known in art engravings and was a member of several fraternal organizations, among them Cosmos Lodge, F. and M. of Newark. The body will be sent today to Red Oak, Iowa, the family home, for burial. His widow will accompany the remains.

WEEK END VISITORS FLOCK TO SEASHORE

Boardwalk Crowded and Chairs and Seats Are at a Premium.

MANY MOTOR TO RESORT

Invasion Gives Atlantic City An Idea of Throngs to Be Expected at Easter.

RECI TAL BY MME. SONIN.

American Soprano Pleases Audience With Children's Songs.

IDEALISM OF ARTIST

Dog Portraits by Percival Rousseau Are Placed on Exhibition.

MANY PARTIES AT SPRINGS.

New York Colonists Entertain Friends at White Sulphur.

JOHN ROGERS HEGEMAN.

married Miss Evelyn Lyon, who also lived in Brooklyn. He survived her a few months more than four years.

Apostle of Small Policies.

At the time Mr. Hegeman joined the Metropolitan it had only $331 policies in force. The offices of the company were at 243 Broadway. In 1878, through the efforts of Mr. Hegeman and the late Joseph E. Knapp, then president, the industrial department was organized. This department is the present day has outstanding more than four million policies. It was his work as vice-president of the Metropolitan that brought him wide recognition as an insurance man.

He did much to popularize insurance among the great body of laboring and middle class people, who knew little about it. He was a man of wide acquaintance and a vast army of agents throughout the country preaching the doctrine of care for the future and for dependents. Very small policies were written by the company.

In October, 1881, he succeeded Mr. Knapp as president of the company, with headquarters at 100 Broadway. He was elected to the First National Bank, member of the Mamaroneck Cooperative Building and Loan Association and a number of other local organizations and societies. His estate at Orienta Point, where he lived for more than thirty years.

His estate at Orienta Point, where he lived for more than thirty years. He was a man of wide acquaintance and a vast army of agents throughout the country preaching the doctrine of care for the future and for dependents. Very small policies were written by the company.

The constant growth of the company made it necessary to expand its quarters several times. From the building at 243 Broadway the business was moved to 319 Broadway and later it found a new home at 42 Park place. In April, 1893, less than two years after Mr. Hegeman's accession to the presidency, the last move of the company was made. A corner lot on Madison avenue and Twenty-third street was selected and on this site has risen the great Metropolitan Building. Gradually under Mr. Hegeman's leadership the Metropolitan has become one of the largest and most successful of the great life insurance companies of the world.

Artistic office furniture and interior decorations on which money was lavishly expended was also a part of his legacy.

Following the widespread insurance investigation of Gov. C. E. Hughes and during the term of William Traverser, Mr. Hegeman was indicted ten times in May, 1907, seven being for forgery, and three for perjury. The charges grew out of an investigation of certain yearly premiums of the company to the State Department of Insurance. Mr. Hegeman fought the indictments with the aid of Attorney John G. Hill and Attorney J. O'Brien. He was acquitted and all were subsequently dismissed as groundless. He was finally cleared after a long and bitter battle in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court dismissed the last two perjury indictments.

Looked Like Edwin Booth.

Mr. Hegeman was a man of striking appearance and personality. He did not in the least resemble a captain of industry or business man as the type is generally described. Indeed, he has on many occasions been likened by newspaper intimates to the late Edwin Booth. His hair was long and ringed with gray, he had a high forehead, a prominent nose, a large part of the burden of chief executive of the company, but still retained a great interest in his affairs. In the summer of 1914 while in Europe he became ill and he escaped the war and returned to this country in September. He died on October 24, 1918, leaving an estate of $245,000. Mrs. Hegeman was for many years a noted soprano singer in choirs of well known churches. She also sang in the Metropolitan's contributions and efforts Salem Baptist Church in New Rochelle was built. A memorial window was placed in the church in honor of Mr. Hegeman, and Mr. Hegeman recently expressed a wish that his funeral might be held there, as had been his wife's.

For some years Mr. Hegeman was devoted to yachting and was a member of the New York, American and Larchmont Yacht Clubs. His business interests were not confined to the Metropolitan, but he was a director of the Metropolitan Bank and of the National Surety Company and was a trustee of the Union Trust Company. He was a member of the Holland Society, the Kings County Historical Society, the National Geographic Society and the Westchester Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Hegeman leaves one son, Major John J. Hegeman, assistant secretary of the Metropolitan, who was for many years prominent in the National Guard of New York State; a sister, Miss Abbie Hegeman of Flatbush; his sister-in-law and her husband, George W. Rogers, Agnes Schell, a brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers and Mr. Lyon made their home with him in Mamaroneck.

Funeral services will be held on Wednesday at 11:30 o'clock in Salem Baptist Church, New Rochelle, of which the Rev. Dr. T. B. Johnson, is pastor. Interment will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

AXEL LUNDEEN.

Axel Lundeen, 43 years old, died yesterday morning in his home, 542 West 124th street, following a relapse from pneumonia. He came to this country from Sweden at the age of 9 years, and for several years before coming to New York he lived in Newark. He was well known in art engravings and was a member of several fraternal organizations, among them Cosmos Lodge, F. and M. of Newark. The body will be sent today to Red Oak, Iowa, the family home, for burial. His widow will accompany the remains.

WEEK END VISITORS FLOCK TO SEASHORE

Boardwalk Crowded and Chairs and Seats Are at a Premium.

MANY MOTOR TO RESORT

Invasion Gives Atlantic City An Idea of Throngs to Be Expected at Easter.

RECI TAL BY MME. SONIN.

American Soprano Pleases Audience With Children's Songs.

IDEALISM OF ARTIST

Dog Portraits by Percival Rousseau Are Placed on Exhibition.

MANY PARTIES AT SPRINGS.

New York Colonists Entertain Friends at White Sulphur.

JOHN ROGERS HEGEMAN.

married Miss Evelyn Lyon, who also lived in Brooklyn. He survived her a few months more than four years.

Apostle of Small Policies.

At the time Mr. Hegeman joined the Metropolitan it had only $331 policies in force. The offices of the company were at 243 Broadway. In 1878, through the efforts of Mr. Hegeman and the late Joseph E. Knapp, then president, the industrial department was organized. This department is the present day has outstanding more than four million policies. It was his work as vice-president of the Metropolitan that brought him wide recognition as an insurance man.

He did much to popularize insurance among the great body of laboring and middle class people, who knew little about it. He was a man of wide acquaintance and a vast army of agents throughout the country preaching the doctrine of care for the future and for dependents. Very small policies were written by the company.

In October, 1881, he succeeded Mr. Knapp as president of the company, with headquarters at 100 Broadway. He was elected to the